1961 Petit Jean dedicated to Charles G. Pitner

Many of us met him our freshman year as we enrolled for classes in basic math. We can still remember his first day's questioning, "Now, Bill, where did we get the number system we now use?" And after this, as we began to see new and practical meanings attached to old mathematical figures, we praised his ability to interest us in the field which he understands so thoroughly.

We have become accustomed to seeing him stepping leisurely along the walk between the Student Center and the Science Building. And in casual conversations and student activities he has shown his interest in the things that we think are important.

To an outstanding teacher and a devoted man, the senior class dedicates the 1961 Petit Jean — to MR. CHARLES GREY PITNER.

Charles Grey Pitner, a west Tennessean who graduated from the Bells High School in 1931, enrolled as a freshman in Harding College in the fall of 1933 after working two years on a farm. In addition to achieving a good academic record, he participated extensively in extra-curricular activities. He was business manager of the Bison his junior year and of the Petit Jean his senior year, a member of the Sub-T 16 club, and a sprinter on the track team.

Following his graduation from Harding with a major in mathematics in the spring of 1937, he taught elementary school in Missouri one year before doing graduate study at George Peabody College on a fellowship. After teaching high school mathematics for five years, he became principal of the Grove High School in Paris, Tenn., and served six years before returning to Harding in 1950.

In the spring of 1938 Professor Pitner married Mary Neal, one of his Harding classmates. Mrs. Pitner serves as director of guidance and counselling for the Searcy school system. They have one daughter, Martha, who is in the eighth grade.

Since he was a college student, Professor Pitner has preached regularly and he is currently preaching for the church in Pangburn. He is a member of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics and the Searcy Lions Club.

Mary and Charles Pitner

NO SUBSTITUTE exists that can replace experience in making mathematics clear to students. Here he sheds light on calculus for Myra Dasher.

ACTIVE in several organizations in addition to his class and counseling work, Professor Pitner dines at a weekly Lions Club luncheon meeting.

FORMERLY used as the administration building, Science Hall is one of the original buildings of the campus. It now furnishes quarters for the home economics, chemistry and biology departments.

PERSPECTIVE IN HISTORY

Looking to past gives more insight into present scene

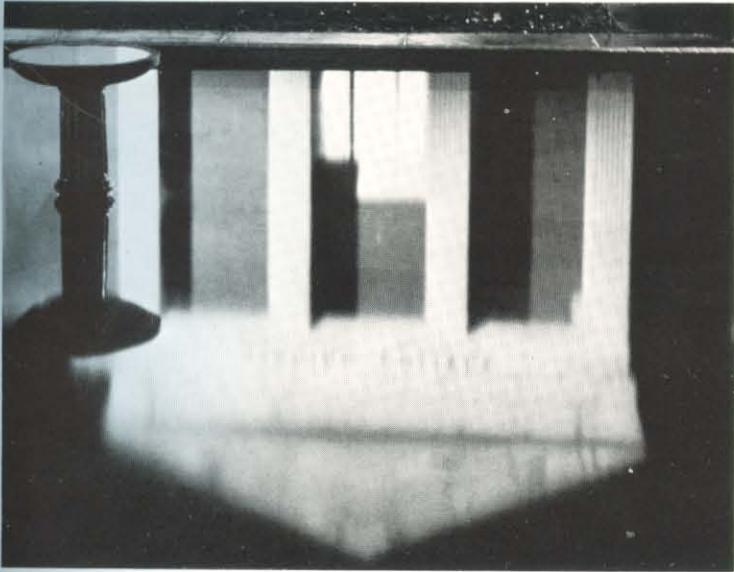

The student at Harding College today gains in his perspective of the past as he reviews the history of the school. Harding is a school that has been built on hopes, dreams, and sacrifices. In 1922 Christians in Arkansas established Arkansas Christian College at Morrilton. After two years this junior college and another, Harper College, merged to form a senior institution, which was to be called Harding College.

In 1934 Harding College moved from Morrilton to Searcy, where the facilities of Galloway College were available. Since then the school has undergone tremendous growth; but the Galloway Bell Tower, Pattie Cobb Dormitory, and the Science Building are reminders of earlier days.

Upon the retirement of President J. N. Armstrong in 1936, Dr. George S. Benson returned from China, where he had spent ten years doing mission work, to become president of Harding College. Dr. Benson purposed to overcome the heavy financial difficulties with which the school was struggling. It was a memorable Thanksgiving Day, 1939, when at the conclusion of a long campaign, the mortgage was burned.

FRAMED through an arch of the bell tower is Pattie Cobb Hall, the oldest dormitory on campus. The bell tower, constructed from materials which had been a part of Godden Hall, is now a part of our history.

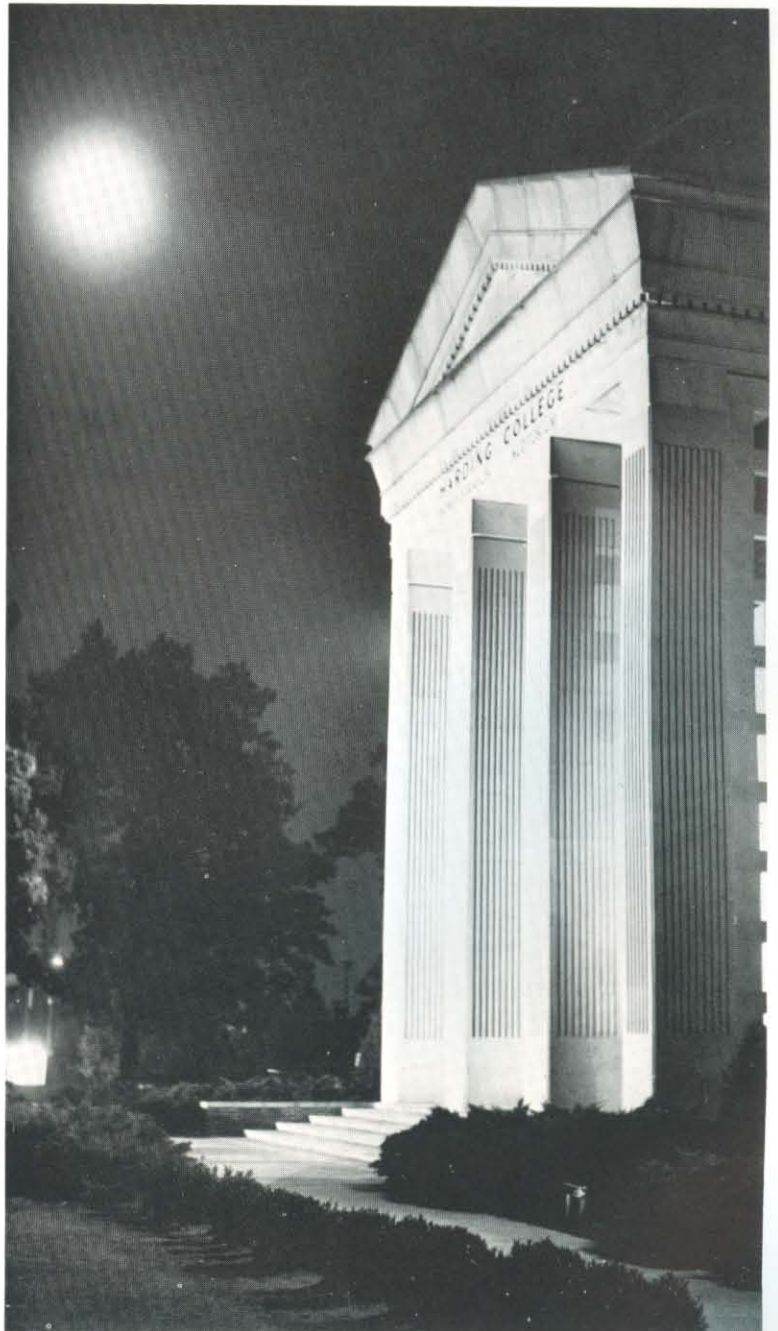

REFLECTED in the placid waters of the lily pool, the Administration Building takes on a shimmering quality different from its usual staunch appearance.

STAUNCHLY occupying its central place on campus is the Administration Building, in its appearance a fortress, by its nature the center from which learning is directed.

NEWEST dormitory for men students, Graduate Hall provides not only double room suites but also a section with single rooms.

The college in perspective

Perspective, outwardly evidenced on campus by the heightening, massive columns of the Administration Building, is also apparent in the generally vigorous atmosphere surrounding campus activity. Harding College, an institution of purpose, seeks to develop in individuals a sense of direction. Since rigid patterns do not permit growth, a student is led to realize that he usually experiences a readjustment in thinking, which brings forth new levels of understanding. The educational process at Harding is strengthened by the emphasis on spiritual values, the aim being to show that Jesus Christ is the son of God and that his life and teachings bear directly on our lives today. New knowledge and different approaches characterize the student's gradual change in perspective.

PERSPECTIVE IN GROWTH

Building program shows the growth of educational plant

During the last twenty years the physical plant of Harding College has been greatly expanded. As the result of a successful campaign launched in 1948, many modern educational buildings have been constructed. Rapidly succeeding each other were Armstrong Hall (1949), Beaumont Memorial Library (1950), Cathcart Hall and the Student Center (1951), the Administration Building and the Music Building (1952), the American Studies Building, Echo Haven, and Sewell Hall (1953), Graduate Hall (1956), and Married Students' Apartments and Alumni Field (1958). A classroom building — the Bible Building — is being used for the first time this year, and a new girls' dormitory, under construction now, is scheduled to be completed for use next September. Plans for a new science building are being formulated.

Growth in physical facilities is indicative of a school which is growing in other areas also. Harding's enrollment reached an all-time high this fall with 1065 college students. The faculty now numbers approximately seventy, about one-third of whom hold a doctorate.

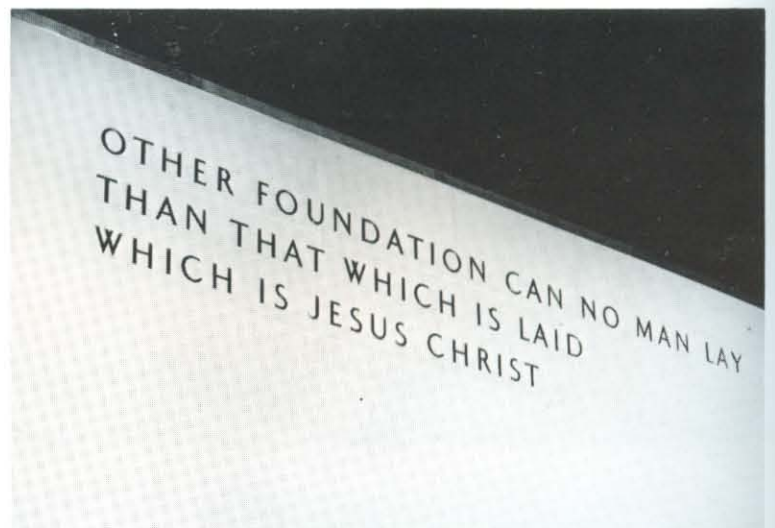

WALKING in the invigorating freshness after a shower, couples find relief from the hours they have spent together studying in the library.

STANDING serenely in the middle of campus, the fountain in the lily pool reflects moonlight as if it were spilling molten metal.

CARVED in bold relief on the new Bible Building is a statement of the sweeping purpose which serves as a reminder of the reason Harding came into existence.

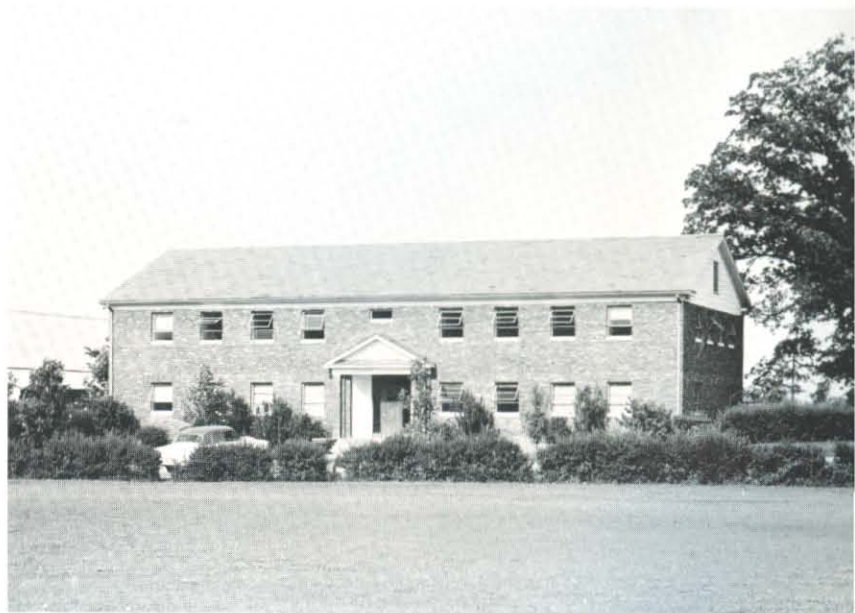

AERIAL VIEW of the Harding Campus shows the many advances that have taken place during the past several years. Under construction is a new dormitory which will house two hundred girls.

NAMED for the late Dean of Women Emeritus, Cathcart Hall is built on the suite plan — a pair of rooms with a connecting bath.

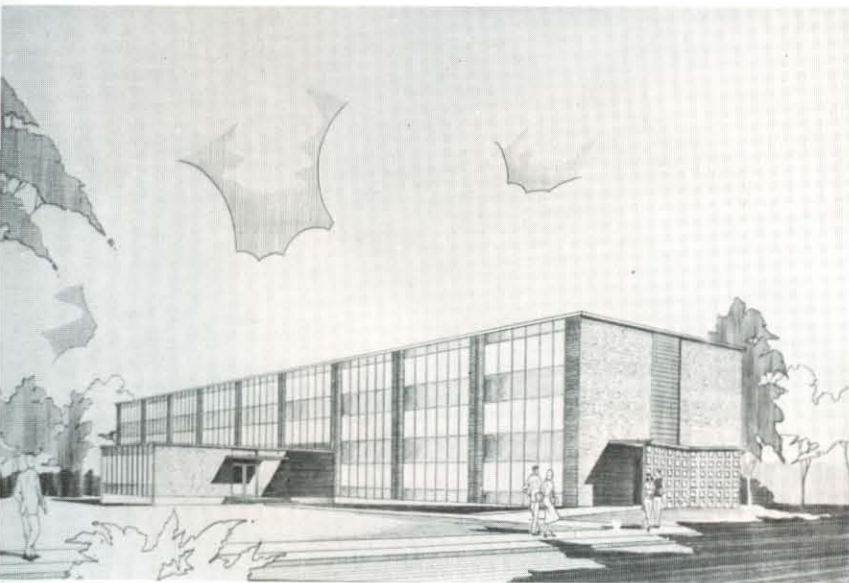

PROVIDING facilities for instrumental and vocal development, the Music Building contains rooms for individual practice and for group instruction.

HALF of Harding's men students live in Armstrong Hall. Built in 1953, the dormitory houses academy and college students.

MODERN in construction and furnishings, the newest addition to Harding's campus will be ready to be occupied by two hundred girls in September.

PERSPECTIVE IN STANDARDS

Academic offerings stress broad general background

As Harding has grown physically and numerically, her leaders have endeavored to develop high standards of quality in all aspects of campus life.

Academic standards are of basic importance. Each student at Harding is given the opportunity to enroll in a carefully planned core of general education courses, designed to give him general knowledge and appreciation. He may choose his major from among twenty-two areas, and he is counseled by a professor in the major field selected. In addition to the general education and major programs, certain accelerated and special courses are offered to meet individual needs.

Although the academic work is the basic part of the college program, various activities afford students opportunity for developing their own social, cultural, professional, and spiritual values. Many departmental and special interest clubs supplement and vitalize classroom activities. The Student Association affords opportunities for leadership development. The A Cappella Chorus, one of several music organizations, has gained national recognition for its outstanding performances. Dramatics, debating, and student publications have also reached a high level of excellence.

STOREHOUSE of written knowledge, Beaumont Memorial Library contains information dealing with aspects of the whole realm of learning.

BUSTLING with activity most of the time, the Student Center provides space for the post office, the College Inn, publications and alumni offices, the Book Store, and the Emerald Room for parties.

COMPLETED barely in time for school this fall, the new Bible Building is a welcome addition to the campus. The facilities include well-equipped classrooms, large lecture rooms, and arrangement for closed-circuit television later.

FUNCTIONAL in many respects, the American Studies Building is specially arranged and equipped to provide excellent training in history, economics, sociology, political science, and business.

PERSPECTIVE IN SELF-REALIZATION

Knowing oneself important in relationships with others

To any given person there is no one else on earth so important as himself. Yet as much attention as we give ourselves, we often are displeased with what we are. This displeasure results from weighing ourselves in the balances of our standard and being found wanting. Usually, then, we develop our perspective and try to adjust ourselves to it.

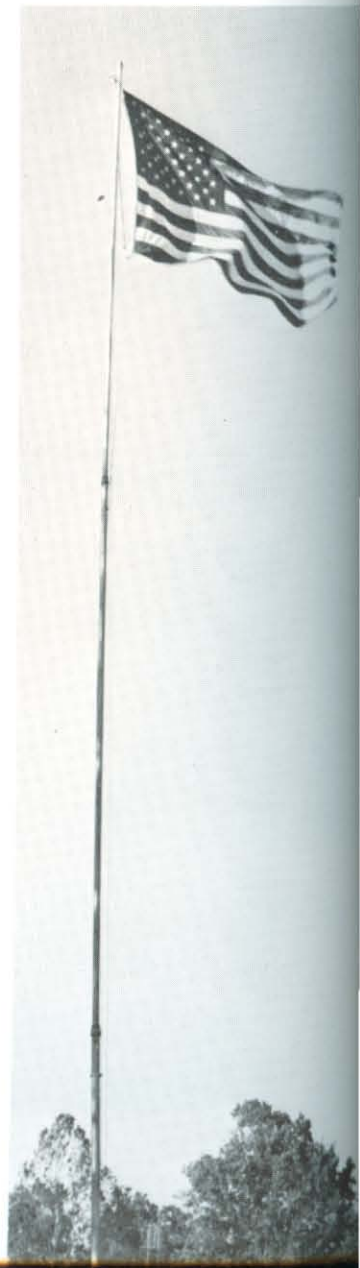

A necessary part of this adjustment is recognizing both strengths and weaknesses, then accepting and using our knowledge to best advantage. Also important is learning to relate to others in life situations — working together, studying together, or feeling together. Finally, we are brought to realize that we are part of institutions: the family, the church, and the nation-community. The development achieved as a result of our perspective and adjustment makes each of us the distinctive person he is.

ASSIMILATION of knowledge calls for concentration on the materials at hand, whether they are textbooks, paintings, or records of music or language.

TO KNOW yourself as you are known is important in personal development. A battery of tests is given to all entering freshmen to enable them to evaluate themselves more accurately in terms of aptitude and achievement.

SYMBOL of all that our country means to us, the flag stands to proclaim the freedom of the individual to develop through education.

ATTENTION glued to a Bison home game, the rooters exhibit mixed emotions. Empathy for the team is one example of the intense feeling for others that can be generated in a campus situation.

COOPERATION in working with others is a valuable part of personal development in students, as Sandra Tollett and Barbara Boaz learn in cleaning duties.

INFORMAL groups gather almost anywhere whenever students have an unhurried moment. Seated on benches around the lily pond during a free period or after classes, they enjoy just being together.

COUPLES like Bennie Johns and Anneke Cox take time to enjoy each other's company, making use of the benches and swings on the campus.

PERSPECTIVE IN SOCIAL DEVELOPMENT

Social situations produce gradual personality change

Our lives consist largely of innumerable encounters with people in a wide variety of situations. In a ball-game crowd, at a social club banquet, in a close-knit circle of friends, or with an intimate companion we find ourselves in an exchange. Some situations, such as those mentioned, are largely a matter of choosing to associate. Others are brought upon us by our necessary activities in school — in class, at work, or at the coin-o-mat.

All of these social situations bring out some change in our perspective. A few experiences stand out as having momentous effect on the direction of our lives, but many slip by with hardly a ripple in our consciousness. The impressions from different situations accumulate and add to the overall picture of our personalities until gradually we become different people, largely as a result of knowing and associating with others.

HALTED for a minute of conversation on the campus before the tardy bell, students take an opportunity to get together and exchange a word or two.

DORM PARTIES give the girls an opportunity to know each other in a spontaneous situation that no other campus association provides.

CHANCE meetings of the boys occur from time to time in addition to their being together in the dormitory. The popular new coin-operated laundry provides facilities for students to do-it-themselves.

FOLLOWING the more formally planned program of the college church services, many students gather around the lily pond for a short period of spontaneous hymn singing and prayer.

INDIVIDUAL study gives one an opportunity to assimilate and understand the Scriptures and helps him to apply the ideals to his own life.

PERSPECTIVE IN RELIGIOUS GROWTH

Spiritual growth necessitates individual searching for truth

No decision can be considered more important than the one we must face concerning our relation to the Supreme Being. Sooner or later we choose either to ignore this responsibility or to accept the challenge to learn about God and what He expects of us.

Most of the students who come to a college like Harding do so because of the emphasis on religion. Feeling that they want to be strengthened in their faith, they join with others of like mind and engage in many acts of service to bring them closer to God.

Worship, whether it is congregational or private, planned or spontaneous, is a personal thing that relates each of us to the God he is trying to serve. Much of the growth, however, comes from individual effort in studying to learn and in putting the knowledge into effect.

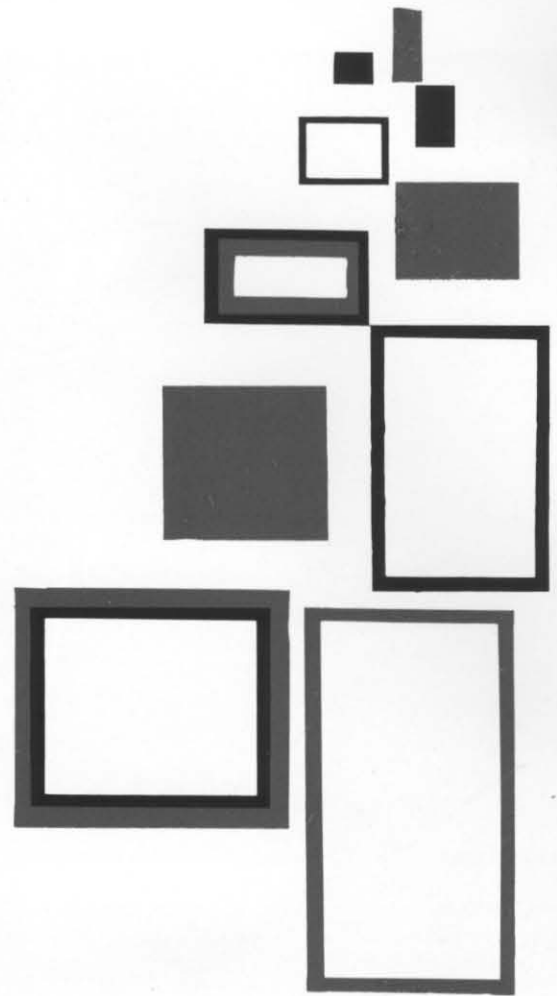

GIRLS gather for vesper services at the close of the day to think of God and His blessing.. These devotionals are part of the spiritual life of the girls as they strive to become better Christian women.

ATTENDING worship at the college church is a part of the religious life at Harding College. Participation by students in church services stimulates the responsibility of the Christian for leadership.

THEY SHALL ALL BE TAUGHT OF GO

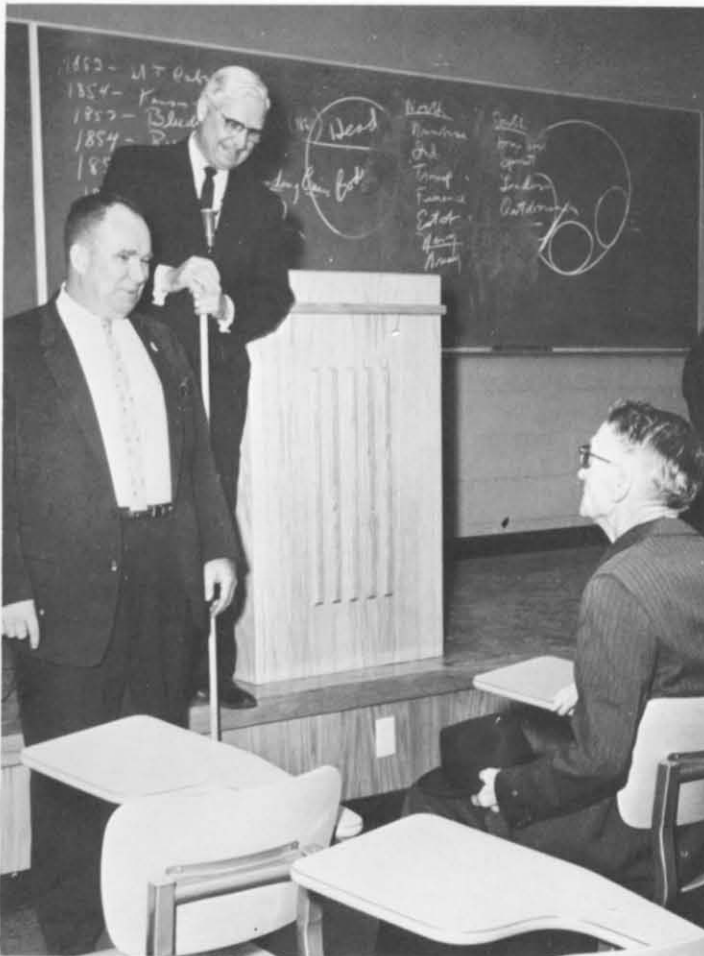

The foundation of our modern society is education. Without it, civilization as we know it would crumble. With it, each generation can build on the ones preceding, assimilating the newly-won knowledge and cataloging it for present and future use.

And knowledge will be used. If not at the moment it is discovered, then it will be transmitted to others who will find a need for it. This transmission of knowledge — and the way it can be useful — is important in education. By far the most vital and delicate aspect of education, though, is the training and developing of character. All knowledge, even with the ability to apply it, is incomplete without consideration of what is good, what is beautiful, and what is true. The way we look at these considerations is our perspective.

BOARD OF TRUSTEES

Board of trustees forms policy that assists growth of college

Unselfishness and diligence characterize the work of the fifteen members of the Board of Trustees, the guardians of Harding College. With the best interest of the college and its students in mind, these men have led the school forward for many years. The satisfaction of helping Christian education is the reward for these outstanding men, who work in many different fields. Faced with the responsibility of formulating the policies of the college, they strive to make decisions that will benefit the school now and in future years.

Dr. L. M. Graves has, since 1954, exemplified his sincere interest in Christian education through his service to Harding as Chairman of the Board. Other officers are Dr. Houston T. Karnes, Vice-Chairman; W. O. Beeman, Treasurer; and R. D. Fuller, Secretary.

PROGRESS of Harding rests in the hands of the Board of Trustees. Dr. Benson listens as Jim Bill McInteer and T. J. McReynolds express satisfaction with facilities available in the newly erected Bible building.

PRESIDENT

Dr. Geo. S. Benson continues dynamic leadership

With his eyes ever toward the future president George S. Benson seldom pauses to look back. Combining the vigor of youth and the wisdom gained by many years of experience, he continues to give dynamic leadership to Harding College. A man who has taken Christian standards as his code of conduct, he has rightfully been acclaimed a true champion of Christian education and an outstanding American.

Highlighting another busy year for Dr. Benson was the trip to the Orient that he and Mrs. Benson made. This trip, approved by the United States Armed Forces for holding religious retreats in Japan and Korea, also included Hong Kong, the Philippine Islands and the state of Hawaii. He visited Ibaraki Christian College, conferred with missionaries at various places, and obtained permission from the British government to establish a Christian college in Hong Kong.

PRESIDENT George S. Benson shows board members R. D. Fuller and Houston T. Karnes the Book displayed in the new Bible building.

DEDICATED to the furthering of Harding College, President Benson stops for a moment to contemplate all the changes that have taken place since he came to the campus. The most recent addition is a new girls' dormitory.

JOSEPH E. PRYOR, PH.D., Chairman of the Department of Physical Science, will continue to foster learning in his new position — Dean of the College.

JAMES H. ATKINSON, MA, Harding's genial, capable Dean of Students, generates warmth and understanding in his frequent sessions with many students.

LOTT TUCKER, JR., BA, Business Manager, shrewdly directs both the investment and the distribution of funds of the college.

ADMINISTRATION

Keen sense of responsibility guides our officers

CLIFTON L. GANUS, JR., PH.D., the dynamic Vice-President of Harding is constantly at work, serving also as Dean of the School of American Studies and Chairman of the Department of History and Social Studies.

Providing the leadership and work necessary for the day-to-day activities of Harding College constitutes the main job of the administrative officers. They administer the academic, financial, social, and public relations policies of the college. They are also responsible for maintenance of buildings and grounds, keeping official records, and providing proper room and food services. The Administration is also responsible for the onward development of the college in physical facilities and academic and spiritual standards.

The officers of the Administration bear the responsibility of carrying out the policy decided upon by the Board of Trustees. A fine spirit of cooperation generally exists between the Administration and the student body.

Three changes in administrative personnel were made for this year. Dr. Joseph E. Pryor became Dean of the College upon retirement of Dean L. C. Sears from the administrative office. Virgil Beckett was promoted from assistant registrar to registrar. Eddie Campbell was appointed director of men's housing.

VIRGIL M. BECKETT, BA, Registrar, courteously receives and answers questions concerning admission, registration, transcripts, degree requirements, and other academic records.

SMILING their approval of Harding's revised catalog are the three Deans — Inez Pickens, Dean of Women, James Atkinson, Dean of Students, and Dr. Joe Pryor, Dean of the College.

INEZ PICKENS, BA, Dean of Women, is also dorm mother in Pattie Cobb Hall and an able, dedicated English teacher.

EDDIE R. CAMPBELL, BA, Director of Men's Housing and instructor in physical education and health, is the resident supervisor of students in Armstrong Hall.

MARGUERITE O'BANION, BA, Executive Secretary to the President, efficiently manages the appointments, correspondence, and records of busy Dr. Benson.

SUPPLEMENTING the program of Bible training at Harding are the Sunday morning classes, most of which are held in the new Bible building. Format of the classes ranges from lectures to discussions.

BIBLE

Bible faculty directs students to knowledge of Christianity

Believing that a life centered around Christ is the only true life and that to have a God-centered life you must be taught, the Bible Department seeks to give each student a greater knowledge of Christ. Through these classes we grow in understanding of Him and of His will, thereby making us able to serve Him better.

Conard Hayes, acting as chairman of the Bible Department while Dr. W. B. West is directing the graduate school in Memphis, coordinated the Annual Thanksgiving Lectureship. A highlight of the lectureship was the dedication of the new Bible building on Thanksgiving Day. The Bible building furnishes maps, audio-visual aids, large classrooms and other facilities necessary to teach the will of God to the increasingly large numbers of students.

EDUCATION AND RESEARCH

Education instructors prepare future teachers for careers

The children of today are the hope of tomorrow — a familiar expression that comes to life in the education classes as students train themselves for a dedicated life of making that hope brighter. The culmination of three or more years of classroom learning comes in the senior year when students actually go into the schools and practice teach. This year the Departments of Education and Psychology have been reorganized as one department with Dr. William K. Summitt as chairman. Harold Bowie has joined the staff as a full-time teacher. It is hoped that this new organization will aid the purpose of training students in teaching subject matter and school administration, and in counseling students.

The Physical Education Department teaches sportsmanship as well as sports and prepares students to teach physical education, coach, and work in summer camps and scouting. Harry Olree is back with the college as department chairman after working toward his doctor's degree at George Peabody College and John Prock is a new member of the staff.

SEARCHING to confirm for themselves work of earlier scientists, chemistry students Charles Griffin and Richard Anderson prepare to do their graduate work and to meet the challenge of teaching.

NATURAL SCIENCE

Science courses aid students in understanding the universe

In this world of atom bombs, guided missiles, and man-made satellites, the Department of Physical Science assumes a greater importance. Here we learn not to take the world around us for granted but to see in each cloud and each stone an object of special importance that obeys the many natural laws of the universe. We try to understand these laws so we may more fully appreciate the phenomena we observe around us each day. Dr. Joseph Pryor is serving double duty this year as chairman of the Department of Physical Science and Dean of the College. New in the department are Don England in chemistry, William Rushton in biology, and James Roberts in physics and mathematics. An honors course in general chemistry and an advanced course in organic chemistry are new subjects designed to prepare chemistry majors for graduate work.

Closely associated with this department, the Home Economics Department gives each student a knowledge of the home and family that will fit her to be an integral part of our society. Mrs. Irene Puckett has been added to the staff this year to teach child development.

HUMANITIES AND FINE ARTS

Humanities professors stress cultural growth and refinement

Culture is enlightenment or refinement by intellectual means. To us this means learning about the literature, art and music of the past and the present. Through these we learn to think more deeply and logically and to appreciate the accomplishments of a refined civilization.

Dr. L. C. Sears, Dean Emeritus, has given his full time this year to teaching and heading the Department of English. James L. Atteberry returned to Harding this year after obtaining his doctor's degree at the University of Texas. Dr. Erle T. Moore, head of the Music Department, has directed the a cappella chorus, in the absence of Kenneth Davis, Jr. A special group of twenty students was chosen to make a tour of the Orient during the Christmas holidays to entertain the armed forces there. Kenneth Davis conducted the group. George Eason, the newest member of this department, teaches piano. The work of the Speech Department has been facilitated by the installment of a speech laboratory in the Bible building. New teachers are Darrell Alexander and Ben Holland, who also direct the drama activities of the campus.

SOCIAL SCIENCE

Social science study develops ability to solve daily problems

To understand the present one must be acquainted with the past. The Department of Social Sciences offers classes in history for this purpose and classes in economics and political science so that we may understand problems facing the world now. Gene Rainey is back in the department this year after a leave of absence in which he received his master's degree. Head of the department is Dr. Clifton Ganus who also heads the School of American Studies. This school gives the better students an opportunity to go deeper into these fields by trips to metropolitan centers, bi-monthly seminars, and hearing authorities in history, political science, and related fields. This year in their study of "Comparative Economic and Political Systems" the group went to Cincinnati and St. Louis and heard speakers from Russia and several large universities. For the first time there is a chapter of Phi Alpha Theta, national history society, active on the campus.

SENIORS

Officers plan an outstanding year for seniors

LED BY Pres. Gaston Tarbet, seniors face their final year with anticipation. With Sec.-Treas. Jeanne Hockett and Vice-Pres. Robert Qualls they look to their sponsor Cliff Ganus for mature guidance.

REGINA SPIRIT AWARD GASTON TARBET

Chosen for the Regina Spirit Award, Gaston Tarbet typified to his classmates the student who evidenced most clearly the attributes for which one should strive. Gaston emphasized positive leadership in the church and drove to Crossroads, Arkansas, every week to deliver lessons to a congregation that could not afford a regular minister. Developing his religious leadership at school, Gaston was president of the Timothy Club and chairman of the Student Association committee to encourage religious growth of students, especially in worship. Much more than most others Gaston exemplified friendliness and interest in people.

INSTRUCTING a class in the graduate school at Harding, Dr. Clyde M. Montgomery expounds on teaching methods in arithmetic. The graduate school now offers the Master of Arts in Teaching.

GRADUATE SCHOOL

Research is important part of graduate study

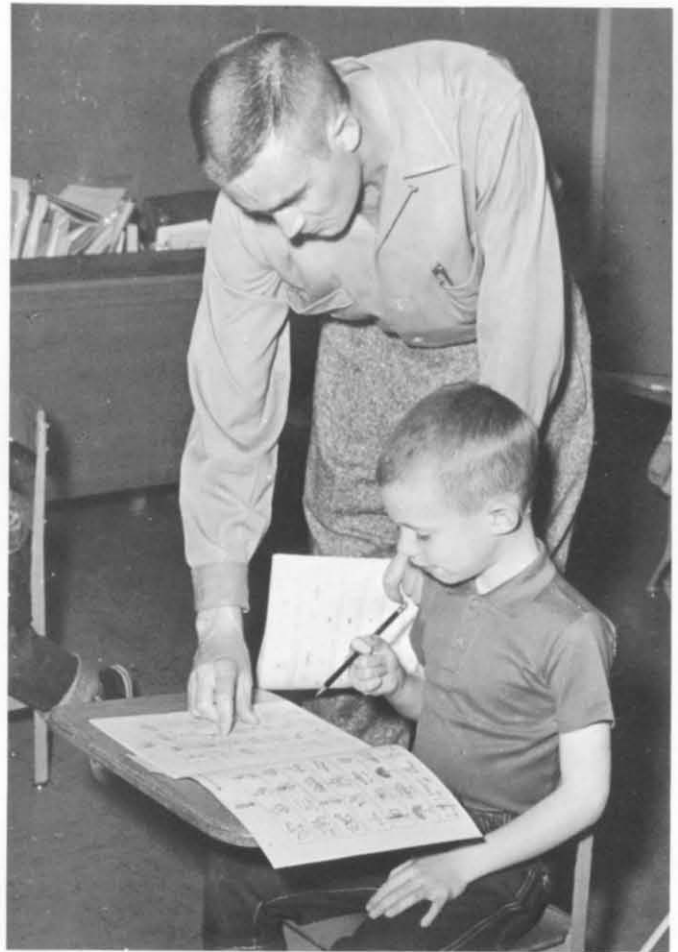

GRADUATE COUNCIL. SEATED: W. K. Summitt, L. C. Sears, Roy Wellbourne. STANDING: Leonard Lewis, G. W. Bond, C. L. Ganus, J. E. Pryor.

Hours of research are a basic part of the student's work in the graduate program on the Harding campus in Searcy. With a minimum of eight semester hours of residence credit, the graduate students can apply for admission to candidacy for the Masters of Arts Degrees in Teaching. Designed to enlarge and strengthen Harding's offerings in teacher training, it also attempts to meet the needs of teachers seeking advanced training.

Admittance to the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools has aided the growth of the current program. Today graduates of the school are filling important teaching and administrative positions in public and Christian education.

In 1955 Harding initiated an extension program for graduate work in Bible. In 1958 the entire graduate school of Bible was moved to Memphis. Presently, courses are available in doctrinal, historical, practical and Biblical fields. Graduate degrees offered by the school are the Master of Arts, the Masters of Religious Education, and the Bachelor of Sacred Literature.

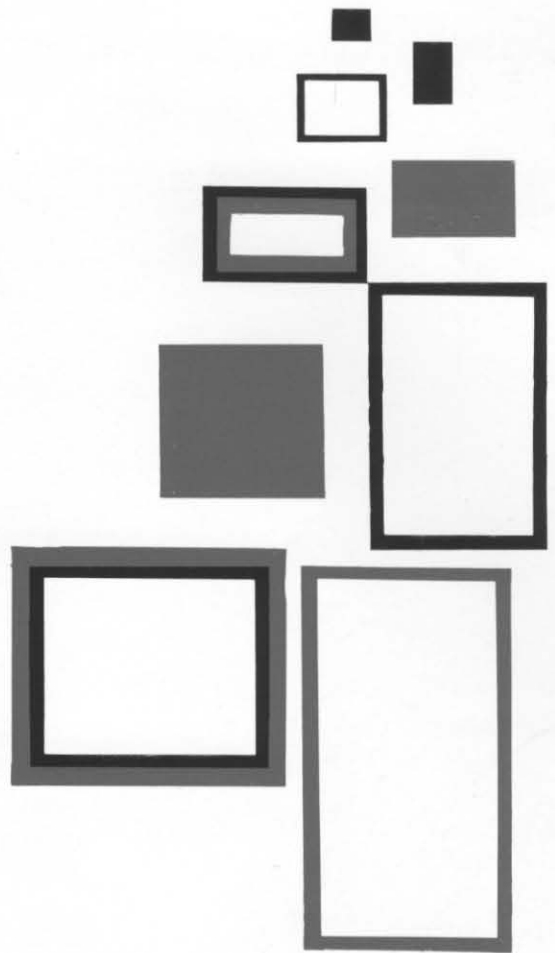

INSTITUTING a new test into the Harding elementary school counseling service, graduate student Charles Johnson gives a first-grader directions.

A great deal of change can take place in a person in four years, especially if the years are spent in college. Many experiences sift through one's mind between his arrival as a new freshman and his departure with a diploma. Each situation, calling for a recognition and a subsequent response, adds to his personality and helps develop his character.

Some of these situations call for a standard response, such as "Thanks for the ride," or "It's raining let's run for the dorm." Those that bring growth, though, initiate a thinking process in which one evaluates and then makes a choice, as when one thinks, "Shall I stop for the hymn sing or go straight to my studies?" Of course, he may go to the student center. These personal choices develop his perspective.

Student Life

Our year was filled with people ...

FILLED with watermelon, students met and mingled with new acquaintances at an SA-sponsored feast. "Planned fun" was the way and "join us" the word for getting together during the event-filled week.

IMPATIENT customers crowd around the "tax collector" in an attempt to purchase desired wares in the ever-popular center. This is a very typical occurrence which often creates quite a problem!

Students gathered on the Harding campus in September from 35 states and 11 foreign countries — timid freshmen, sophisticated sophomores, aspiring juniors and dignified seniors. Approximately half of the 1,065 students were enrolling at Harding for the first time and for many of these this was their first contact with Christian education. Diverse in background, preparation and professional aims and separated from family and friends, the newcomers to the campus were introduced to the spirit of Harding through the friendly assistance of the Big Sisters and the Student Association. After the arduous tasks of testing, counseling and registering, students began their adjustment to the rigor of academic work and the demands of extra-curricular activities. Within a few weeks students had found their places in scholarly pursuits, chorus, dramatics, debating, publications, athletics and other activities. The spirit of service and dedication began to manifest itself in freshman and senior alike as the year 1960-61 unfolded.

HIGH spirits of Homecoming are not dampened by the rain, as a canopy of umbrellas colorfully shields a host of loyal Bison fans underneath.

NO TIME for picture posing by this group as busy mouths confuse the "latest" with ingested "bits" of food. Chow time is an hour all seem to enjoy.

-- who met . . .

Reunions made by old friends following the summer months of separation pervaded the atmosphere with friendliness and warmth which filled the campus throughout the year.

The influx of new students was welcomed by bustling "old-timers" with warm smiles and greetings. The SA booth provided a meeting place for old and new alike where a short chat might reveal a neighbor from the old home state or provide someone with just a moment in which to meet and make a new friend.

Informal gatherings in the student center, gossip sessions across the "chow" table, deeply moving hymn sings around the lily pond, and countless social activities were a part of every student's life. These associations as well as the numerous new acquaintances made as a result of lectureship, lyceums, and weekly church services composed that never-ending stream of people we have known and loved.

"LONG TIME, no see!" is well demonstrated by roommates, Annette Davis and Mary Lee Northcut after separation.

LECTURES are of a different kind during Thanksgiving week, when visitors arrive to speak and to listen to other speakers. A welcome by handshake is the typical greeting during Lectureship.

STEP RIGHT UP to the first welcome booth set up for bewildered freshmen by the sympathetic and well-prepared SA.

SNATCHING some time off from studies and other activities for relaxation, Geneva Combs, Becky Heffington, Bob Alley, and Paul Hobby battle out a tense Rook game in Cathcart's reception room.

-- who played ... acted ...

Relaxation from studies came in various forms of play through planned and spontaneous activities.

Providing recreation for every type of personality were all-school parties, theatrical and musical productions, contests in the gymnasium or just restful strolls to the college park. A casual date might have been highlighted by a movie, a school function or a meaningful talk in a swing.

Always to be remembered will be the golden moments of recreation and fun spent in close association with Christian friends.

SINGERS are scarce, but there's plenty of munching and plunking in a sextet of suitemates accompanied by guitar, banjo, and a bowl of popcorn.

"WE'VE PULLED it off!" says the scheming king to his "Ugly Duckling" daughter while the court gazes with mixed emotions.

THE BELLES AND BEAUX perform at last on the Harding stage after completing their Oriental tour during the Christmas holidays.

SPRINGING high in the air while another scampers underneath is the game of leap-frog adapted to the trampoline. Tom Carter and Carolyn Wood demonstrate.

... picniced ... clowned ...

WEDDED to the bashful daughter, Pete Williams, makes Sid Tate, the bridegroom, "gun-shy sweet." Kenny Dunn completes the picture as the match-making father in a skit given at an all-school party.

DELIGHTED that the home team has scored, Bison fans yell, whistle, clap hands, and cheer loudly to show approval. The pep club, cheerleaders, and loyal "rooters" support all Bison home games.

HARDINGITES turned out in force to an all-school chili supper held at Camp Wyldewood sponsored by the Student Association.

DRIPPING Dick Ously charges from the "watery deep" to get revenge on his unappreciated pranksters.

-- who entertained ...

BEVERLY Clayton and Bill Grady gave moving and memorable performances as Anne Frank and her father in the tense play, "The Diary of Anne Frank."

Utilizing the Harding stage, professionals and near-professional students deepened appreciation of cultural presentations, widened the scope of theatrical experience, and provided recreation through entertainment.

Opening the lyceum series this year was George Bernard Shaw's three-act comedy "Candida," produced by the Cleveland Playhouse. The highlight of the season was the performance of the 80-piece San Antonio Symphony Orchestra. Programs by several pianists, a harpist and an impersonator were included in the outside entertainment in the series.

Among the more popular attractions were those presented by the college's own actors and actresses — "Diary of Anne Frank," "Bell, Book, and Candle" and "Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court." The A Cappella Chorus presented an evening of entertainment in May consisting of two operas — "Down in the Valley" by Kurt Wiell and "Impresario" by Mozart and a patriotic composition, "Ballad for Americans."

LILTING melodies of harpist Susann McDonald captivated the hearts and minds of the enchanted audience at a Harding lyceum attraction.

PIANIST Marshall Izen proves that an operatic version of "Punch-n-Judy" adds a different touch to lyceum programs.

"A NICE DILEMMA we have here!" sings Judge Harold Valentine. "Gentle, simple-minded usher" Dean Priest has brought playboy Chuck Lucas into court to face charges of breach of promise. The suit was ordered by jilted bride-to-be, Anne Bixler Berryhill, in the spring opera "Trial by Jury."

TO INSURE the success of the barbecue, various kinds of workers helped assemble the meal. Pitted for the first stage of cooking is the meat, the chief food for the Thanksgiving meal. With aprons donned, students dished up the food while two mouths worked heartily in enjoying the feast.

-- who worked ...

Various duties and services performed by the students throughout the year are a vital part of college life at Harding.

The diversity of jobs performed serve a two-fold purpose of benefiting the school and providing a means by which students can help pay for college expenses.

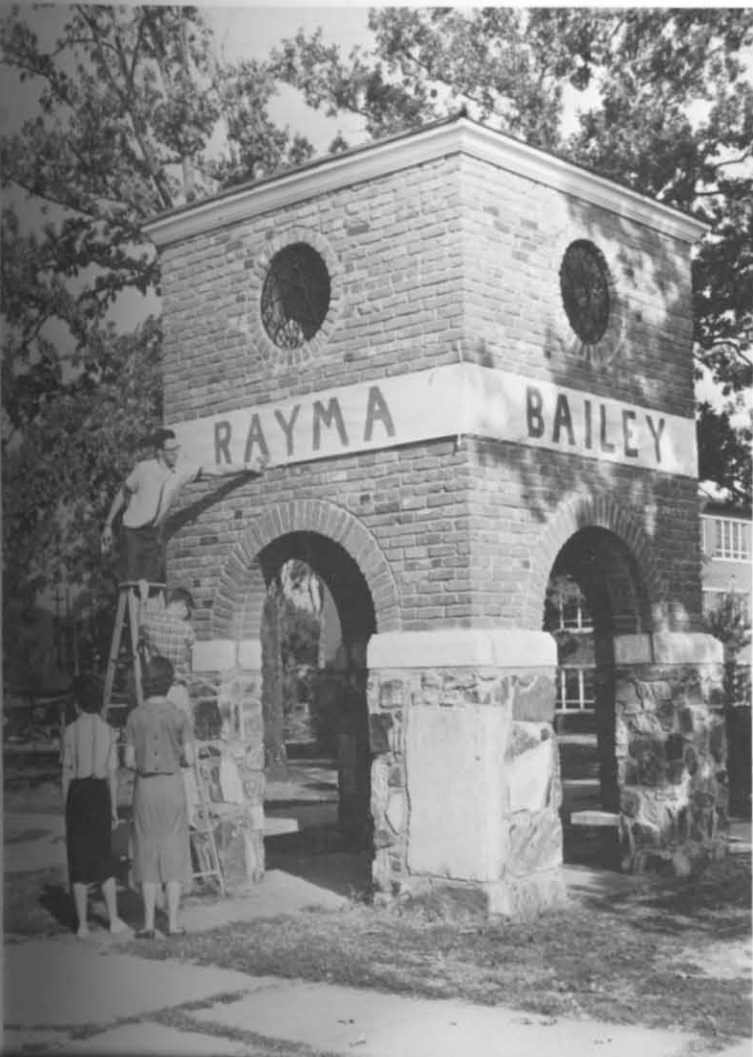

Other student efforts which achieved their desired ends were the making of the Bison mascot, "Butch," campaigning for offices, and carrying out SA projects such as "Send Stan."

Thanksgiving Day, which brought to a climax the annual Harding Lectureship, required the voluntary work of social club representatives to serve the "hungry hundreds" at meal time.

COLLECTORS are busy counting money and "posting" the results of a student campaign to raise money to "Send Stan" Shewmaker home—to Africa.

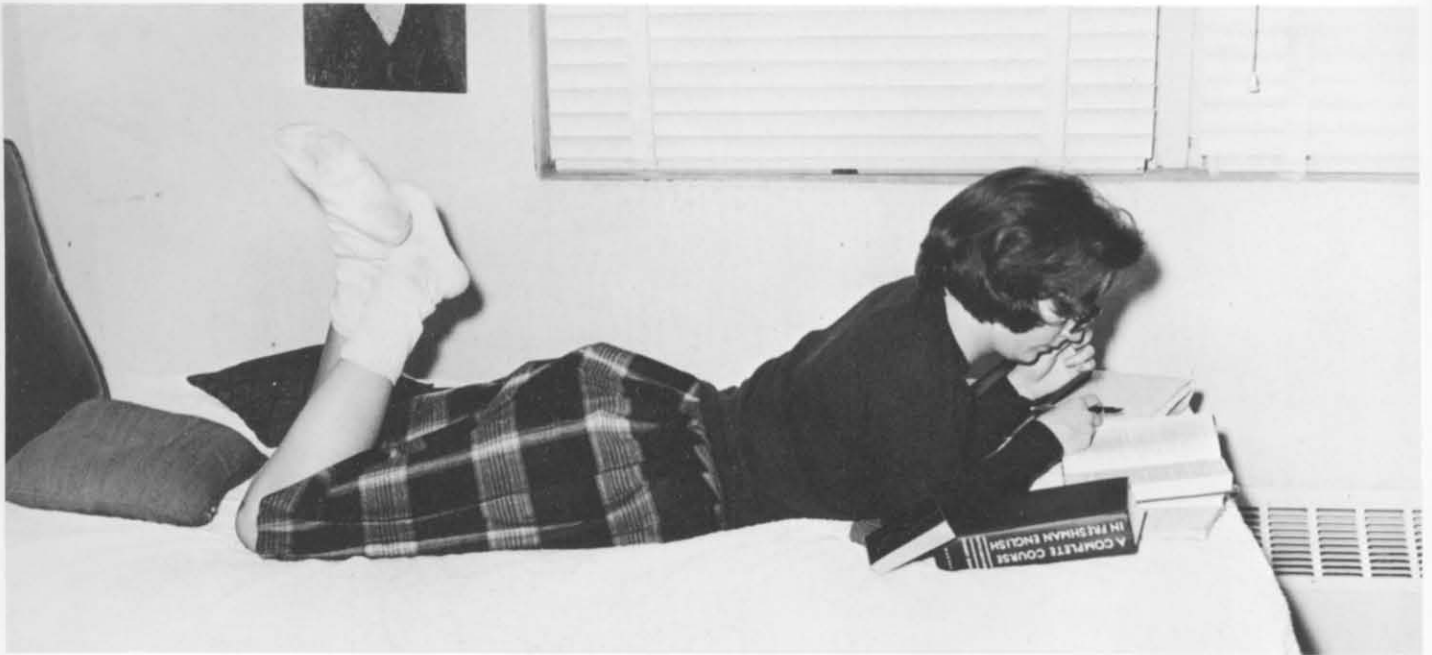

SHELVING books to make them ready for re-circulation is an important but often unappreciated task. Bobbie Pearce is one of many students working part time on the campus to help with their college expenses.

BISON boosters show spirit by putting in long hours of hard work on the Harding mascot, a huge bison made with wire, fiber glass, and paint.

CLASS officers bring out talents ranging from "stump speakers" to ladder climbers. Campaigning through posters is a practice often quite effective.

STRETCHED full length on her bed, Nonnie Sanders concentrates on her daily assignments. With the materials she needs close at hand, she pours over her lessons without interruption of thought.

-- who studied ...

Long hours of study and research are an integral part of any institution that has as its primary purpose the acquisition of knowledge.

Harding provides an excellent atmosphere for such study in its well-equipped library where sixty thousand volumes await diligent searching. Dormitories are also adequately equipped for "home" study while some students even prefer the outdoors or special study sessions in the student center.

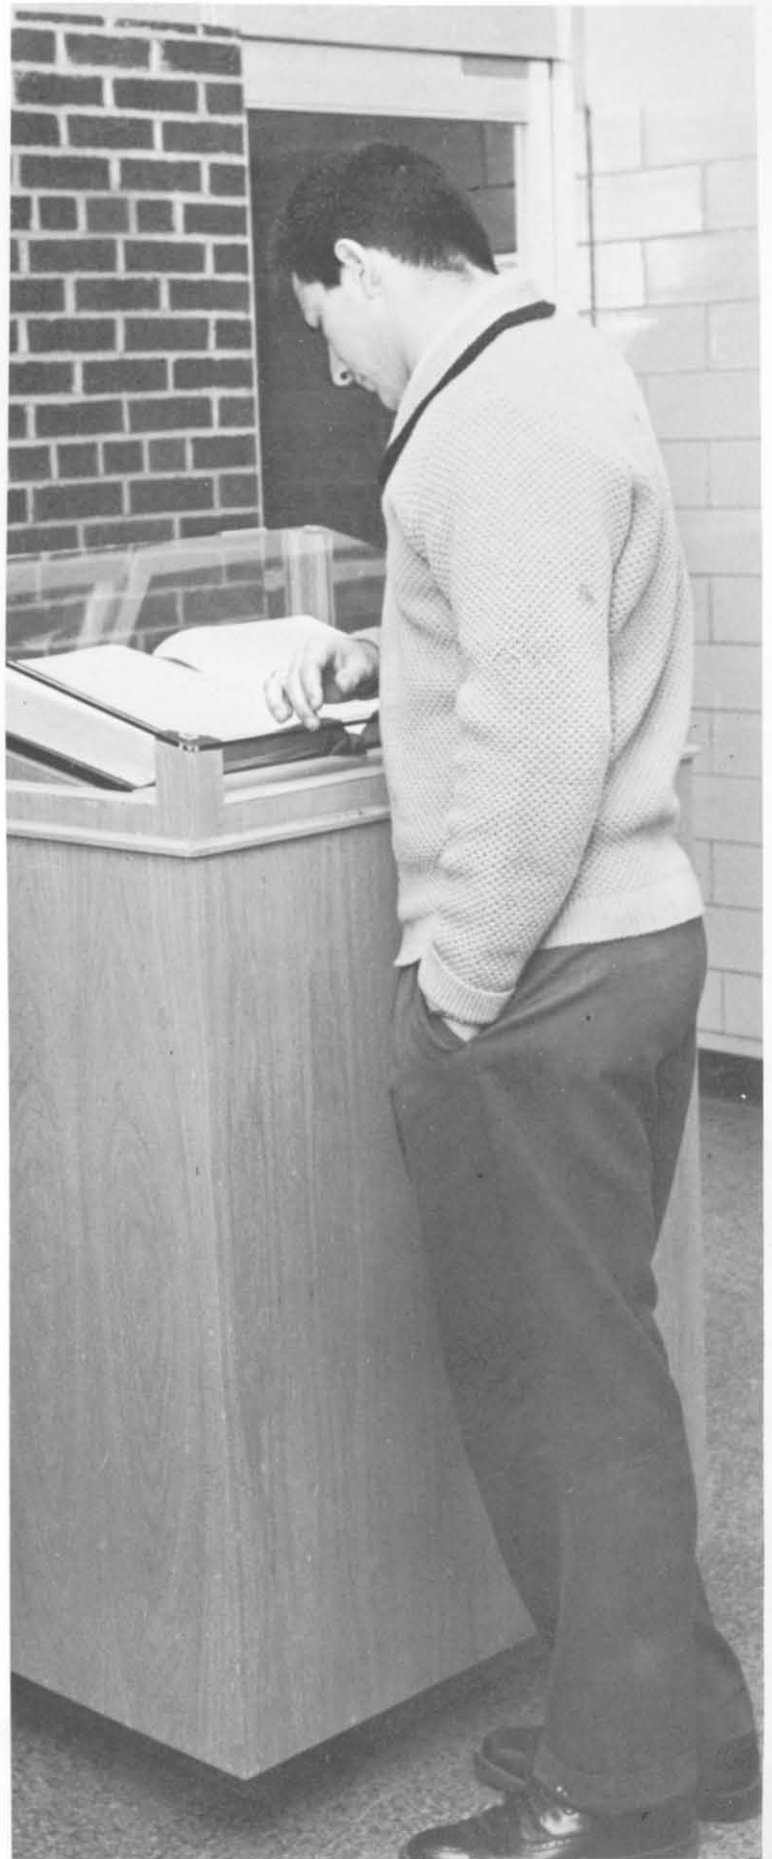

As a part of regular class work students received instruction in Bible. Supplementing this academic study were Sunday sermons at the college church and the annual lectureship in November which were a valuable part of our Christian education.

LARGE numbers of visitors were on the Harding campus in November for the 1960 annual Lectureship centered on the theme, "Christian Education."

CURRENT newspapers, magazines, and journals are provided in the library's periodical room for those who need the latest news.

SECLUDED in a carrell in the library stacks, Steve Mayfield finds conditions ideal for research projects and independent study.

PAUSING a moment to meditate at the Bible placed in the foyer of the Bible Building, Mark Walker makes use of the gift given last year by the class of '62.

ATTENDANTS and escorts watch with pleasure the crowning of Queen Edna Knore by captain Jim City, highlight of the Homecoming ceremonies.

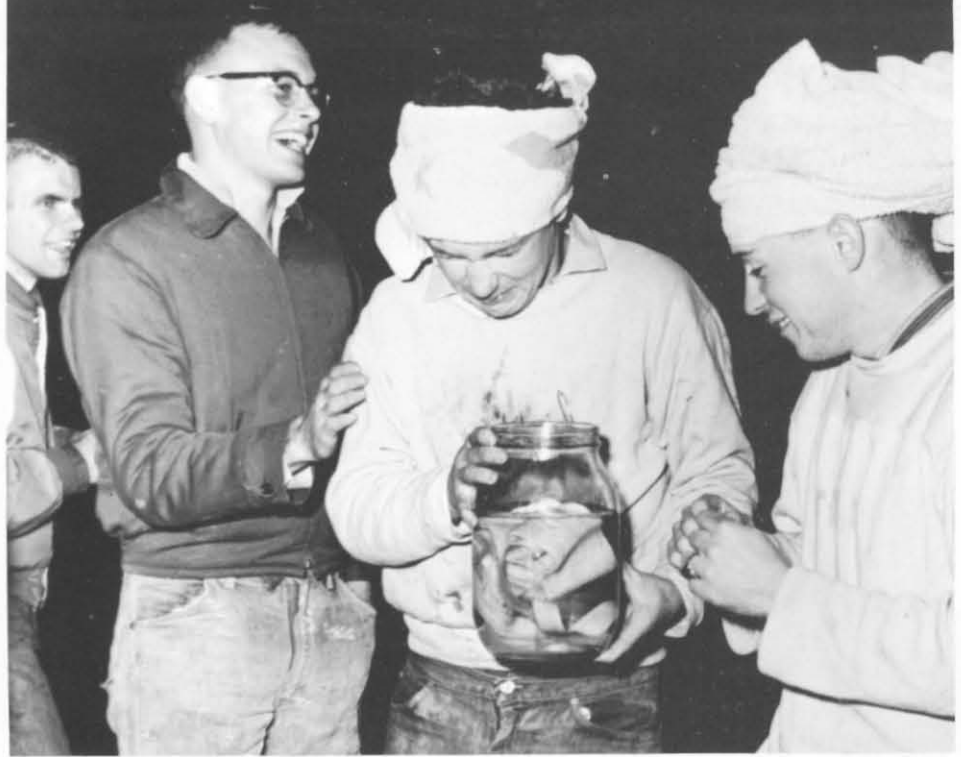

--who celebrated homecoming ... pledgeweek ...

The sixth week of school opens with excitement and anticipation for newly elected pledges of the men and women's social clubs. Garbed in gaudy stockings, crazy hats and even Indian blankets and headdress, the lowly pledges endure a week of subservience to their pledgemasters and pledgemistresses. Pledge week gives the new students ample opportunity to make new friends and to become better acquainted with the campus.

The hectic week of pledgeship was climaxed by the annual homecoming festivities — pep rally, parade, presentation of the queen and her court, and of course, the game. This year the celebrations were on October 31 making them even more colorful and exciting with the Halloween spirit. The rainy, foggy weather did not seem to deaden the excitement — the football stands were crowded with ardent fans peering out from under big black umbrellas.

SWALLOWING vitamins to keep healthy is important during a strenuous time like pledge week, as this well-supervised pledge aptly demonstrates.

"THIS IS too much!" begs a lowly pledge with a look of anguish. But the unsympathetic laughs of pledgemasters seem to indicate no understanding during this time of "trial and tribulation."

"A STAIRWAY to the Stars" carried radiant queen Edna Knore and her lovely attendants, Beverly Gatlin and Maralyn Bailey, down the streets of Searcy during the colorful pre-game Homecoming parade.

RADIANT with happiness upon being chosen to reign over the '60 PETIT JEAN presentation, Juanita Lawrence, queen, from her wrought-iron seat on the stage graciously surveys the audience who chose her.

MEANINGFULLY, because of all that it represents, Pat Sutherlin, 1960 PETIT JEAN editor, reveals "her" book.

FIRST to get yearbooks after the presentation are the PETIT JEAN queen, Juanita Lawrence, and her attendants, Margie Clark Wood and Carol Thomas.

Climaxing a full and eventful year is the long-awaited Petit Jean Day. Accomplishment reigns supreme on this day, from the presentation of the yearbook to the crowning of the queen.

Anticipation fills the air as the audience awaits the revealing of the cover design of the '60 Petit Jean. Pat Sutherlin's superb job of editing brought special recognition to Harding when the Petit Jean received an All-American rating.

Class favorites, best all-round students, honor students, and the favored teacher to whom the yearbook is dedicated are given recognition. Highlighting the day is the crowning of the Petit Jean Queen and presentation of her attendants.

Sack suppers and annual signing on the lawn bring the day to a close.

AT LAST! The yearbook with all its "anticipations" has been announced. Everyone rushes eagerly to claim his copy of the PETIT JEAN.

MAY QUEEN NOMINEES. SEATED: Jo Meadows, Sandra Powell, Norma Thomas, Helen Howell, Sylvia Thompson. STANDING: Anne Berryhill, Brenda Seastrunk, Judy Reynolds, Gloria Baker, Lois Cobb, Donna Wise, Gaylon Bach, Carolyn Hall, Sandra Byrd, Faye Woodham, Merle Coffman, Glenda Bawcom, Carolyn Maxwell, Linda McMahan.

... may day ...

Spring is officially here at Harding when the crowning of the queen climaxes the celebration of the May Fete, sponsored by the Ju Go Ju women's social club. Early morning practices are forgotten by participants and spectators alike in the beauty of the late afternoon activities on May first. The procession of the princesses, the winding of the May Pole to the flow of beautiful music, the presentation of the May court, and the recognition and crowning of the May queen make the May Fete pageant the long-remembered announcement of Spring.

SURROUNDED by her court, Her Majesty Queen Kirsten Christensen sits proudly wearing the crown which proclaims her Queen of May.

AIDED by the boistrous wind, the dainty steps of the winders were quickened to form a circular flow of gowns around the pole. Winding the pole into designs is one of the events of May Day honoring the queen.

SLEEPY GIRLS? These appear to have no intention of letting 6:00 practice take from their sleep — simply hold string and follow where it leads!

MAJESTICALLY crossing the flower-bedecked bridge in the view of admiring spectators, Miss Kirsten Christensen reigns as Queen of the May Fete.

-- who grew ...

Just as our alma mater has made tremendous growth in many ways within the past four years, each freshman who enrolls at Harding College grows and develops during his four years as a student. He enters as a green, immature adolescent and graduates with a good liberal education ready for graduate or professional study or for service in many areas. Rankings on national testing programs clearly indicate the intellectual growth that takes place as the Harding mean rises from well below the national mean in the freshman year to well above the national mean in subsequent years. Spiritual growth is revealed by the number of Harding graduates who become missionaries, preachers, elders, and Bible teachers. Social growth is demonstrated by the well adjusted personalities and the happy homes characteristic of Harding graduates. This growth is nurtured in many ways — high academic standards, inspirational talks, daily worship, association with fellow students and dedicated teachers, participation in various activities, and motivation to achieve excellence and render service.

MONDAY night is a time when students gather in the balcony to worship under the direction of Brother Ritchie and gain faith to meet their problems.

HEADS bowed in a spirit of reverence, worshipers offer words of thankfulness and praise. During such periods of prayer and meditation the mutual tie that binds is felt by students and faculty alike.

SPONTANEOUS "hymn sings" often give a sense of peace when the day is over. This meaningful tradition gives students a source of fellowship that helps them to dedicate their lives in service.

SHORT visitations to the hospital and county home each Sunday help make the day of each patient brighter and the students stronger.

"MY ACHING hand!" moan members of the largest freshman class in school history. A full day of tests is a tiring initiation into college academic life.

GOWNED and waiting, the faculty and seniors are lined from the entrance to the Administration Building back to the library, preparing for that exercise which is both an end and a beginning. Only a speech and the long, slow march across the stage for diplomas lie between seniors and graduates.

-- who achieved

Industrious and ambitious students and student groups are properly acknowledged for their achievements of the past year on Honor and Recognition Day. Awards are given for superior work in drama, sports and scholastic achievement on this day. Chapel presentations this year included the award for intercollegiate sportsmanship, the recognitions for speech and debate teams and the awards for individual sports stars.

The supreme award for the seniors is the diploma handed to them on graduation day. "A time for joy, a time for tears . . ." These mixed emotions are experienced by all on graduation day, but especially by the graduating seniors. With prayerful intent they reflect on their past four years of study and anticipate the challenges of the future.

IN PRAYERFUL meditation the graduates bow their heads to express gratitude and ask for His guiding hand to direct their separate ways.

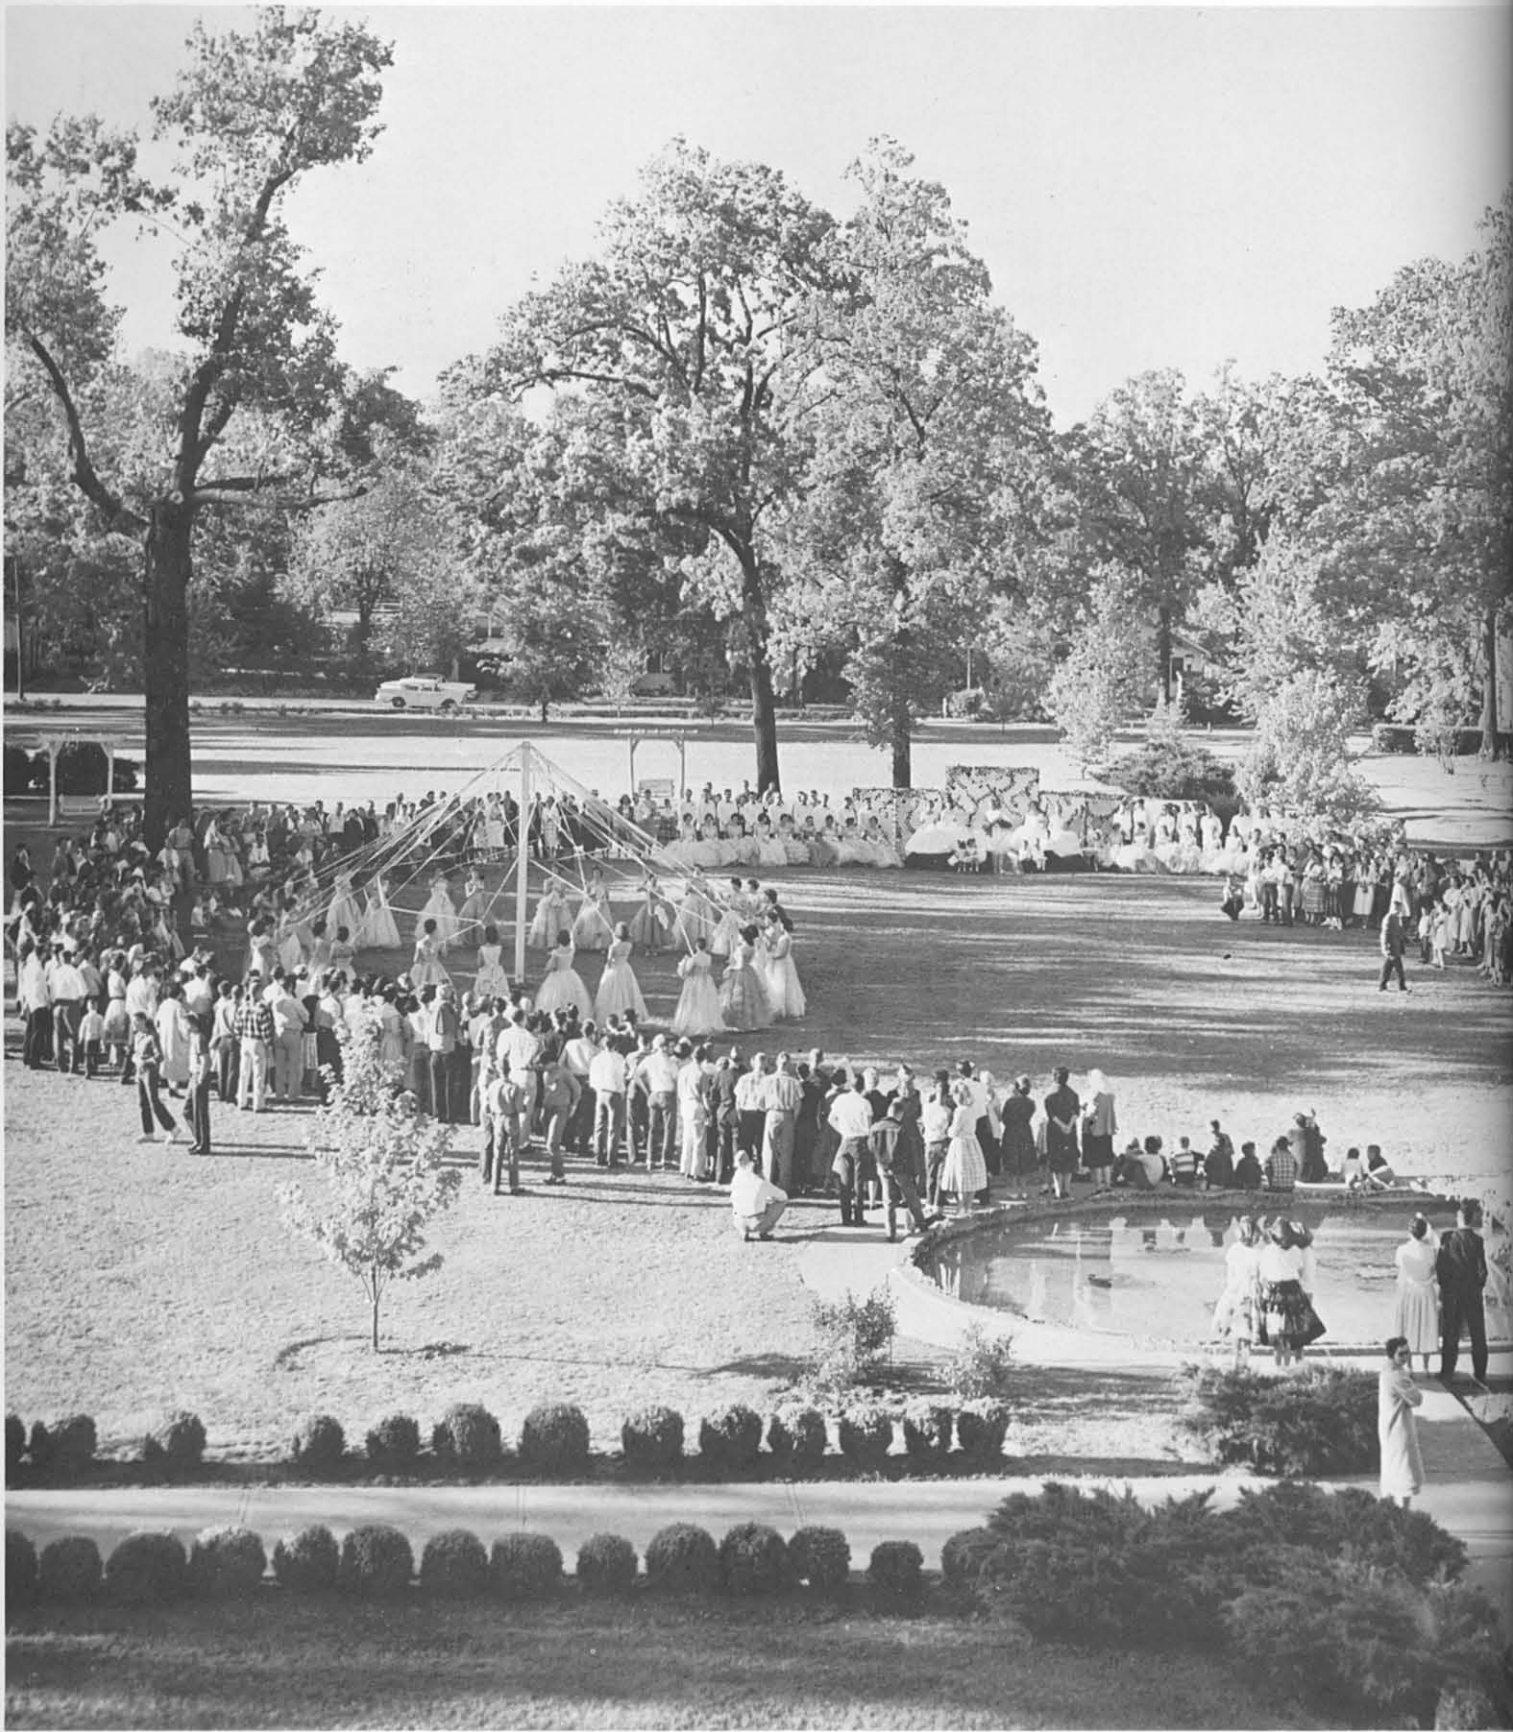

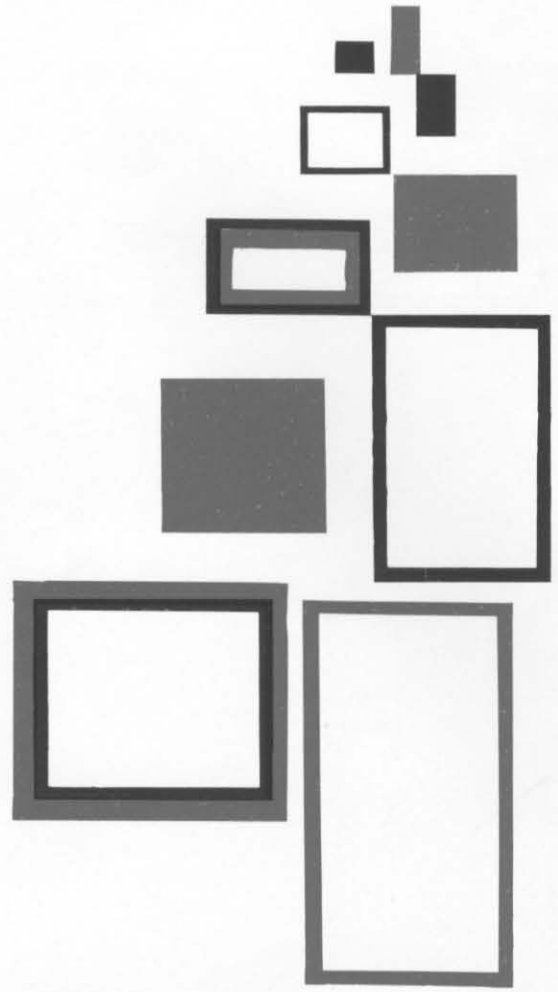

OUTSTANDING player of the '61 Bison All-Star Game, Richard Carter, accepts trophy and congratulations from sports editor Jim Miller for superb ball handling and playing ability as a member of the Southwest League.

HONORS DAY is a time when those students who have achieved high goals in many fields during the year are recognized and rewarded.

HIGHPOINT of Harding's first year in AIC football — Dean Pryor accepts AIC Sportsmanship Trophy on behalf of Harding players and fans.

All men are not created equal in every respect. Some, because of greater ability or more ideal background (or a combination of factors), have grown in certain areas somewhat faster than others — that is, have a broader perspective.

Such individuals naturally come to the attention of the people with whom they associate and usually to a considerable degree influence them. Thus, those held in high esteem are usually capable people. Some honors depend almost wholly on specific achievement, others more on general impression. But even beauties are often chosen with more in mind than appearance.

Fortunately, all of us have inborn potential and can learn to excel in some way. In that sense, then, we are all “personalities.”

Personalities

Miss Claudette Faulk

SUB T-16

Claudette Faulk, enthusiastic about much that life offers, enjoys being with others, and most of her activities are those in which people are directly involved. As junior women's representative, A Cappella chorus member, and Big Sister chairman, she accepts her responsibility to do her work well.

Mrs. Ann Lucas

MOHICAN

Ann Lucas, capable chemistry student, excels in many areas. 1959-60 recipient of the Ganus award for outstanding scholarship, she shared recognition as 1960 PETIT JEAN honor student. A member of Regina, she won the intramural speech contest in prose reading.

Petit Jean Queen and Attendants

Miss Georgie Claypool

ALPHA EPSILON CHI

Georgie Claypool possesses the drive and the ability to be accomplished in whatever area she tries. Successful chairman of the SA social committee, she has planned parties outstanding for originality and entertainment. Her "Social Highlights" column in the BISON describes weekly club news.

Miss Georgie Claypool

May Queen and Attendants

Miss Helen Howell

ZETA RHO

Helen Howell, petite nominee of Zeta Rho, transferred this year to Harding from Lubbock Christian College. Continuing to work on the school paper, she writes now for the BISON, as she had written for L.C.C.'s DUSTER. A teacher of the future, she is a member of SNEA.

Mrs. Anne Berryhill

REGINA

Anne Berryhill, a member of Regina, emphasizes music in her activities. A soloist in the Belles and Beaux, she traveled through the Far East to entertain military personnel. Also doing solo work in the A Cappella, she is a soprano in the women's ensemble.

Miss Carolyn Hall

KAPPA KAPPA KAPPA

Carolyn Hall, representing Tri-Kappa, is a member of the A Cappella chorus and the women's ensemble. During the Christmas holidays she toured the Orient with the Belles and Beaux. Having been sophomore class secretary-treasurer, she is now state secretary of SNEA.

Miss Helen Howell

MARALYN BAILEY, junior elementary education major from El Dorado, Arkansas, shared Homecoming honors with Queen Edna and the Bisons.

BEVERLY GATLIN, junior elementary education major from Paragould, Arkansas, was another member of the Royal Court who cheered the team.

Football Homecoming Court

Edna Grace Knore, a senior speech major from Sciotoville, Ohio, was chosen by the students to reign as Homecoming Queen. Vibrant and expressive in both her actions and her words, Edna is successful as an active debater and a member of Pi Kappa Delta debate fraternity. As Student Association representative and a member of Gata social club Edna has kept closely aware of people's feelings and reactions, exhibiting personal composure and friendliness toward fellow students.

Other members of the Homecoming court included Maralyn Bailey and Beverly Gatlin, attendants to the queen, and Jane Aaron, Lydia Goins, Betty Cobb, and Sheila Mitchell, class representatives.

Though the Homecoming parade and game were dampened by mist and rain, enthusiasm for the celebration — and large umbrellas, too — kept spectators in good spirits.

CLASS ATTENDANTS

Miss Edna Knore

Best All Round

Gaston Tarbet

Friendly Gaston Tarbet budgets his time to include a variety of activities. Demonstrating his leadership, he is president of the senior class and the Timothy Club. Track men know him as the usual winner of any given A.I.C. mile run.

Claudette Faulk

Vivacious Claudette Faulk is occupied with activities she enjoys and participates in them with enthusiasm. As a member of the Belles and Beaux she contributed to the entertainment of servicemen throughout the Orient.

FRESHMAN

Naita Jean Berryhill

Tommy Carter

CHEERFUL Naita Jean Berryhill, known for her pleasant disposition, shares honors as favorite with Tommy Carter, athletic president of Harding's freshman class.

SOPHOMORE

Betty Cobb

Larry Lambert

CHOSEN by their Sophomore classmates are quiet Betty Cobb and Larry Lambert. Betty spends much of her time with chorus and art, Larry with athletics and studying.

Class Favorites

SENIOR

Jeanne Hockett

Robert Qualls

LIKEABLE Jeanne Hockett holds two honors in common with the effervescent Robert Qualls. Both represent their class as favorites and as officers. Jeanne is secretary and Robert is vice-president.

JUNIOR

Lydia Goins

Jim Howard

WINNING personalities of Lydia Goins and Jim Howard make them well-liked by the juniors. Lydia is class secretary and Jim is a member of Harding Belles and Beaux.

JANE AARON, an elementary education major, is serving as secretary of the Student Association. She was also a homecoming attendant and officer of WHC.

GARY ACKERS, a chemistry and math major, was recipient of a grant for virus research, president of the sophomore class and a member of Lambda Sigma.

MYRA ANDERSON is a chemistry major and National Merit Scholar. She is president of Alpha Chi and in Beta Tau.

WHO'S WHO

Twenty-one students receive who's who honor

RICHARD ANDERSON, whose major is chemistry, served as president of Alpha Phi Kappa. He has participated in intramural sports and was on the track team.

Eighteen seniors, two juniors, and one graduate student were chosen to receive one of the highest honors a college student may achieve, that of receiving a place in the annual publication, Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges. This book, modeled after the original Who's Who, gives recognition to college students who have proved to be outstanding. The Student Council submits a list of students — chosen on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership, participation in extracurricular activities, and potentiality for future usefulness to business and society — to the faculty for final selection.

JERRY ATKINSON, a junior, is assistant business manager of the Petit Jean, active in A Cappella, and Mohican treasurer. His major is Biblical languages.

GERALD CASEY, an English major, is a member of the Mohican Club, A Cappella chorus, Sigma Delta Psi, and Alpha Chi. He is on the basketball and track teams.

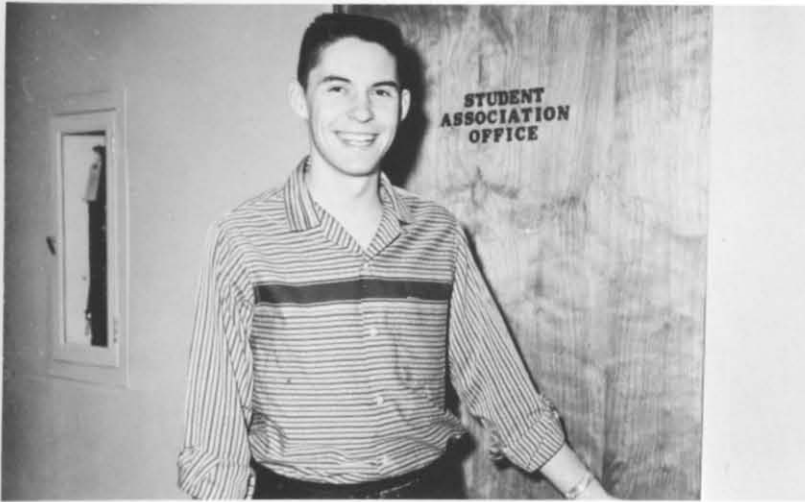

JIM CITY, senior pre-med student, is a member of Sub-T-16 and the Varsity Club. He is active in Varsity sports, is editor of the sports section of the annual, and was junior favorite.

BEN CURTIS, whose major is math, received the chemistry and math awards last year and was named to Who's Who.

CLAUDETTE FAULK, a junior, is SA representative, member of A Cappella, chairman of the Big Sisters, and a former president of Oege. Her major is education.

SARA GOOD, a psychology major, is a member of Oege, A Cappella, and the Dactylogy Club. She is SA treasurer and was chosen for the Oriental tour.

BOB JONES, a pre-med student, is SA president, a member of Sub-T-16, Alpha Chi, and A Cappella. Bob was best all round for 1959-60 and junior class president.

EDNA KNORE, an English major, is president of Pi Kappa Delta and senior SA representative. Edna was Homecoming Queen and a member of the debate team.

JOAN LYON is president of Phi Alpha Theta and editor of the PETIT JEAN. She is an English and history major and a member of the School of American Studies, Alpha Chi, and Zeta Rho.

JOHN MILTON is a math major, vice-president of Alpha Chi, and a member of A Cappella. John is a APK, a member of the School of American Studies, National Merit Scholar and caption editor of the annual.

CURRY PEACOCK is SA vice-president, treasurer of and the football team. His major is political science.

DEAN PRIEST, a math major, is a former president of Mohicans. He has also sung in the Belles and Beaux quartet.

ANN RICHARDSON, whose major is elementary education, is on the SA cabinet, PETIT JEAN staff, and in GATA.

DONNA ROBERTSON, a biology major, has been in A Cappella chorus and the women's ensemble and was recipient of the music award her freshman year.

CAROLYN SWEET is a business major and member of the School of American Studies and Oege. Last year she was the Pioneer sweetheart and class favorite.

GASTON TARBET, a Bible major, is president of the senior class and Timothy club and vice-president of Lambda Sigma. Gaston has also made an excellent record on the track team.

SUE VINTHER, a graduate English student, was named to Who's Who last year. She was a member of the American Studies group, A Cappella, and was a May Queen finalist.

Honor society encourages superior scholarship

Myra Anderson
Richard Anderson
Gerald Casey

"Ye shall know the truth and the truth shall make you free," serves as a fitting motto for the Alpha Chi National Honor Scholarship Society.

One of Harding's greatest honors is membership in the national organization. To be eligible for Alpha Chi, a student must have completed 24 semester hours of college work at Harding.

Juniors are required to have a 3.70 average on not less than 80 semester hours, and seniors must have achieved a 3.50 average on at least 104 semester hours. Impressive initiation rites induct new members twice each year.

With the primary objective of promoting scholarship, Alpha Chi members and faculty sponsors, Dr. Joseph E. Pryor, Dr. Evan Ulrey, and Miss Annie May Alston, profit from book reviewing sessions and other informative programs throughout the year. Several members of the organization attended the national convention at Centenary College in Shreveport, Louisiana, during the spring.

Classes, though immensely valuable, do not educate the whole man. Principles, the basis for intelligent use of life situations, depend (except in an esthetic sense) on application for one to see them in perspective.

Organizations provide the necessary experimental laboratory to satisfy the desire to see principle-in-action, and, in addition, certain facets of education that one would seldom get in a classroom. All are guided to some extent by a faculty advisor who has interest in the purposes of the organization. Development of leadership, of creativity, and of ability to serve rank high among desirable results of working in an organization.

Organizations

Student Association directs full year of activity

SMILING Bob Jones, as President of the Student Association, provides leadership by his continual work, making "progress through service" his motto.

Serving as a liaison between students, faculty, and administration is the Student Association Council. Composed of four elected officers and two representatives of each class, this council meets each week to discuss campus problems.

Activities began the first week of school as the Student Association sponsored a function each night in order to acquaint new students with life at Harding. Next came the picture board, "Who's Who," introducing new students. Festivities for Homecoming Week were planned by the Council and culminated in a parade through downtown Searcy and the crowning of the Homecoming queen. Later in the year the Council sponsored a week of chapel programs centered around the theme, "Youth Encounters."

The Student Association Cabinet, composed of heads of the departments of activities, aided the Council in the nomination of students for "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges." Individual cabinet members organized elections, parties, talent shows, religious activities, and out-of-town functions.

Projects directed by the 1960-61 Council included sending Stan Shewmaker to Africa in the spring of 1960 and in 1961 the installation of a sound system in the college cafeteria.

ASSISTING the president are the Student Association officers, Vice-president Curry Peacock, Treasurer Sara Good, and Secretary Jane Aaron.

STUDENT COUNCIL representatives Janie Miller, Chavalit Manjikul, Stevie Endres, Carroll Osburn, Beetle Bailey, John Milton, and Edna Knore work to provide a liaison between students and administration.

Student paper reports, interprets campus events

SHOULDERING one of the heaviest student responsibilities, BISON editor Royce Bankhead supervises the weekly gathering and publishing of news.

CONCERNED with the soliciting of advertising and the handling of the finances of the newspaper is Larry Hand, business manager of the BISON.

More than three hundred hours are expended each week in the publication of the Bison which announces forthcoming events and reviews and interprets the past week's activities. Deadlines are endless as the next issue of the Bison is begun even before the current issue is off the press. Publication would be impossible without the cooperation of students and teachers in giving news tips and notices and without Herman West's cooperation in making up the paper.

Last year at the Arkansas College Publications Association meeting held at the College of the Ozarks in Clarksville, Arkansas, the Bison received the 1960 Sweepstakes award. This year the Bison became a member of the Associated Collegiate Press and now receives two criticisms yearly on the basis of comparison with other papers of the same type.

Under the capable direction of editor Royce Bankhead and business manager Larry Hand, approximately 1500 copies of the Bison were printed and distributed each Thursday afternoon. Pin awards for outstanding work were presented to staff members at the annual banquet celebrated at the close of the year.

HELPING to plan the BISON are Marilyn Horvath, feature editor, Jim Miller, sports editor, and Virginia Leatherwood, assistant editor.

NATION-WIDE circulation begins with Gaylon Bach and Gaston Tarbet's preparing BISIONS for distribution.

EXPERIENCE with newspapers and journalism enables Neil Cope to assist the staff with special problems.

INTERVIEWING Dr. Ulrey, Edna Dorris learns the results of a debate tournament.

CORRECTING mistakes in copy before it is printed is just one of copy editor Kay Doak's responsibilities.

DILIGENT Dee Colvett, a weekly columnist for the BISON, decides on a quip for his original Dee C's.

Planning design of yearbook started last spring

Before the prize-winning 1960 Petit Jean was printed, Joan Lyon, 1961 editor, was busy making plans and organizing the staff to produce another yearbook. By the time school opened in September, section editors and other staff members were ready to do the innumerable tasks involved in producing the 1961 Petit Jean — taking pictures, writing copy, reading proofs, and checking layouts.

Dick Mock, business manager, prepared the yearbook budget and guided the business staff in advertising sales.

Work on the 1961 Petit Jean was stimulated by the recognition which the 1960 book received in state and national competition. At the fall meeting of the Arkansas Collegiate Press Association in Hot Springs, the 1960 Petit Jean received first place in all categories judged: photography, typography, editorial planning, layouts, and copy writing. A few weeks later the Associated Collegiate Press announced that the Petit Jean had achieved an All-American rating and had received the highest number of points for the books in its division of the contest.

When the final pages of the 1961 yearbook were submitted to the printer, key staff members drove to Oklahoma City to check final page proofs. The climax of the year's work was the dedication and distribution of copies to fellow students.

COOPERATING in the production of a creative project, the PETIT JEAN, are Dick Mock, Business Manager, and Joan Lyon, Editor. Joan spends hours unifying the efforts of her staff into a consistent representation of the year. Dick directs the selling of advertising and the designing of his section.

QUIET POWER is characteristic of Dr. Joseph E. Pryor, and his work is inspiration to the staff. Many editorial worries are lessened by the valuable counsel he gives.

CAPTURING moments on film for the yearbook, photographer Harold Tandy spends much of his free time in the darkroom.

Through membership in various religious groups, students gain spiritual perspective. Though not all the members plan actually to go to mission fields, each one is interested in broadening his knowledge and understanding of the languages and customs of the particular countries studied.

Highlighting the year's activities was the Mission Workshop, January 5-6. Sponsored by Abilene Christian College and held on Harding's centrally-located campus, this meeting was attended by students of seven Christian colleges.

Other activities included interesting programs presented each meeting, correspondence with those on the mission fields, displays during Lectureship Week, and a combined monthly meeting of all the clubs.

Taking God's word to the deaf is one of the responsibilities of Christians. Realizing this, the members of the Dactylology Club seek to become adept in the use of sign language and to learn more about the deaf. Visits to the Arkansas School for the Deaf and a return visit by students from this school were of special interest.

Members of Harding's A CAPPELLA chorus have a common goal which, together with the many hours spent together in rehearsals and tours, serves to bring them closer together. This goal is to use their voices to praise and glorify God in song. The chorus accomplishes their goal through numerous activities. Their radio program, "Hymns from Harding," is heard every week in 48 states. The fall tour took 42 members of the group through the state of Texas. Points in Mississippi, Alabama, Louisiana, and Florida were visited during the spring tour. The group also appeared on chapel, lectureship, and television programs, in community concerts, and in various weddings. Dr. Erle T. Moore is the able director of the chorus.

Chosen to tour the Far East were eighteen members of the A CAPPELLA. These students, together with Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davis, formed the Harding Belles and Beaux who entertained thousands of service men in Japan, Korea, Hawaii, Iwo Jima, and Okinawa.

RESPONSIVE audiences in many parts of the country greet the Mello-Chords: Don Brackin, Yoshio Inomata, Harold Valentine, and Pat Phillips.

MUSIC GROUPS

Traveling musical groups represent the college

Numerous musical opportunities are available to students at Harding. Among the most popular of these is the Harding College Chorale. The members of this organization appear each year during Lectureship Week, at various high schools, and on several television programs. Highlighting this year's activities was a tour of Louisiana. This group also played an important part in staging the annual opera.

Students gain enjoyment and add much to the school's spirit by participating in the band. This group performs in assembly programs and takes part in the band clinic held for Arkansas universities and colleges. They play for basketball and football games and perform during half-time. Eddie Baggett is the capable director of the band, the chorale, and the high school chorus.

A group which is important in obtaining publicity for the school is the newly-named Mello-Chords. This group has an extremely busy schedule, delighting many high school assemblies, banquet attendants, television audiences, and civic groups with their antics and songs.

INTERPRETING music through the voices of the Harding Chorale, Mr. Eddie Baggett directs the singing group with patience, vigor, and enthusiasm.

Campus Players is an "on the job training" organization. The members learn from their numerous experiences in producing the several one-act plays and the three major productions. The Campus Players are responsible for supplying the actors, the directors, the costumes, and the make-up. Three major plays for lyceum programs this year were Bell, Book, and Candle, The Diary of Anne Frank, and A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court.

Alpha Psi Omega is an elite group who have completed rigid initiation requirements and were invited to become lifetime members of this drama fraternity. The talents of this group are used in presenting programs for civic clubs, banquets, and other speech groups.

Campus debaters compose the membership of the national forensic fraternity, Pi Kappa Delta. On the national level, Pi Kappa Delta conducts several annual speech meets which include contests in oration speaking, after dinner speaking, extemporaneous speaking, and debating. The Harding Chapter participated in all of the events this year and won numerous superior and excellent ratings in each of the meets. On the local level the club gives debate demonstrations and each year presents a Pi Kappa Delta trophy to the social club that wins the Harding College Speech Arts Tournament.

Students interested in art find their common interest group in the Bijitsu club. In addition to the pizza parties and spaghetti suppers, the members have the opportunity to make day and weekend trips to attend special arts exhibits in the surrounding museums and schools. The organization's project this year was selecting each month from the work of campus artists the "Pictures of the Month" to be exhibited in the Ganus Student Center.

SPECIAL INTERESTS

Groups offer services to campus and community

The SNEA has been active this year sponsoring children's programs in the Harding Elementary School and helping to strengthen Future Teachers' Clubs in nearby high schools. They have sent one representative to the national convention and have nominated two others for state offices.

The Circle K Club is noted for its willingness to serve the campus and community with worthwhile projects. One of its projects this year was putting copies of the alma mater in the chapel song books.

Big Sisters play a big part in helping new students adjust to college life. They begin in the summer by corresponding with prospective students and carry on their work in the fall by greeting the new arrivals and planning dorm parties and teas for them.

SPECIAL INTERESTS

Common interests provide organization stimulus

"Miss Coed Today and Tomorrow," was the theme chosen by the Colhecon club for the year 1960-61.

The Colhecon club strives to develop knowledge, abilities, and skills in its members which will help them in choosing their clothing, decorating their rooms, serving as hostesses, and using their time today and in the years to come.

Open to all girls, the Colhecon club encourages any girl who is interested in learning to become a more efficient homemaker to join. Some of the outstanding activities include a reception for all graduating seniors at the end of the year, a trophy to the outstanding junior or senior in the field of Home Economics, Christmas gifts to an orphan's home, and a fashion show composed of girls in the Home Economics clothing classes.

With the goal of creating a greater interest in science, the Science Club this year has planned varied activities. Included in these were field trips to the Little Rock Weather Bureau and the Arkansas Power Company. Throughout the rest of the year the club planned scientific films and brought in guest lecturers, including Dr. Samuel Siegel of the University of Arkansas and Dr. Howard Flippin, a local optometrist. To climax the active year, members of the club set up and supervised the Regional Science Fair.

Desiring a knowledge of photography for both avocational and professional reasons, members of the Camera Club spent many hours together. Searching for just the right shots, learning to develop film, and making prints were some of their activities. Photography contests among the members added a spirit of competition and encouraged professional standards.

HISTORY GROUPS

Study groups develop interest in world affairs

INTERCOLLEGIATE SOCIETY OF INDIVIDUALISTS. Hampton, Bailey, Dickson, Eshelman, Jones.

Through a study of history and an examination of the economic, social, and political achievements of contemporary systems of government, special interest groups in the social science area help Harding students develop a keener interest in current problems and world affairs.

Phi Alpha Theta, a national honorary history society, recognizes and promotes superior scholarship in the field of history. New members were welcomed at the spring banquet.

Through field trips and other activities, Pi Gamma Psi gave accounting students an insight into the activities of professional accountants.

"Comparative Economic Systems of Government" was the theme of study for the American Studies group for 1960-61. Films and guest speakers gave new meaning to the American way of life. Composed of outstanding students in education, social science, and business, this group made trips to St. Louis and Cincinnati to observe various aspects of the American economic system.

To learn more about capitalistic and communistic systems, the Intercollegiate Society of Individualists and the Student Study Group for Constitutional Government met for films, lectures, and discussions.

As long as we live, we will be among people. One of the most important accomplishments we will make is learning to get along well with them. To do this we must learn to see people in relation to ourselves, to each other, and to the external surroundings — that is, to see them in perspective.

An excellent opportunity for growth in this area is found in a social club. Here one functions as a unit in a group, but retains his individuality. In fact, one develops himself against the background of the camaraderie with his club brothers or sisters. As a result, one learns to recognize personal differences while becoming part of a cooperative effort.

CLUB SPONSORS

Untiring sponsors contribute much time, energy, counsel

Every student at Harding has an opportunity to become an active part of a social organization. These clubs are designed to bring individuals in closer union with each other through varied fellowship activities.

Contributing to the growth of every social club are "never-tiring" sponsors. They continually advise, counsel, and open their homes to meetings, bunking parties, and other club activities.

Pledge week and initiation begin active years for initiates and club members highlighted by spring outings and formal and informal banquets.

BETA TAU GAMMA

Pledges become good friends with 'Thermostrockamortimer'

Have you met "Thermostrockamortimer" was the question as 10 Beta Tau pledges went through their paces. "Thermo" was their constant companion all week. Formal initiation was held in Miss Johnson's apartment in Sewell Hall.

The hopeful Beta Taus hung their stockings by the fireplace during their Christmas Party at the Legion Hut. A gaily decorated pinata hung near the Christmas tree. One solid whack, — and candy showered everyone.

"Under the Magnolias" was the theme of a Southern styled banquet at Bill's Grill. A setting of magnolia blooms and cotton bolls recalled the gracious atmosphere of the Old South.

Since last year, Beta Tau Gamma has sponsored a student at Ibaraki Christian College in Japan. They began when he was a freshman and plan to continue while he is in school.

Membership pledges retain 'poker faces' during initiation

Keeping "poker" faces was not easy for Delta Chis as they watched nine pledges try in vain to make them laugh.

The prospective members sighed in relief after formal initiation converted "old" poker faces to "new" congratulatory smiles. Mean pledge-masters became helpful sisters as the club members learned to work and enjoy their social gatherings as a unit.

Club members donned gypsy costumes for their third function, but became more formal at their "Singing Pines" banquet, December 14, at the Rendezvous. Pines literally "sang" from the ceiling and tables as decorations.

Delta Chis patriotically joined three other clubs in buying a flag pole for Alumni field to close out a bustling, but seemingly short, school year. Jerry Senn served as club beau.

GATA

Members create togetherness aid college students in Japan

Obeying pledgemasters, standing on tip toes, wearing bright beanies and watering flag poles . . . these are the things that remind nine Gatas of this year's pledge week.

As a final indication of love for pledgemasters, the Gata prospects gave a dinner for old members and were received as club sisters . . . finally!

For the remainder of the year, Gata activities had "togetherness." Together, Gatas completed the club project of helping to sponsor a student at Ibaraki Christian College in Japan. Together, Gatas with their dates sang hymns around a fire at Camp Wyldewood on the club's third function. And, together, Gatas worked in harmony and Christian fellowship to make their March banquet an occasion to remember.

Sixteen pledges proficient in subservience and culinary art

Sixteen hopeful pledges merited full membership as Ju-Go-Jus by obediently catering to their masters' requests and were honored as members in formal initiation rites.

The new members added much spice to a wintry outing at Wyldewood where their talents went into the making of successful "sloppy joes."

Christmas caroling with club brothers, APKs, and Jim Citty, club beau, climaxed holiday festivities for the Ju-Go-Jus. "A Tribute to Society," became the theme of their banquet dinner at Kelley's, March 3.

April not only brought showers but it also commenced the annual May fete preparations for Ju-Go-Jus. Early morning practice sessions reaped their rewards when the May Queen and her attendants marked a graceful path to the throne of summer as the year neared its finale.

KAPPA DELTA

Hawaiian luau theme features island dress, dishes, games

In the first year of their existence, the Kappa Delta social club strove to be worthy of the club motto, "Pure love is undefiled before God."

Approaching pledge week in a dignified manner, pledgemasters required pledges to appear well-groomed at all times. Pleated skirts with white sweaters replaced the traditional "odd" dress customarily associated with pledge week. To start the day off with a song, pledges were directed by pledgemasters in group singing each morning on the steps of the Administration Building.

Being a new club, Kappa Deltas appropriately selected a new state, "Hawaii" as the subject for their third function. Called "Hawaiian Luau," the party was held December 8 in the Legion Hut. Dressed in costumes patterned after Hawaiian styles, Kappa Deltas and their dates played games such as "Pass the Coconut" and "Hula Hoop." Refreshments included Hawaiian punch, ambrosia and fruit.

Vocal capacities of gophers displayed during trying week

Tri-Kappa pledges learned the art of being a gopher from vengeful pledgemasters and began their careers by harmonizing to, "We are the gopher girls, we always go for men . . ." around the lily pond.

But all sufferings were forgotten as they advanced into full-fledged membership and participated wholeheartedly in club activities. Gophers threw off their animal instincts in a Camp Wyldewood setting for their third function.

"Hello Young Lovers," greeted Tri-Kappa couples at their February banquet at Kelley's in Bald Knob. Club beau, Bob Jones, was rewarded with a personalized billfold at the banquet.

Rounding out the year's activity was a spring chapel program, an outing, and a worthy project.

Heroism, captured feathers, mark trials of lowly 'worms'

"Heroism above and beyond the call of duty," pronounced the Kappa Phi pledgemaster as a lowly Worm handed over a captured feather. A rough initiation at Wyldewood ended the period of trial for the pledges, and they promised in a candlelight ceremony later to uphold the honor of the club.

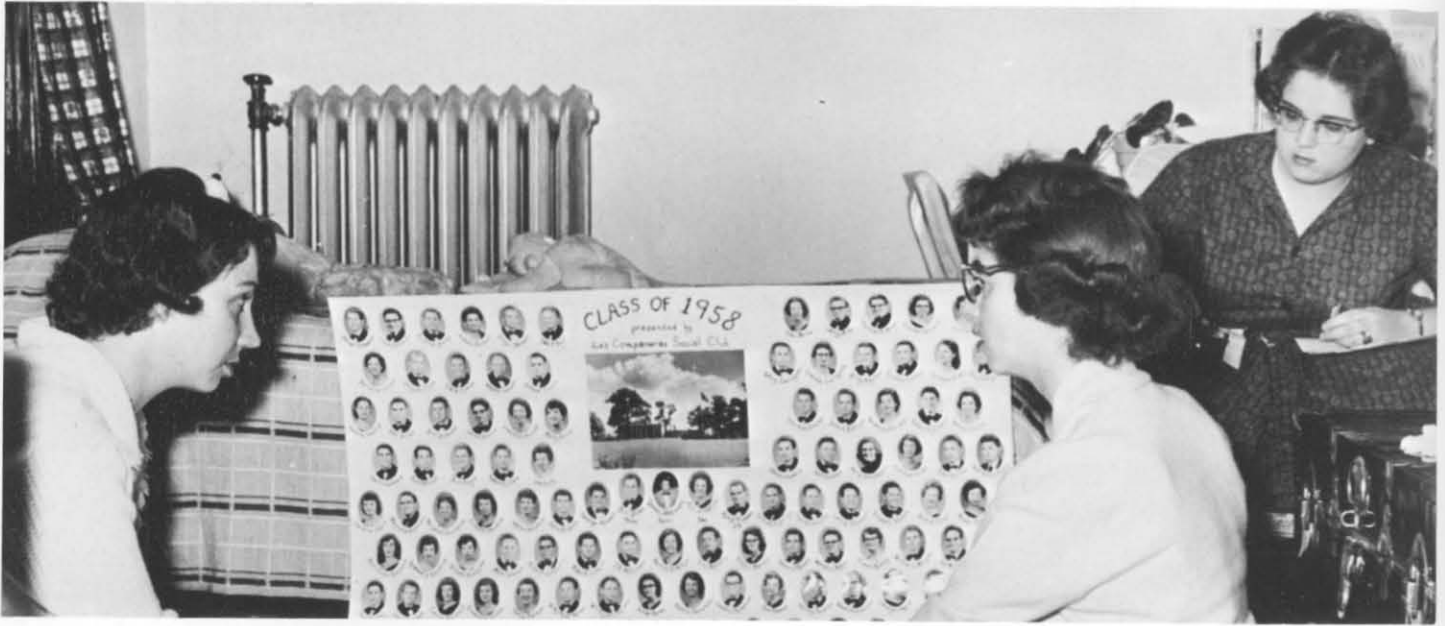

"Blue Christmas" was the theme chosen for the December banquet at the Rendezvous. The theme was carried out in the blue and silver color scheme, music by the "Silver Tones", and an original poem composed by club members.

A tacky party held at the Legion Hut proved to be one of the highlights of the year. Competition was keen for the title of Tackiest Couple, the reward being a string of red suckers.

LAS COMPANERAS

Bunking party began series of successful club functions

A bunking party at Wyldewood began one of Las Companeras' most active years. After a two-hour hike the L.C.'s eagerly consumed hot dogs, hot dogs and more hot dogs.

Wyldewood became the L.C.'s favorite haunt this year. It provided an excellent site for informal initiation of new pledges. The L.C.'s again chose Wyldewood for their third function — a weiner roast and evening of games and pranks concluded with a devotional.

Bill's Grill became a "Never-Never Land" for an L.C. banquet with an island flavor. Both this and the club's annual Spanish Supper were held in the spring.

The club's service projects included donating $100 to the Clymores, missionaries in Africa, and making the senior class composite.

'With a Song in my Heart' is theme of Valentine banquet

"Never take a step backwards," a good New Year's resolution, began M.E.A.'s year of activity.

Bob Diles was selected club beau, and the Pioneer Club was elected to serve M.E.A.s as "Big Brothers."

A picturesque Valentine setting made "With a Song in My Heart," a living theme for their formal banquet.

Enthusiasm spread throughout the club, germinated by new members, and an active year in sports brought fruitful gains for M.E.A.s.

As a club project, M.E.A.s donated ten dollars to Sam Belo, a student in Harding Graduate School of Bible in Memphis, Tenn.

The third function also carried out a holiday theme just before the Christmas vacation. A "Happy Holidays" party was the occasion at the Mayfair Hotel. Year of togetherness began with ceremony in lumberyard

"Rough" initiation at a lumber yard for Regina pledges preluded a year of togetherness strengthened by activities including pre-holiday "get-togethers," devotionals, and bunking parties.

Reginas brought into force a new type banquet with their "Progressive Dinner," February 13. Carrying out the theme, "Hearts in Motion," they went from an appetizer, "Heart's Desire," to the main course, "Heart's Fulfillment." Reginas and their dates completed their cycle with "Sweets to You," as dessert. Wayne Gaither, club beau, was presented a silver key chain at the banquet.

Club members displayed a "spirit of giving" in sacrificing their third function to help a missionary. In addition to this, they sponsored the "Regina Spirit Award," given annually to the senior who best typifies the spirit of Harding.

Children's home contribution proves a worthy club project

Pulling toy cars behind them while giving proper traffic signals took up the Tofebt pledges' spare time that was not used in doing good deeds for pledgemistresses and cornering the required number of dates. November 28, 6 a.m., found the Tofebts and their dates setting out for Kiwanis Park for a pancake cookout. A scavenger hunt for nature specimens, hikes, and a round of camp songs provided entertainment and exercise.

Kelley's Restaurant at Bald Knob was transformed into "Bali Hai" for the February 3 banquet. Centerpieces of flowers, tropical fruit, and sea shells added to the island illusion.

Charter members of new club start beau-of-the-month plan

A brand new club catapulted onto the Harding scene with sixteen charter members, twelve pledges, and some pretty new ideas for an exciting year.

Zeta Phi Zeta's practice of changing beaux monthly was an innovation which gave the club an opportunity to honor more men.

Sloppy Joes were the main feature of the menu at Zeta Phi Zeta's 3rd function at Wylde-wood. After eating, everyone enjoyed plenty of exercise in the form of outdoor games and group singing.

On December 12, all the Zeta Phis collected their dates and went caroling around town. When first symptoms of laryngitis struck, they returned to the student center for hot chocolate and cookies.

Pizza and spaghetti parties, club participation in sports, and joint efforts in service projects made Zeta Phi Zeta's first year an exciting promise of things to come.

Motto of newly-formed club emphasizes Christian spirit

"Purity in purpose, and love in deed" is the inspirational motto of Zeta Rho, a new social club founded this year by eleven upperclassmen with a pioneering spirit. The glowing symbol of the organization is a three-dimensional star in crimson and silver.

Thirteen energetic pledges, bunking parties, a pizza party, and a third function at Wylde-wood rapidly built up spirit in the new club during the fall. Spring activities included a smorgasbord banquet with an April theme. J. D. Key was honored as Zeta Rho's first Club Star.

A. E. X. emerged successfully in club sports this year, winning first place in American League softball and volleyball and second place in football and basketball. A flag was purchased for Alumni Field as a club project.

Anderson's Grill was the setting for the "Civil War" banquet in March. A truce was declared, and the blues and grays enjoyed a peaceful evening. N. J. Wilson presented queen Georgie Claypool with an engraved bracelet. Club members closed the year with an all-day outing in May.

BASKING in the warm spring sunshine, Delta Iotas Jack Ford, Ron Butterfield, Joel Anderson, and Don Meredith engage their club queen Claudia Shewmaker in the friendly exchange of conversation.

DELTA IOTA

Horror movie delights girls at gala 'spook' banquet

Delta Iota's club hut, located about fifteen miles north of Searcy, served as the location of frequent stag outings and hunting activities for its members.

The club's project for the year was the raising of financial aid to help send an orphan child from Morrilton to one of our Christian camps.

The Delta Iota's spring banquet had as its theme an unusual one — "Spook." A horror movie was shown as part of the program, much to the delight of the girls present. Club sweetheart Claudia Shewmaker, because of her delicious treats served to the members and her representation of the club in the Petit Jean Queen contest, was presented an engraved trophy at the banquet. In November, members treated their dates to a picnic outing at Bee Rock.

FRATER SODALIS

Practical project of sending boys to summer camp started

The Frater chain was strengthened when fourteen pledges were admitted to the club after undergoing an informal initiation at Camp Wyldewood.

The Fraters chose to send three boys to a summer camp as their club project.

Twenty-four Harding girls were treated to a Swiss-steak banquet in the spirit of "Candelight and Roses." Each table was decorated with candles and red roses, and these were given to the girls at the conclusion of the program. Bob Helsten entertained the group with his speech on "Love, Courtship, and Marriage."

In May the annual spring outing was held at Petit Jean.

Miss Glenda Ganus, the club's sweetheart, was the Frater nominee for Petit Jean Queen.

GALAXY pledgemasters enjoy their status as they line up their pledges to begin the final round of the week's activities. Cold weather, hiking, lots of water, and odd food made it a night to remember.

GALAXY

Home of club sponsor used for formal initiation ceremony

Galaxy was increased in number and spirit by the informal initiation of eight pledges near Letona. After the rough stuff, a formal gathering ensued at the home of Russell Simmons, one of two sponsors.

A chili supper at Searcy's Legion Hut provided "hot" relief from the chilly weather. Later club members and their dates attended the concert by the "Belles and Beaux," who are directed by Kenneth Davis, Galaxy's other sponsor.

The traditionally secret banquet theme and events unrolled before each young lady as she beheld "Moments to Remember" at the Rendezvous.

For this year's project, Galaxy led in the installation of a flagpole on Alumni Field.

Koinonias treat banquet dates to 'Holiday in France' theme

By engaging in sports, outings, and activities of all types, the members of the Koinonia Club had a busy year. The events began with an all-night stag outing at Barber Lake, where fishing and hunting provided sport and entertainment. Soon after this came initiation night at Bee Rock where seven members were taken into the club.

When the weather got too bad for outings, the club held their third function in the Kiwanis Hut. The banquet season then came in and Kelley's became the scene of "Holiday in France." The evening was passed with good food and a descriptive trip to France and climaxed with the presentation of a sweater to Sherry Elswick, club queen.

LAMBDA SIGMA

Pledges receive 'the tie that binds' at informal initiation

Twenty-eight Lambda Sigmas celebrated their return to school with an early fall stag outing, elected Helen Green club queen, and construed appropriate activities for the fourteen pledges.

The prospective members received the "tie that binds" at the informal initiation at the lower dam on the Little Red River. The pledges became official members at a formal ceremony in the College Church Building.

The Civil War theme of the Jan. 17 third function was in keeping with the current revival of interest in the North-South conflict.

Other activities included participation in all club sports, a March 4 banquet at the Rendezvous, a late spring chapel program, and the traditional all-day outing.

PIONEERS

'Pioneers in Space' banquet featured unusual decorations

"Pioneers in Space" was the theme of the Pioneers' February banquet at Kelley's Grill. Rocket ships, angel hair "clouds", and a talk by John McRay set the scene.

After a week of shining shoes, cleaning rooms, and singing lullabies, eight new Pioneers were initiated in ceremonies at Wyldewood. They demonstrated their vigor and vitality by walking home.

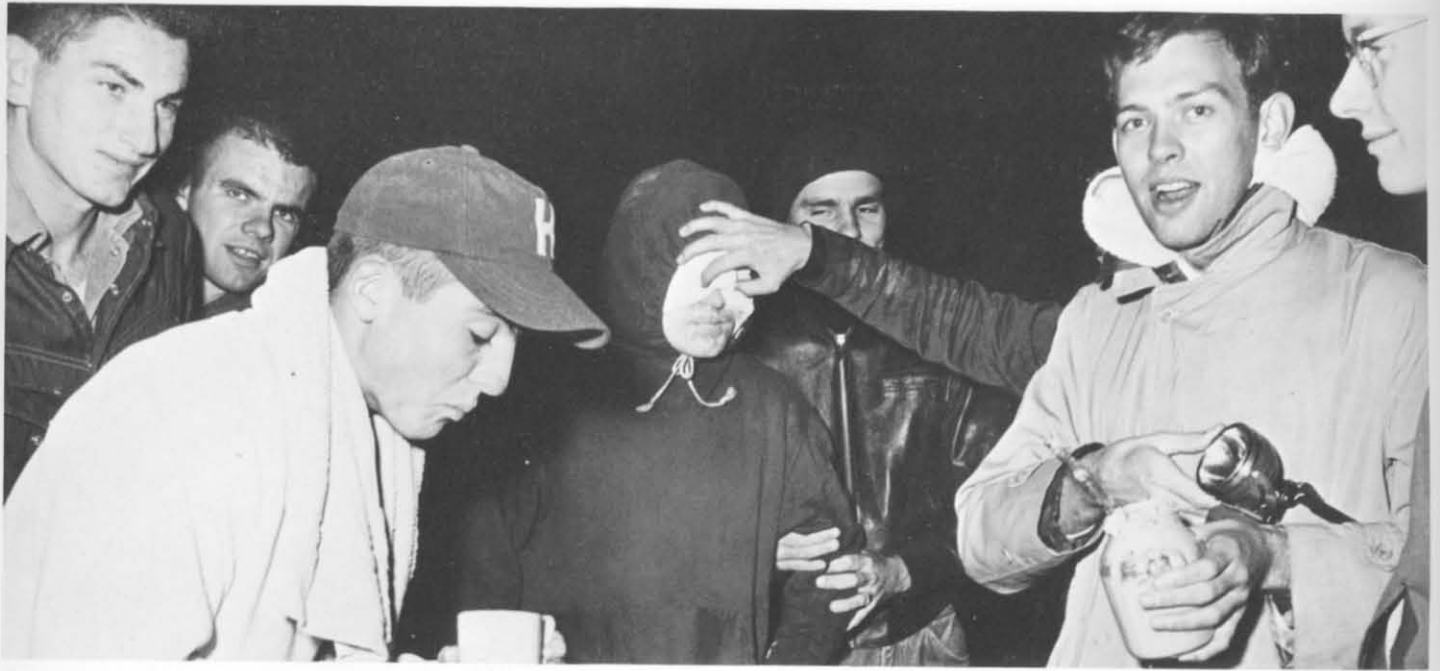

Later, Lydia Goins was chosen as club queen and represented Pioneer in the Petit Jean contest.

As a club project, the Pioneers helped to put up a flagpole at Alumni Field.

New members were initiated into the club at Echo Dale. Following the "entertainment," they hiked back to Harding in record time.

Decided underdogs as the club basketball tournament opened, the Sigma Taus lost their opening game. However, the tide changed and they plowed on to win the American League championship.

The annual banquet was held at Kelley's in January. Ann Jones, club sweetheart, was presented a club pin. Members enjoyed many other social activities, the final one being a stag outing at the end of the year.

Perennial track and softball champions continue winning

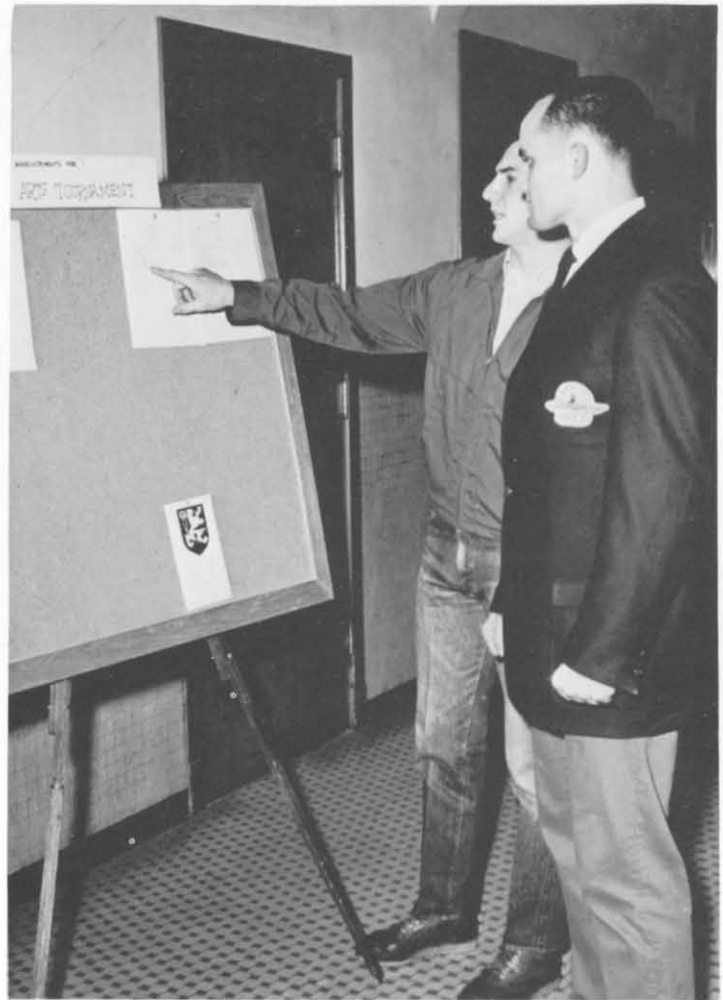

This year marked the fourth straight year the Sub T's have taken the softball championship. Harding's Annual Track and Field Day Meet has been won by the club for five straight years.

Active in functions other than athletics, the Sub T's got to keep the Dramatic Arts Trophy this year as their reward for winning it in the Speech Arts Tournament three consecutive years.

Fifteen members and sponsor Cliff Ganus made the annual trip to the Mardi Gras festivities in New Orleans.

In accordance with their maritime ways, the club chose "Shipwreck" as their banquet theme. Claudette Faulk, Sub-T queen, was honored for representing the club well in the Petit Jean Queen contest.

Married students learn need of religion in club activities

One of the largest and most active clubs on campus, Theta Alpha Gamma, deserved its Greek name, interpreted: God, husband, wife.

T.A.G. stressed God in their nightly devotionals in the courtyard of the Married Students' Apartments. They became "one" in their fellowships which included weiner roasts, suppers, parties, and a carnival.

Forty-six new members were welcomed into the "fold" and joined old members for an April banquet at Kelley's.

Active participation in sports throughout the year continued to unify members of the group.

Our bodies are so designed that they will remain in operating condition for a long time without special efforts aside from the routine. Being in good physical condition, however, means more than that one is able to carry on normal bodily functions. From time to time extra attention is needed to insure that the body is kept in top running order.

Happily, one can "get in shape" in several ways, and we can chose the avenue which offers the most to us. In intercollegiate athletics, in intramural sports, or in individual activity we can pursue physical development. Any program will affect the way a person feels and influence his perspective.

FOOTBALL

Defense outstanding against AIC competition

HOURS of grueling practice make up the life of every football player. Here Coach Carl Allison leads his backfield men in the never-ending agility drills.

Harding's first year of A.I.C. competition in football surprised nearly everyone from students to state sports writers. For their first year the Bisons compiled a 1-5-3 record.

Although the record itself is nothing a school normally would boast about, Harding can be proud of the one victory and three ties, having returned to intercollegiate football only one year ago after a twenty-year layoff. In gaining this record the Bisons became known as a team that could stand up defensively to many of the powers in the A.I.C. Also after the 34-0 victory over The College of the Ozarks, the Bisons proved their ability to move the ball.

With a predominantly freshman and sophomore squad, Coach Carl Allison opened the season against Millsaps College at Jackson, Mississippi, with a surprising 6-6 tie.

Arkansas Tech confidently invaded the Bison's Alumni Field for the first A.I.C. game of the year — and got the surprise of its life. The Wonder Boys, later conference champs, were expected to score mercilessly against Harding, but they found the Bisons a tough, pursuing team nearly the entire game.

DEL BROCK, freshman halfback, is stopped for a short gain after trying to skirt Tech's ends with little success.

FIRST and goal to go! A crucial moment in Harding-Hendrix, homecoming thriller came when Bison offense bogged on third down. Gambling for yardage, scrappy Harding got it and went on to score.

AGGRESSIVE pursuit by Harding's Bisons proved to be the outstanding feature of the game against powerful Arkansas Tech. The stingy Bison defense yielded only three touchdowns to the Techsters causing the Tech coach to reply, "They pursue almost as well as the Arkansas Razorbacks."

Football

DRIVING his shoulder solidly into the stomach of an A and M Boll Weevil defensive ace, Ray Griffin makes the tackle ending a Weevil scoring threat deep in Bison territory. Cliff Sharp, senior center, rushes in to help.

With the score at only 13-0 with twenty-five seconds left, Tech redeemed its prestige with a 28-yard scoring play for a 20-0 victory.

Southern State was the next team expected to romp over Harding. But the Riders were equally as troubled as Tech, scoring only twice for a 13-0 victory while seeing the Bison's threaten to score twice in the game.

Ouachita and the Bisons butted heads for the second tie of the year, 0-0. Harding drove to the Tiger 11-yard line but couldn't score.

State Teachers fared little better than Tech with a 21-0 win, and Arkansas A&M passed its way to a 19-6 victory. Harding, though, got its first taste of A.I.C. scoring against the Boll Weevils.

Homecoming furnished the most excitement of the year. In a driving rain the Bisons scored early on Hendrix and then were caught napping in the fourth quarter on a double pass play to knot the score at 6-6 on the rain drenched field. Harding won a statistical victory, though, piling up 271 yards to 111 for Hendrix.

The Bisons got the sweet taste of victory in the next outing against The College of the Ozarks by trampling them 34-0 at Clarksville.

BISON co-captain Jim Citty leaps high to snag the pass which set up Harding's only T.D. in the 19-6 loss to A&M. Citty played regularly as left end.

BACKS against the wall, a spirited Harding defense digs in against the Wonder Boys of Tech. Varied alignments and "stunting" line-backers aided the Bisons in turning a predicted rout to a moral win.

BISONS ran hard, passed well, and often scored against larger, more experienced conference foes in their second year of intercollegiate football. So impressed were opponents with team's desire, hustle, and above all, sportsmanship, they elected Harding to receive the AIC Sportsmanship Award.

BASKETBALL

Strong start builds optimism for team success

WRESTLING match or basketball game? It is hard to tell as a Bethel Wildcat struggles with Harding's Jim Redding to gain possession of the ball.

The Bisons, suffering from lack of experience, never did live up to their potential winning power. The Herd had difficulty all season in molding a consistent offense.

The season opened well, with Harding taking two straight victories from Martin Branch of the University of Tennessee and Bethel College. However, after building up early leads, the Bisons repeatedly lost close conference games. They led conference champion Arkansas Tech by 13 points going into the final period, but Tech came on strong to win 87-86.

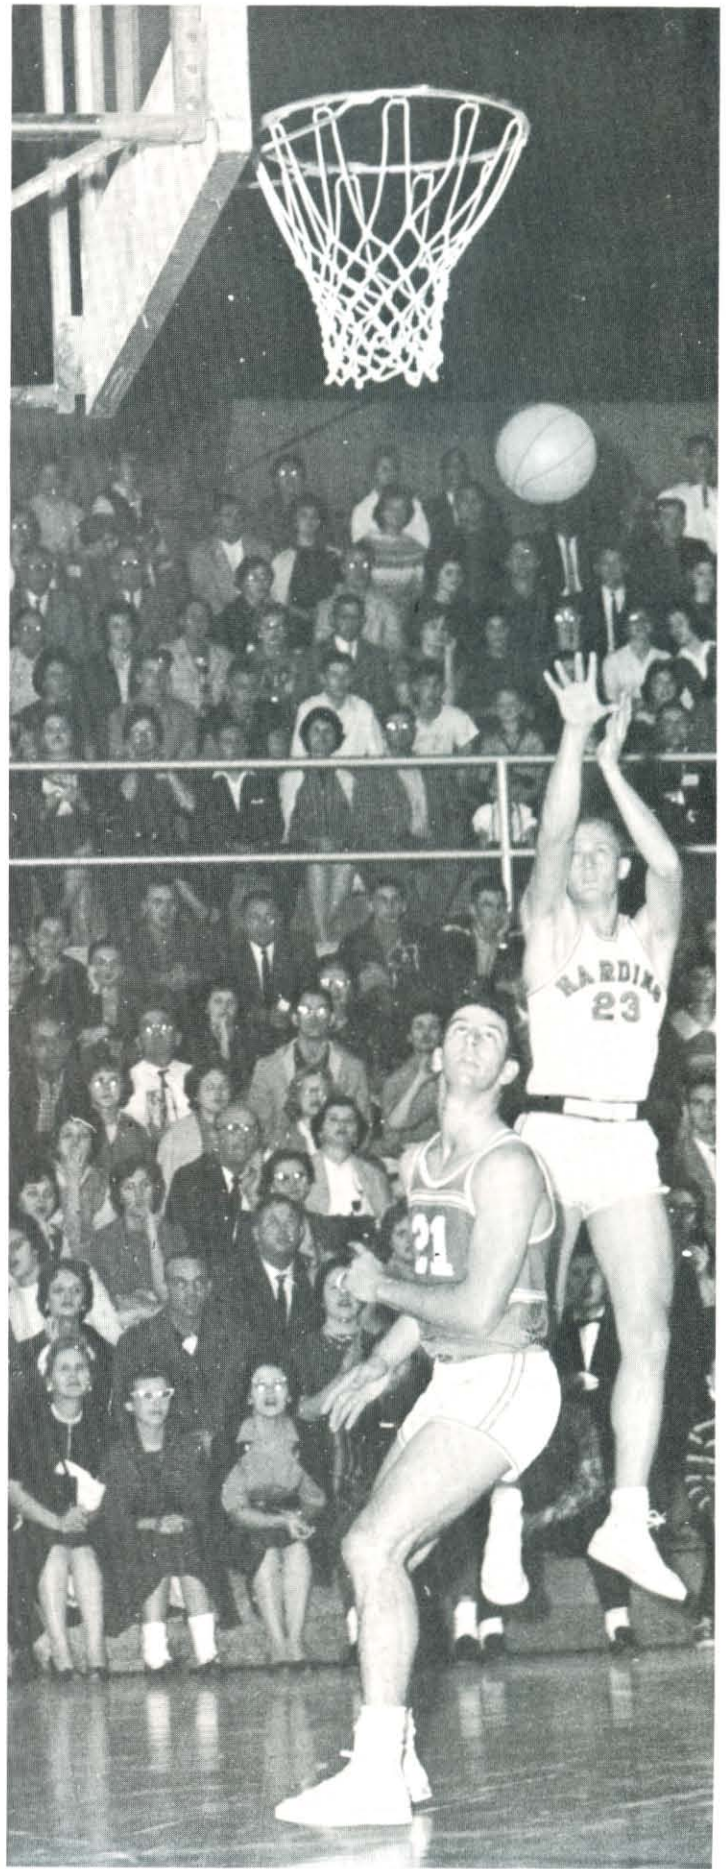

Things began to look good after the holiday break as Harding overpowered Hendrix 61-56, but four straight losses halted what appeared to be a successful effort for the Bisons to find themselves.

Back on their home court, Coach Hugh Groover's men built up good leads against conference foes Hendrix and Arkansas A&M, but lost both games in the final seconds.

HIGH above their opponents, Harding's big men, Tom Watson (41) and Jim City (10), along with unidentified teammate battle for tip-in.

FEINTING his way past a Mulerider defender, deceptive Steve Smith looks for an opening to drive through. The Bisons won this one, 84-72.

EYEING the ball as it arcs gracefully toward the basket, a Tennessee Volunteer turns to rebound sophomore David Simpson's effortless jump shot.

OBSTACLES, even feet of opposing players from Arkansas College, do not halt Jim Redding's determined march toward his goal at the end of court.

GRACEFULLY floating toward the goal are Gerald Casey, his pursuers, and the ball. Harding won this thriller over U.T.M.B. by one point.

Basketball

SCRAMBLING for a jump ball, David Simpson grabs for the ball clutched protectively by a Southern State rival, while Ken Nicholson backs him up.

The season ended on a promising note, as the Bisons rocked to a decisive 87-76 win over hustling College of the Ozarks at Clarksville. The Herd never was behind in what was probably the best game of the year.

Six men will be returning next year, and these six should provide the backbone for one of Harding's best teams. Two-year lettermen who will be back are Steve Smith, David Simpson, Ken Nicholson, and Larry Brakefield. Vernon Rogers and Tom Watson, both of whom looked good in their first year of varsity ball, will be heavily counted on also.

Three squad members were lost by graduation — Jim Redding, Jim City, and Gerald Casey. Redding, the Bison's top scorer, repeatedly hurt the conference foes with his deceptive driving. Jim received the honor of gaining honorable mention on the All-AIC team. City and Casey began playing for the Bisons four years ago, and have the distinction of being the first four-year basketball lettermen Harding has had since intercollegiate sports were resumed in 1957.

BASEBALL

Hard-hitting team finishes with .500 record

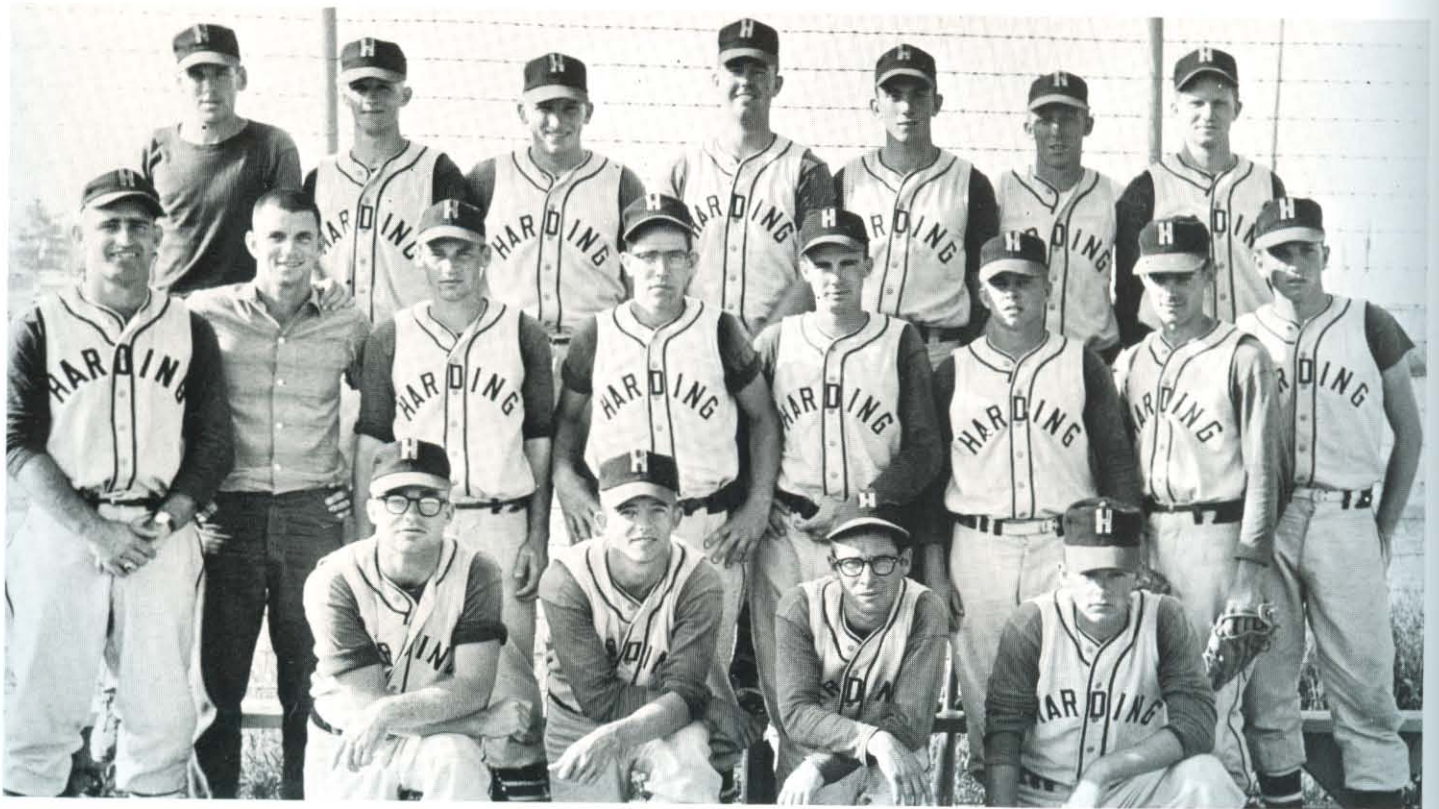

Harding's baseball team under the tutorage of Coach Carl Allison started the 1960 season off right by nipping the ASTC Bears 1-0 in the opening contest at Alumni Field. The remainder of the season saw several more games end with similiary close scores.

Steve Mayfield's 3-2 win-loss record was the best to be offered by the Bisons in the pitching department and fleet James Stone led the conference in batting much of the season. Stone ended the season in second spot in the AIC and 12th in the NAIA standings with a 0.431 average.

Using the squeeze play to its fullest advantage with the utmost of hustle found in the Bisons, Coach Allison guided his charges to a season record of seven wins against seven losses.

TRACK

AIC conference record broken by Bison tracksters

A lack of strength in the weight division and an abundance of injuries sharply handicapped Harding's thinclads in 1960; but in any meet Gaston Tarbet could be counted on in the distance runs for points. Tarbet won the mile in the AIC meet at Hendrix and came back minutes later to brilliantly anchor the Bisons' record-setting mile medley relay team.

Transfer student Richard Anderson gave the Bisons their first sight of a top-flight polevaulter as he consistently placed high in this event, in addition to running on nearly every relay team.

Harding inaugurated a grand track and field spectacle to add a fitting climax to a prospect-filled Senior Day. Saturday, April 23, saw 10 colleges and 14 high schools competing on the oval at Alumni Field in the First Annual Harding Invitational Track Meet. One of Harding's sister institutions, Oklahoma Christian College, took second place honors behind powerful Arkansas State Teachers College.

Varied sports program provides interest for all

"DUKE" RHODES goes high in an attempt to make a save on a hard slam in a tension-filled contest between rival Sub-T and Mohican social clubs.

Claiming one of the finest intramural systems in the nation, Harding College wasted no time in initiating the fall semester sports program to the ninety percent of the school's students who eventually participated in intramural games. Under the direction of Cecil Beck, the intramural sports activity was highly organized and efficient.

Almost as soon as school began, class softball held the men's interest. The seniors dominated this year and trounced the sophomores 9-1 behind Jim Redding's peppy pitching in the championship game.

Softball continued to take precedence in athletics as was evident in club participation and in intramurals. In the National League powerful Sub-T 16 edged the scalp-hungry Mohicans in a 7-5 thriller and AEX crushed Galaxy 16-5 in the American League. Intramural softball came to a climax as the Sports upset the favored, league-leading Travs in a clutch effort play-off game, 11-7. Softball base-runs and distance throws rounded out the horse-hide season.

Intramural rag-tag football was played simultaneously with softball this year. A tight contest of passing upped the score to an equally tight 27-26 victory for the Bears over the Lions in this year's championship determinant.

CAUGHT napping by Frater Sodalis' second sacker, J. R. Bailey, Bob Akers of TNT is tagged out in a run-down play between bases.

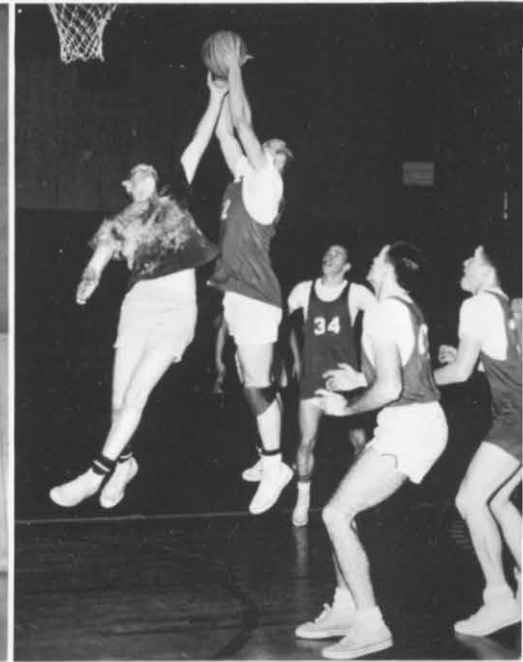

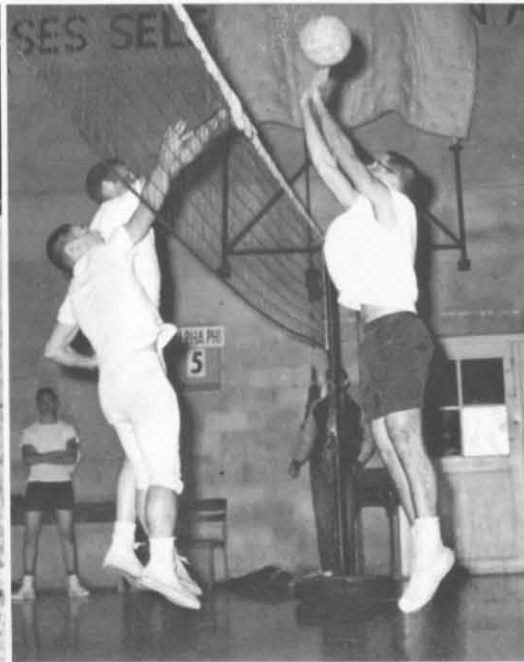

EFFICIENT Cecil Beck maintains a full athletic calendar in men's intramurals. Here, he presents Gaston Tarbet with prized cross-country award.

SAFE! Joe Yeargain grimaces as he slides in home under feet of Charlie Thompson, about to apply late tag.

CLUB SPORTS continue to be the number one attraction of intramural athletics with nearly all men's social clubs competing for championship in various events such as softball, ragtag, football, volleyball and basketball. APK seems to be the power this year, winning three of the six events.

1960 BISON ALL-STARS. FRONT ROW: Hicks, Wilson, McLarey, Beene, Conn, Brooks, Camp, Kidd. SECOND ROW: Mote, Bailey, Peebles, Clary, Griffin, Bridges, Barden, Ebker, Escue, Kallenbach, Brown, Gardner.

In the club games, APK repeated as National League football champs by winning over Sub-T 16 in the finals 18-13.

Continuing their rivalry in the American League, Galaxy and AEX clashed again this time in the football finals. Galaxy dominated in a low scoring 13-7 tilt.

Among the other intramural football events were the distance throw, distance kick and extra point kick.

Indoor sports greeted the cold season as the winter program was launched in club and intramural volleyball. APK again stole the show this time by defeating TNT's spikers. In intramural forays, the Oaks of the Forest League took winner's honors.

Winter saw a large amount of basketball action as Harding's hoopsters took to the hardwoods. Intramurals were divided into the Southwest and Big Ten Leagues. The marauding Mustangs of the Southwest were the final victors as they stomped the Hoosiers, 50-34, in the cross-league contest.

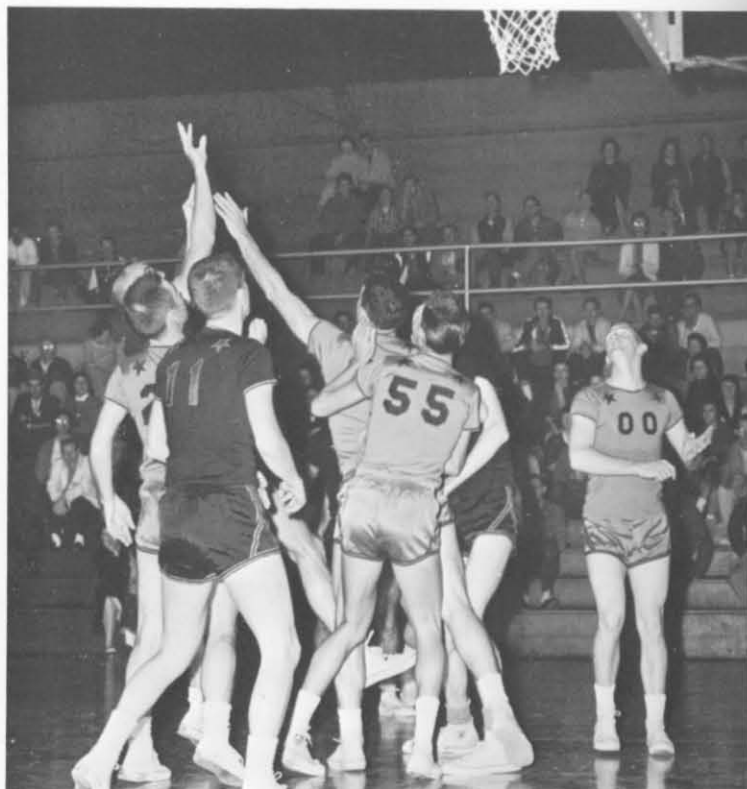

Torrid action took place in club round-ball. APK and TNT scuffled for championship laurels with the powerful APK quintet emerging as final victors in the National League.

Men's intramurals

PIONEER'S iron man, Tom Finley, was high point man in intramural swim meet, winning two firsts plus anchoring relay teams.

CLEARING the defending hand of Calvin Conn, Gerald Ebker rips the net for two points. Other defenders watch the ball and eagerly prepare for the rebound.

GASTON TARBET strides effortlessly across the finish line of the mile run. Tarbet broke old records in both the 880 and the mile.

SETTING a sizzling pace, Steve Smith gives teammate Jim Pratt a good lead and helps the Sub-T's sail to an easy victory in the 880 yard relay.

Sigma Tau Sigma, after losing to Galaxy in the first round of American League play, 41-39, bounced back to wrest first place from AEX's grasp, 72-58.

In basketball, the most highly-awaited event, the annual Bison All-Star game, proved to be exciting, but lopsided. Southwest's All-Stars ripped the nets for 97 points while Big Ten contributions amounted to only 63 tallies. Richard Carter was chosen Most Valuable Player of the game for his great efforts under the boards.

Intramural and club swimming meets, and the varied sports skills in basketball were the other major factors in winter sports.

The spring program contained high interest among the men in badminton, track, and baseball which was divided into major and minor leagues. Club track and field day drew many responses from the participants. Minor spring sports were golf, archery and peg-board.

MOUTH agape, Lambda Sigma's John Flint wins the 100-yard dash with a classic finish. Running a close second is the Sub-T sprinter Wayne Gaither.

SPRING, which brings out the best in young ladies, also brings women's sports. With her special jet-assisted take-off Sue Vinther copped first place in high jump. Two types of landings were exhibited in the broad jump: Joan Lyon's down-to-earth approach and Kathryn West's "take it on the shin."

WOMEN'S INTRAMURALS

Spirited competition marks women's intramurals

"TOOTAY" MAYER looks for another opening against Tofebt guards Doris Brooks and Carolyn Wood as she leads the Reginas to victory in club play.

Directing women's sports is difficult for a woman, but when a man is given the task, it becomes even more trying.

Eddie Campbell came through it not only alive — but better educated. Through his guidance women participated in rag-tag football, basketball, volleyball, tennis, ping-pong, badminton, and softball.

Individual and club competition was keen with the addition of three new women's clubs and fresh frosh talent adding to a spirited year in women's sports.

Oeges came through the first rung of competition by winning over Zeta Phi Zeta, new women's club, for the championship basketball trophy.

Early morning "running" sessions around the track became a "fad" as women diligently prepared for the finale in women's sports — annual Track and Field Day.

Held each May, Track and Field Day keynotes women's sports for the year. The event won last year by WHC brought a cheering climax to a complete year in athletics for women.

GIRLS may not jump too high but what they do they do gracefully, as Deanna James of Delta Chi shows.

OUTDISTANCING all her competitors in the women's 100-yard dash, an event of Track and Field Day, is Sylvia Johnson.

PURPOSEFULLY arched, Lois Norwood volleys the ball up and over as Delta Chi teammates stand ready to lend any needed assistance.

CLENCHED teeth show the effort of Kathryn West as she strains to help Oege win first in the "tug o' war" event while club sisters lend loud support.

Bisons receive full support from student body

Whether they won, lost, or drew the Harding Bisons were never without student support, as intercollegiate competition brought renewed spirit to the campus. By capturing the first A.I.C. football sportsmanship trophy this year, Harding demonstrated that her team was a combination of players, cheerleaders, and students.

Heading the spirit campaign were eight cheerleaders. For them, cheering at each game was only the end result of many hours of personal practice.

Closely backing the cheerleaders was the Pep Club, a group about one-hundred strong who built the large Harding bison, planned bonfires and pep rallies, decorated for the games, and greeted visiting teams. The Pep Band helped by adding enthusiasm and rhythm to the cheering section.

The Varsity Club, exclusive in that only lettermen may be members, provided opportunity for close fellowship among those who had attained excellent performance in athletic events.

Growth begins in an individual from the moment of conception, for living itself is a process of growing, constantly active. The years before one reaches college age are important, because many of the directions of growth are determined during this time.

Since teachers have such a great influence over boys and girls and help them develop into men and women, they should be well chosen. Considering this, some fathers and mothers send their children to Harding Academy. Here the teachers are concerned not only with the material to be covered but also the approach from which it is learned. Their incorporation of living principle into daily lessons helps the students to look at their world with a certain perspective.

Academy

Mrs. Andy T. Ritchie, BA

DEDICATION

1961 book is dedicated to Mrs. Ritchie, math instructor

Teaching not only such tangible things as the height, length, and width of the figures used in her math classes, but also teaching students to consider the immenseness of God's love makes her a person to be greatly admired. Through her attitude of devotion, service and understanding she has touched the hearts and lives of many students, influencing them to grow in faith and in love for God's word. Because of this Christian influence which she radiates to us, we, the senior class of 1961, dedicate our portion of the Petit Jean to Mrs. Kathryn Ritchie.

Mrs. Ritchie has been teaching at Harding Academy since 1951. She has three children who have already graduated from the Academy and one who is now a sophomore. A highlight in this year for the Ritchies was the marriage of their oldest daughter, Bettye.

In addition to the pleasure she has in her rich home life is the enjoyment she finds in the outdoors. The happiness she feels in growing flowers or in taking a hike helps her to become an influence for good by the inner peace it gives her. Because she is a good person herself and because she helps others, she gains the love and admiration of those who know her.

INTEREST and desire to learn are aroused in students as Mrs. Ritchie works with her class, striving to help each one understand thoroughly.

SMILING in eager anticipation of the moment not too far away, Mrs. Ritchie helps Bettye, her daughter, with the final touches for her wedding.

ADMINISTRATION

Able men lead development of the Harding Academy

Perry S. Mason, MA, Superintendent of the Harding Academy, has developed the Academy into an outstanding college preparatory school accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools. In addition to his administrative and teaching duties at the Academy, he is president of the Searcy Kiwanis Club, is active in North Central committee work and preaches regularly for the church at Plumerville.

J. E. Berryhill, MA, serves as principal of the Harding Academy and a teacher of social science. He is recognized as an outstanding administrator and challenging teacher. Although a strict disciplinarian, he is admired and loved because of his pleasant personality and fine sense of humor.

Dale G. Gould, BA, serves as principal of the Harding Elementary School. He also teaches chemistry and physics in the Academy and most of the eighth grade classes. His hobbies are remodeling his house and doing mechanical work on cars.

FACULTY

New courses and teachers strengthen school program

Life at Harding Academy this year has been greatly benefited by the addition of several new faculty members and new courses of study. Ed Higginbotham joined the faculty as assistant coach, Bible and history instructor. Miss Lynn Alexander of Delight, Arkansas, heads the Home Economics Department. This department has been improved by the addition of a third year of study. The Business Department has been aided by the capable instruction of Miss Martha Walston. More advanced courses have also been added in this department. Miss Clarice Readhimer joined the training school faculty as teacher of the second grade. The Academy always strives to maintain the standards of better education set up by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools.

ORGANIZATIONS

Various activities develop leadership abilities

Arousing school spirit and enthusiasm is the goal of the Pep Club each year. Decorating the halls at school before each game, supervising Home-coming activities, and supporting the team at games are some of its functions.

The first branch of the National Beta Club in Arkansas was organized at Harding Academy. To be eligible for membership, a student must have a 90 or above average for two consecutive six weeks. A "breakfast" is enjoyed each year on Baccalaureate Sunday. The Beta Club also furnishes the frame for the senior picture. The two students with the highest average for the year are designated as honor students.

AFTER studying hard and applying themselves the past year Mary Ethel Bales and Lanny Casey are rewarded with scholastic honors their senior year.

The Citizenship Club is composed of one freshman, two sophomores, three juniors, and four seniors chosen by unanimous vote of the club. They sponsor the Wildcat and other projects.

Each member of the Science Club entered a project in the school's science fair. They also took several field trips and had other projects of interest in science.

The Library Club helps Miss Key, the librarian, with odd jobs such as repairing books and returning them to the shelves. They also learn about classification of books and how to find them in the library.

Those students who are interested in drama and acting have an opportunity to display their abilities and learn more about this field through the activities of the Dramatics Club. The organization was revived this year after being discontinued for a period.

Working together to edit the Academy section of the annual, these students seek to produce a book which will serve as a reminder of the wonderful months spent in the Academy. The section editors and their assistants work under the supervision of Editor Jo Hughes and Assistant Editor Deanna Mills. Many hours of hard work make this section possible.

The Key Club working with the superintendent, Mr. Mason, and the Kiwanis Club serves both the school and city. Such projects as car-washes and selling soap provide money for school needs. The willingness of these students to work and be of service promotes school spirit and builds leaders for the future.

WESTWARD-BOUND for appearances at churches, chorus members struggle to get their luggage packed and arranged with enough room left for them.

The Harding Academy A Cappella Chorus is under the direction of G. E. Baggett. Membership is by competitive tryouts. Musical ability is one requirement, but scholarship and character are also considered. The annual spring tour included parts of Oklahoma, Texas, and New Mexico this year.

There are four smaller ensembles in the chorus: two ladies' sextets, one ladies' quartet, and one male quartet. These groups are also chosen by competitive tryouts.

The members of the A Cappella are also members of the Choraliers, a large group composed of anyone who wishes to belong to it. This year the group was enlarged to include the sixth, seventh, and eighth graders. By this one realizes singing is truly a part of Academy life.

SEXTET: Risinger, Cope, Hughes, Bales, Ely, Nevins.

FRANTICALLY typing to meet the last deadline, Mary E. Bales, Judy Evans, and Linda Risinger put final touches on copy in preparation for final publication.

Social experiences develop better personalities

SOCIAL club banquets are an important segment of student activities. Planning, decorating, and last minute touches blend into gala evenings.

Life at Harding Academy is inspirational as well as educational. Students receive courses of Bible and enjoy daily chapel and vesper services. Periods of singing, prayer and meditation make the other activities of the Academy more enjoyable.

Social clubs hold banquets each year and an outing or picnic. Special interest clubs are also open to those students who choose to participate. Some of these are Science, Dramatics, Library and Pep Club. Other organizations such as Citizenship and Key Club are service clubs and clubs of leadership.

Musical groups are also an important part of the Academy, providing choral groups and band.

Education in all phases of life is provided in activities at Harding. Opportunities for leadership are open to all because of the small student body. Life at the Academy is truly an inspiration to those who accept its challenge.

ACADEMY break-time means digging hurriedly for elusive change and deciding quickly which candy bar or treat to buy before the bell rings for another class. Hungry students part with cherished nickels and dimes in sweet anticipation.

CHAPEL services each morning equip each student with a greater zeal to do his best. These services are very inspirational and uplifting.

NIGHTLY vesper services help draw each girl's mind to the true purpose of life by praising God.

Bunking parties prove useful as K.A.T. planning sessions

The twelve returning K.A.T.'s began the year with a slumber party where plans were made for a busy pledge week. Nine new members were added to the club after informal initiation. The pledgemasters took their pledges on an excursion to the cemetery for part of their initiation. Formal initiation was held at the home of president, Jo Hughes.

A bunking party was held at Millie Cannon's home so that plans could be made for the annual club banquet on January 9. A lighthouse with revolving multicolored lights helped to provide the atmosphere for the theme, Harbor Lights. The speaker for the evening, John White, presented Jo Hughes with the K.A.T. Big Mouth Award for telling the banquet plans to someone outside of the club.

K-9

Home-cooked food enjoyed at 'wagon wheels' banquet

The K-9s of 1961 enjoyed many activities during the year. This year's pledges thoroughly enjoyed their full week of pledging and were happy to become members of Harding Academy's oldest boy's social club.

This year the K-9s and their dates journeyed back to the days of the old west by way of "Wagon Wheels," the theme of this year's annual banquet at the Legion Hut. The K-9s and their dates ate their own home-cooked food, which was prepared by members of the club.

The K-9s elected Linda Risinger as their club sweetheart, and at their banquet they presented her with a small gift of appreciation.

S.T.A.R.'s social events started with a bunking party at Ruth Ann Brown's house. After pledge week a rough initiation was held in the college park and also on the Academy's football field. Formal initiation was held at the home of Deanna Mills.

The S.T.A.R.'s had a second bunking party at Mary Ruth Gibbons' home. Guitars, cactus, and a balcony scene helped to create the atmosphere for their Spanish banquet "Granada," held February 6. Herb Dean, speaker of the evening, told of his adventures in Mexico, and John White contributed songs and picture slides of Mexico.

The S.T.A.R.'s planned as a project to help a family of ten children who live outside of Searcy.

VIKINGS

Viking pledges endure rough week of inglorious activity

The ten Viking pledges of 1960 began the year with a clean start, dipping their heads in the lily pond, shining shoes, and opening doors for those entering and leaving the student center. On final initiation night pledges enjoyed such little pleasantries as raw eggs, "kickapoo joy juice", molasses in their hair, honey down their necks, and a good general belting with newspapers. A party in College Park finished the week's activities.

Coach Ted Loyd, Viking sponsor, attended the banquet, held February 13, stag, as his wife had a baby boy two days before. The theme for the banquet this year was "Be My Valentine". Entertainment, furnished by Butch McLarey, was enjoyed by Sweetheart Kay Hutchison and guest speaker Glen Pace along with all the Vikings. The Rendezvous rang with laughter as the Vikings and their dates listened to requested novelty records.

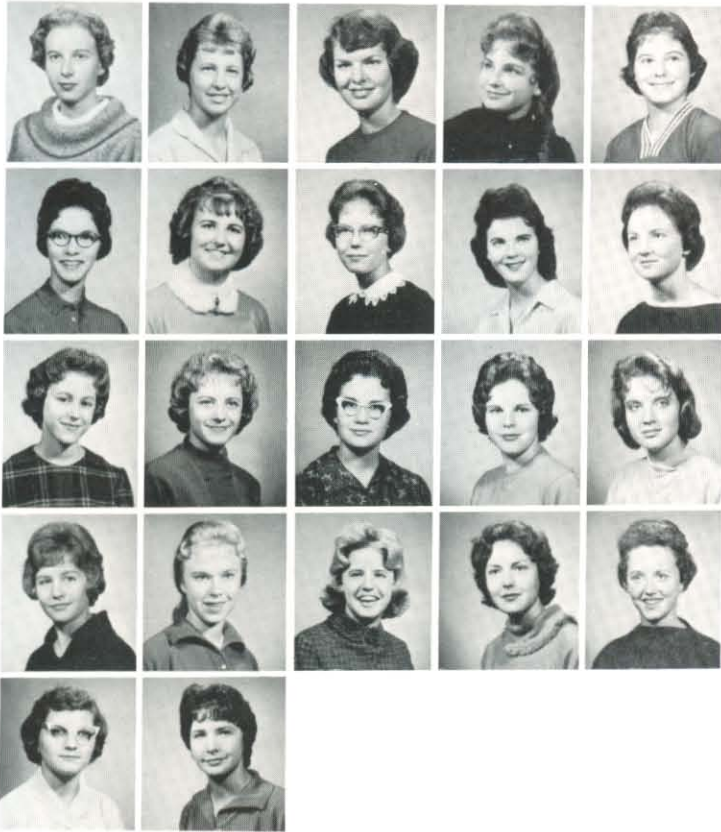

OFFICERS: French, Pres.; Hays, Vice-Pres.; Hillis, Sec.-Treas.

VIKING sweetheart Kay Hutchison talks with Edward Hays at the Viking banquet just before Valentine's Day as Irma Lounsberry, Jack Evans, and Francene Spaulding listen with obvious pleasure.

SUB-DEB

Old folks at county home receive Thanksgiving turkey

Nine returning Sub-Debs put their thirteen pledges through a strenuous week of "freezing," collecting pennies, and doing anything else they could invent. Candles lighted the ceremony at Betty Ely's home during which the pledges were formally initiated into the club.

The first project of the club was to take a Thanksgiving turkey to the ten residents of the Old Folks' Home. Shortly before Christmas holidays, the club gathered for a party at the home of their sponsor, Marcie Lloyd, and surprised her with a baby shower.

Several work parties were held preceding January 28, the date of the Sub-Deb banquet. The theme, "A Snowflake Frolic," was portrayed with snowmen, snowcovered cedar, and snowflakes. Baby pictures of all present, including the speaker, Dean Joseph Pryor, provided a full evening of fun. This year's Deb of Honor, Mary Ethel Bales, was presented a corsage.

OFFICERS. Fall: Bales, Pres.; McDougald, Vice-Pres.; Evans, Sec.; McKennon, Treas.; Sapp, Hist.; Ely, Deb-at-arms; Burks, Rep.; Spring: Bales, Pres.; Evans, Vice-Pres.; Burks, Sec.; McKennon, Treas.; Sapp, Hist.; McDougald, Deb-at-arms; Ely, Rep.

SUB-DEB beau Donnie Thompson enjoys talking with several club members during an evening gathering in the Student Center. Donnie also serves as President of the Sub-Deb's brother club, Z K T.

ENJOYING association with ZKT president Donnie Thompson and other members is sweetheart Leminda McDougald. She is a member of the Sub-Deb social club and is captain of the cheerleaders.

ZKT

ZKTs hold outdoor supper to climax week of pledging

The ZKT pledges enjoyed a week of pledging which was climaxed by an outdoor supper in the college park and several games at the home of G. E. Baggett, the club sponsor.

This year the ZKT's ordered club jackets of blue wool-felt, trimmed with white and gold leather. A beautiful blue and gold diamond, the club emblem, adorns the back of each jacket.

This year the ZKT's elected Leminda McDougald as their club sweetheart.

The ZKT's and their dates enjoyed a beautiful banquet in the Blue Room of the Robertson Rendezvous, March 27.

SENIOR Jack Evans demonstrates his skill in football. Jack placed on the All-State team and was an honorable mention All-American.

FOOTBALL

Wildcats have best season in academy's history

The Wildcats' football season of 1960 was the best in the history of Harding Academy. While running up an impressive 9-1 record, the Cats outscored their opponents by an average of 22½ points per game. Des Arc was the only team to win over the Cats; this was the closest game of the season with only one point's difference in the final score of 7-6.

Harding took both of its conference games by a good margin and won another district championship. The All-District Team had six Wildcats on it. They are Lanny Casey, Johnny Jones, Dee Vanwinkle, Dicky Dean, John Underwood, and Jack Evans.

Casey, the leading ball carrier, and Evans, the leading lineman, bowed out of high school football with a brilliant finish. Lanny was fourth in the state in points scored and first in the state in points scored per game. Jack received a berth on the All-State Team and honorable mention for All-American.

The first-string seniors graduating this year are Lanny Casey, Johnny Jones, Larry French, Jack Evans, Donnie Thompson, and John Underwood.

HARD-HITTING Wildcats discouraged many opponents. Here Dean and Casey team up to bring down an unidentified Bald Knob backfield man.

BLOCKING was stressed throughout the season as one of the most important phases of football. This almost perfect formation came as the result of many long and strenuous afternoon practices.

REBOUNDING over Crowley Ridge Academy's players is Jack Evans. Jumping power was used to bring down the ball into the Wildcat's hands.

The Wildcats reached new heights this year with a 24-5 record. Under the leadership of Coach Ted Lloyd they defeated every team on their schedule at least once during the season.

The team this year was probably the best in the history of Harding Academy. They had height, hustle, and a team effort that continued until the final buzzer sounded. These factors led to a very successful season.

The Cats won their first county championship on February 11 at Kensett by downing Kensett, Judsonia, and McRae. Casey and Evans were named to the All-County Team. Harding then reached the finals in the district tournament by winning over Augusta, Cushman, and Newark, but the Mountain View Yellowjackets defeated the Cats in the last few minutes of the game by a score of 39-36. Casey and Evans were named to the All-District Team.

BREAKING down court ahead of everyone else is Dee Vanwinkle on a fast break. These two points helped the Academy Wildcats defeat Swifton.

WAITING for a possible rebound, players surround Evans as he tips it in against Crowley's Ridge. The Cats won with a score of 78-22.

JUMPING JACK Evans lacked neither height nor hustle as he went up for rebounds. As he towers over other players, Vanwinkle waits for a tip.

Under the supervision of Coaches Ted Lloyd and Ed Higginbotham, the Harding Academy Wildcats face the coming track season with determination and the will to win.

The Wildcats' high hopes rest on last year's returning lettermen. They are Lanny Casey, who will broad jump and run in the dashes; Dickie Dean, who will high jump and throw the discus; Johnny Jones, who will run in the dashes and throw the discus; and Dee Vanwinkle, who will run the hurdles, pole vault, and high jump.

During the 1960 season, the Wildcats won both the county and district track meets. Dee Vanwinkle placed fourth in the state track meet where he went over the bar at 10'4." Lanny Casey was high point man for the season. He broke the school broad jump record with a jump of 20'4."

PLACING in state competition, hurdling star Dee Vanwinkle goes over in excellent form.

Junior basketball

Under the supervision of Coach Ed Higginbotham the Wildcats improved their basketball record over last year's record. They came out with a 7-8 record for the year.

The returning lettermen were Captain Dickie Berryhill at center; Dale Ely, Larry Lawson, and James Street at forward; and Dennis Martin, Ken Mills, and Captain Harry Risinger at guard.

Dickie Berryhill, who has one more year of junior basketball, was nominated to the all-county junior basketball team. At the end of the season, he was the top scorer on the team. He had 136 points for the entire season.

HUSTLING was the key to the Wildcats' winning success. In this scrimmage game, James Street is guarded by All-Countian Dickie Berryhill.

The businessmen represented in the student publications of Harding College have watched and in a very real sense helped to foster the growth of the College. Their interest is manifested in the advertising space they purchase in the student publications. The Bison could not go to press each week were it not for this advertising and the Petit Jean would be severely limited without it.

In the past, students of Harding have included these merchants in their perspective of college life, realizing that just as it is good business to advertise for the student trade, it is good business for the students to trade with the advertisers.

We express our appreciation to . . .

. . . Dr. Joe Pryor for his advice and calmness . . . Virginia Leatherwood, Sue Tullis, Royce Bankhead and Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wilcox for helping write last minute captions, copy and headlines . . . John White, Tom Loney, Russell Simmons and the Publications staff for additional pictures . . . Roger and Ben Red of the Ben Red Studio for printing pictures and for the class and building pictures . . . the William Walker Studio for the use of its color picture . . . Herman West and the Harding Press staff for their patience . . . John A. Clark of Semco Color Press for advice and motivation . . . members of the staff for their constant individual work . . . and the many students who performed seemingly unimportant, but essential, tasks at crucial moments.

While most of the work has been done by the staff, many situations have arisen in which the success of completing this publication depended on individuals in other positions. Both for their help and for that of the staff we are indebted and grateful.
