

Harding University Scholar Works at Harding

Harding Magazines

Archives and Special Collections

Summer 7-1-2000

Harding Magazine Summer 2000 (vol. 8, no. 3)

Harding University

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.harding.edu/humagazines

Recommended Citation

Harding University. (2000). Harding Magazine Summer 2000 (vol. 8, no. 3). Retrieved from https://scholarworks.harding.edu/humagazines/64

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Archives and Special Collections at Scholar Works at Harding. It has been accepted for inclusion in Harding Magazines by an authorized administrator of Scholar Works at Harding. For more information, please contact scholarworks@harding.edu.

HARDING

1 i k e father
1 i k e Son

One of the great serendipities of the Harding experience is the development of relationships which will last literally through eternity.

FROM THE PRESIDENT

Christian education is the best investment for our children

N AUGUST 17 WE WILL BE PRIVILEGED to welcome 1,100 freshmen who will begin their college career at Harding as part of our 13th consecutive record enrollment. This will be an exciting time for these young people and, more importantly, a life-changing experience for them as they begin a very important journey in higher education. Our pledge to these young people and their parents is to provide a distinctively Christian environment where students can grow academically, socially, physically and, most of all,

My prayer for students coming to Harding is that they will realize that loving God with all of their hearts, souls and minds is the most important priority in life (Deuteronomy 6:5). My dream is that students will realize they are ministers of the new covenant and the aroma of Christ and that the main priority in life is to help fulfill the great commission recorded in Matthew 28.

During this experience, each student will be challenged to excel academically. Christian scholarship, acknowledging dependence upon God and a commitment to intellectual excellence, is very much at the heart of this journey. Harding's strong liberal arts foundation and effective professional preparation have earned a national reputation. Students will find entrance into nationallyacclaimed graduate programs or obtain excellent jobs upon graduation.

A marvelous opportunity awaiting each of these students is the chance to learn more about Christian ethics and become great servants in the Lord's kingdom. The real battle going on in our world today is between the world's value system and the Christian world view. Our students are asked to deal with the real issues in life in an interconnected education that is truly unique in higher education, and they are able to learn in an atmosphere that asks them to seek truth and emphasizes integrity and purity of thought and action. One of the great serendipities of the Harding experience is the development of relationships which will last literally through eternity.

Unfortunately, some Christian young people who are leaving home for their college career have chosen to attend a secular university. Parents of these young people often tell me that they want their son or daughter to attend Harding, but they left the decision entirely up to the child. I am always concerned when I hear this statement, because the statistics with respect to Christian young people who attend secular universities and remain faithful to the Lord's church are not promising. I always recommend that parents encourage - even require, if necessary — their children to attend a Christian college for the first year. If, after that year, they are not happy with their choice, I believe it is then time to reconsider. The good news is that the majority of students who attend Harding under this arrangement end up graduat-

Little boys only dream of being able to fill Dad's shoes. Beginning on page 8, we look at five alumni who found the shoes fit. (Photo by Jeff Montgomery) ing. Their freshman year becomes the best year of their lives, and they won't even consider the thought of leaving their friends, roommates, social clubs and churches to go anywhere else.

I was recently speaking in Decatur, Ala., at a church, and a young son of one of our alumni spoke up in a luncheon meeting and said, "I am going to Harding. I don't have a choice." It was obvious from his smile and statement that he knew a great deal about Harding and wanted to attend, but it was also obvious that his parents had made it very clear to him and to his two sisters that they expected their children to go to Harding. I am delighted that Harding alumni, on a very regular basis, choose to send their children to Harding because their own experiences were very meaningful to them.

I recently received a letter from a couple who said that they gave their first two children a choice as to where to attend college, but they have since changed their minds. A portion of their letter reads as follows: "We allowed our first two sons to choose the college of their choice and both sons appear to be doing well in college. However, after the experiences number one and number two sons have had at their respective universities, my wife and I decided that our number three and number four children will not enjoy the opportunity to select their own college. They will be attending Harding University."

Parents often find it helpful to bring their children to campus on a regular basis while they are young so that the children grow familiar with Harding. It is important to talk up Harding to young people. Sending them to Uplift or Camp Tahkodah during the summer, or bringing them back to Homecoming, can help them realize the advantages associated with a Christian education at Harding University.

My prayer is that more and more young people will choose to attend a Christian college, and Harding University in particular. While not a perfect environment, it is a purposefully designed experience that teaches the Christian world view to young people in every aspect of life. Our purpose is to integrate faith, learning and living. I believe it is the very best investment in all of the

Daniel B. Bunks

EDITOR/DESIGNER Tom Buterbaugh, '78

COPY EDITOR/WRITER Judie Kinonen, '96

> WRITER April Mouser, '99

PHOTOGRAPHER Jeff Montgomery, '91

CONTRIBUTORS Alumni Relations Program Coordinator Dana Evans, '72

Director of Alumni Relations Liz Howell, '78 Director of Planned Gifts Rowan McLeod, '70 Director of Public Relations David Crouch, '70

David B. Burks, '65 Sports Information Director Scott Goode, '97

President

Other Contributors this Issue Casey Neese

HARDING is published quarterly - in January, April, July and October by the Public Relations Office of Harding University for alumni, parents and friends of the University. Editorial offices are located on the second floor of the John Mabee American Heritage Center at 900 E. Center St., Searcy, Ark.

Postmaster: Send address changes to Harding University, Box 12234, Searcy, AR 72149-0001.

> Internet correspondence: harding-mag@harding.edu

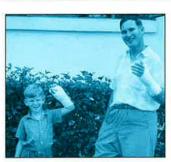

Web site: www.harding.edu

Harding University does not discriminate on the basis of race, color, creed, religion, sex, marital status, age, disability, national or ethnic origin or receipt of public assistance in its educational programs, activities or employment to the extent required by law, except where necessitated by religious tenets held by the institution and its controlling body.

© 2000 Harding University

SUMMER 2000

Number 3

Like father, like son · 8

OUR COVER FEATURE checks out five sons who are literally filling their fathers' shoes in their chosen vocations.

Tom and Tim Baird · Professors · 8 Bill and Charles Dismuke · Businessmen · 10 Henry and Hank Farrar · Physicians · 11 Gordon and Dave Hogan · Missionaries · 12 Ted and Rees Lloyd · Coaches · 14

Preparing the best teachers · 25

IN OUR CONTINUING SERIES on the University's Distinguished Teachers we visit Dr. Betty Watson, whose love for children and their literature inspires her students.

COLUMNS AND DEPARTMENTS

Around Campus · 2

From the Past · 7

Athletics · 16

Alma Matters · 19

Connections · 18

Focus on the Future · 23

Events · 24

Newsmakers

Lockwood receives scholarship for paper on Schindler's List

Jamie Lockwood, a junior English major from San Antonio, Texas, won a $1,000 scholarship at the Joint Regional Alpha Chi Honor Society Convention March 2-5 in San Antonio for her paper titled "The Power of Imagery in Schindler's List." Her paper compared the epic conventions of Paradise Lost and Schindler's List.

Clayton's research published in journal

Research by Da'Lynn Kay Clayton, assistant professor of nursing, was published in the December 1999 issue of Research in Nursing & Health. She helped author "Answers to Unasked Questions: Writing in the Margins."

Yecke selected for Pew Younger Scholars Program

Tiffany Yecke, a senior majoring in English and theater, was chosen a participant in the Pew Younger Scholars Program, dedicated to a Christian approach to scholarship. One of only 42 seniors selected for the May 30-June 20 seminar at the University of Notre Dame, she attended the film studies program.

Johnson gives paper on economic development

Dr. David Johnson, asso ciate professor of finance, presented a paper at the annual meeting of the Association of Private Enterprise Education in Las Vegas April 2. The paper "Micro Initiatives in Economic Development," examined the structure and development of lending institutions designed to meet the credit needs of the poor.

McInteer addresses graduates, receives 50-year pin

BEFORE A STANDING-ROOM-ONLY CROWD, 458 seniors received diplomas at commencement exercises May 13 in the Ganus Athletic Center.

Board member Jim Bill McInteer of Nashville, Tenn., spoke to the graduating class and audience. McInteer preached for the West End Church of Christ in Nashville for 30 years before his retirement. He now serves as president and publisher of 21st Century Christian.

Of the 458 degrees, 105 were from the College of Arts and Humanities, 23 were from the College of Bible and Religion, 121 were from the College of Sciences, 100 were from the School of Business, 77 were from the School of Education, and 32 were from the School of Nursing.

Jim Bill McInteer, center, is congratulated by Chairman Paul Carter and President David Burks.

Eight graduates received recognition for maintaining a perfect 4.0 grade-point average. They were Jennifer Burton of Cookeville, Tenn.; Matthew Dabbs of Tuscumbia, Ala.; David Duke of Searcy; Jason Middlekauff of Greencastle, Pa.; Christie Perry of Hendersonville, Tenn.; Erika Pierson of Uhland, Texas; Sarah Randolph of Troy, Ill.; and Jodie Walters Sekeres of Dothan, Ala. A total of 254 students graduated with honors.

During commencement, McInteer received his pin for an unprecedented 50 years of service on the Board of Trustees. He graduated in 1942 with a B.A. in social science, and was elected in 1950 to the board, for which he has been secretary since 1980. In 1964 McInteer was named the school's Distinguished Alumnus, and he received an honorary doctorate from the University in 1991. In 1994 the University named the new center for Bible and world missions in McInteer's honor, acknowledging his life of faith, integrity and service. At 79 he is still very active, spending 32 weeks out of the year preaching in evangelistic meetings around the country.

Residence halls named for Cone, Shores

ACTION BY THE BOARD of trustees at its May meeting has indelibly etched two familiar names into Harding's history.

Two soon-to-be-completed apartment-style residence halls are being named in honor of James and Bonnie Cone of Little Rock. Ark., and Don and Lois Shores of Cave Springs, Ark. Both facilities will be open for the beginning of the fall semester.

Both James Cone and Don Shores are long-time members of Harding's board. Cone, a building contractor, has been a member of the governing body for 28 years. He served as chairman for 10 years.

Shores, a retired businessman, has been a board member for 24 years. He currently serves as the group's vice chairman.

Cone Residence Hall is being built on the east side of campus near Alumni Field at the corner of Park and Cross streets. When completed, the facility will house 196 male students.

Shores Residence Hall, at the corner of Park and Remington streets, will house 198 female students and is a major part of the renovation and redesign of the south side of campus.

Both complexes have been designated privileged housing for upperclass students. Prospective residents applied for the privilege to live in the new housing, and only the top 394 were selected.

Dedication ceremonies for both residence halls will be held after the beginning of the fall semester.

Louisiana executive added to board

NEW ORLEANS telecommunications executive Harrell Freeman was elected to the board of trustees at the governing body's May 12 meeting.

Freeman is the vice president of Radiofone Inc., an independently owned wireless telecommunications company serving metropolitan New Orleans and southeast Louisiana. He is also the founder and president of Freeman Engineering Associates, a cellular telephone engineering company.

As a national telecommunications spokesperson, he has testified before the U.S. Senate and served on the Federal Communications Commission's Interconnection Task Force. In 1988, his company installed the first mobile telephone and paging switch in the People's Republic of China.

Freeman was appointed by the U.S. Secretary of Commerce to the District Expo Council, and he serves as a member of the board of the World Trade Center.

In Louisiana, Freeman serves on the board of the Metropolitan Crime Commission, the Louisiana State University Kresge Hearing and Research Center, and the Christian Student Center at the University of Mississippi. He and his wife, Carlton, have established The Learning Center, a special education program for hearing impaired and learning disabled children in Metairie, La.

The couple has two children, Liza, a Harding sophomore, and Will, age 15.

FOUR FACULTY MEMBERS received the Distinguished Teacher Awards

Allen Black, professor of New

Terry Edwards, department chair of foreign languages and associate pro-

Testament at the Graduate School of Religion in Memphis, Tenn.;

fessor of Italian and humanities;

professor of Bible and associate dean of the College of Bible and work in the classroom.

Religion, received certificates and $2,000 checks for their outstanding

Black is a 1974 alumnus who joined the faculty in 1983. He obtained his master's from the Graduate School of Religion in 1980 and his doctorate from Emory University in 1985. Black has served on mission trips to Japan and Kenya, and he currently serves as minister of education at the Highland Street

Edwards is a 1980 alumnus who 1984. He obtained his master's and Church of Christ in Memphis.

has been a faculty member since

Kathy Howard, associate professor of psychology; and Duane Warden, at the University's annual faculty and staff dinner April 14.

Faculty members rewarded for exceptional teaching doctorate from Florida State University. In addition to his teaching women's soccer team and serves as Christ in Searcy. From 1984-1996

he served as a vocational missionary to Italy while teaching and working as the director of academic affairs for the University's campus in Flo-

Howard has been a member of the faculty since 1987. She ob-kansas and her doctorate from tained her bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Ar-

Memphis State University. Before in the Searcy and White County joined the faculty in 1993. He received his master's from the Graduate School of Religion in 1978, and he earned a doctorate from Duke University in 1986. Before coming to the University, Warden worked chair at Ohio Valley College in Parkersburg, W.Va.

as a Bible professor and department

Central public school systems.

joining the faculty, Howard taught

Warden is a 1965 graduate who an elder at Westside Church of duties. Edwards coaches the Alumni from 60 years ago will give birth to the Platinum Circle during the Golden Circle banquet at Homecoming 2000, Oct. 19-21.

Members of the class of 1940 and before will instate the Platinum Circle Thursday evening, according to alumni relations director Liz Howell. The class of 1950 will join the Golden Circle this year.

"We expect a very good turnout at the banquet," says Howell. "There are about 60 people on our list of contacts for the class of 1940, and several of them are locacated in Searcy."

Howell says those in the class of 1940 will receive a letter from their class president, Lamar Baker of Nashville, Tenn., inviting them to this unprecedented reunion.

Other Homecoming class reunions include the following: 1955, 1960, 1965, 1970, 1975, 1980, 1985, 1990 and 1995. "This will be a Homecoming worth coming home for," says Howell.

Alumni can meet up with friends at the Black and Gold Banquet Friday evening and cheer on the Bisons against the University of North Alabama Saturday afternoon.

Both Friday and Saturday nights the inspiring musical "Man of La Mancha" helps set the weekend's theme, "Reach for the Stars."

Marcus Neely, a graduate student from Memphis, Tenn., and a veteran of the University stage, stars as the playwright Cervantes and as Don Quixote. Sophomore music major Abby Smith of New York City portrays Quixote's embittered lady-in-waiting, Aldonza.

Written by Dale Wasserman, Mitch Leigh and Joe Darion, "Man of La Mancha" is a play within a play. Cervantes himself portrays the lovable knight-errant who dared to "dream the impossible dream."

Tickets may be purchased with the reply card in this magazine. Alumni should watch their mail for a complete Homecoming schedule. For more information, contact Alumni Relations, Harding University, Box 10768, Searcy, AR 72149-0001; or call (501) 279-4276.

Class of 1940 to inaugurate Platinum Circle at Homecoming

The business team composed of Brian Alldredge, senior management major from Birmingham, Ala.: John Cox, junior management major from Flint, Mich.; and Christy Graham, senior marketing major from Germantown, Tenn., took third place in the undergraduate division of the National Case Competition in Florida in April.

Business team takes third in national competition

Newsmakers 🚻

Long contributes to literary dictionary

Dr. Larry Long, distinquished professor of English and dean of the Honors College and the College of Arts and Humanities, had an article published in The American Renaissance in New England, a volume of the Dictionary of Literary Biography, in May. Long's article reviews and re-evaluates the lives and works of major American authors such as Emerson, Thoreau, Alcott and Hawthorne and those people and places that contributed to the American Transcendental Movement in literature.

Political science professors involved in social science conference

Dr. Mark Elrod, associate professor of political science; and Drs. Andy Olree and David Thomason, assistant professors of political science, attended the 80th annual meeting of the Southwest Social Science Conference in Galveston, Texas, March 15-18. Thomason chaired the panel on "Legal Moralism: Toward a Unified Theory of Public/Private," and presented a paper titled "Justifying State Intrusion in Private Lives." Olree presented a paper titled "A Response to Robert George's Legal Moralism," and Elrod served as a discussant.

Lectureship seeks to apply marks of primitive church today

IN AN EFFORT to get back to the Bible and the New Testament church, the Institute for Church and Family has announced the 77th annual fall lectureship Sept. 24-27."The Primitive Church for Present Times."

The series begins Sept. 24 and features keynote speakers Evertt W. Huffard, G.P. Holt, Jim Howard, Tom Alexander, Jimmy Allen, Tom Foster and Nick Hamilton. The lectures will deal with the importance and the marks of the early church; fellowship, leadership and values within the church; and the mission and hope of the church.

More than 90 classes will be held over the four days on topics such as religious education, counseling, church growth and biblical preaching. As in the past few years, special classes will be offered for women and the Latin American community.

For additional Lectureship information, contact the Institute for Church and Family, Harding University, Box 10750, Searcy, AR 72149-0001; call (501) 279-4660; or e-mail icfr@harding.edu.

Lawson recognized for feature writing

Chad Lawson, a junior English major, was one of 15 South Arkansans recently named Torchbearer for the New Millennium, a recognition given by the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff to outstanding citizens aged 18-35. Lawson was nominated for the award based on a feature article he wrote last summer while working for the Pine Bluff Commercial, where he continues to work as a free-lance

Wilson, students conducting atmospheric research

Dr. Edmond Wilson, professor of chemistry, has received a two-year, $30,000 grant from the American Chemical Society Petroleum Research Fund. This summer Wilson and undergraduate researchers Billie Evans III. a senior chemistry major from Harleysville, Pa.; and Nathan Scott, a senior biochemistry major from Nashville, Tenn., are measuring how long pollutant gases arising from urban, industrial and natural sources stay in the atmos-

On-line education broadens the horizon

PROFESSIONALS IN SEVERAL disciplines can now earn Harding graduate credit from anywhere in the world, thanks to on-line technology.

"A lot of people can't pick up and move their families to Searcy in order to get their master's degree. If we go to them, we think there will be a demand," says Dr. Bob Reely, dean of Lifelong Learning.

Many faculty and staff agree. This spring 29 took the six-week course that certifies them to teach classes on-line. This summer an additional 36 faculty members have enrolled and are currently certifying on-line.

Dr. Steve Williams, master's in business administration (MBA) program director, facilitates the online training. Students spent up to four hours, five days each week on the computer reading lectures, answering discussion questions and responding to one another in chat rooms.

The MBA program and the Graduate School of Religion have been using this technology with great success, according to Reely.

"There's a missionary right now who's finishing his master's from the Graduate School while he's living in the middle of Hungary," Reely says.

Reely sees potential for offering on-line the master of science in nursing (MSN) and graduate degrees in education as more faculty receive training.

Several on-line courses will be offered this fall. Contact Reely at (501) 279-4497, or e-mail him at breely@harding.edu for more infor-

National award-winning tutor talks straight, inspires students because I knew I was going to need it," she says."I don't

Diagnosed late in high school with attention deficit disorder and mild dyslexia.

Jaime says the classroom is shrouded in fear. Even now, as a sophomore, she still has to take some exams in a private room, away from the distractions that trigger se-real credibility with the students she tutors — many of

"They feel lost in the classes they're in, they don't think they're good enough.

whom are just like her.

Her battle scars give her vere test anxiety.

learn in the classroom."

IME BOONE DOESN'T ACT the part of a superior academic tutor. She doesn't make straight A's, and never has. Her mind wanders in class; she gets confused. In fact, Jaime herself has a tutor.

"School is really not my thing," she insists, shaking her head with sincerity.

But in April, an unsuspecting Jaime Boone was named the National Tutoring Association's (NTA) Tutor of the Year.

The nomination itself caught her off guard. After all, she had been seeking her own academic help when she stumbled from "tutee" to tutor as a freshman.

documented disabilities.

It was her disabilities counselor. Teresa McLeod. who recognized Jaime's inspiring determination as a trait worthy of recognition by NTA.

Jaime tutored in SSS up to 20 hours a week this spring while carrying 15 hours of classes toward an accounting major ... and while seeing an accounting tutor of her own.

The secret to Jaime's success? — Time management."I handle it because I'm more organized than I used to be," she says, noting that a day planner she bought that first semester changed her life. "Students come in all stressed out, they see my planner and they say, 'I want that."

"I tell them good time management will get you further than knowing all the facts in the world," she says in her characteristically matter-of-fact way."If you're responsible, you're not going to get behind in school."

And Jaime's students are living proof. One of her "regulars," a sophomore healthcare management major, asserts, "She's saved me this semester. I had dropped accounting last semester, but I think I'm doing okav now."

This particular day, he's wearing a loaded backpack and a tense expression as he greets Jaime before a session. "What chapters are going to be on the test?" she asks him, sensing the source of his stress.

"Good question," he says after a pause. He leaves the tutoring carrel 20 minutes later with a fresh demeanor and a much better attitude about bank reconciliation. "That messed me up in that class, too," Jaime assures him.

In addition to tutoring, Jaime is an SSS "coach," a mentor for a group of "players," struggling students who sometimes call her at odd hours of the morning looking for a sympathetic ear. It's her favorite of the SSS programs.

"You develop more of a personal relationship with them," she says.

Jaime readily admits she can't help every student. In fact, the honor of Tutor of the Year has rather cramped her style. Now her teachers expect better grades from her, and her students expect miracles.

Jaime Boone says she expects what she always has — only her best. H Judie Kinonen Jaime Boone tutors health care management major Danny Eng.

Pryor named one of top five contributors to Alpha Chi

JOSEPH E. PRYOR, former vice presitors to the success of Alpha Chi, the national honor Dr. Joseph E. Prvor scholarship society for college juniors and seniors.

The selection was made as part of the 75th anniversary celebration of the Association of College Honor Societies (ACHS), which asked each of the 65 member honor societies to name its most significant contributors. The award was announced at the meeting of ACHS in Orlando, Fla., Feb. 17.

During the 35 years that Pryor was active in Alpha Chi, he served as the founding sponsor of the Arkansas Eta chapter at Harding, as regional and national secretarytreasurer, and as the first executive director for the society. His service covered half the life of the organization. During most of that time he also served on the national executive committee. Pryor personally oversaw the births of nearly onefourth of all Alpha Chi chapters by attending more than 80 inaugurations of new chapters.

While contributing to Alpha Chi, Pryor also served the University as the faculty representative to the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference in athletics, adviser for the Petit Jean yearbook, and professor of physical science.

Adcox receives Graduate School's alumni honor

IIMMY ADCOX (M.Div.'84) was named the Graduate School of Religion's Alumnus of the Year at the annual Ministry Forum luncheon April 13.

For the past 23 years, Adoox has ministered to the Southwest Church of Christ in Jonesboro, Ark., a congregation of about 1,300.

Says his uncle and fellow minister, Russ Adcox, "Jimmy doesn't seek to stir emotions through his sermons; rather, he simply presents

God's Word and gives people the practical advice they need for day-to-day liv-

Of Jimmy as a person, Adcox

says, "He is known as a man who treats others with an attitude that is loving and honest, and he has a heart that is merciful and just."

Dr. Evertt Huffard, dean and executive director of the school, presented the award to Adcox, who was nominated by the alumni association. He said that although the first few decades this honor was bestowed the majority of recipients were preachers, it had been a long time since one had received the award. "I was pleased to see it go to a preacher," Huffard says. "He has kept a good balance of attention given to his family and effective ministry.

"The church has grown significantly in every way while he has been there. Through the community crisis of the shootings at the local school, he has served the community very well. He really represents what we want all our graduates to do – faithfully serve their families, churches and communities."

Faculty members write, edit festschrift

Burton and Wiser

Honors conference

Jennifer Burton, a senior history major; Clay

Johnson, a senior mathe-

Parks, a sophomore Bible

major; Sarah Prewitt, a senior human resource

senior music education major: and J.A. Wiser, a senior political science

Plains Regional Honors

Conference in Oklahoma in April. Burton received a second place award for her paper and earned a $100 travel grant for the Honors College, Wiser

also presented a paper.

major, attended the Great major; Emily Smith, a matics major; Michael present papers during

Dr. Dale W. Manor, associate professor of Bible and archaeology, has edited a festschrift honor ing professor Clyde M. Woods of Freed-Hardeman University, Manor has an article in the book A Heart to Study and Teach the Law of the Lord, titled "High Places in the Gates: Archaeological and Anthropological Perspectives." Other faculty members who wrote for the festschrift include Dr. John Mark Hicks, "Preaching the Imprecatory Psalms"; Dr. Jack P. Lewis, "Desire of the Nations (Haggai 2:7): A Messianic Title?"; Dr. Allen Black, "The Meaning of the Model Prayer"; and Dr. Tom Alexander, "The Role of the Holy Spirit in Conversion."

Mezzapelle wins top prize at radio and TV convention

Steven Mezzapelle, a senior electronic media major from Derry, N.H., took the top prize for his comedy audio program titled "Pre-Showtime" at the International Radio and Television Society (IRTS) national convention in Washington, D.C., March 15-19.

Staff members honored for distinguished service

Mike Williams, Sue McGaha, Wayne Milner and Danny DeRamus walked away with the Distinguished

FOUR MEMBERS of the University's staff were presented with the 2000 Distinguished Service Awards during the annual faculty and staff dinner April 14.

Service Awards for 2000.

Danny DeRamus, director of mechanical services; Sue McGaha, financial aid assistant; Wayne Milner (BBA'87), assistant registrar; and Mike Williams (BBA'85), assistant vice president of admissions and student financial services, were honored with certificates and $2,000 checks for their service to the University.

DeRamus has worked on staff for 16 years in mechanical services. He and his crew of 12 take care of the air conditioning, heating and hot water, as well as the electricity, plumbing, heating and air conditioning in new construction projects

McGaha has been employed at the University for 27 years, five of which she spent in the business office and 13 of which she spent at Harding Academy before accepting her current position in financial services.

Milner has been on staff for 12 years. As assistant registrar, he is in charge of entering grades and adding them to students' transcripts, as well as approving students who plan to graduate each semester.

Williams, whose position in financial aid and admissions allows him to work very closely with students, has been on staff for 13 vears.

4 Summer 2000 · HARDING

FCCLA honorary memberships go to Daniel, Wilson

Two members of the Family and Consumer Sciences Department, Dr. Ellen Daniel, professor, and Dr. Beth Wilson, department chair and professor, were awarded honorary memberships in the Arkansas Association of Family, Career and Community Leaders of America (FCCLA) March 24 in Little Rock, Ark.

Sawyer presents award-winning scientific research

Amber Sawyer, a senior chemistry and math major from Longmont, Colo., won first place for her research presentation at the University of Memphis Undergraduate Research Conference March 4. Sawver measured how fast pollutant molecules are removed from the atmosphere. This same presentation also won first place in the chemistry division at the 84th annual meeting of the Arkansas Academy of Science April 7-8 in Hot Springs, Ark. Sawyer also presented her research at the 219th meeting of the American Chemical Society in San Francisco March 26-31.

Education professors Lee, Morgan give workshop

Dr. Donny Lee, associate professor of education, and Dr. Jan Morgan, associate professor of special education and director of middle level teacher education, gave a workshop in Little Rock, Ark., for 50 teachers and administrators Feb. 29. Invited by the Arkansas Special Education Resource Center, the two presented on the topic "Exploring Multiple Intelligences in the Co-Taught Classroom."

University captures five CASE awards

PUBLIC RELATIONS OFFICE entries won five awards from the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education at the CASE District IV conference held in Baton Rouge, La., March 31-April 4.

Staff photographer Jeff Montgomery won a gold and silver award in the black-and-white candid category. His entry "Classes Change," which captured the activity around the student center following chapel, won the gold, and "Misty Morning," a depiction of the Administration Building in an early morning fog, received the silver.

The cover design of the July 1999 issue of this magazine won the silver award in that category. The cover illustrated the magazine's main feature story on the work of a Little Rock, Ark., cardiologist.

In the print advertising category, the University won the bronze award for its "Individualized" ad used to recruit prospective students. The ad, appearing in various publications throughout the nation, was designed by the Stone and Ward agency of Little Rock.

In the two- or three-color brochure category, "Art and Design" received the pewter award. Senior Jonathan Wheeler designed the piece which is being used to promote the Department of Art and Design to prospective students.

The University's entries were among more than 1,100 judged in 52 categories. Harding was among the 14 schools who won five or more awards in the contest, including Baylor, Southern Methodist University, the University of Houston, Texas Christian University and Oklahoma State University.

CASE District IV includes colleges and universities in Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and New Mexico.

Seniors College takes on new name

SENIORS COLLEGE has become Discovery University, according to Alumni Relations director Liz

Howell says the new title better reflects the program's students people with a lifelong hunger for discovery. "This program is an integral part of Harding's focus on learning for a lifetime," she says.

Discovery University classes will be held Oct. 22-27, with Drs. John Fortner, Cindy Carrell and Kevin Klein as instructors.

Fortner will uncover mysteries of the Ancient Near East in his course, "Bible, Babel, Baloney"; Carrell will guide students on a tour of musical history in "Time Travel with a Trumpet"; and Klein will take on Election 2000 politics in "The Triumph of the American

For more information about Discovery University, contact the Alumni Relations Office at (501) 279-4276.

Master's program in counseling begins this fall

THE COLLEGE OF BIBLE and Religion is offering a new graduate program, the Master of Arts in Christian Counseling, beginning

The 36-credit-hour degree program is designed for individuals who wish to prepare themselves for a counseling ministry in a local congregation. The program consists of 21 hours of marriage and family therapy courses and 15 hours of Bible, theology and ministry courses. Included in the ministry courses are six hours of practical application that are to be earned in a congregational ministry setting.

Prerequisites for the program include a baccalaureate degree from an accredited college or university with a cumulative GPA of 2.75, 20 hours of undergraduate Bible courses including eight hours of textual studies, a course in biblical interpretation and a course in biblical theology, and six hours of behavioral science.

For more information contact Dr. Tom Alexander, dean of the College of Bible and Religion, Box 12280, Harding University, Searcy, AR 72149, or call (501) 279-4449. Send e-mail inquiries to talexander@harding.edu.

Advising Center to offer academic guidance

FRESHMAN STUDENTS who have not declared a major are finding direction through the new Academic Advising Center that opened at Summer Experience in June, according to director Harold Alexander and Academic Vice President Dr. Neale Pryor.

Alexander, a counselor in Student Support Services, will coordinate a team effort, using the Career Center, faculty and academic departments to "encourage and track" students who may be uncertain about their academic plans.

The Center is headquartered in offices in the Administration Building, but students receiving services will find help all over campus.

Such students will first be assigned to a trained faculty adviser for help in scheduling their classes. The Center will then closely track each student's progress and put those who struggle in contact with campus resources, such as tutoring or supplemental instruction.

Eventually, through career counseling workshops and individual advising, the Center hopes to identify the students' strengths and guide them to suitable careers.

"We're anxious to see how well it works," Alexander says of the plan, which was devised in committee with a goal to be of more assistance to students and to increase student retention. The current retention rate is good at about 75 percent of students, Pryor says, but he hopes the Center will boost it to around 80 percent.

His optimism is well-founded, as such centers are the rule rather than the exception on large campuses. "Most experts say this is the way to go," Pryor says, noting the one-on-one attention may keep students from dropping out because they fell into the wrong major.

"It's more important than just getting our numbers up," he adds. "It's giving people a whole new direction in their lives."

For more information about the new Advising Center, contact Harold Alexander at (501) 279-4522, or through e-mail at halexander@harding.edu.

Maybe father knows best after all

E. PRYOR WASN'T TOO SURE about his son's career plans.

"But he said that if going to medical school was what Joe really wanted to do, he'd 🗾 help him go," Bessie Mae Pryor says of her late father-in-law. That was encouragement enough for Joe (BA, BS'37). Fresh out of Harding at 19, he began applying to medical schools with hopes of becoming a surgeon. When the replies didn't come, Joe formed a back-up plan to teach college and pursue a medical career later. He applied to Louisiana State

And L.E. seemed to understand that Joe

"They were very proud of him," Bessie

Mae recalls with a smile. L.E.'s was a pride

His former students recall L.E.'s unfaltering courtesy. He called everyone — even his students — by a surname and 'Mister'

"EVEN WHEN HE WAS TALKING about says Bob Helsten (BS'46, MA'58).

Adolph Hitler, he'd refer to him as 'Mr.

Hitler,' and it was always 'Mr. Mussolini,"

"And back then, you know, Mr. Mus-

L.E. and his wife were well-known for this unassuming reserve, according to Evan

Ulrey (BA'46). And in fact, Ulrey says, Joe solini wasn't respected," Bessie Mae says.

that shown through despite his reputed had other aspirations.

form and restraint.

or 'Miss.'

University's graduate program in the sci-

"He waited until the last day - hisdeadline — before he signed on for a scholarship with LSU," says Bessie Mae.

The acceptance letter from Vanderbilt University's school of medicine arrived just a few days later. But Joe would never find time for medical school.

Bessie Mae asks him, "Did you ever regret it, Honey -?" As soon as the question is out of her mouth, Joe answers, "No."

Teaching became for him what it had always been for his father.

"Daddy Pryor was self-made," Bessie Mae says, explaining he was the only one in his family to become a teacher. Opportunity's doors simply did not swing open to Arkansas farmers at the turn of the century.

But "he believed in work," Joe says of his father. L.E. taught school, preached and raised a family while pressing on to earn his bachelor's in 1923, at the age of 36. That same year, Joe entered the primer school at Arkansas Christian College in Morrilton.

All of L.E.'s passion for learning was incarnate in his young scholar. Joe's teacher passed the precocious boy into third grade from kindergarten, after he learned his multiplication tables.

Then on the second day of fourth grade, the school master asked L.E. if he could promote Joe one more year. Joe writes in a memoir, "Permission was reluctantly given, but was deeply appreciated by me."

When L.E. finished his master's after almost 10 years of study, he moved the family to Searcy, where Harding College had just been born. He taught social sciences, while his son enrolled in classes at age 15.

Joe kept his parents busy. He sang in the chorus and edited student publications. He even played basketball, though his father wouldn't allow him to travel with the team until he was a bit older.

All his activity, plus hours of study each night, left little time for Joe to help out on his family's farm. So his father and mother alone worked their corn and cattle, which were spread across acreage where the Ganus Athletic Center now stands.

was not much different, especially at the start of his career. "He was always very dignified in relation to his students as well."

FROM THE PAST

Bessie Mae agrees that Joe is naturally quite reserved, much like his parents; but he learned to open up during his many years with students.

"He loved any association with students - in athletics, yearbook, classes," Bessie Mae says. "He kept up with them, and he still has them coming here to see him."

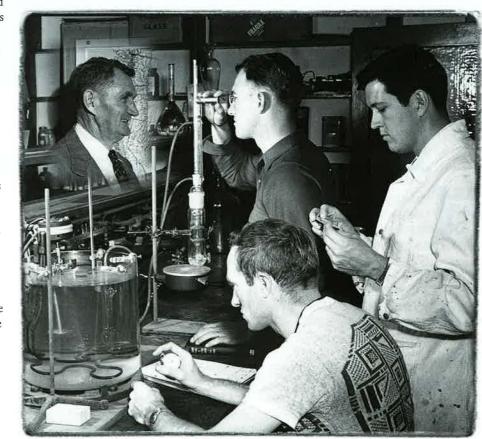

Bessie Mae notes that many of these former students left Dr. Joe's (as he was known on campus) chemistry classes to enter medical school and become doctors, fulfilling his own dream.

"He's probably touched more lives this way than if he had become a doctor himself," she says of Joe — and he does not deny it.

Maybe his father knew something he didn't. After all, Bessie Mae says, he wasn't too interested in Joe's studying medicine in the first place.

And what would he have chosen instead for his son's career? Joe thinks for a moment, then says with a hearty chuckle: "I guess what I wound up doing." HI

— Judie Kinonen

Father-and-son teaching duo L.E. Pryor (inset) and Dr. Joe Pryor (right) are shown in the late 1940's working in their chosen fields of expertise

1 i le father 1 i le e Son

Remember being four,

when your father could do anything?

Our featured sons never forgot.

For them, Dad's still a hero, and his shoes are a perfect fit.

Tom Baird (left) says he couldn't have guessed when Tim was young that he might choose his father's profession.

It took a while for Tim Baird to choose a career, but, true to form, he drew a Logical conclusion

IM BAIRD (BA'79) sat in a teenage daze with but one thought: b-o-r-i-n-g.

That first meeting of the high school computer science club would be his last.

"My friends continued to go, and I wasn't there," he recalls, smiling at the irony.

After all, Tim now chairs the University's computer science department. And his own father, Tom, taught computer science at the University of Missouri in Rolla.

What's more, Tom had a hand in setting that first computer science club on its feet. So Tim's high school teachers may well have been shocked that he ducked out of those

But Tim's father had ceased to wonder.

Accumulating data

"Tim had an aptitude for just about everything," Tom says, recalling how a friend from the university had tested Tim as a child.

"He got the results, and he was just amazed. He told us, 'This test didn't even test him," Tom says. "Tim was doing math sequences in about the first grade."

Through high school he excelled in every subject, played lead trombone in the jazz band, and competed statewide in Latin con-

And his father's career was the last one on his mind. "I don't think I really had a grasp of what he did," Tim says of his dad's work.

He recalls visits to the office, where "my dad sat there and students came by to ask him questions.

"It all seemed pretty boring to me." So when the time approached for Tim to go to college, "I didn't know what he was going to do," Tom says.

Neither did Tim. He floated through his first two years at Harding, faltering at a choice among math, music or foreign language.

Tom watched quietly. "I was a freshman adviser at the university for many years, and I had seen many students trying to live up to their parents' expectations," Tom says. "I knew it didn't work."

He did encourage his son to take a semester of Greek, thinking it might pique his interest in Bible. He was right.

And when Tim's decision boiled down to math or Bible, Tom gave clear advice: do

"I had had friends with bad experiences, getting fired from preaching jobs and left with nothing to do," Tom recalls. "I told him, 'I don't want you to ever have to compromise your beliefs to keep a job."

It all computes

Tim doesn't preach, nor does he teach math. But he says his job entails all he loves about both fields.

He recalls stumbling upon computers in Harding's initial computer course, a requirement for math majors. Halfway into the semester, Tim was hooked for life.

"It was as much fun as math, but much more practical. Everything is applied, and everyone can see if it works or not."

As for his Bible degree, Tim says, "My work here is definitely a ministry."

And it's one he can feel good about. In an economy based on technologies, graduates of Baird's program truly hit the ground run-

They have global opportunities: "We tell them, 'Go where the church needs you." Many start off earning enviable salaries: "We tell them to take the ministry to heart, and be better givers."

Tim keeps up with his graduates and knows just what he's missing in the public sector: it doesn't phase him.

"I have what I need. Who cares if I can make more?" he says.

It's a lesson he learned from his parents - simple is better. They and their four children got by for years in a two-bedroom farm house. The kids attended a one-room school through Tim's elementary years, when they moved into town.

"My parents used to say they wanted to provide us with things their parents weren't able to provide for them. I've never said that to my kids." - Tim Baird

"We didn't want to move, but my parents taught us our education was really important."

Despite a tight budget, "we didn't lack for anything," Tim says.

"And we never really worried about it." Tim and his younger brother, Jim, who works in the University's computer center, now marvel at their carefree childhood.

"My parents used to say they wanted to provide us with things their parents weren't able to provide for them," he recalls.

"I've never said that to my kids."

Making predictions

Tim's three teenage boys are planning out their own lives now.

The oldest will attend Harding this fall with hopes to major in music and direct a high school band. "He's not interested in math at all," Tim says, laughing. "I'm fine with that."

His 16-year-old has a strong science aptitude, but steers clear of computers or math, preferring to work with his hands outdoors. The boys sit in on Tim's classes sometimes or spend the day at the office.

"It's pretty boring to them," Tim says excepting his 13-year-old.

"He's still young enough that he tells me all the time he's going to be a computer science teacher at Harding," says Tim with a knowing smile.

We'll see if it lasts. ℍ — Judie Kinonen

"Moral obligations come first. That will stick with me all my life."

— Charles Dismuke

Bill Dismuke taught his son, Charles, the right way to Mind his own business

harles Dismuke (BBA'85) recalls no "watershed" experience pushing him toward a business career — no calling, no epiphany — always just a burning curiosity about what Dad did at work.

"We talked about his work around the dinner table, and I can remember going to his office as a little boy," Charles says of his father, Bill (BS'58), who spent 10 years as senior vice president for Holiday Inns World-

Bill, too, recalls the significance of the family's evening meal. "Initially, I'd just talk about what happened at work that day."

Eventually, Charles started asking ques-

Childhood Curiosity

It's this innate curiosity, evident from childhood, that makes Charles the excellent businessman he is today, according to his father. Charles has built a remarkable career in a new job as chief financial officer of Oakstone Publishing in Birmingham, Ala.

"He has an interest in how things work," Bill says, noting his son is concerned not only with accounting, but with everything that goes on in a business. Charles speaks enthusiastically about his job in the financial arena, where, he says, "You're at the hub of it

But he remembers it was not always that way. "You start out at the bottom of the totem pole," he says, recalling a time right after graduating from Harding when he and his wife, Susan, were living near his parents

"I had a greater appreciation of what [my father] had gone through. We could share experiences," Charles recalls.

Bill remembers as well, and he humbly describes himself as a kind of "cheerleader" on the sideline for Charles: "Whenever something would come up and he felt free to discuss it with me, we'd talk," Bill says sim-

Even several years after retirement, Bill still keeps abreast with business, primarily because he's interested in his son's career.

And even now, in the prime of his career, Charles naturally turns to his father for the of a company and president of a company."

As such, Bill has also "been there" with regard to the moral obstacles Christian business people face. "The challenge is not to be led off track by the interests of the business,"

Inns, when many with interest in the company began looking into casinos.

day Inns made their opposition clear, in effect resigning their positions, because "they didn't go for that," Charles says, with pride in his voice.

"They took a stand. It wasn't harsh they handled it with elegance and grace but it made a tremendous impact upon other people who work with that organiza-

It made an even more tremendous impact perhaps the most telling.

"Moral obligations come first," Charles says. "That will stick with me all my life." HI occasional advice. "He's a great counselor for me. After all, he's been there: he's been CFO

It's a philosophy Bill lives by, according to Charles. He recalls the stand his father made as senior vice president and CFO of Holiday

Bill Dismuke and the president of Holi-upon the curious teenage boy who stood in awe of his father's courage. Of all the questions the curious young Charles had about what his dad did at work, this answer was Henry Farrar visits his son, Hank, who feels right at home with the energetic little patients at Arkansas Children's Hospital.

"Hank is most like me in that the Lord's work is most important in his life. We're anxious to relieve people who suffer or are sick." - Dr. Henry Farrar Jr.

Doctors weigh pros, cons:

Grouchy old surgeons or fidgety little kids?

HEN DR. HANK FARRAR III (BS'80) was younger, someone asked him, "Don't you want to be a surgeon like your daddy?" He replied, "I don't want to spend my time with grouchy old surgeons."

His father, Dr. Henry Farrar Ir. (LLD '73/'48), likes to tell the story, and they both laugh about it. Though Henry is anything but grouchy, he is a surgeon, and Hank did indeed blaze a slightly different trail ... He became a pediatrician instead.

"Pediatricians tend to be known in the medical world as a more relaxed group," Hank says. "Surgeons are known as a more intense group, though Dad is not as high strung as most of them."

Henry has his own spin on pediatrics. He once told Hank, "All you have to do is give the kids some Benylin and the mothers some Valium."

Pediatric professor

Going into pediatrics wasn't an act of rebellion. "I thought surgery was interesting," he says. "During my third year of medical school, it was one of the areas I was thinking about for awhile."

Since 1993, Hank has been an associate professor of pediatrics at the University of Arkansas' Medical School. He currently works at Arkansas Children's Hospital as chief of pediatric clinical pharmacology/toxicology and serves as the junior pediatric clerkship director, which involves coordinating the clinical rotations for third-year medical students. He also works in pediatric emergency medicine.

"I made the decision to be a doctor pretty early on," he says. "I was interested in it as early as I can remember. Like most kids, I said I was going to do what my dad did. But then as I got into high school and college, I just always liked the idea."

While Hank had to make a decision between family practice and pediatrics, Henry discovered that he didn't have to choose between careers. "I decided to be a missionary when I went to Harding," Henry says. He realized that a medical background could enhance his mission work. He has had a private practice intermittently since 1967 as a general surgeon, and has traveled to Nigeria every year for the past 40 years as a missionary. (Ten of those years were spent actually living in Nigeria.)

One particularly bonding experience between father and son occurred during their

Proudly displaying their casts, Henry Farrar hurt his wrist playing tennis, and 8-year-old Hank was injured in an acci-

Charles Dismuke (right) is building a noteworthy career on business principles his father, Bill, taught by example.

time in Nigeria. According to Hank, the Nigerians had a terrible fear of donating blood, so they didn't have a blood bank. "Somebody needed blood, and it happened to be my type," he says. "I had never donated before." Hank agreed to donate, and Henry drew the blood because, "I didn't want anyone else sticking him." Henry used Hank as an example for the natives, and said, "This is my son, would I do anything to hurt my son?"

Almost immediately after the words came out of Henry's mouth, Hank fainted. "It was one of the great backfires in life," Hank says, now able to laugh about it. "I'm not sure how well it worked in motivating the people to give blood."

Working for the Lord

Hank spent five years of his life in Nigeria, often shadowing his father as he made the rounds at the hospital. Years later, he went back to work at the same hospital as a medical student. "That's when the importance of my father's work really struck me," he says. "The fact that he enjoyed what he did had an influence on me. My parents emphasized ways of serving other people. Medicine was the way Dad chose."

Henry stands by his decision. "I've never been dissatisfied with my career," he says. "This is for the Lord, what we're doing. All doctors gripe about the government and HMOs, but I wouldn't do anything else. I'm 73, and I intend to go until I drop over. I don't intend to retire."

Hank feels that he made the right decision too. "I've been able to do what I've wanted to do, what I've been interested in," he says. "At the end of the day, I feel as though I did something productive."

Henry is clear about the fact that neither he or his wife, Grace (BS'48), a nurse, tried to push their career choices on any of their six children. "As far as vocations were concerned, they made up their own minds," Henry says. "We tried not to prejudice them. The main thing we wanted them to do was to follow the Lord."

Different perspective

Hank helps serve the Lord by teaching the 1st-3rd grade Sunday morning Bible class at the Chenal Valley Church of Christ in Little Rock, Ark.

"You'd think I'd get tired of it," he says. "But it's been fun. It's a different perspective on children. I'm not seeing them when they're sick. They're much more social."

"He's a calm, relaxed, happy little fellow," Henry says; not of one of the kids Hank teaches, but of Hank himself. "He's 42, but he's always been very calm and relaxed; nothing perturbs him. He works in the ER with six screaming kids. I don't know anyone else who would then volunteer to take a Sunday school class of little children. I prefer people

In spite of that minor difference in preference, Henry still feels that Hank is definitely his father's son. "Hank is most like me in that the Lord's work is most important in his life," he says. "We're anxious to relieve people who suffer or are sick. If we can't cure them, we sympathize with them."

Though they kid each other — Hank calling surgeons grouchy, or Henry telling Hank that all pediatrics have to do is give the kids some Benylin and their mothers some Valium — it's obvious that each man has the highest respect for what the other does. And each will stick to what he does best. \mathbb{H} — April Mouser

Gordon and Dave Hogan have a relationship beyond father and son, Gordon says.

church in Moulmein, according to Gordon. "Fifty-one percent of the population of Singapore was below age 18," he says, explaining that young workers from China and India had just started settling in the country.

"Moulmein was virtually a church of teenagers."

Dave remembers the youthful energy of that church's early years, how "almost anything, everything worked. You met people, and they were interested."

From mountaintops to valleys, Gordon says — it was in the congregation's cyclic infancy that his father spotted Dave's potential.

"When trouble came, Dave was able to see clearly. He didn't allow emotions and empty rhetoric to take him off course," he says, adding with significance, "and he did it on his own.

"It wasn't a matter of me or his mother saying, 'Here's what you must think about this matter."

Distinguishing himself

The Hogans admired such independent thought, and Dave says his parents affirmed his efforts to build identity, even outside their mission work. He played basketball, studied French and took up photography.

"We told our kids, What our interest is, is that you love the Lord — do what God would have you to do — and if we never see you again, it will be okay." — Gordon Hogan

'You'd better be a missionary,'" he says. So despite his early immersion in the

"I never felt the pressure of expectation:

work, Dave had a chance to struggle naturally for a sense of vocation. He studied French and Bible at Harding and vacillated between the ministry and teaching high school French.

Even when he finally set his heart on missions, he made no beeline for his parents' home, but planned to go to France.

"They were always clear, 'Go where God leads you; here, let me write you a check!" Dave says of his parents, who were thrilled about his venture to Europe.

But news from Moulmein just days before his departure changed Dave's direction: his best friend from the Bible college had died. "When I opened that letter, I knew that was where my heart was," he says.

Soon he stood alongside his father in the field, and they were "partners right from the start," Dave says, noting a distinct shift in their relationship. "He treated me as a coworker and not as his kid."

The two complement each other ideally. Gordon praises Dave for his intelligence and "gentle spirit"; Dave admires his father's generosity, and he stands in awe of the man's administrative talent. "I wish I could have 10

For the Hogans,

Faith lives, breathes and drives a VW

ordon Hogan admits his plan was "rather unorthodox."

But by what conventional means does a man turn his life on its ear?

So it is with light-hearted reminiscence, never regret, that this missionary-in-residence recalls the adventure of 1960. That year he, his wife, Jane, and their three young children traded the American dream for the mission field.

The goal was to evangelize all of India "in about four years," Gordon recalls, laughing at himself in hindsight.

There was no time to waste. After resigning a solid position at Dunn and Bradstreet, he flew with the family to Germany, bought a Volkswagen van and drove overland from Germany to Pakistan.

A 6-year-old Dave Hogan (BA'78, MTh '87) bounced along in the back of that van for four months, taking it all in through his

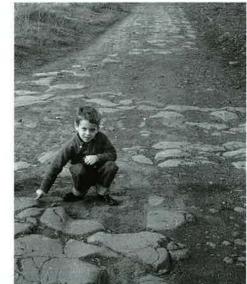

He remembers clambering over the pillars and rocks of ruins in Ephesus and Troas, thinking in awe, "'We're following where the first Christians were, carrying on what they did. The apostle Paul walked along this route."

12 Summer 2000 · HARDING

That awe and excitement is still fresh in Dave, who set his feet to that sometimes roadless path his father took — the path of a missionary.

A missionary in his own right, six-year-old Dave Hogan touches a stone on the Old Appian Way, where the apostle Paul once traveled.

"Very early I got the keen sense that faith was joy, risk, danger," he says.

And his life has lacked none of these.

Early commitments

He shouldered his first persecution in a Pakistani elementary school.

"One day at recess this kid chased me, grabbed me, put my arm behind my back and said, 'Confess Allah as God and Muhammad the only prophet." It dawned on him then that he walked alone as a Christian in a school full of Muslims.

"I remember telling my parents about it and thinking, 'Wow, I'm a missionary, too.'"

That sense strengthened when his family moved from Pakistan in 1968. Prevented from entering India, Gordon saw God working when he was invited to Singapore to become president of a struggling Bible college.

Dave, at 14, and his younger sister, Julie, taught the Gospel like seasoned adults at the

The Hogan family bus gets stuck while fording a stream in Rome percent of that," he says, chuckling. "I'm sort of embodied chaos."

Gordon never abused

his knack for leading, according to Dave. In fact, he disowned it. After 25 years in Singapore, Gordon made plans for the next phase of his life — back in the states.

"He always had a deeply prayerful involvement, but no enmeshed need to control. He celebrated new leaders in the church,'

Dave says of his father. "I hope I'm that way."

Gordon now teaches missions at the University. He writes e-mail letters to his son almost daily; they talk on the phone "all the

And he flies yearly to his second homeland Singapore with summer campaign

Both men deeply appreciate this arrangement. "I can't imagine what that first generation of missionaries went through," Dave says, noting his parents were among those whose 'good-byes' to family lasted several years at a stretch.

But Gordon says he would adjust either way. "We told our kids, 'What our interest is, is that you love the Lord — do what God would have you to do - and if we never see you again, it will be okay."

"Rather unorthodox" advice, unless you're a father with an unconventional faith. H

Judie Kinonen.

For Ted and Rees Lloyd, it doesn't matter if you win or lose,

It's how you coach the game

Lloyd's (BA'84) coaching accomplishments, you would do better to ask his father, Ted (BA'57); and vice versa. Because, although neither is comfortable dwelling on his own achievements, he can't wait to tell you about the other's.

According to Rees, Ted won more championships during his coaching career than he himself could ever hope to win. He even has a track named in his honor. But Ted points out that Rees took his Harding Academy basketball team to a state tournament, something that he never did.

Missing rivalry

The absolute lack of rivalry is not necessarily something you would expect from two men who have made careers out of competition. Ted coached at the Academy for seven years, served as assistant football coach at the University for three years, worked as the head track coach at the University for 26

f you want to hear about Rees years, coached cross country for 30 years, and served as Sports Information Director for nine years. Rees has coached basketball and tennis at the Academy since 1994.

> "I remember when I first started here [at the Academy], someone yelled 'Coach Lloyd,' and I didn't turn around at first because that had always been Dad," he recalls.

> You might say Rees was destined to follow in his father's footsteps. They share the same given name (Theodore Rees Lloyd), and Rees was born the night his father's Academy basketball team won the county tournament for the first time in the school's history. But Rees is quick to point out that he never felt as though his fate was sealed.

"I never felt any pressure that either one of my parents was pushing me in a certain direction," he says. "They tried to expose me to as much as possible. I was involved in the high school chorus, plays and the quiz

Ted says he and his wife, Marcie (BA'57), were most interested in Rees and his sister, Melissa (Lloyd) Master (BA'91), having Christian values. "I'm pleased that my son is happy coaching and is doing well coaching,' he says. "But I would be pleased with anything he was doing that he did well and that made him happy."

Making a decision

Although athletics have always been a part of Rees' life, at one point he considered law school and youth ministry. "He had a really hard time deciding what he wanted to do career-wise," Ted says of his son. "I didn't think he was dead-set on coaching." Says nothing he tried felt more natural than coaching like his

"I'm pleased that my son is happy coaching and is doing well coaching. But I would be pleased with anything he was doing that he did well and that made him happy." -Ted Lloyd

The excitement of winning the county basketball tournament doesn't compare to the joy Ted and Marcie Lloyd feel holding their newborn son, Rees.

Rees, "It took me five years to graduate because I didn't know what I wanted to do after college."

On the other hand, Ted says that he loved to play basketball as a kid, and assumed he would one day coach. "My senior year of high school I decided I wanted to be a basketball coach, and I told my mother," he says. "When I went to college to play basketball at Kansas State University, I realized I would probably never play." Ted transferred to Harding in 1956 and graduated in 1957, one year before the University began its intercollegiate sports program.

Before settling into his current position, Rees had a volunteer assistantship with the basketball team at Auburn University while he was working toward his master's degree. "I enjoyed it, but there are some tremendous sacrifices you have to make at that level."

Family values

The Lloyd's emphasis on family was very influential in drawing Rees back to Searcy; Ted and Marcie went to all of Rees' basketball and football games when he was playing. However, now that Rees is coaching, Ted says he finds it difficult to spectate. "It's hard for me to sit and watch his games, especially when it's close. Sometimes I have to get up and leave," he says. "I tell people, 'My life was pretty sedate until Rees started coach-

Says Rees, "He gets nervous at our games. The closer the game gets, the more time he spends in my office. I always tease him about it later, and ask him who won."

But neither ever dwells on winning or losing. This is evident in their similar perspectives on their profession. "Success in coaching should not be measured in wins or losses, but in what happens to the young men you're working with," Ted says. "Winning is more of a by-product. I see that in Rees. He's very concerned about the attitudes the kids he coaches have."

Says Rees, "I look at Dad, and the thing that made him successful as a coach was the relationship he had with his athletes. It says something about him when guys come back for advice 20-30 years later. He didn't just teach them to run faster."

Perhaps that's because scoreboards and championship titles are not the measure of the man; the true measure of success lies in the way a coach instructs his players. HI

- April Mouser

Sidelines

Soccer teams host Ambassadors Cup

The men's and women's soccer teams played host to the 2000 Ambassadors Cup April 14-16. Six men's and four women's teams, all from Christian universities, competed in the second annual event.

On the men's side, Oklahoma Christian won the tournament for the second consecutive year.

The Bison women, who will be competing in their third intercollegiate season this fall, lost to Oklahoma Christian 2-1 in the

This fall the University will field its first intercollegiate men's team under the direction of coach Franco Zengaro. Both teams kick off their seasons Aug. 26 with a doubleheader at Northeastern State University in Tahlequah, Okla.

Golfers finish eighth in conference

The golf team closed its season with an eighthplace finish in the Lone Star Conference Championship held at the Texas Star Golf Course in Dallas. The Bisons struggled in the first round of the three-round event, shooting a 331, their highest first-round score of the season. In the second and third rounds the Herd closed in on the field, firing a 318 in round two and a 308 in the final. Their third-round score was the third best total of the day, but it was not enough to move them higher in the standings.

Freshman Aaron Farley posted a team-best 77.88 average round. His best performance came at the Freed-Hardeman Invitational, where he tied for fourth overall, earning a spot on the All Tournament team and giving the Bisons a third-place finish, their best of the year.

Bison baseball produces a winner

POSTING ITS FIRST winning season in six years, the Bison baseball team won more games this season in conference play (11) than it had in the two previous years combined (10).

The winning season was in jeopardy until the last weekend of play. The Herd needed to win three of four games with Lone Star Conference (LSC) rival Southwestern Oklahoma State University, while the Bulldogs could clinch a tournament berth with three wins. After dropping the first game, the Bisons took three consecutive close victories, with senior reliever Troy Wolfe slamming the door on the Bulldogs in the final game. The Bisons had their winning season at 24-22-1, and their rival had a long trip back to Oklahoma.

The offensive hero this season was junior catcher and First-Team All-LSC performer Jeris Noye. Nove led the Bisons with a .352 batting average and tied the school record with 17 doubles. He was also tops on the squad with 50 hits, six home runs and a .599 slugging percentage. Also earning First-Team All-Conference honors was junior shortstop Barry Finnie, who hit .319 for the Herd and was stellar defensively.

Redshirted last season, junior Matt Thomas makes the out against East Central Oklahoma University The Bisons took the game 4-3.

Senior Matt Wilson stole 24 bases in 27 attempts, leading the team with a .447 on-base percentage. He leaves the Bisons ranked third in school history in runs and walks and fifth in batting average.

On the pitcher's mound, junior Phill Gisel shattered the school's 29-year-old single season strikeout record, fanning 92 hitters in 70 innings. His 11.8 strikeouts per nine innings ranked him fifth in the NCAA Division II.

Senior Nate Watson went 5-5 on the mound, finishing his career ninth all-time in ERA and eighth in wins. Junior lefty Ion Neely finished the season 6-3.

Prior to the 2000 baseball season, Jerry Moore Field received a much-need facelift. Several tons of dirt raised the level of the field as workers laid a new playing surface, installed new dugouts and put up a new backstop. The improvements gave the Bisons a top-notch place to play.

Etheridge and Fager merit Berryhill Awards and Marc Fager have been named recipients of the 2000 M.E. Berryhill Awards.

Etheridge, a psychology major, is a native of Spartanburg, S.C. She is a four-time letter winner in both cross country and track, earning three All-Conference awards in cross country. This past cross country season she led the Lady Bisons to their first Lone Star Conference (LSC) championship and a 12th place finish in NCAA Division II.

Etheridge is a three-time Academic All-Conference

SENIORS CHERI SCHARFF ETHERIDGE and GTE Academic All-District honoree and has twice been named to the NCAA All-Academic Team.

She has been on campaigns to both New York and Honduras.

Fager, a psychology major from Monticello, Ill., is a four-year letterman at wide receiver on the Bison football team, serving as cocaptain his senior season. He became only the eighth player in school history to gain more than 1,000 receiving yards in a career, finishing with 1,705 yards. His

95 career receptions rank

sixth all-time. This past season Fager caught 43 passes for 797 vards and four touchdowns, gaining First Team All-Lone Star Conference accolades. He has also done the job in the classroom, enroute to LSC Academic All-Conference and GTE Academic All-District

This summer, Fager is leading a campaign group in Australia.

The M.E. Berryhill Awards are given each year to two graduating seniors who have earned at least two letters in intercollegiate athletics, consistently given superior effort in their sports, demonstrated leadership ability, made an acceptable academic record, and whose lives and conduct have influenced others for good while exemplifying the ideals of the University.

Individual performances highlight track season

BOOSTED BY the performances of several seniors, the Bison and Lady Bison track teams posted a solid 2000 season.

On the men's side, Kenyan senior Jerry Maritim ran the second fastest time in the Lone Star Conference (LSC) in the 3,000-meter steeplechase, qualifying for the NCAA meet. Maritim also ran the conference's fastest 5,000-meter time, 14:50, at the Big Cat Classic in Memphis, Tenn. He also clocked the third fastest time in the LSC in the 1,500-meter.

Junior Scott Penick performed well on the track, earning the Bisons' best 10,000-meter time (34:28.39) at the LSC Meet. He also performed well in the classroom, a combination that merited him First Team GTE Academic All-District VI honors and a nomination for Academic All-American

The Bison 100-meter relay team comprised of Willis Britton, Tiago Collins, Rashun Taylor and Bershard Tillman ran a 41.97 at Arkansas State and competed in the prestigious Drake Relays in Des Moines, Iowa.

Senior discus thrower Jason Vines, who threw a season-best 144'10" at the LSC Meet, earned First Team Academic All-LSC honors.

For the Lady Bisons, senior Cheri Scharff Etheridge closed her career with second-place in the 3,000-meter run at the LSC Meet.

Other top finishes at the conference meet included Elizabeth Lucas' second-place mark in the 10,000-meter and Britney Copeland's runner-up finish in the 5,000-meter. Senior Diane Grubbs finished in the top six in both the 1,500- and the 3,000-meter runs.

Winning ways continue for tennis teams

FOR THE 26TH consecutive season, the men's tennis team finished with a winning record. The Bisons concluded their season 14-11 overall and advanced to the quarterfinals of the Lone Star Conference

2000 Bison Football Schedule

Sept. 2	Tarleton State University	7 p.m.
Sept.9	Tennessee Tech University Cookeville, Tenn.	7 p.m.
Sept. 16	Arkansas Tech University Russellville, Ark.	7 p.m.
Sept. 23	Henderson State University Parents Night	7 p.m.
Sept. 30	Delta State University Cleveland, Miss.	2 p.m.
Oct.7	University of Central Arkansas Conway, Ark.	7 p.m.
Oct. 14	Valdosta State University	7 p.m.
Oct. 21	University of North Alabama Homecoming	2 p.m.
Oct. 28	State University of West Georgia Carrollton, Ga.	1:30 p.m. Eastern/ 12:30 p.m. Centra
Nov.4	University of West Alabama Livingston, Ala.	1 p.m.
Nov. 11	Ouachita Baptist University	2 p.m.
	Home games in bold

Tournament.

All six Bison singles players finished the year with a .500 record or better. Sophomore Jacobo Martinez from Mexico held down the #1 singles spot and earned Academic All-Conference honors. Seth Bullington, a junior from Edinboro, Pa., notched a 16-5 singles record, winning 10 of his last 11 matches. Polish freshman Artur Sikora had a 15-9 record, playing primarily #3 singles.

Martinez teamed with Yugoslav junior Igor Tamindzija to form the Bisons' top doubles team, finishing with a solid 17-8 record. Junior Mexican Klaus Schmidt and Sikora played #2 doubles, with Bullington and Australian junior Jonathan Leijen comprising the #3 team.

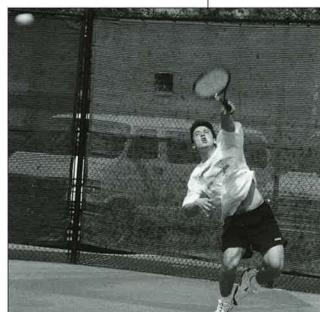

The women were equally impressive. The nine-year-old program has had a winning season every year, with the 2000 version finishing at 15-7 and earning a spot in the LSC quarterfinals.

Swedish sophomore Eva-Lena Axelsson and Mexican freshman Carolina Banuelos alternated at the #1 and #2 singles positions. Axelsson finished with an 18-4 singles record and Banuelos at 15-6, and the duo combined for a 15-7 record as the #1 doubles team.

Freshman Honduran Daniela Corrales won 10 of her first 12 matches before losing the rest of Beason brings experience to football post

Sidelines

Clav Beason (BA'97), the only Bison football player to pass for more than 2,000 yards and receive for more than 1,000 yards in a career, was hired as an assistant coach replac ing Roddy Mote, who became an assistant dean of students. Beason is working with guarterbacks and receivers and is also the team's strength and conditioning coach. After playing three years at wide receiver, Beason moved to quarterback his senior season and garnered NAIA honorable mention All-American accolades. He has spent the last two seasons coaching high school at Bryant, Ark.

her season to a back injury. Junior first-year player Laura Tollett had a stellar season, finishing 13-4 at #3 singles, and she teamed with freshdoubles. Tollett also earned Acade-

Sophomore Beth Bonbrisco paired with Louisa Duke, who joined the team after Corrales' injury, to form man Michelle Shimpock in #2 mic All-Conference accolades.

the #3 doubles team.

Blasting one from the service line, Pennsylvania's Seth Bullington feels the tennis team's cultural diversity is one of its strong suits.

Submit your alumni news to "Connections,"

Harding University Office of Alumni Relations, Box 10768, Searcy, AR 72149-0001; or by e-mail to alumni-news@harding.edu.To Alumni Digest, send message to subscribe.

subscribe to the weekly e-mail listserve including your name and class year, to alumni-list@harding.edu.You may post

'38 James Golleher (BA) and his wife, the former Ollie Couch

(BA), live at Harding Place. (801 S.

Benton, #4107, Searcy, AR 72143)

Wanda Anglin Hollis is a former teacher, vice principal, principal and supervisor. Upon retirement,

Africa, South America and Romania, (127 Tarbutton Road, Ruston,

she did mission work in South

'40 Platinum Circle Reunion at

'50 Golden Circle Reunion at

'56 Eugene Ouzts (BA) has been selected to be included in

Who's Who in the World. A teacher and preacher, he is a private pilot and member of the Civil Air Patrol/United States Air Force Auxiliary. His wife is the former Mary Vineyard (BA'55), (HC 1 Box

'58 Virgil Beckett (BA) has bution to the workplace by Nebraska Gov. Mike Johanns. He came out of retirement to fill the registrar's vacancy at York College

Kiplinger Ave., York, NE 68467)

60 Reunion at Homecoming 2000

George Treadway (BA) is a corporation representative for the Secre-

(P.O. Box 501, Carlisle, AR 72024)

Leo Shook (BA) retired as principal with Wake County Schools in 1995. His wife is the former Mary Ann Foust ('62). (37 Lake Royale,

'61 Donna Wise Gaston (BA)

is a media specialist for Pea Ridge

Schools. (16944 E. Highway 412,

'63 Sondra Larkin Hester is a

'64 Laurel Heid Blackburn has

Charles, died from a heart attack

Nov. 7, 1999. (52 Bingham Court, retired nurse. (218 Jefferson St., Louisburg, NC 27549)

Springdale, AR 72764)

Whiteville, NC 28472)

Winchester, TN 37398)

two children. Her husband, tary of State's office. He taught high school math for 34 years.

for the academic year. (829

Achievement Award for his contri-

557, Duncan, AZ 85534)

been honored with a Senior

'55 Reunion at Homecoming 2000

LA 71270)

Homecoming 2000

Homecoming 2000

messages to the Digest at the same address.

'65 Reunion at Homecoming 2000 Brenda Westfall

Richardson (AA) is a retired secretary and preschool director. She and her husband, Jack, have two daughters. (421 Henderson, Hot Springs, AR 71913)

'68 Richard Hall (BA) is selfemployed as a nonprofit fund-raising consultant. He is listed in the 2000 edition of Who's Who in the Southwest. (4600 Shady Lake, Fort Worth, TX 76180)

'69 Lawrence Barr (BA) and his wife, the former Fave Driver (BA'68), were missionaries in Kenya, Africa. They recently moved to Indiana, Pa., where Lawrence is a minister. (c/o Church of Christ, 225 E. Pike, Indiana, PA 15701)

Gary Frank (BA) retired after 27 years with the Louisiana Department of Corrections. His wife, the former Lottie Bright ('71), completed her nursing degree in 1998 and is employed with the Choctaw County Medical Facility. They have three sons. (P.O. Box 1175, Ackerman, MS 39735)

'70 Reunion at Homecoming 2000 Roger Lamb (BA) is president of Kingdom News Network. He and his wife, the former Marcia Marks (BS), have three children, (4310 Cahuenga Blvd., #204, Toluca Lake, CA 91602)

'72 Linda Kendrick Fitte (BA) is a math specialist with Virginia Beach City Public Schools. She taught in London, England, in 1998-99 on a Fulbright Exchange. (3288 Page Ave., #1101, Virginia Beach, VA 23451)

Leland Vickers (BS) directs the animal health division of ICON Clinical Research in Nashville, Tenn. He is a commander in the Supply Corps with the U.S. Navy Reserve. He and his wife, Jackie, have two sons, both Harding students. (9438 Gentlewind Drive, Brentwood, TN 37027)

73 John Howard (BS), president of Howard Publishing, was recognized on the list of "20 for 2000 and Beyond," a group of men and women from North Louisiana most likely to play a significant role in the area's growth. He also operates a real estate development company and serves on the board of Ouachita Christian School. John and his wife, the former Chrys Shackelford ('75), have three children. (102 Yellowood Drive, West Monroe, LA 71291)

74 Mary Jo Hinerman Norris (BS) is a homemaker. She and her husband, Jim, have three children. (6 West Grove Road, Harrogate, North Yorkshire HGI 2AD, United Kingdom)

Lawana English Stone (BS) is a production manager for ARA-MARK at the University of Central Arkansas. (201 Donaghev, UCA Box 5153, Conway, AR 72032)

Sam Watts is self-employed. (1158 Peach Valley Circle, Spartanburg, SC 29303)

'75 Reunion at Homecoming 2000 Rob Ford (BS) is a corporate auditor for OGE Energy Corp. and is serving as the president of the Oklahoma City chapter of the Information Systems Audit and Control Association. He and his wife, the former Judy Shoop ('68), have three children. (2801 Red Fern. Edmond, OK 73034)

Kathleen Manchester is an administrative assistant for the Power and Telephone Supply Co. (471 South Reese, Memphis, TN 38111)

Linda Williams Moore (BS) was elected to the National Kidney Foundation Board of Directors. She is a renal dietitian for the University of Tennessee. Her husband, Terry (BS), is in management with Bridgestone/Firestone Trust. (7144 Donnington Drive, Germantown, TN 38138)

Tom Wadsworth (BA) is a communications consultant, motivational speaker and voice-over talent. He and his wife, the former Nancy Nusbaum ('77), have three children. (803 N. Jefferson Ave., Dixon, IL 61021)

'76 Perry Gates (BA) is the elementary principal for Columbia Academy. He and his wife, the former Kathy Hunt ('78), have two daughters. (1101 W. 7th St., Columbia, TN 38401)

Walt Lewis (BA) is retired. He and his wife, the former Anna Marie Wineinger ('75), have two children (3637 Alvina, Warren, MI 48091)

Charles Thompson (BSW) retired after 22 years as a commissioned officer in the Army. He is a principal at Cross Creek High School and recently completed his doctorate in educational leadership and administration. He and his wife. the former Delma Jones ('77), have two children. (4061 Melrose Drive, Martinez, GA 30907)

777 Joni Beach (BA) received her doctorate in clothing and textiles from Virginia Tech in December 1999. Her husband, Alan (BS '78), is a psychologist for the Center for Behavioral Science. They have two children. (308 Fincastle Drive, Blacksburg, VA 24060)

Bonnie Elliott (BA) has been awarded the Doctor of Philosophy degree from the University of Texas in Austin. She directs the reading laboratory at the Texas Center for Reading and Language Arts at the same university. (5904 Maurys Trail, Austin, TX 72730)

Phil Goad (BS) is president and senior toxicologist for the Center for Toxicology and Environmental Health. He and his wife, the former Starla Jarrell (BA'76), have three children. (19808 Mallard Cove, Little Rock, AR 72209)

78 Royce Dickinson Jr. is pulpit minister for the Church of Christ of Plymouth, Mich., and an adjunct teacher at Rochester College. He and his wife, Terri, have three sons. (24025 Lynwood Drive, Novi, MI 48374)

Kevin Fisher (BS) is the finance division controller for STI Credit Corp. He and his wife, Desiree, have a daughter. (13811 Napoleon Road, Little Rock, AR 72211)

Kay Russell Dade (BS) is manager of contingency planning for J.C. Penney Inc. She and her husband, Michael, have a son, (1609 Kesser Drive, Plano, TX 75025)

David Scobey has been promoted to vice president of product commercialization with BellSouth Telecommunications. He and his wife, Debbie, have two children. (2645 Clubside Terrace, Alpharetta, GA 30022)

79 Kim Rich (BS) is a nurse in neonatal intensive care at Regina General Hospital. She has two children. (Apt. I, 4216 Castle Road, Regina, Sask., Canada S4S4W1)

Jamie Baites Stewart (BS) is director of academic services for Cumberland University. Jamie has four children. (1730 Hollow Oak Drive, Lebanon, TN 37087)

'80 Reunion at Homecoming 2000 David Compton (CCP) is an associate technician for PageNet. (4575 Palm Ave., Apt. A, Riverside, CA

Jim Greene (BA) is a hostage negotiator for the Department of Justice with the Federal Bureau of Prisons. He and his wife, the former Marion McClain (BA'79), have two children. (1035 F.M. 1389 N., Combine, TX 75159)

Dennis Slatton (BS) is a senior development engineer for Solvay Engineered Polymers. He and his wife, the former Becky Baker ('79), have three children. (2522 Satinwood Court, Arlington, TX 76001)

ALMA MATTERS

'Let's get together soon!'

by LIZ HOWELL, director of alumni relations

UMMER — time to pack up the car (and the kids!) and hit the road. We hope you can find time to plot Searcy on your travel map. But in case your vacation plans don't include Harding, check out these options for staying in touch. We'll do the driving

We are planning several Harding Connection Celebrations throughout the country, and we would love to come to your city. Please call (800) 477-4312, and we will arrange the details. Those of you in or near Cookeville, Tenn., can join us Sept. 9 as the Bisons battle Tennessee Tech.

The real super highway

Check out updates on our Web page at www.harding.edu. Tell your friends about the Alumni Digest, and notify our office with any news concerning you and your family. Our goal is to keep improving the amount of information available to you. Please give us your suggestions and comments as we make good time on the information highway. If you can make the trip

Parent and Family Weekend — Sept. 22-23 Lectureship — Sept. 24-27

Homecoming with the Golden and Platinum Circle, Black and Gold Banquet, Homecoming Musical: "The Man of La Mancha," and football game — Oct. 19-21

We are in the process of inducting the officers for the Alumni Association who will be introduced during Homecoming's Alumni Chapel. Watch your mail for details.

Please accept our open invitation to come back and visit, A walk across campus can do some amazing things for you as you evaluate your spiritual walk and relive the memories. IH

Brad Watson (BA) is the regional marketing manager for Applebee's. His wife, the former Julie Graham (BBA'84), is an accountant with Arkansas Easter Seals. They have three sons. (5413 Westview Drive, North Little Rock, AR 72116)

'81 Skip Skipper (BBA) is general manager for Air-Serv Florida. He is the deacon in charge of youth activities for the University City Church of Christ and serves on the board of directors for Florida Bible Camp. He and his wife, Sarah, have two sons. (122 S.W. 127th St., Newberry, FL 32669)

82 Roy Barnes (BA) is district manager for International Paper Co. His wife, the former Barbara Iones (BA), teaches first grade at Harding Academy. They have two children. (101 Red Oak Lane, Searcy, AR 72143)

Charles Savage (BA) has been promoted to Group 2 instructor at Ohio University-Zanesville. He teaches music theory and literature and has been active as a singer and composer in the Zanesville area. His compositions have been used as incidental music in community and high school theater productions. Charles recently served as a talent judge for the Miss East Central Scholarship Pageant. (110 Parkwood Ave., South Zanesville, OH 43701)

'83 Daniel Gillett (BBA) is senior vice president and chief financial officer for Broadband Now Inc. He and his wife, Leigh, have two children. (2524 Alexa Court, Plano, TX 75075)

Mike Goings (BS), the regional director of resource management for

Sisters of Mercy Health System of Arkansas, received his MBA from the University of Arkansas at Little Rock in 1999. He and his wife, the former Kathy Renshaw ('84), have two children. (113 Deerview Circle, Hot Springs, AR 71913)

Susan Bolding Harper (BA) is a homemaker. She and her husband, Rick, have two children, (4620 Scarlet Drive E., Crestview, FL 32539)

Don Morrison (BA) is the pulpit minister for Park Heights Church of Christ. He and his wife, Donna, have three children, (1300 E. Gentry, Hamilton, TX 76531)

'84 Cynthia Brazzel (BA) is director of government affairs for Kellogg Co. (106 4th St. S.E., Washington, DC 20003)

Ellen Reid Owen (BBA) is the southwest manager for American Biltrite Tape Products. She and her husband, Gary, have two daughters. (3942 Empress Lane, Richmond, TX 77469)

Jay Tyree (BA) is the minister and Bible chair director for the College Hill Church of Christ. He and his wife, the former Becky Gillpatrick ('87), have a daughter. (104 Elm St., Alva, OK 73717)

Keith Williams (BBA) is assistant vice president for Province Healthcare. He and his wife, Tammy, have a son. (224 Logan's Circle, Franklin, TN 37067)

85 Reunion at Homecoming 2000 Richard Denney (BA) is assistant principal for Westside Elementary. He was awarded the "Arkansas Administrator in Reading Award" for 1999-2000. He and his wife, the former Cyndi Boustead (BSN'82) have two daughters, (33 Foxboro, Searcy, AR 72143)

Tim Johnson (BBA) is a regional vice-president for HPSI. His wife, the former Kim Hudson (BA'84), teaches English at Broadway High School. They have two daughters. (40 Cave St., Luray, VA 22835)

Ed Madden (BA) was named a South Carolina Academy of Authors fellow in poetry for 2000. He received the fellowship for an unpublished manuscript of poetry titled "Prodigal." Ed is an assistant professor of English for the University of South Carolina. (1107 Bryan St., Columbia, SC 29201)

Kerwin Smith (BBA) is an assistant vice president/information analyst for PMSI. He and his wife, the former Kristie Fair (AA), have a son. (105 Russell St., Lorena, TX 76655)

'86 Lynn Bohannon Rowland (BA) is a financial analyst for First Tennessee Bank. She and her husband, Randy, have two daughters. (8431 Riverwood Farms Parkway, Cordova, TN 38018)

Jeff Sweeney (BBA) is vice president in charge of construction for Bowden Building Corp. His wife, the former Melissa Blume (BA'85). is a realtor with Mallord Creek Realty. They have two sons. (4380 High Plains, Bartlett, TN 38135)

Bob Swenson (BA) is a full-time graduate student at the University of Arkansas at Little Rock in the social work program. (1505 Center Street, Little Rock, AR 72201)

187 Rebecca Warmack Hicks (BBA) is a nurse for St. Vincent Infirmary Medical Center. She and her husband, Jeff, have two daughters. (394 Grant, #167077, Sheridan, AR 72150)

Adrian Knight (BA) is a technical analyst for Cendant Corp. Adrian and his wife, the former Susan Adkins (BS'84), have three children. (2000 Airport Road, Georgetown, TX 78628)

Jose Mai (BA) was appointed dean of Corozal Junior College in June 1999. He and his wife. Herminia. have two daughters. (#137, Altamira, Corozal Town, Belize, Central America)

Patty Walker Mullins (BBA) is a customer service specialist for the U.S. Treasury. She completed her master's in public administration in December 1998. Her husband, Chris ('88), is minister for the Newport Church of Christ. (Route 1, Box 12, Woodland Drive, Newport, OH 45768)

Beth Reynolds (BS) is the president and owner of Bookkeeping Plus Inc. (1514 Pippin Drive, Greenfield, IN 46140)

Lynda Foster Smedley (BA) is a part-time kitchen consultant for The Pampered Chef. She and her husband, Mark, have two daughters. (703 Colonial Drive, Bryant, AR 72022)

Pam Dwyer Vickers (BSW) is an administrative assistant at Woodmont Hills Church of Christ. She and her husband, Steven, have a daughter. (404 Carl Miller Drive, Antioch, TN 37013)

James Ware (BBA) is youth and family minister for the Huntsville Church of Christ. His wife, the former Robin Force (BSN'86), is a surgical nurse for Baptist Memorial Hospital. They have three children. (924 Elkins Lake, Huntsville, TX 77340)

Jeff Ziegler (HSBS) is a nurse for Oncology Hermatology Associates. He and his wife, Diane, have three children. (5549 S. Aaron, Springfield, MO 65810)

'88 Kirk Garner is an attorney for Alexander & Garner L.L.P. He and his wife, Becca, have two daughters. (Route 5, Box 50847. Winnsboro, TX 75494)

Traci Bird Goodwin (BS) is a nutrition education specialist for the Mississippi State Dept. of Health. She and her husband, Paul, have two children. (504 Wynridge Court, Madison, MS 39110)

David White (BA) is media coordinator for Burgundy Group. (865 Bellevue Road, #L-8, Nashville, TN 37221)

189 Stephanie Elchuck-Lagasse (BSW) is a director with Mary Kay. She and her husband, Greg, have a son. (7 Platte Drive, Maumelle, AR 72113)

'90 Reunion at Homecoming 2000 Miriam Cardin Hardesty (BSN) is a nurse for Boone Hospital Center. She and her husband, Travis, have two sons. (3551 State Road E., Auxvasse, MO 65231)

Angie Haley Lewis (BA) has been elected president of the Lookout Chapter of the Public Relations Society of America. (713 Ashbrook Drive, Hixson, TN 37343)

Ernie Parsons (BA) is a fireman for the Beckley Fire Department. He and his wife, the former Sally Diehl (BA), have two daughters. (230 Granville Ave., Beckley, WV 25801)

Tony Pierce (BA) is a special agent for the U.S. Treasury Department. (104 Maplewood Drive, Covington, LA 70433)

'91 Dwight Hulse (BBA) is a quality assurance/country antifraud officer for Citibank in Guatemala. He also teaches part time at Francisco Marroqu University Graduate School. (M-95, P.O. Box 591828, Miami, FL 33159)

Janie Giles Morris (BS) is an art therapist who received her ATR credentials in June 1999. She works with an Alzheimer's day care facility. Her husband, Don (BA '75), is a counselor for Senior Services Inc. (28 S. Edgewood St., Memphis, TN 38104)

Art Rockwell (BBA) is a buyer for Air Transport International. He and his wife, the former Bernadette Mayberry (BA), have two daughters. (2807 Westport Circle, Conway, AR 72032)

Steven Stephens (BBA) is an accountant for Red Dot Corp. His wife, the former Lisa Browning (BS'92), is an art teacher for Terrell High School. They have two sons. (1765 Cypress, Canton, TX 75103)

Mark Thomas (BA) is an operations consultant for Office Expo Inc. He and his wife, Debra, have four children. (2025 E. Midway Road, Carrollton, TX 76006)

'92 Charles Adams (BA) is keeper of educational and artistic excellence for CLIMB Theatre. (250 E. 5th St., #203, St. Paul, MN 55101)

Angie Stricklin Buhrmester (BBA) is a bookkeeper for Millennium Bay Corp. (111-B Goodner Lane, Hot Springs, AR 71913)

Melissa Rouhana Callow (BA) teaches at Deer Run Elementary School. (1308 Four Star Drive E., Galloway, OH 43119)

Laura Deckard (BA) is a health insurance specialist for Medicare with the Health Care Financing Administration. (6505 Oswego Place N.E., #303, Seattle, WA

David Doss (BS) is an optometrist for the U.S. Army. He and his wife, the former Julie Joice ('94), have two children. (22 Halling Court, Columbia, SC 29229)

Dena Heinen Edwards is a newspaper reporter. Her husband, Aaron, is a loan officer for State Bank and Trust. They have two children, (3107 Brookview Drive, Corinth, TX 76205)

Kyla Martin is director of corporate communications for Owen Healthcare. (205 Webster St.,

#2133, Houston, TX 77002)

Marsha Vaughn (BA) is a chaplain resident for Covenant Health System. She completed her doctorate in marriage and family therapy from Texas Tech University. (2020-B Broadway, Lubbock, TX 79401)

Kelly Walton is manager for Brownwood Iron & Metal. He and his wife, the former Terri Sutherland (BA'91), have a son, (2208 Calvert Road, Brownwood, TX 76801)

'93 Stacia Morris Beatty (BA) is a sales representative for Firstar Investment Services Inc. (150 Duncan Drive, Paducah, KY 42003)

Julie Foriest Brewer is a research coordinator for Clinical Research Associator. (730 Albar Drive, Nashville, TN 37221)

Mark Burt (BBA) is an accounting manager for Gable and Gotwals. His wife, the former Darla Miller (BA), is a child development specialist for Children's Medical Center. (725 W. 99th St., Jenks, OK 74037)

Tony Davis is senior distribution coordinator for Pacific Coast Publishing. (15856 N.W. Hackney Drive, Portland, OR 97229)

Lynnette Gipson Hounchell (BBA) is a senior accountant for Guinn, Smith & Co. (2417 Amber Hill Lane, Euless, TX 76039)

Wayne Shorter (BA) is a site manager for Chep Americas. He and his wife, the former Monica Rios ('96), have two children. (20 Summit Drive, Searcy, AR 72143)

'94 Christy Coonts (BBA) is a human resources manager for Murray Inc. (2405 Amberwood Circle, Nashville, TN 37221)

ALUMNI PROFILE

William Everett (BA'90)

IDWAY THROUGH HIS

college career,

Nationally-syndicated radio program combines literature, music

William Everett took off for Europe because he was tired of going to school. He chose Ireland and, without knowing anyone in the country, became principal oboist for the Dublin Symphony Orchestra.

Much of Everett's life has worked out in a similarly haphazard manner, including his latest adventure in radio. A few years ago while attending a reception for a piano player, he found himself in a heated religious discussion with the Jewish pianist and a Catholic woman. The woman turned out to be the program director of a local radio station in

Port Isabel, Texas. "Later I asked her, 'Why don't you hear fiction on the radio?' and she replied, 'Why aren't you out doing it?'Two months later I was doing a two-hour live show once a week."

Today Everett produces a weekly show called "Theme and Variations," a program that combines classical music and readings from literature on a common theme. During a typical show, Everett may mix a selection from Tolstoy's "War and Peace" with the same opera by composer Prokofiev in a combination that is anything but typical. He includes his own stories once a month.

"All my life music and literature have been vying for my attention," he says. "This is my way of making peace with these two forces."

Each month he hosts an open forum during which he reads original poetry sent in by listen-received more than 300 poems in response."Once you put it with music it becomes entertainment," he says. "It's not just poetry anymore."

Since October, the highly original show has been in syndication through National Public Radio (NPR), and Everett estimates that it can be heard on 25-30 NPR stations around the nation.

The program has been so successful that this year Everett was finally able to guit his day job."I was a jack of all trades," he says." I did everything from cleaning pools to graphic design."

The money for his program comes from underwriting and grants which he has to come up with on his own."Theme and Variations" is currently underwritten by The Oxford American, a magazine published by John Grisham.

Everett traces his interest in radio back to his childhood days of oper-ers and mixes music. He's ating a HAM radio." But even before that, Everett recalls the "veah" feeling he experienced when he wandered into his grandfather's radio room and looked around and listened with amazement.

> This summer Everett is launching a new program, a radio poetry iournal called "Rhythm: The Public Radio Poetry Project." It's a half-hour collage of music and poetry read by the authors.

> But the thing Everett is most excited about is his upcoming adoption of a 9-year-old Russian child named Vladimir Evgenievich Bagurov.

Though he doesn't necessarily expect his son to share his passion for literature and music, he says, "I'll give the kid access to as much as I can. I want him to be introduced to more ideas, to see a side of life I didn't see as a kid." And, "He'll be on the radio as soon as he can speak English." IHI

— April Mouser

Tim Fantauzzo (BBA) is northern sales manager for Crescent Gage and Tool. His wife is the former Misty Massie (BSW'95). (3030 S. Detroit Ave., Tulsa, OK 74114)

James Keilty (BA) works for Waupaca Foundry. He and his wife, the former Becky Butzin ('96), have two children. (N1870 William Drive, Waupaca, WI 54981)

Kathy Thacker Keves (BA) is a homemaker. She and her husband Joe, have a daughter. (P.O. Box 425, Crosbyton, Texas 79322)

Keith Morrow (BA) is head athletic trainer for Loras College. (1450 Alta Vista, #148, Dubuque, IA 52004)

Darold Rydl (BA) is senior e-commerce account manager with Direct Source, (353 E. Las Colinas Blvd., #112, Irving, TX 75039)

Paul Simpson (BSN) is a flight nurse for the U.S. Air Force. He and his wife, the former Wanda Harris (BSN), have three children. (46 Stacy Drive, Fairview Heights, IL 62208)

'95 Reunion at Homecoming 2000 Tim Brown (BS) is a customer care associate with Williams Communications Group Inc. (P.O. Box 700323, Tulsa, OK 74170)

Kendall Doan (BA) is a research analyst with Costar Group. His wife, the former Tammy Johnson (BBA'98), is an assistant manager with Veterans Canteen Service. (7067 Watersedge Lane, #116, Cincinnati, OH 45241)

Derek Hampton (BSW) is a defense counsel and legal assistance attorney for the U.S. Navy. (3460 Riverstone Court, #1333, Fort Worth, TX 76116)

John Henry is a legal specialist in the U.S. Army's JAG Corp. He and his wife, Andrea, have two daughters. (2193 D Desiderio Court, Schofield Barracks, HI 96857)

Aaron Kite (BA) is an attorney for Foulston and Siefkin L.L.P. (Route 2, Box 201, Gothenburg, NE 69138)

'96 Stacy Hesselrode Colvett (BA) is a speech pathologist for D. Curlee Communication Consultants. (U.T. Box 16353, Knoxville, TN 37996)

Stephen Green (MSMFT) recently earned a doctorate in family and child development from Virginia Tech. His wife, the former Mary Thompson (MSE'95), works for Cooperative Extension Services. (335 New Kent Road, Blacksburg, VA 24060)

Jay Hall (BA) is in management with Enterprise Rent-A-Car. His wife, the former Lydia Painter (BA), teaches third grade at Chatsworth Elementary School. (14 Eagle Mountain Villa Court, #7047, Ellijay, GA 30540)

Ric Hudson (BMin) is an associate and youth minister for Richard Street Church of Christ. (206 First St., Hot Springs, AR 71913)

Kris Keim (BBA) is an accountant for Transamerica Worksite Marketing. (9300 Treasure Hill Road, #1604, Little Rock, AR 72227)

Jason Looney (BS) is an oracle architect for Espial International. His wife is the former Julie Anderson (BA'95). (5508 E. Prescott Ave., Castle Rock, CO 80104)

Daryl Rodgers (BA) is a graduate teaching associate while working on his master's in Italian at Ohio State University. His wife, the former Becki Folkerts (BSN), is a staff nurse in the surgical oncology unit at the Arthur James Cancer Hospital, (1717 Summit St., #2A, Columbus, OH 43201)

Mindy Schackmann (BA) received her master's in library science from the University of North Texas in December 1999. She is a librarian for the Tulsa City/County Public Library System. (5842 S. Maplewood Ave., Tulsa, OK 74135)

Rebecca Sofie (BBA) is director of communication and events for Successful Money Management Seminars. (8900 S.W. Sweek Drive, #825, Tualatin, OR 97062)

'97 Tom Anderson (BA) is a deputy sheriff for the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Department. (20460 Via Castile, Yorba Linda, CA 92886)

Katherine Wright Fromm (BSW) is an intake/follow-up coordinator for the Community Enrichment Center. (521 Crandle, Fort Worth, TX 76108)

Sara Hardin Keeth (BA) works in advertising for Mattress Giant. Her husband, Jonathan (BBA'98), is a sales representative for Innovex Pharmaceuticals. (1509 Main St., #206, Dallas, TX 75201)

Jennifer Long Loffink (BBA) is senior auditor for Hoffman, Stewart, Schmidt and McGee. Her husband, Robert ('98), is a healthcare consultant for Stockamp and Associates. (P.O. Box 924, Gresham,

James Nesmith (M.Div.) is a missionary and evangelist leading a new outreach to downtown Richmond and Virginia Commonwealth University. (9741 Kendrick Road, Richmond, VA 23236)

Jonathan Pace (BBA) is a programmer analyst for Federal Express. He and his wife, the former Morgan Nokes (BA'96), have a daughter. (1835 E. Wolfchase Circle, #102, Cordova, TN 38018)

Bryan Turner is a technical consultant for Upgradebase.com. (16701 Algonquin St., #310, Huntington Beach, CA 92649)

'98 Amanda King Chute (BA) teaches second grade at East Milton Elementary. (3761 Ward Basin Road, Milton, FL 32583)

Jessica Fain (BA) is teaching fourth-grade science and social studies at Anne Frank Elementary School. (18909 Lloyd Circle, #126, Dallas, TX 75252)

Mark Farrar (BA) is associate minister for the Crosstown Church of Christ. His wife, the former Rebekah Evans (BA'99), is a doctoral student in psychology at the University of Tulsa, (715 South Sandusky Ave., Tulsa, OK 74112)

Shavne Gardner (BBA) is a vicepresident in sales for Next Generation Underwriters Inc. (3008 Creekview Drive, Goodlettsville, TN 37072)

Danielle Hallmark (BA) teaches third grade for Goliad Independent Schools. (1701 Victoria Station Drive, #203, Victoria, TX 77901)

Charles Marcussen (BBA) is a staff accountant for Fairfield Communities Inc. (36 Stoneybrook, #8, Searcy, AR 72143)

Lena Maximova (BA) is a direct seller in real estate with Century 21. (35 Waban Court, Schaumburg, IL 60193)

Melanie Patton (BA) is a graduate student at Middle Tennessee State University working toward an edu cational specialist degree in school psychology. (5353 Cane Ridge load, #819, Antioch, TN 37013)

'99 Beth Bratton (BA) is a recruiter/agency assistant for Bertasi Agency. Beth has a daughter. (220 Lewisburg Road, Austin, AR 72007)

Ieff Fall (BA) is a senior technical analyst for Hasbro Inc. (303 Greenwich Ave., #A-303, Warwick, RI 02886)

Michael Fann (BA) is youth minis ter for Southside Church of Christ. (3540 Creekwood Drive, #2, Lexington, KY 40502)

Stephanie Fuscher (BSN) is a nurse at Children's Hospital in San Diego. (2985 Valley St., Carlsbad, CA 92008)

Allison Ham (BA) is director for St. John's Child Care. She and her husband, Michael, have a son. (1753 Zion, #90, Fayetteville, AR 72703)

Brian Harmon (BA) is a software developer for Alltel. (1100 Brookside, #39, Little Rock, AR 72227)

Desmond Leslie (BBA) is a systems analyst for Central Bank of Belize, (197, Ext. I Belama, Belize City, Belize)

Sheila Stout (BA) is an assessor reevaluator for the Oklahoma County Assessor's Office. (412 Summit Ridge Drive, #302, Oklahoma City, OK 73114)

Jim Tabor (MSMFT) works in counseling and family ministry for the Eastside Church of Christ. He and his wife, the former Marilvan Gibson ('97), have two children. (816 Prairie Star Circle, Colorado Springs, CO 80916)

Laura Wilson (BA) is a special education teacher at Dan Mills Elementary. (3031 Franklin Pike, Nashville, TN 37204)

Marriages

Josh Bostic (BA'98) to Jean Massie (BA'99), Dec. 12, 1998. (217 Sandy Wood Court, Madison, AL 35758)

Bob Higbee (BA'94) to Jennifer Lavender, March 13, 1999. (1183) Greenview Road, Collierville, TN 38017)

Buddy Wilson (BBA'88) to Jamie Kendig, March 27, 1999. Buddy has been promoted to first vice president with Salamon Smith Barney. (2385 Rutland Place, Thousand Oaks, CA 91362)

Julie Espenschied (BA'94) to Mark Needham, April 28, 1999. (P.O. Box 786, Fayetteville, AR 72702)

Deanna Oliver (BA'97) to Brian Short, June 19, 1999. (P.O. Box 936, Morenci, AZ 85540)

Jerry Worthey ('01) to Amanda Brown ('02), June 25, 1999. (2203 Ave., Apt. M, Wichita Falls, TX 76309)

Brian Polk (BA'99) to Jennifer Herlong ('00), June 26, 1999. (3030 Beltline Road, #1715, Garland, TX 75044)

Tony Woodruff (BS'98) to Melissa Harlan (BA'96), July 10, 1999. (11901 Pleasant Ridge Road, #313, Little Rock, AR 72212)

Jennifer Evans (BA'99) to Jason M. Paltjon, July 24, 1999. (3424 Frankford Ave., #10B, Lubbock, TX 79407)

Richard Wiginton (BA'99) to Melanie Fester ('00), Aug. 14, 1999. (3734 Gus Thomasson, #203, Mesquite, TX 75150)

Melanie Baskett ('97) to Jonathan Allen, Aug. 21, 1999. (122 Suzanne Lane, Victoria, TX 77901)

Greg Martin (BBA'98) to Kelly Collins (BA'99), Aug. 21, 1999. (15199 County Road 2350, St. James, MO 65559)

Melissa Rankey ('97) to Brian Paproski, Nov. 13, 1999. (2959 The Lake Road, Gainesville, GA 30501)

Rachel Bradford (BS'94) to Dean Draper, Nov. 27, 1999. (Rt. 1, Box 64, Mount Vernon, TX 75457)

Tracie Wiles ('87) to Michael Albert, Dec. 31, 1999. (12093 Roddy Road, #14, Gonzales, LA 70737)

Jessica Dulaney (BA'99) to Tim Lindsley, Dec. 31, 1999. (Harding University, Box 11900, Searcy, AR

Chris Collett (BA'94) to Angela Minella, Jan. 1. (6 Colonial Heights, #4, Searcy, AR 72143)

Dan Leichner (BA'99) to Lisa Bliss, Jan. 1. (1209 W. Academy Ave., Searcy, AR 72143)

Gretta Voss ('98) to David Johns, Jan. 1. (P.O. Box 776, Hanceville, AL 35077)

Quill Fuchs (BS'54) to Mealeta Cable ('61), Jan. 2. (744 Crest Drive, Jonesboro, AR 72401)

Mike Stephens (BS'96) to Stacey Haywood (BA'95), Jan. 15. (2501 Riverfront Drive, #A108, Little Rock, AR 72202)

Elyse Slavska (BA'99) to Stephen J. Rose, Feb. 12. (Harding University, Box 10194, Searcy, AR 72149)

Becky Adams ('84) to Michael Penix, Feb. 19. (221 E. 11th St., Bonham, TX 75418)

Dusty Crawford (BBA'98) to Claudia Navarro (BBA'97), March 3. (30106 Bashaw Drive, Spring, TX 77386)

Lori Yarbrough (BA'94) to Cass Brock, March 11. (368 Pearl St., Keller, TX 76248)

Brandon Smith (BBA'98) to Kim Haythorne, March 18. (9165-39 Nesbit Ferry Road, Alpharetta, GA 30022)

Births

To Chris (BS'89) and Linda Kaeding (BA'89) Hanson, a daughter, Caroline Grace, Sept. 6, 1998. (6724 N. Kirby Oaks Cove, Memphis, TN 38119)

To Rick and Christina Northcutt (BS'89) Collins, a son, Ian Grant, Sept. 22, 1998. (1160 Glenbrook Drive, Franklin, TN 37064)

To David (BA'90) and Katy Goldman (BA'88) Vaughn, a son, Nathan David, Jan. 12, 1999. (3239-B Southlake Drive, Nashville, TN 37211)

To Bliss (BA'81) and Joan Browning (BBA'83) Foster, a son, Isaac Michael, Feb. 1, 1999, (354 Kennesaw Ave., Marietta, GA 30060)

To Brett (BA'89) and Mary Turner, a daughter, Alyssa, Feb. 19, 1999. (1305 Enota Ave. N.E., Gainesville, GA 30501)

To Ben and Susan Isom (BBA'91) Henry, a son, Caleb Allan, March 5, 1999. (6832 Ridgewood Drive, Fort Worth, TX 76180)

To Kevin (BBA'88) and Benay Waite (BA'86) Blume, a daughter, Carys, March 8, 1999. Kevin was named the Physical Therapist of the Year with Home Health Care. (1534 Wooded Drive, Grenada, MS 38901)

To Danny and Jaymie Benskin (BSW'96) Hopkins, a daughter, Erika Jewell, March 12, 1999. (1668 Missle Base Road, Judsonia, AR 72081)

To Gary and Elaine Boswell (BS'79) King, a daughter, Abigail Boswell, March 28, 1999. (506 Brentview Hills Drive, Nashville, TN 37220)

To Jason (BBA'97) and Catherine Anderson (BS'97) Cravy, a son, Tynan Andrew, April 9, 1999. (122 Walton Green Way, Kennesaw, GA 30144)

To Leslie (BA'92) and Janea Spell (BA'91) Rvdl, twin daughters, Meghan Reese and Jessica Nicole, April 15, 1999. (2044 Ronald Circle, Seffner, FL 33584)

To George (BA'92) and Julie Huffman (BSN'92) Pitcher, a daughter, Kate Elizabeth, April 21, 1999. (18275 S.W. 134th Terrace, Tualatin, OR 97062)

To Lenn and Lisa Grow (BA'87) Fraraccio, a daughter, Mary Isabella, May 28, 1999. (1011 Sierra Shadows Drive, Katy, TX 77450)

To Greg (BS'90) and Melony Bristow Fielder, a daughter, Taylor Noelle, June 2, 1999. (67 Park Ridge, Maumelle, AR 72113)

To Chico (BBA'92) and Lisa Terry (BA'93) Ford, a son, Peyton, June 3, 1999. (1661 Niagara Blvd., Lewisville, TX 75077)

To Allan (BS'77) and Cindy Oakley (BA'77) Stanford, a daughter, Mihaela, by adoption June 4, 1999. She was born June 14, 1992. (312 Summerfield Drive, Bryant, AR 72022)

To Greg and Kim Dobbs (BSW '92) Harbert, a son, Cameron Marley, June 5, 1999. (8051 Southern Springs Blvd., Indianapolis, IN 46227)

To John (BA'92) and Kristi Martin (BS'92) Sibert, a daughter, Faith Gabrielle, June 23, 1999. (1530) Seminole Circle, Alabaster, AL

To Christopher and Karla Bergdahl (BA'88) Kamrada, a daughter, Cassidy Anne, June 27, 1999. (3555 Onyx Lane, Adrian, MI 49221)

To Keith and Kim Thompson (BA'91) Riggs, twin sons, Noah and Logan, July 1, 1999. (729 Block, Port Neches, TX 77651)

To Charles and Lori Bailey (BA '87) Vesperman, a daughter, Bailey Renae, July 18, 1999, (12108 Saxony Lane, Austin, TX 78727)

To Bruce and Jackie Jordan (BA'90) Dawsey, a son, Justin Wayne, July 21, 1999. (2288 Luella Road, Sherman, TX 75090)

To Patrick and Tracy Weldy (BSN '90) Thomas, a son, John, July 25, 1999. (3085 Ridgemeadow Drive, Winston-Salem, NC 27127)

To Peter and Shara Marquardt (BA '95) Heiniger, a daughter, Monique Renée, Aug. 4, 1999. (7714 96th St. S.W., Motley, MN 56466)

To Matt (BME'95) and Amy Grant (BME'94) Mellor, a son, Marcus David, Aug. 9, 1999. (14008 Sweet Bay Drive, Little Rock, AR 72211)

To Tom Ed (BBA'93) and Amy Ferguson (BA'95) Simmons, a daughter, Abby Elizabeth, Aug. 10, 1999. (110 Dino, Hot Springs, AR 71901)

To Gerald and Angela Kays (BBA '86) Driskill, a son, Eli Chilton, Sept. 2, 1999. (4305 N. Lookout, Little Rock, AR 72205)

To James (BA'92) and Angie Hughan (BS'93) Scott, a daughter, Amber Sky, Sept. 2, 1999. (1605 Marquette St., Davenport, IA 52804)

To John (BBA'92) and Amy Harrell (BA'92) Turbeville, a son, Leighton, Sept. 8, 1999. (702 Fortune Drive, Monroe, LA 71203)

To James (BS'94) and Jina Anderson O'Clair ('95), a son, Tyler James, Sept. 14, 1999. (104 Moss Hill Court, Calera, AL 35040)

To Bron (BBA'87) and Donna Schinnerer Fore, a son, Cole William, by adoption Sept. 16, 1999. (10019 Hickory Trail Lane, Houston, TX 77064)

To Jamie and Stephanie Oliver ('95) White, a daughter, Kayleigh, Sept. 28, 1999. (1505 27th St., Haleyville, AL 35565)

To Dana (BA'93) and Stephanie Hilton ('92) Deree, a son, Truman Joseph, Oct. 2, 1999. (5 Gregory Lane, Little Rock, AR 72205)

To Kerry and Lori Tucker (BA'94) VanDer Kamp, a daughter, Anna Marie, Oct. 2, 1999. (18959 S.W. Neugebauer Road, Hillsboro, OR

To Jamie (BSW'89) and Holly Lock (BA'91) James, a daughter, Abigail Diana, Oct. 7, 1999, (3705) Arctic Blvd., #1464, Anchorage, AK 99503)

To Scott and Emily Brown (BBA '90) Glisson, a son, Tripp Andrew, Oct. 15, 1999. (855 Mill Station Drive, Lawrenceville, GA 30045)

To Derek (BA'93) and Amy Carruth (BS'93) Barber, a son, Britain Steele, Oct. 25, 1999. (431 Van Hook Drive, Ashland City, TN 37015)

To Bryan and Anna Conley (BBA'92) Mayo, a son, Jack Conley, Oct. 25, 1999. (3312 Elam Court, Plano, TX 75093)

To Dennis (HSBS'94) and Sarah McPike (BA'83) Faulkner, a daughter, Hannah, Oct. 28, 1999. (2279 Raymond Road, Raymond, OH 43067)

To Mark and Debbie Bitting (BA '91) Powell, a daughter, Audrey Elise, Oct. 28, 1999. (9236 Church Road, #2063, Dallas, TX 75231)

To Darryl ('92) and San Dickerson (BSW'90) Coates, a son, Elijah Aaron, Oct. 30, 1999. (7822 Blandford Drive, St. Louis, MO 63121)

To Chip (BA'91) and Kristen Pittman (BA'92) Arnette, a daughter, Audrey Elizabeth, Oct. 31, 1999. (706 S. Highway AB, Willard, MO 65781)

To Britt (BA'95) and Ashley Hickerson (BA'97) Lynn, a daughter, Haley Elizabeth, Nov. 2, 1999. (8055 Coppock Road, Corryton, TN 37721)

To Timothy (BSN'96) and Kerry Ramey Pitt, triplets, Andrew Martin, Ann Elise and Paul Wade, Nov. 10, 1999. (2028 Highway 16, Searcy, AR 72143)

To James and Andrea Morphis (BA'88) Naismith, a son, John Sherman, Nov. 17, 1999. (5923 Gnarled Oaks Court, Atascocita, TX 77346)

To Bryon (BS'93) and Elizabeth Barnhill, a son, Matthew Bryon, Nov. 18, 1999. (9505 Lost Trails, Waco, TX 76712)

on the FUTURE

Puzzled about estate planning?

by ROWAN MCLEOD, director of planned gifts

FRE'S A LITTLE CROSSWORD puzzle to help you think puzzle to help you trillik about estate planning and charitable giving. If you would like to check your work against the answers, just call us toll-free at (800) 477-4312 or write us at Box 12238, Searcy, AR 72149. We will send you the answers along with a free booklet on planning your estate. Then you can pat yourself on the back if you answered all the guestions correctly. However, if you missed a few, maybe it's time to brush up on your gift- and estateplanning knowledge. However you did, we hope this puzzle has encouraged you to review your estate plan. If we can be of assistance in any way, please let us know, For more information, visit our Web site at www.harding.edu/ advancement/index.htm.JHI

Across

- 2 Estate
- 5 Will Drafter
- 7 First Word to Pop 8 Boston Red
- 9 Gift Giver 10 Egyptian Sun God
- 12 Die Without Will
- 15 Camping Shelter

18 Possessions 21 Up Light Switch

23 Ocean

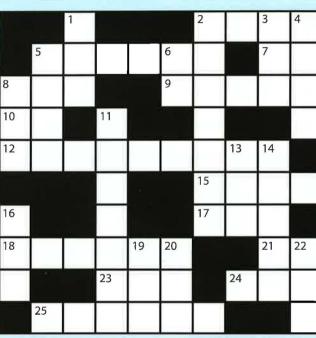

17 Last Word on Screen

24 What Debtors Do 25 Sum Total of Assets

Down

- 1 Uncle Sam's Due
- 2 Process to Settle Estate
- 3 "Much About Nothing"

- 4 Narcotics Agent
- 5 Money You Pay For
- 6 Talking Horse
- 8 Backward Tax Collection Agency
- 11 Gift From Will
- 13 Half a Score 14 To Perpetually Support
- 16 Buddy
- 19 Alternative to Coffee
- 20 Abbreviated Seventh Day
- 22 Not Old

This article is intended for educational purposes only. For specific and authoritative applications, please consult with your qualified professional adviser(s).

To Kevin (BS'91) and Lisa Tucker (BA'89) Kelly, a son, Christopher, Nov. 27, 1999. (6914 Morningside Way, Sachse, TX 75048)

To Jesse (BSN'95) and Lisa Badglev (BA'93) Pollard, a son, Parker David, Nov. 28, 1999. (200 Stillwater Circle, Nashville, TN 37221)

To Marty (BA'91) and Andrea Grimes (BSN'93) DeJarnette, a son, Jackson Malone, Dec. 1, 1999. (1606 Jeremy Drive, Columbia, TN 38401)

To Greg and Camille Krenz (BS '93) Whistler, a son, Aaron Duane, Dec. 1, 1999. (702 S.E. Wendy Lane, Gresham, OR 97080)

To Chris and Sherry Orr (BS'93) Steward, a son, Jackson Avery, Dec. 2, 1999. (160 Scenic Harpeth Drive, Kingston Springs, TN 37082)

To Eric (BA'95) and Melissa Truman (BA'95) Houghton, a son, Scott Eric Thomas, Dec. 4, 1999. (3207 Redwood Lodge Drive, Kingwood, TX 77339)

To Steven (BBA'93) and Jennifer Fly (BA'93) Nutt, a son, Derek Steelman, Dec. 18, 1999. (768 Chatham Park Cove, Lawrenceville, GA 30245)

To Scott and Joy Stinnett (BA'92) Watson, a daughter, Sydney Michelle, Dec. 21, 1999. (1007 Clark St., Jackson, MO 63755)

To Bob (BBA'92) and Debbie McArthur ('93) Letsinger, a son, Dylan Michael, Dec. 22, 1999. (5245 Osage Lane, Rockford, IL 61101)

To Dale (BA'92) and Lesa Duffey ('90) Gilliland, a daughter, Christine Rene, Dec. 23, 1999. Dale is a claims specialist with State Farm Insurance. (920 Ihler Road, Jefferson City, MO 65109)

To Mark (BBA'91) and Andrea Benson (BA'92) Maynard, a son, Luke Allan, Dec. 29, 1999. (808) Carroll Drive, Garland, TX 75041)

To Derrick (BBA'90) and Denise Martin, a son, Lake Aubrey, Dec. 31, 1999. (450 Williams Landing Drive, Sugarland, TX 77479)

To Mark ('97) and Melissa Dolliver ('97) Taylor, a daughter, Haleigh Kay, Jan. 15. (2700 Lipsey, Decatur, TX 76234)

To David (BBA'93) and Connie Barnett ('94) Combs, a daughter, Faith, Jan. 19. (38123 W. Chicago, Livonia, MI 48150)

To Stacy and Carrie Bowden (BA'96) Kirk, a daughter, Hannah Faye, Jan. 19. (793 BCR 205, Lampasas, TX 76550)

To Mark (BBA'83) and Laurie Garton, a son, David John, Jan. 20. (11081 Forest Drive, College Station, TX 77845)

To Rocky (BA'93) and Mandy

Rowe (BA'93) Dodson, a daughter, Marleigh Nicole, Jan. 22. (715 Ridgewood Drive, Mountain Home, AR 72653)

To David (BBA'85) and Kathy Wilson (BA'86) Hardin, a son, John Mark, Jan. 24, (3449 Calista, White House, TN 37188)

To Mike (BBA'82) and Kim Mc-Gaha, a son, Lucas Ryan, Jan. 24. (3320 Mason Drive, Plano, TX

To Russell and Kristen Perry (BA '91) Kemp, twins, Samantha Lea and Jonathan Russell, Jan. 25. (3003 Barnhill, Sugar Land, TX 77479)

To Chris (BS'95) and Cheryl Hoover (BS'94) Page, a son, Jacob Christian, Jan. 26. (Box 323, Hagersville, Ontario NDA IHO, Canada)

To Jerry (BBA'93) and A'Lana Dean (BA'91) Cutshall, a daughter, Kaitlyn Elizabeth, Jan. 27. (1645 Second St., Vero Beach, FL 32962)

To Joel (BS'94) and Michelle Cox (BME'93) DeYoung, a daughter, Nicole Chantal, Jan. 28. (10077 243A St., Maple Ridge, BC V2W 1X3, Canada)

To Paul and Jan Sykes (BA'83) Bertouille, a son, Michael Timothy, Jan. 29, (90 Crutchfield Lane, Paris, TN 38242)

To Preston ('97) and April Dobbs (BA'94) Boles, a son, Tanner Luke, Feb. 1. (214 Donald Choate Road, Beebe, AR 72012)

To Barry and Jennifer Meyer (BS'92) Boverie, a daughter, Lydia Beth, Feb. 4. (5639 Ivy Road, Milford, Ohio 45150)

To Glynn and Jennifer Madden ('95) Garrett, a son, Weston Cole, Feb. 8. (23 Earl Medlin Road, Rayville, LA 71269)

To Kenny and Kristi Crouch (BS'95) Kahlden, a son, Dylan Ray, Feb. 8. (9404 Buttonfield, Oklahoma City, OK 73160)

To Robert (BA'93) and Jennifer Provost, a son, Kevin Matthew, Feb. 10. (178 East Squire Drive, #5, Rochester, NY 14623)

To Nathan (BA'96) and Jennifer Lee (BSW'96) Wolfe, a son, Holden Tyler, Feb. 10. (8023-A Sand Lake Road, Anchorage, AK 99502)

To Ritchie (BBA'85) and Buffy Manning (BBA'88) Lynn, a daughter, Audrey Ellen, Feb. 11. (1085 Dove Hollow Drive, Cordova, TN 38018)

To Derrick and Rachel Heineke (BS '96) Jones, a son, Alexander Bryant, Feb. 13. (108 Plemmons Drive, St. Simons Island, GA 31522)

To Todd (BBA'99) and Chelsea Cooper McLeod ('01), a son, James Cooper, Feb. 13. (17 Par Drive, #1, Little Rock, AR 72209)

To Craig (BS'77) and Cindy Mc-Daniel, a daughter, Macy Grace, Feb. 19. (1809 Ivy Point Cove, Jonesboro, AR 72401)

To Robert (MSMFT'96) and Sandra Taverner, a son, James Robert, Feb. 20. (8749 Trinity Drive, Juneau, AK 99801)

To Eric (BBA'88) and Emilie Sabourin ('96) Ogren, a son, Jacob Eldon, Feb. 22. (2397 Saguaro Lane, Kannapolis, NC 28083)

To Trevis and Rebecca West (BA'97) Smith, a daughter, Claire Elise, Feb. 25. (P.O. Box 553, Bungen, WA 98605)

To Brooks (BBA'93) and Brenda Daugherty (BA'93) Snow, a daughter, Ashton Elizabeth, Feb. 28. (4211 Wesley Drive, Little Rock, AR 72223)

To Todd (BBA'95) and Georgia Crowson (BSW'96) Wolfe, a son, Daniel Todd, Feb. 28. (2909 East Moore, #2-5, Searcy, AR 72143)

To Bob and Susan Richardson (BBA'90) Locke, a daughter, Feb. 29. (1209 Cranford Place, Greeley, CO 80631)

To Wade and Gretchen Bukowich (BA'84) Tannehill, a daughter, Erin Joy, March 1. (2124 N. Carlton Ave., Liberal, KS 67901)

To Marty ('92) and Melissa Alexander (BA'90) Beebe, a daughter, Laura Gail, March 3. (1201 84th St. S., Birmingham, AL 35206)

To Brett (BS'96) and Holly Nichols (BA'96) Neely, a daughter, Anna Elizabeth, March 5. (327 S. Sangamon Ave., Gibson City, IL 60936)

To Christopher (BBA'90) and Brandy Willis, a son, Jackson, March 7. (2430 Belaire Drive, Cumming, GA 30041)

To Chad (BS'95) and Kim Sheets (BBA'94) Warpula, a son, Alexander Christian, March 8. (2412 Mirow Place, Charlotte, NC 28270)

To Ram (BS'90) and Jill Richards (BSN'90) Tackett, a daughter, Hannah Mary, March 10. (17611 Loring Lane, Spring, TX 77388)

To Jim (BA'92) and Jema Kingrey (BA'92) McCardell, a daughter, Taervn Lyndis, March 11. (42264 Parkside Circle, #101, Sterling Heights, MI 48314)

To D.J. (BS'95) and Kelly Mays (BA'95) Overman, a daughter, Camille Elise, March 20. (8101 Clipper St., Frisco, TX 75035)

To Clay (BBA'91) and Kara Dickerman (BA'93) Harland, a son, Kenneth Clayton, March 22. (13140 Rivergate Trail E., Jacksonville, FL 32223)

To Wade and Karen McLarty (BA'86) Crabb, a daughter, Callie Lynn, April 28. (10717 Crestdale Lane, Little Rock, AR 72212)

Deaths

Joseph H. Wooton (BA'45), 76, died Oct. 24, 1999. He preached for 50 years, mainly in Kansas. He is survived by his wife of 54 years, the former Mary Hargrave ('46);

three children, Paul ('70), Cheryl Edington (BS'72), and Nancy Blanchat. His only granddaughter, Andrea Jo Edington, is a student at Harding. (1532 N. Clarence, Wichita, KS 67203)

Jo Sullivan Walton ('42), 78, died Nov. 30, 1999. She is survived by her husband, Reese ('41). (973 Katherine Drive, Sierra Vista, AZ 85635)

Maxine Rose Umphenour ('48), 74, died Dec. 3, 1999. She is survived by her husband, Luther. (1608 Orchard Drive, Ottawa, KS 66067)

George Dale Reagan (BA'49), 75, died from cancer Jan. 20. He was an elder 33 years and served on the President's Development Council. He is survived by his wife of 52 years, the former Anne Spiro ('50); sons, Philip (BA'71) and Rance (BA'74); and daughters, Kathleen O'Keefe (BA'78) and Laura Kleinaitis (BA'83). (6517 Keswick Cove, Memphis, TN 38119)

Ruth Jackson Howard ('37), 90, died Jan. 31. She was a member of the Walnut Street Church of Christ for 37 years and a source of support during her husband's 60plus years of gospel preaching and radio evangelism. She is survived by her husband of 67 years, V.E. ('37); a son, Jasper; a daughter, Kay Young; 13 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren. A son, Ed, preceded her in death. (Box 5010, Texarkana, TX 75501)

Charles H. Wadley Jr. (BA'63), 60, died at his home March 23. Charles worked as a counselor in family therapy and had recently earned his real estate license. He is survived by his wife, Judy; a son, Chad; two daughters, Jill Balentine and Allison Summers; and two

Harold H. 'Hal' Hougey ('51), 71, died April 16 from pneumonia and complications from a long illness. He is survived by his wife, the former Grace Riggs ('48); son, Rich ('80); and daughter, Sandra Rogers ('80). (4737 Pizzimenti Court, Concord, CA 94521)

Marilyn Waller ('52), 69, died April 20. She is survived by her husband, Clayton (BA'49); daughter, Susan Noah (BS'76); and a grandchild. (1017-D Phillips Court, Montrose, CO 81401)

Rodney MacDonald, 21, died from Marfan's Syndrome April 23.

Rodney was a junior history major and a member of King's Men social club with whom he participated in Spring

Sing 2000. He is survived by his father, Mike, and his brother, Adam. Rodney was preceded in death by his mother, Darla. A memorial service celebrating his life was held on campus April 27. (1808 Lakeata Ave., Union Gap, WA 98903)

Justin Story ('02), 20, died May 18. He was a customer service manager at the Wal-Mart Supercenter in Searcy. He is survived by his father, Randal; his mother and stepfather, Elizabeth and Stephen James; a sister and three brothers.

DR. BETTY WATSON

Preparing the best /eachers

by CASEY NEESE

photography by JEFF MONTGOMERY

OR DISTINGUISHED Professor Dr. Betty Watson, the enjoyment of teaching is found in the enthusiasm and quality of her students. A professor of early childhood education, Watson says it is her students' desire to become "the very best teachers possible" that motivates her to provide them with the latest teaching methods and materials.

"The Christian men and women in my classes are the finest young adults to be found anywhere," she says. "My motivation for teaching them comes from their inner desire to learn."

Watson's efforts do not go unnoticed by her students. She was awarded the honor of distinguished teacher in 1973, 1982 and 1996. She proudly displays her three plaques in her office, along with a host of children's books and related "teacher treasures."

Junior Sonya Krautschneider took Watson's children's literature class this spring. She said the course - designed to acquaint students with quality children's literature - was fascinating because Watson "has a passion for what she teaches."

"She loves children so much; she encourages us to do the same," Krautschneider says. "She is so inspiring because she loves what she does. You can tell it through her lessons and what she says." Indeed, Watson believes

The use of visual aids is one of the procedures modeled by Dr. Betty Watson in her spring children's literature class. that the way a teacher interacts word meanings and language with the students, as well as patterns and teach concepts the methods and materials she about the world. They're also uses, are important for success holding them on their laps, in learning. She says that a giving them a bond of love and feeling of security."

May graduate Ashley Burton, who was in Watson's children's literature class as a junior, learned first-hand how essential books can be to early childhood education. As part of the course, Burton was required to read many picture books for young children and 12 "chapter books," children's books with 100 or more pages, for early adolescents. Burton said this assignment left her with a mental library of children's books, and she can now recommend books to her stu-

"I learned that there's a and reading interests.

dents that fit their personalities

the subject matter. The subject closest to Watson's heart is children's literature, a course she has taught continually for the last 32 years. She feels that books and reading play an integral part in forming a solid foundation for a child's mental development. Research over the last several years has verified that reading aloud is extremely important for child development.

teacher's eyes, smile, voice tones and even body movements convey enthusiasm for

"Reading aloud is the best gift that parents can give to their children," Watson says. "In doing so, parents model wide variety of books out there; there's a book for every child," Burton says.

Watson's office is home to an extensive collection of children's books which she has compiled through 35 years of teaching. She uses the books not only for her children's literature course, but also integrates them into the early childhood courses she teaches.

Watson, a member of the faculty since 1968, has seen a number of changes in education since she began teaching. She has noticed a trend toward active learning and the use of manipulatives, or tangible objects, in all subjects.

Though education concepts can be complicated, Watson feels the most important skills teachers need are the simple ones. "We want them to love the children, to treat them with kindness and caring, and to make them feel good about themselves," she says.

The emphasis she places on innovative teaching methods and her concern for the emotional well-being of children make Watson's education classes very effective. Two former students, who now teach in Houston and Nashville, Tenn., told Watson they "felt so well prepared" by the education program.

"That's what we want to be able to do here – to prepare our teaching candidates to be the very best teachers in the world," Watson says. III

EVENTS

JULY

19-21 Summer Experience II; (501) 279-4106

28 Summer graduation, Main Campus, Benson Auditorium,

AUGUST

3-6 Searcy Summer Dinner Theatre presents "Our Town," Department of Communication; (501) 279-4445

13-16 Tahkodah Music Camp: (501) 279-4343

16-19 Band Camp; (501) 279-4343

17-21 Student Impact, Office of Admissions Services; (800) 477-4407

Registration for fall classes, Main Campus: (501) 279-4403

Fall classes begin, Main Campus

23 Fall classes begin, Graduate School of Religion

SEPTEMBER

22-24 Family Weekend, Office of Alumni Relations; (501) 279-4276

24-27 77th Annual Bible Lectureship: "The Primitive Church for Present Times," Institute for Church and Family; (501) 279-4660

OCTOBER

19-21 Homecoming, Office of Alumni Relations; (501) 279-4276

19-20 Board of Trustees Meeting, President's Office; (501) 279-4274

20-21 President's Council Meeting, Advancement Office: (501) 279-4312

22-27 Discovery University, Office of Alumni Relations; (501) 279-4276

NOVEMBER

19-25 Thanksgiving recess

24 Summer 2000 · HARDING

Box 12234 Searcy, AR 72149-0001

Forwarding Service Requested

Non-Profit Org. U.S. Postage PAID Permit #1123 Little Rock, AR

A36352 Nr. Rick L. Fought Harding University Row 12267 Searce: AR 72149-0001

FINAL FRAME

Kinsey Prine adjusts her tassel after commencement exercises May 13. The daughter of 1988 alumni Sean and Kelly Prine of Bartlett, Tenn., Kinsey was there to watch her uncle, Clay Midyett, cross the stage.

HARDING U N I V E R S I T Y

DEVELOPING CHRISTIAN SERVANTS

Golden & Platinum Circle Dinner

Oct. 19, 5:30 p.m.
Founders Room
Tickets - $10
Number of Tickets:

Black & Gold Banquet

Oct. 20, 5:30 p.m.
Heritage Banquet Hall
Tickets - $12
Number of Tickets:

"The Man of La Mancha"

Benson Auditorium
Tickets $7 - All Seats Reserved
Number of Tickets:
Oct. 20, 8:15 p.m.

Oct. 21, 7:30 p.m. ____

tickets

Harding Bisons vs. the University of North Alabama

Oct. 21, 2 p.m., Alumni Field Reserved Seats

(all seats on the home side are reserved):

Adult - $10 each ____

Student - $8 each _____ General Admission:

Adult - $7 each _____

Student - $5 each ____

Name

Street

City

State

ZIP

() Area Code

Phone Number

Total Enclosed - $

To order tickets, remit total amount due and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to: Harding University, Box 12259, Searcy, AR 72149-0001. All purchases final.

WHAT'S NEW WITH YOU?

	Maiden Name
	E-mail Address Marriage Date
	E-mail Address
Home Addressstreet	CITY STATE ZIP Business Phone ()
Your Employer	Your Position or Title
Spouse's Employer	Spouse's Position or Title
List Children's Names, Gender and Bi	irth Dates

Place stamp here

Harding University Office of Alumni Relations Box 10768 Searcy, AR 72149-0001