HARDING ACCOUNTING MAJORS HIGHLY SUCCESSFUL

Within the last five years three Harding College graduates have received CPA's in accounting and four others have come within a whisker of the highly-sought-after professional standard.

Bill Dismuke, a 1958 graduate who decided only in his junior year to enter accounting, took the rigid exam in May of 1959 and achieved the highest score in Oklahoma. Dismuke is employed by Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Company in Tulsa.

Jack Hogg ('57) and Bill Cox ('58) have also acquired their CPA's. Hogg is a member of the audit staff of Ernst & Ernst in Memphis. By the end of his first six months, Cox was doing the work of a senior accountant for Ernst & Ernst in Dallas. Today he is supervisor.

Following completion of his MBA at the University of Illinois, Tom Parish ('55) entered the Army, where he was Finance Officer at Fort Benning, Ga. He is employed as internal auditor for Western Auto Supply Company in Arkansas and Tennessee and expects to finish work on his CPA in May.

Mac Angel ('57) is also employed by Ernst & Ernst in Memphis and should soon complete requirements for the CPA.

Also employed with Ernst & Ernst, in Dallas, is Pat J. Bell, a 1958 graduate. Bell received his MBA from the University of Arkansas before entering public accounting. He has completed three parts of the CPA and must wait until November to complete it.

Jim Chandler, a 1957 graduate, received his Master's from Arkansas and is employed with Price Waterhouse & Company in Kansas City. Chandler has passed three parts of the CPA exam. Also working for Price Waterhouse is Lyman Turley, a 1957 graduate.

With the death of Mrs. Florence Cathcart many of us feel that Harding has lost a truly great teacher.

As a teacher of teachers she has inspired literally thousands of students to use their talents in the training of children. Although Mrs. Cathcart served as a teacher of methods courses, it was as a teacher of children's literature that she is most lovingly rembered. Students who sat in this class were inspired to want to bring to all children the delights of reading and story telling.

In Mrs. Cathcart's Sunday school class the Old Testament characters of David, Daniel, Joseph and Moses came alive as she recounted their deeds. And in the classroom the phrase, "Once upon a time," opened a new and wondrous world to her students.

Two years ago Mrs. Cathcart, during the Christmas season, captivated an audience of both children and adults with the story, "A Boy's Visit to Santa Claus," and on that day she received the sincerest compliment that comes to a storyteller in the oft-repeated, "Tell it again."

Probably no more fitting tribute could be paid to the memory of this teller of stories to children than a memorial book fund for the purchase of books in the area of children's literature. Today's child is truly blessed to have many gifted writers now turning their talents to the creation of literature for children.

In recognition for what Mrs. Cathcart has done for so many Harding students, we feel that you will want to show your personal appreciation by contributing to this special fund for children's books to be placed in the college library. The average cost of a child's book today is $3.00. If you would like to share in this memorial book fund, either by contributing the approximate cost of a book or by helping to purchase a book, please send your contribution to Florence Cathcart Memorial Book Fund, Alumni Association, Harding College, Searcy, Arkansas.

Chicago, III.

Dr. George S. Benson and Dean L. C. Sears addressed between 75 and 100 at the Chicago Alumni Chapter meeting March 28. Those attending included high school seniors interested in coming to Harding. Following a question and answer period, refreshments were served and then the former students entered into an active business session.

Monea Chapter

The Monea Alumni Chapter of northeast Arkansas and southeast Missouri held its annual dinner meeting for prospective students in Jonesboro, Ark., April 18. More than 75 persons heard Harding Bible professor Jimmy Allen speak on the advantages of Christian education. The Skyrockets, Harding's men's quartet, entertained the group. Officers were unanimously re-elected for a second year and charter members said they would bring prospective students to visit the campus on Senior Day April 23.

Southern California

Gordon Teel, minister of the college congregation in Searcy, recently addressed a new chapter in Los Angeles, the Southern California Chapter of Harding Alumni. Teel, who was conducting a gospel meeting in southern California at the time, showed the 50 members colored slides and played recorded greetings from member of the Harding faculty. Harold Holland (BA'45) was elected president, Gene Koken (BA'40) vice-president and Ludene Slatton (BA'51) secretary. As a club project, the former students decided to Pay-For-A-Day.

From the Mail Bag

Mrs. Kenneth H. Bell (Joyce Blackburn '44) tells why she contributes to Harding Alumni Fund.

I contribute because it is an inherent principle given us children by our Godfearing parents. Seven of the eight children in our family have at one time attended either the academy or college department.

While growing up, we children anticipated going to Harding College as eagerly as my ten-year-old son anticipates owning a palomino horse. But when I finally reached the college level, there were three of us in college, and my dad could not afford to send all of us. Consequently, I attended my first two years at the state college in my home town, while working as deputy court clerk in the county courthouse.

Even in this small college, I remember one of my teachers laughing at my religious beliefs, comparing them with superstitions. It was at this small, hometown college, that I faced temptations that as a Harding student I was never tempted with. I was faced with the age-old problem of "doing as the Romans do" or be a misfit.

I want a college that my children can be a part of, can take part in the activities, and not be left out or feel as if they are "misfits".

God has entrusted me with three beautiful children, and He has specifically stated He is holding me accountable for the moulding of their minds. My constant prayer is that I will not fail Him, but will train these precious minds to always be in subjection to Him.

For approximately, eighteen years — The Lord Willing — my husband and I, with His help, will direct this training, but after they complete high school, we will not be able to supervise their training so closely, and under no condition would I want their training to be under just "any teacher — any college", but their teachers must be special — Godfearing, just as we have tried to be special parents to them.

Educated in the things of this world? Certainly! But more important, they must be educated in the ways of The Lord.

Harding can only survive by the backing of her alumni. No graduate of Harding would want to see her die as my older sisters saw their Alumni Mater, Gunter Christian College, die for "insufficient funds."

YES, I want a CHRISTIAN COLLEGE for my three children, and Harding can only be kept alive by adding my few dollars with the other dollars of those who care

-Mrs. Kenneth H. Bell (Joyce Blackburn '44)

THANKFUL FOR HARDING

I enrolled at Harding for a definite reason, I wanted something, and I felt so sure that Harding was the place to get it that I traveled all the way from Oregon. I had been raised in a Christian home, had attended church regularly, and had very high moral standards. Even with all this, Christianity had not been made real and meaningful to me.

My background was not of such a nature to make me want to dedicate my whole self — all of my efforts — for the cause of Christ and His Church. I had seen students from Harding when I was at Camp Wyldewood in 1949, 50, and 51, who could laugh and still be dedicated Christians — talking, singing, and praying with us. I wanted to be like these I met and loved from Harding.

When I was graduated from high school I was planning to be an engineer. After one semester at Harding, I re-evaluated my aspirations. I decided to be a medical missionary and wanted to build more than bridges.

I transferred to the University of Oregon for my senior year, in order to be eligible for admission to their medical school, where I am presently attending. In comparing the two schools, I will simply say, that I am thankful I have attended Harding College. Social pressures are tremendous in an environment of this type, and it takes a strong background.

FLORENCE M. CATHCART

The March Alumni News bulletin was ready for the press when Mrs. Cathcart passed away on March 22. It was impossible to meet postal schedules and include this full obituary which was written by Neil B. Cope soon afterward.

Mrs. Florence M. Cathcart, dean emerita of women at Harding College, died March 22 at a Searcy hospital. Her death at 84 years of age ended a career in Arkansas education that spanned a period of 36 varied and active years.

As instructor of elementary education from 1939 until her retirement from part-time teaching only three years ago, as dean of women from 1939 to 1947, and earlier as an elementary school instructor for more than 20 years, Mrs. Cathcart touched the lives of thousands of students, both college and elementary.

She came in 1924 from Harper, Kansas, as a student to Harding College (then at Morrilton). Soon she was serving the college as primary teacher in its elementary training school, a position she retained until 1947, helping as critic teacher to train many scores of Arkansas public school teachers. Meanwhile, she became the college's dean of women as well as instructor of elementary education.

Author of the words of Harding's "Alma Mater," Mrs. Cathcart was a significant influence on the campus since her days as a student-teacher in 1924, the year in which the song was written. She herself was a graduate of Harding, completing her B.A. degree in 1932. The college recognized her life and service in 1951 by naming its newest women's dormitory "Cathcart Hall."

When a chapter of the Future Teachers of America, the NEA affiliate for students, was established at Harding, the organization was named "The Florence Cathcart Chapter" and she was made honorary sponsor.

Even after becoming dean of women, she maintained an interest in the elementary school, continuing to direct and supervise a Rhythm Band for first and second graders at the Harding Elementary School.

Mrs. Cathcart was active in many community affairs and civic projects. During World War I she joined volunteers and gave first aid instruction in first aid at Mulvane, Kansas, where she lived at that time. In Searcy she was particularly active in the Searcy Garden Club and the Harding Elementary PTA. On campus she helped direct the Alpha Honor Society (now Alpha Chi) and the dramatics fraternity, Alpha Psi Omega. She was herself active in dramatics, being a member of the earlier group, the Campus Players.

She was a Bible teacher for many years. Among her treasured possessions was a large Bible inscribed from the Ladies Bible Class at the church of Christ at Mulvane, Kansas. She was a member of the College church of Christ and active in its educational program for many years.

She was also a member of the National Education Association, the Arkansas Education Association, and the National Association of Deans of Women.

Born Mattie Florence Gwinn on August 7, 1875, at Saline County, Missouri, she later attended public schools in Harper, Kansas. She studied at Kansas Teachers College intermittently from 1895 to 1898, then studied music education at Friends University, Wichita, and at Southwestern, Winfield, before enrolling at Harding College in 1924. She received her B.A. in 1932, two years before the college came to Searcy.

She was married August 12, 1898, to Orien G. Cathcart, who died some years ago. A son, Orien Gwinn Cathcart, lives in San Francisco. She is survived also by several nieces and nephews, among them Mrs. Dorothy Allen, Lawton, Oklahoma, Mrs. Ed Carnes, Farmington, New Mexico, and Arch Thompson, McAlester, Oklahoma.

Funeral services were held at the College church of Christ on East Race Street on March 24, with Dr. George S. Benson, in charge. Interment was in Oak Grove cemetery in Searcy.

FUTURE ALUMNI GROWING

Some time ago the Alumni Executive Committee approved setting up a card file on children of alumni. This will serve several useful purposes, and one is to enable Harding to keep closer contact with alumni and their families.

Judging by the way this file is increasing, it is the fastest growing aspect of the college, and that is good. As the years pass, an ever increasing percentage of alumni children will be students on the Harding campus.

At the present time there are more than thirty eight hundred names in this file. You can watch the birth announcements in the Alumni News and see how this list of names is increasing.

When sending in birth announcements, please give the full name, date and place of birth, and the name of the parents. Send a photograph whenever possible. Keep sending them in, please.

Kay Wright to Bobby L. Hamm (BS '57) on Feb. 11 at Little Rock.

Jean Hester ('60) to Clark Meyer on March 20 at Alachua, Fla.

Oweita Ann Silliman ('62) to Burton Mann on March 16 at Camden.

Barbara Galyan (BA'59) to Joe Davis at Indianapolis, Ind.

Bettie Ruffin ('61) to J. C. Beck on Jan. 3 at Rock Island, Ill.

Iona Delle White ('63) to Gaylin L. Benton on March 15 at Little Rock.

Alta Grace Price ('56) to Gene T. Anderson on Feb. 14 at Matheson, Colo.

You Can Give it and Keep it!

You may have real estate that you want to give to Harding College, such as house and grounds, and reserve full use of this property as long as you and your husband or wife shall live.

This arrangement has its advantages: first, it disposes of that property without the necessity of going through the probate court; second, such property is removed from your taxable estate for purposes of estate taxes (as it would also be if left to Harding College by will); third, depending on taxable income and other charitable gifts, the maximum deduction from your income may be made for tax purposes and the deductions can be spread over three to five years. You may give your real estate to Harding College subject to a lifetime use.

This arrangement can also be made with reference to valuable articles, such as paintings or rare books. You may give them to Harding College, reserving the use and the enjoyment of them for your lifetime or for a lesser period.

By using these plans you can be of great assistance to Harding College and Christian education. For complete details, write to: James W. Mills, Co-ordinator of Development, Harding College, Searcy, Arkansas.
