REMEMBER THE LECTURESHIP—A popular feature of the Harding Lectureship is the free Thanksgiving Day Barbecue, but the full program is nourishing far beyond the 'loaves and fishes'. From Monday night through Thursday night there is scriptural food for all. We hope to see as many alumni as possible, so come and bring others, too.

President's Corner

By Jack Wood Sears
BS'40

The Harding campus is buzzing again. We have just begun the new school year with the largest enrollment that we have ever had, more than 1700 students. The faculty began its work with the annual conference at Camp Tahkodah with President Ganus and President Emeritus Benson giving the keynote speeches. I feel that it was one of the best conferences we have had. Enrollment went smoothly in spite of the large number of students, many of them entering college for the first time. We have an excellent faculty again this year. Many new faculty members have had to be added because of the increase in the student body. Some of these are former students that have gone on to higher degrees elsewhere and have returned. Some have received their undergraduate training at our sister institutions, so they have the basic concepts of Christian education. All are here to serve. This is and has been one of the outstanding characteristics of Harding. We have always taken to heart the teaching of the Master when he said, "I came not to be ministered unto, but to minister." The founders of this great institution had this concept, and those who now guide the destinies of the institution hold fast to this philosophy. Harding is here to serve her students. It is our purpose to provide each student with the opportunity and the encouragement to grow intellectually, spiritually, socially, and physically, as Jesus our Lord grew, "... in wisdom, in stature, and in favor with God and man." To this end our energies, our thought, and our time are directed.

We are also anxious to serve our alumni. We have a placement service that is always glad to help any alumnus find a better job. The Alumni Association secretary, Buford Tucker, and his office force are ready to serve. Besides helping you keep track of each other and bringing you up to date on the activities at Harding through the Alumni News, they arrange for the various social events and other alumni activities at Homecoming, during the lectureship, at the end of school, and at other times. We would like to make your Alumni Association much more active and from the office here offer more services to you. We want you to suggest to us the ways in which we can best serve you and, through you, the college.

One thing we can do is to furnish speakers and programs for alumni chapters and alumni gatherings. In a short time a list of such programs and speakers will be provided, and you will be able to select your programs and your speakers. We hope that you will use this service and call upon us whenever you need help. We only ask that you be patient with us and give us sufficient time to make the arrangements.

We also want to encourage greater alumni participation in service to Harding College. We each owe so much to this great school. As Christians, parents, and citizens, we owe much to Our Lord, to our children, and to our nation. A part of this great obligation can be met effectively through moral and financial support of Harding College. If 1000 of us became members of the Harding Hundred Club, there would be 100,000 dollars each year to support the great work of Harding. If 100 of us gave $100 each year, there will be many thousand more prayers to God for this school and for its purpose, and this will be of untold value also. To join the Harding Hundred Club would bless you, for through it you would be able to extend your influence and your life and touch the 1700 lives that are presently enrolled in Harding College and the thousands that are to be her students in the future.

Collier and Niestad greeted by Buford Tucker

New York Alumni Visit Campus

A young Yankee minister, his wife, two small children, and a blind Southern educator combined forces September 4 as the group left metropolitan New York, an area where more than 16 million people live and work. The purpose of their mission — a three to four week long fund raising tour for the advancement of Christianity!

John Niestad (BA'60), a native of New York, and Breland Collier (BA'53), a 41-year-old Arkansan, share a common goal, that of spreading the Truth in an area which they feel is "ripe unto harvest."

Working with the Eastside Church of Christ, a small group of 40 Christians who meet in a four-story brick building originally used for a stable, and more recently as a funeral parlor, the two men solicit our help.

Mr. Niestad, who has cultivated a sincere interest in the youth of this "transitional area" where more Spanish-speaking than English-speaking Christians worship, and Collier, who is now working toward his Ph.D. in mental retardation at Yeshiva University, New York, anticipate taking the city for Christ through a systemized program of youth work, Bible correspondence courses, programs for the blind, and a modified exodus movement.

"Many contacts have already been made with the approximately 18,000 blind people in New York," said Mr. Collier, adding that a blind Jewish teacher and a blind musician have already been baptized.

"People in the northeast have few cars, but this can work as an advantage," Mr. Niestad stated. "They're proving they're not 'cold' by seeking membership in various clubs and civic organizations. They are open minded and can be taught. . . . If only the men and the means were available with which to help them."

Although he has been preaching for six years, it was only this spring that Niestad received full support and was able to quit his public job to devote himself wholly to the work of the church. Now, with enthusiasm and a prayerful attitude, Mr. Collier is asking that the door be opened so that he, too, might be able to devote his time and talents to Christ.
