New Buildings Reflect Campus Growth

Alumni and visitors to the campus will agree 1969 has been the "year of growth" for the fine arts area at Harding College. Perhaps not since the move of the school to Searcy in 1934 has so much advancement in facilities of the art, music and speech departments been achieved.

On September 26th dedication ceremonies officially named the music building and its recent additions the Claud Rogers Lee Music Center. Mrs. Dale Lee of Gladewater, Tex., was honored as the contributing donor for her $125,000 contribution for the new facility, named as a memorial to her late son.

Only two days later, Open House activities signalled the addition of the new $200,000 Art Center to the campus as the fifth building in Harding College's Decade of Development program.

The two-story L-shaped structure is located immediately north of the old Science Building and connects to the former president's home, which has been remodeled into faculty offices and a new gallery.

And in speech, a Little Theatre has been constructed by a renovation of the small auditorium, made possible through the $5,000 gift of Z. Bensky of Little Rock.

What does all this mean to you—an alumnus, ex-student, parent or friend of the college?

"Most of all it means that Harding College can offer an improved and expanded educational program to its students—your sons and daughters," said Dr. Ganus.

The Claud Rogers Lee Music Center has been expanded by an additional 5,200 square feet of working space. The new structure is adjacent to the music building, originally completed in 1952.

A 57 x 45½ foot practice hall, eight individual practice rooms, two storage rooms, two restrooms, and two rooms which can serve either as teaching studios or practice rooms comprise the addition.

Alumni Association To Hold Receptions

The Alumni Association has announced plans for two annual coffees sponsored by the Association.

Alumni and friends are invited to the Homecoming Coffee following the Bison-Ouachita Baptist Tigers football game on October 25. Refreshments will be served in the Trophy Room of the Heritage Building immediately following the game.

Another is set for November 6 at the Arkansas Education Association convention in Little Rock. The coffee will be at the Lafayette Hotel, Mezzanine from 4 to 6 p.m.

Buford Tucker, executive secretary, urged all former students to make plans to attend.

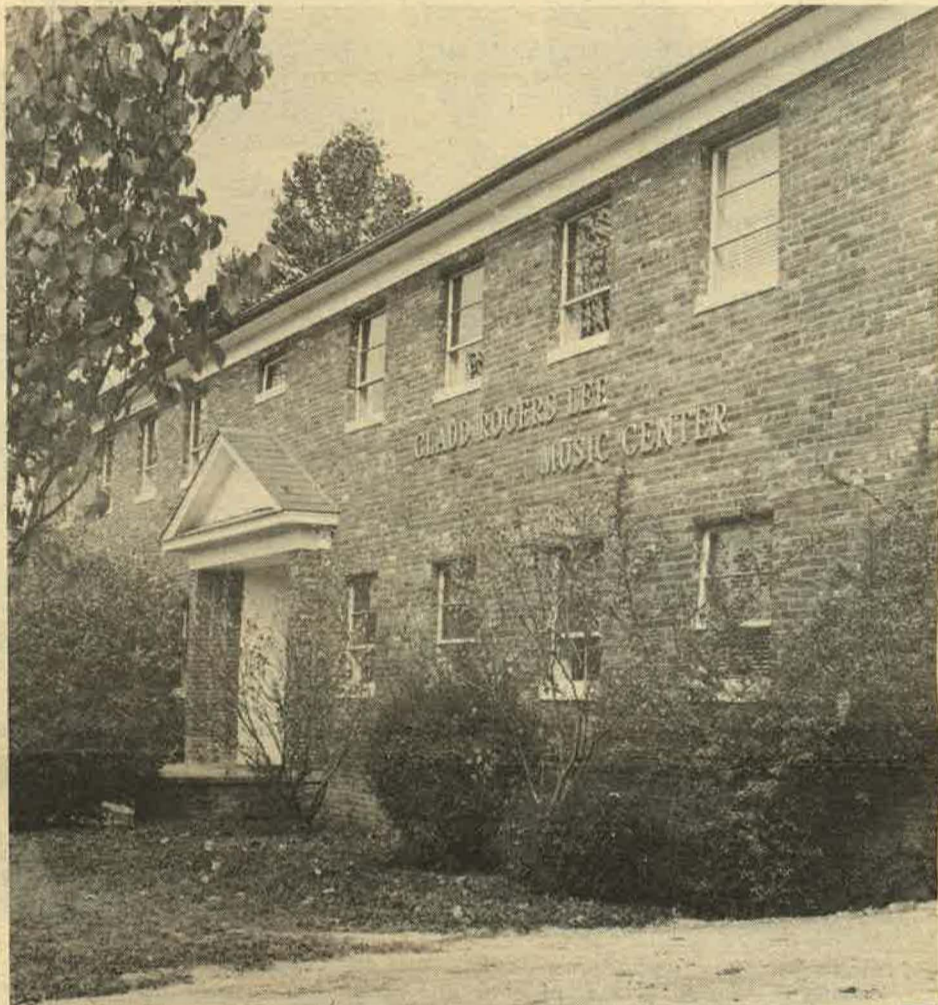

With Mrs. Lee's gift the entire building has also been air-conditioned, carpeted and sound-treated for maximum usefulness as a teaching and practice facility.

Equally significant has been the purchase of six practice pianos and two teaching grand pianos as well as an alto saxophone, a piccolo, a tuba and an oboe.

Dr. Erle Moore, chairman of the music department, commented, "We anticipate growth not only in our band program, with its new quarters, but throughout the entire department. With the facilities made available through the generosity and interest of Mrs. Lee, we expect to do an increasingly more effective job in music education for years to come."

Although many exes may fondly recall the old art rooms located in the rear of the Academy Building, they can quickly see the value of almost 12,000

The Claud Rogers Lee Music Center was officially dedicated October 26. Named in memory of the late son of Mrs. Dale Lee, the music complex houses all band, choral and recording facilities of the college.

Current Issues To Be Discussed

Fall Lectureship Set November 24 - 27

"Is God Concerned?", a subject relevant to the social and moral turmoil of our times, will be the theme of the 46th annual Harding College Bible Lectureship, November 24-27.

Dr. Joe Hacker, director of the annual lectureship, expects "an increase in attendance due to the importance of the lecture theme and the speakers selected for this year's event."

Theme speakers selected are Hugo McCord of Midwest City, Okla., C. W. Bradley of Memphis, Tenn., Don Finto of Nashville, Tenn., John Gipson of Little Rock, Ark., Andrew Hairston of Atlanta, Ga., Thomas Warren of Henderson, Tenn., George Tipps of Ft. Worth, Tex., and Clifton L. Ganus and Jimmy Allen of Searcy.

Lecture themes will include: "Is God Concerned Humanity is Dead?;" "Is God Concerned About Our Compassion?;" "Is God Concerned About Suffering?;" "Is God Concerned About Me?;" and "Let's Make God's Concern Our Concern."

Daily theme forums and classes will be conducted with evening lectures scheduled for the college's main auditorium and the American Heritage Auditorium.

Classes will be conducted Tuesday and Wednesday on the following: "The Gospel and Society and Secularism;"

FOR LECTURESHIP PROGRAM

"The Preacher and Counseling;" "Studies in Job;" "Helping the Young Mother Meet Spiritual Needs;" "Spiritual Enrichment for Mature Women;" "The Doctrine of the Church in Ephesians;" and "The Question of the Authority of God's Word."

General interest forums will be conducted on: Faith — by Harding professors Jack Wood Sears and J. D. Bales; Youth — by Robert Bankes of Ft. Worth and Avon Malone of Denver, Colo.; and Missions — by Keith Robinson of Italy, Bob Hare of Austria, Claude Guild of Australia, and Henry Farrar of Nigeria.

Another feature of the 1969 lectureship will be daily chapel speakers with topics of special interest to students, Hacker reported. John Gipson, Don Finto and Clifton L. Ganus will speak at the regular chapel services each day and will be considered as major presentations of the program.

On Thursday of lectureship week, George Tipps will speak in the morning and Jimmy Allen will deliver the afternoon lecture. Of special interest will be a Wednesday morning lecture presentation by Dr. Jack Lewis concerning his recent visits to the Holy Land.

Program coordinator Neale Pryor announced the traditional homecoming "dinner on the grounds" will be held Thursday noon, Thanksgiving Day.

As an added feature, a personal workers' workshop will be conducted Friday and Saturday by J. T. Bristow of Ft. Worth, Tex., in the College Church Auditorium.

Senior Day Activities Scheduled October 25

Annual Senior Day for all high school seniors and their sponsors will be October 25, according to Fred Alexander, director of admissions. The activities will be held for the first time in the American Heritage Building with registration set to begin at 8:00 a.m.

A reception in the Trophy Room of the American Heritage Center will be held at 9:00 when the administrators, faculty and student leaders will visit informally with the seniors. Appointments for departmental visits may be arranged at this time.

The Bison Stage Band, a smaller group from the Bison Band, will present a program at 10:00 a.m. in the Heritage Auditorium and the visitors will be officially welcomed by President C. L. Ganus at 10:30, followed by a devotional by Harding students at 11:00.

Both men and women's dormitories will be open to the visitors at 11:20 and tours may be taken through the new facilities on campus, including the newly completed Art Center, Science Building and the recently renovated and expanded Music Center.

At noon the visitors will be guests of the college for lunch in the Heritage Cafeteria.

Homecoming activities get underway at 1:15 p.m. with a parade and introduction of the three Homecoming Queen candidates.

At 2:30 the Bisons meet Ouachita Baptist University at Alumni Field.

Also included in the weekend festivities will be a pep rally and bon fire at the traditional chile supper at Camp Wyldewood near Searcy. Those arriving early may attend the Student Association sponsored entertainment.

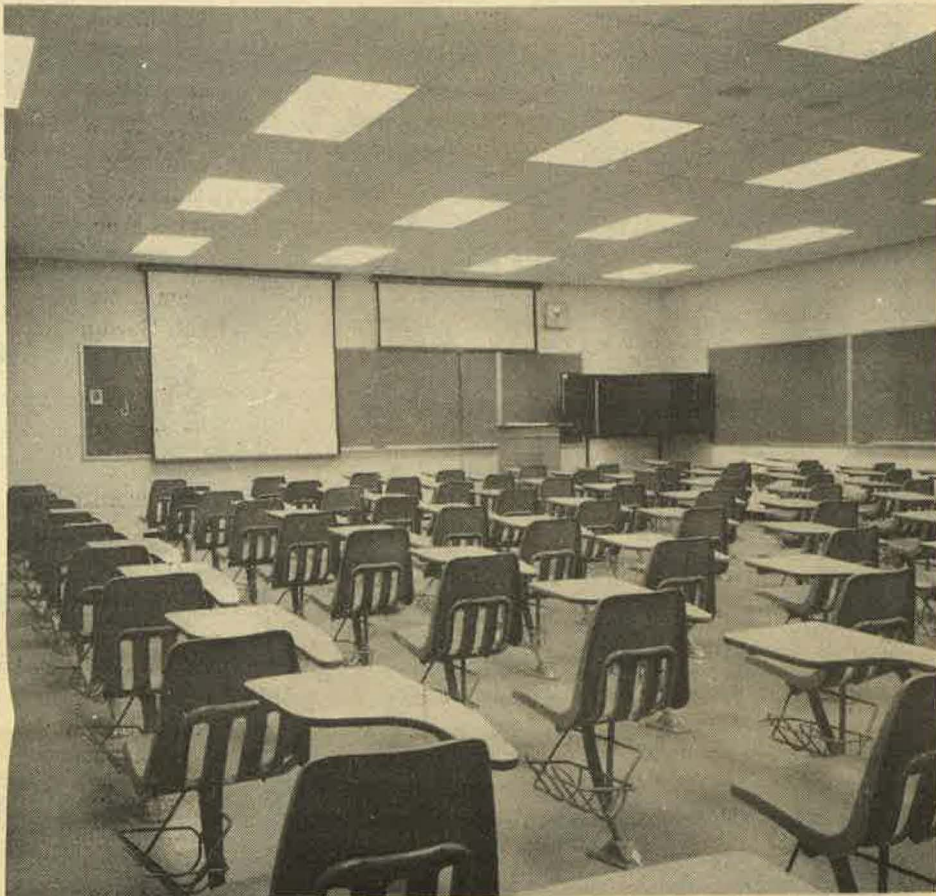

Seniors will be permitted to stay overnight in the American Heritage Center at reduced rates by making reservations in advance with Eddie Campbell, Assistant Director of Admissions.

The seniors may make arrangements privately to stay with friends in the dormitories, Campbell said.

Alexander and Campbell urged seniors to attend, emphasizing that campus visits are important in making decisions on which college to attend.

"Too many students wait too late to begin investigating colleges," Campbell said, "thus missing out on scholarships and other financial aid which are available for those who plan wisely. Senior Day will give students a chance to see what Harding College has to offer.

Spacious lecture and seminar facilities will accommodate art history and appreciation classes. A built-in projection room, twin screens self-storage for color slides and movie equipment are part of the self-contained learning center.

The long-awaited painting studio is an artist's delight with overhead floods to illuminate the painting subject. Sleek aluminum-stackable easels can be moved or stored without difficulty. Each student has his own taboret and storage area.

Heavy object rooms such as the ceramics studio, are located on the first floor of the new Art Center. Among the best equipped in the state, the studios include durable concrete floors, in-direct lighting, and individual storage space.

square feet of floor space in the new air-conditioned Art Center.

All rooms are self-contained with the heavy object rooms (sculpture, ceramics, etc.) on the first floor and the 'heavy traffic' rooms (lecture studios, etc.) on the second floor.

For the first time, members of the art faculty will have their own offices on the second floor of the former president's home. A covered walkway connects the two buildings.

"The lower level," said Mrs. Elizabeth Mason, chairman of the art department, "contains a gallery for art displays, a seminar room and a secretary's office."

And, as if to underscore the importance of the new center, Mrs. Mason announced an increase in students majoring in art to 69 over the 52 total a year ago.

With the completion of construction on the Little Theater this summer, the speech department will be able to portray a "more intimate type of theater, where the audience is seated closer to the actors," department chairman Dr. Evan Ulrey noted.

Ability to do experimental types of staging will be broadened with specially designed movable seats, mounted on platforms.

"It will now be possible to seat the audience on three or even four sides of the acting area," he said.

Lighting facilities have been modernized with a pipe-grid system, installed four feet below the ceiling, that has 36 interconnected circuits so that lighting effects can be rigged from a variety of areas.

The theater can still seat from 180 to 200 persons. The speech department plans to use it instead of the main auditorium for at least two of its three major productions for the 1969-70 season.

What the future brings is yet to be. The tangible evidence of interest and concern in Christian education is here and now—in the brick and steel added to the physical profile of the Harding campus.

The unique spirit and interest which is Harding will continue to grow and deepen, but 1969's "year of growth" will rank as one of Harding's greatest.

'Unique' Lady Fills Trustee Seat

The only woman on the Harding Board of Trustees, Mrs. Robert S. Warnock is not only unique in holding such a position, but is also truly a unique person.

She is known for her dedication to what she knows to be right, no matter what the situation was around her. This can especially be seen in her leadership with the work of the church over the past 50 years.

At her home in Magnolia, Arkansas, where she has lived since 1919, she can be found constantly busy. A small woman in stature but a great person in determination, Nina Grayson Warnock told of her experiences.

"I have been discouraged many times," she said with a quick wink and a flash from her blue eyes, "but I knew what was right and stuck to it."

This attitude has been reflected in her devotion to her church work throughout her life.

"As a girl I attended Henderson-Brown — a Methodist college," she said, pausing to note "This was before there ever was a Harding."

She explained that on Sunday they would all march to church in uniform — not necessarily to the Methodist Church, but they did have to attend church.

"My mother was a strong member of the Church of Christ and had a great influence on my life. So when we marched by the Church of Christ building, I dropped out of line," she said.

In 1917 she was baptized in the Caddo River.

And encouragements were not much better when she came back to Magnolia in 1919 and found that in the congregation of four or five families that worshipped together as the Church of Christ there were no men. She realized that while some congregations lack leadership because they do not have a preacher this group had no men at all for leadership.

Knowing that something had to be done, Mrs. Warnock provided what leadership the Magnolia church had — save for an occasional visiting male — for the next ten years.

First, a Wednesday night Bible study was organized in which the Bible was read and studied from cover to cover several times — taking at least two years to go through it each time.

On Sunday morning she taught a Sunday School class and, in the absence of any men, presided over communion.

"We really learned to love one another then," she said, "we really had a fellowship and a real zeal."

And it remains as a matter of record that when the time came to build a new church building, Mrs. Warnock was responsible for raising the money.

Her father, although not a member of the church, had become wealthy in the lumber business. He apparently was so impressed by his daughter's work that he donated half the money needed for the new building.

Mrs. Warnock, through letters and visits, raised the rest on her own.

Few people realize it today, but in those early years of Harding — even before Harding was called Harding

Mrs. Nina Grayson Warnock

College and the campus was at Morrilton, Arkansas — Mrs. Warnock was recognized for her leadership in Christian education. She was asked to serve on the Board of Trustees even then.

"Harding was in such difficult financial condition then," she said, "a real contrast to what Harding is today."

She said she left the Board then because she felt she was too young and inexperienced.

But today, as the only woman on the Board, she feels there is definitely a place for her on the Board and hopes that eventually more women will join her.

"We need more women on the Board because women have an insight that men do not have," she said, "and this could serve as a more complete guide for future decisions for Harding."

For the past two years she has served as president of the Columbia County chapter of Associated Women for Harding and works fervently in the organization whether it be clerking at a rummage sale or hosting a meeting in her home.

She would likely feel out of place if she were not so involved, for all her family are service-minded and busy, active people. Mr. Warnock is president of the Farmers Bank and Trust Company and a civic and business leader in the area. Their only daughter, Mrs. John (Mary) Harsh is a teacher; Mr. Harsh is a former mayor of the city and a member of the State Highway Commission; and the activities of their three granddaughters keep their interests abreast of the times.

Student Killed In Crash

Duane E. Priest, 20-year-old junior from Memphis, was killed in a head-on collision Sept. 4 near Bald Knob. Injured in the crash was Mrs. Priest, the former Cecilia Phillips, also of Memphis. Priest was killed instantly as an oncoming car crossed the center line into the path of the Priest's 1964 Chevrolet. The couple was enroute to Memphis.

Mrs. Priest was transferred to Baptist Hospital in Memphis where she was reported to have a broken back, broken vertebrae and internal injuries. Her condition is improving.

Priest, a pre-med major, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Priest, 5369 Normandy Road, Memphis.

Harding 'Helpers' Complement College Program

By Alice Ann Kellar

The Associated Women for Harding, broadening imaginations to several new undertakings for the college, have begun a fifth year of operation and all indications point toward this being the best both in number of memberships and accomplishments.

The 12 chapters in Arkansas, Louisiana and Tennessee have launched new programs, made plans to repeat others and the college continues to benefit from their efforts.

"We value the opinions and advice offered by these ladies," President Clifton L. Ganus said. "Getting the picture from a woman's viewpoint has helped us in many ways."

The organization for Harding started in Searcy in 1965 when members of the Stepping Stones at Oklahoma Christian College shared their experiences with a group from the area. A chapter was organized and was soon joined by others in Pine Bluff, Newport, Little Rock, Jacksonville, Magnolia, El Dorado, Fort Smith, Wynne, Benton and Hot Springs. Out-of-state chapters were organized in Monroe, Louisiana and Memphis, Tenn. Pine Bluff, since disbanded, had the distinction of making the first contribution to the college through funds from a rummage sale.

The chapters experienced rapid growth and enthusiasm was at a peak as ladies planned ways to help the school. A major point of the constitution adopted was to assist Harding College. Members soon found themselves collecting, assorting and selling rummage—hailed as one of the fastest methods of raising funds, sewing for forthcoming gift shows, subscribing new memberships and taking advantage of any and every opportunity to talk about Harding College.

A project of the Metropolitan Little Rock chapter in connection with the Arkansas Livestock Exposition was established on a trial basis and the results have been so gratifying the chapter has included the effort in its annual plans. Members operate a booth at the annual event which is attended by 250,000 yearly. Literature about the college and colored slides provide information and the ladies sell stuffed animals and toys made by the members throughout the year. Some members have used their vacation time to work at the Fair and others have taken time off from work without pay to do their bit.

The Fort Smith chapter made ambitious project plans in reserving the city's new municipal auditorium for a concert by Harding's famed Belles and Beaux. Good promotion and planning netted well over $1,000 and the singers who presented the program were doubly paid. The Fort Smithians earmarked their gift for the music department.

The list of ways to assist the school has become endless. Some projects have been carried out by request. But, necessity being the mother of invention, many have not come any too soon. During the summer the Searcy chapter completed the year's project of re-decorating the reception rooms in two of the women's dormitories. Since a constant problem with any institution is available funds, none had been available for a while for draperies. The new curtains, together with carpeting, decorative pieces and some furniture were welcomed by the residents.

If any one fund raiser is common to all chapters, it's sponsoring rummage sales. Some chapters, such as Magnolia, have access to a permanent room to store and sell the clothing. Others use vacant lots or street corners. But with the profits virtually a hundred per cent, it's no surprise that the women are willing to save used clothing and donate their time in selling it.

Banquets for high school seniors, teas for prospective college girls, community concerts, luncheons and style shows have been among other methods used for financial assistance to the college.

Some of the projects have been organization-wide. When the home economics department made known a need for a refrigerator in the home management house, the chapters banded to collect trading stamps for the cause. Within weeks a large refrigerator-freezer was installed for the homemakers.

Collection of the trading stamps did not stop and the ladies set out to get a nine-passenger station wagon for school use. The necessary amount has not been reached to date, but stamps are still being accepted nevertheless.

Box top and packaged foods coupons have provided the means for several items for the home economics department, a favorite among the women. "We always have a 'want list' for our foods classes and our clothing labs," Dr. Mildred Bell, chairman of the home economics department, said, "and through these coupons and the willingness of AWH to help we have improved our program considerably."

If methods of fund raising are endless, the types of programs are even more so. Some have been educational, others entertaining, and still others are workshops or demonstrations. One Searcy meeting even had international flavor when Gundo and Helmi Vent of Germany visited the States and performed with piano and violin talents. A recent project of the South Arkansas chapter at El Dorado was a concert featuring Bob Morris, a 1952 Harding alumnus. When possible, the college has sent programs from the departments of music, speech, home ec, art and development.

The tangible contributions are the easiest to enumerate, but the college administration is quick to recognize others. "These things are fine," Dr. Ganus noted of the carpeting and kitchen utensils, "but the moral support from the AWH is of inestimable value. We can't underestimate the good will manifested by members of AWH in keeping Harding before the eyes of the public. It has all been very helpful."

Then he added, "We don't want to discount the financial help, but the other is important, too."

Always women have expected to devote some of their time to charitable, civic and school activities. Harding is fortunate to have such loyal supporters and friends. The challenges to the college are great, but her friends have answered accordingly and the college will likely continue to benefit in untold measure.

Little Rock AWH Club To Honor Mrs. Warnock

Mrs. Nina Warnock of Magnolia, the only woman on Harding's Board of Trustees, will be honored at a tea at the Governor's Mansion in Little Rock November 8 by the Metropolitan Little Rock chapter of Associated Women for Harding. The affair is open to everyone between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m.

Arkansas Governor and Mrs. Winthrop Rockefeller have made the Mansion available to the Little Rock AWH and will furnish not only the Mansion but decorations and refreshments as well. "All we have to furnish is the crowd," Mrs. Louis Harrington, Little Rock president, said.

Last fall the Little Rock group held a similar reception at the State's house to honor President and Mrs. C. L. Ganus and Dean and Mrs. J. E. Pryor. Several hundred guests from all over the state attended.

The Mansion is located on 16th Street in Little Rock.

New Clubs Needed for AWH

Associated Women for Harding is an exclusive organization, but membership is open to everyone. Three kinds of membership subscriptions have been planned for the convenience of women wishing to join. Dues are $12 per year, payable annually or monthly. Life membership is available for those who contribute $100 within any calendar year. Patron membership is for those who contribute $500 or more within a year.

All dues are deposited in the operating fund of the college. Monies raised from projects are used at the discretion of the chapter. Harding, and all other private colleges, must raise money annually for the operation of the college since tuition, fees, and room and board do not afford enough cash to operate the institution.

Members receive a monthly newsletter published in Searcy. Those interested in membership may send questions to Mrs. Neale Pryor, 13 Harding Drive, Searcy.

Little Rock's chapter will host a tea honoring the only woman on Harding's Board of Trustees, Mrs. R. S. Warnock, president of Magnolia's AWH, on November 8 from 2 to 4 p.m. at the Governor's Mansion. Chapter members shown are, l-r, Mrs. L. T. Moss, Mrs. Bryan Waldrip, Mrs. Hazel Pruett, Mrs. Jack Case, Mrs. J. R. Duff and Mrs. E. R. Templeton.

Bisons Upset Experts, Still Unbeaten

By Stanley Green

Senior quarterback Jerry Copeland (17) received assistance from Charles Jones (33) and Charles Caffey (35) as he directed the Bisons to an opening 23-21 victory over Southwestern College (Kans.). The Pensacola, Fla., signal caller leads the AIC in passing, hitting 59 of 116 for 673 yards and five touchdowns.

A spartan-like fall training has paid dividends for Harding College's Bisons as coach John Prock's charges have posted a 2-0-1 record in early season play.

A 500-mile trek to Winfield, Ka., resulted in a 23-21 opening victory as tackle Jim Duncan of Earle booted a 37-yard field goal in the final two minutes of play to scuttle the Mound-builders.

One week later a 46-yard touchdown scamper by sophomore Harry Starnes of McGehee accounted for the Bison points as Harding fought to a 7-7 stand-off with Millsaps College. A tremendous defensive performance by captain Randy Delaet of Alma, in which he registered 23 individual tackles, played a major role in the decision. It was the second tie in the 10-year-old series, which Harding leads 6-2-2.

In the conference opener, Prock's scrappy team rode the right arm of quarterback Jerry Copeland of Pensacola, Fla., and the strong legs of tailback Charlie Jones of Jonestown, Miss., to a 20-14 conquest over perennial rival Southern State College.

Copeland hit nine of 18 tosses for 102 yards as Jones recorded the biggest night ever for a Bison back. The 6-0, 205 pounder carried 31 times for 194 yards, eclipsing the 187 yard march of former All-American Jim Howard ('67).

Harding will host Mississippi College on October 11 and Ouachita Baptist University October 25 in the annual Homecoming tussle.

BULLETIN — At press time, Harding has recorded an 18-7 win over Mississippi College and a 22-7 victory over Arkansas A & M for a 4-0-1 record.

Harriers Ready For Run At Seventh AIC Title

Only two lettermen return from last year's Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference cross country champions as Harding College prepares for a run at her seventh consecutive title.

With only junior Brad Dopps and sophomore Bill Slicer having competition experience, Coach Virgil Lawyer will call on tracksters Tim Geary and Rick Harris for service.

"Five of our ten men are freshmen," Lawyer said, "which indicates the rebuilding we're undergoing."

Assisting Lawyer this year will be graduate assistants Gordon Scoles and former Bison All-American Jim Crawford.

'69 - '70 Basketball Outlook 'Unknown'

"Our basketball prospects are strictly an unknown quantity."

With these words, Harding College's new basketball coach Jess Bucy looked ahead to the 1969-70 season. Formerly high school coach at Rector, Ark., Bucy brings an enviable career total of 305 wins with him, spanning a 15-year stay at the northeast Arkansas school.

"We'll be young in practically every department," Bucy explained. "Our greatest problem will be that our returning team members have so little actual game experience. It will also take some time to become familiar with a new system of play."

The Bisons were 17-10 in 1968-69 and advanced to the semi-finals of the NAIA District 17 tournament. All five starters are gone from that squad and only four lettermen return for duty.

Top hands experience-wise are seniors Larry Olsen (6-7) and Danny Russell (6-4½). Olsen transferred from York College last year and Russell is a former All-Stater from North Little Rock. Other lettermen are David Byrd (6-2) of Menefee and Bill Chism (6-2) of Gideon, Mo.

New prospects include a pair of junior college transfers, 6-5 Greg Franz from York and 6-2 Dana Zartman from Ohio Valley. Franz averaged 13.0 points per game last year and was named to the All-Prairie Conference second team. An All-Ohio honorable mention in high school, Zartman will bring a 17.1 scoring average from the junior college ranks.

Returnees outside include redshirt Charles Boaz (5-9), Maxie Carpenter (5-11), Larry Rodenbeck (6-1), and Chris Parker (6-1).

And to go with Olsen inside are Randy Ralston (6-5), Ken Lair (6-5) and freshman Joe Mathias (6-6).
