Pro Footballer, NASA Astronaut On Youth Seminar

Professional football quarterback Roger Staubach and America's first medical doctor-astronaut Dr. F. Story Musgrave will head the list of speakers at Harding's 16th annual Youth Citizenship Seminar, June 13-19.

Staubach, quarterback of the Dallas Cowboys, will discuss "The Challenge of Responsible Citizenship." As a collegiate quarterback for the Naval Academy he won the Heisman Trophy as a junior and still holds 13 of 28 records he set as a midshipman. Some of his many awards were the AP and UPI Back of the Year honors and the Maxwell Trophy.

The 1971 season will be Staubach's third in the National Football League. After a four-year hitch in the Navy, which included a tour of duty in Vietnam, Staubach joined the Cowboys in 1969.

Dr. Musgrave was selected as a scientist-astronaut by NASA in 1967. He and the other members of the sixth group of astronauts have embarked on a program of intensive preparation for future manned space flights. During the seminar he will discuss "The Role of NASA in Building for the Future."

The NASA astronaut holds six educational degrees including the doctorate in both medicine and physiology. During his visit to the Harding campus Dr. Musgrave will tour the college's research facilities which are presently conducting experiments in physical fitness for the NASA program.

Dr. Musgrave has flown 15 different types of single and multiengine civilian aircraft and has logged over 1,400 hours of flying time. An accomplished parachutist, he has made more than 200 free falls.

Other speakers on the program will include Dr. Clifton L. Ganus, Harding president; Billy Ray Cox, vice president and director of the American Studies Program; and Dr. Nicholas Nyaradi, chairman of the department of International Studies at Bradley University.

Cox noted, "In a time when there is such a need for responsible leadership and an informed citizenry, we have attempted to provide a challenge and informative program of lectures, black president of the only predominantly black Christian college among churches of Christ.

Among the candidates, 269 will receive Bachelor of Arts, 69 will receive Bachelor of Science and six will receive the Master of Arts in Teaching.

Baccalaureate services will be at 8 p.m. May 30 and Commencement will be at 10 a.m. June 3, both in the main auditorium of the administration building.

Evangelism Seminar Opens June 3

Two dozen missionaries whose service has reached to the continents of Africa, South America, Europe, Asia and Australia will be contributors to the World Evangelism Seminar at Harding College. The leaders will speak throughout the week in a program that covers lectures designed for both men and women, students, campaign groups and prospective missionaries.

Harding's ninth annual World Evangelism Seminar will be June 7-11 on the Harding Campus. A short Seminar for American Youth has been scheduled for June 3-4.

Dr. W. Joe Hacker Jr., chairman of the Bible department, is director of the annual seminar which is designed to provide direction and training for missionaries and to coordinate foreign evangelistic campaigns.

Five former missionaries will speak for the evening programs. Jim Massey, former missionary to Nigeria, will discuss "Every Christian A Missionary" on Monday. John Waddey, minister from Karnes, Tenn., will discuss "The Urgency of World Evangelism" on Tuesday. Dr. George Benson, currently on a tour of Zambia, will explore the subject "Giant Challenges Today" on Wednesday and Bill Richardson, former missionary to Holland, will present material on "Work of a Returned Missionary" on Thursday. Bob Douglas, minister of the College Church in Abilene and former missionary in Lebanon, will explore "Into All the World - Now" on Friday.

Winfred Wright and Bob Eubanks, both former missionaries now on the Harding faculty, will close each day's program with a devotional and Bible study.

Further information and details may be obtained from the Bible Department offices.

Summer Series Will Instruct Bible Teachers

Harding's ninth annual Christian Workers' Workshop will present a three-division program designed to serve and train educational leaders in the local congregation,

The July 5-9 workshop will include a Leadership Forum for elders, preachers and deacons: a Teachers' Workshop for Bible school personnel: and a Youth Forum for teenagers. The theme of the workshop is "Cummunicating Christian Concern." Allan Isom, assistant professor of Bible, is serving as the coordinator of the 1971 program.

A staff of 37 teachers from 11 states has been selected for the five-day workshop. "The staff for the 1971 program was chosen from among the finest trained and dedicated teachers in the brotherhood," commented Isom.

Bill Patterson, Memphis, will coordinate the Leadership Forum. Brad Brumley, Columbus, Miss., will direct the Teachers' Workshop and Dan Warden, College Station, Tex., will coordinate the Youth Forum.

Included in the topics for discussion in the Teachers' Workshop are Developing and Conducting a Cradle Roll; The Christian Family; Coordinating the Curriculum: Departmental Supervisors; and Enriching the Bible Lesson. Isom also noted that a special presentation of current Vacation Bible School materials will be available for the participants' consideration.

Participants in the Leadership Forum will discuss Fundamentals and Processes of Communication; Overcoming Communications Barriers in the Local Congregation; and Curriculum Trends. Youth Forum members will study Principles of Christian Living; Communicating Christian Concern to Parents, Friends and the World; and the Danger of Using Narcotics.

Further information may be obtained by writing the Bible Department.

New Programs Offered During Summer Sessions

Two new educational programs will be initiated during Harding's summer school sessions, according to Dr. James F. Carr, assistant academic dean and director of the summer session.

The two programs are an Advanced Studies Program for high school juniors and a pilot program in developmental education for freshmen. Summer sessions are scheduled June 7-July 10 and July 12-August 13.

High school juniors who have at least 12 units of high school credit with an overall B average or higher in academic courses will be eligible to participate in the program.

Students may enroll for 8-12 hours of college credit. Courses will be available in the areas of art. Bible, biology, chemistry, economics, English, French, history, mathematics, music, physical science, physics, political science, psychology and speech.

Commenting on the Advanced Studies Program, Dr. Carr said, "This credit may be used toward a degree at Harding or may be accepted at other accredited colleges or universities. Almost one third of the normal freshman year may be completed in advance."

Extracurricular lectures are also planned for the summer session. Members of the Harding faculty will discuss the nature of their disciplines. providing insight into the many areas of study that the college offers. The faculty will also provide vocational counseling for the high school juniors.

The developmental education program has been designed to offer special courses to a limited number of marginal students who have scholastic deficiencies in meeting Harding's entrance requirements. Developmental courses in freshman English and mathematics will be offered.

The students may earn a maximum of 10 semester hours of college credit during the ten-week session. Dr. Steve Smith, a Texas Tech math professor who will join the Harding faculty in June, will teach the developmental math course. Eugene Underwood, an instructor in English, will teach the special English course.

Each student will receive special tutorial help in addition to developing study and reading skills. A student will be assigned a faculty advisor for counseling.

"This program will give marginal students a chance to prove themselves in a college setting," said Dr. Carr. "The teachers for the courses were selected specifically for their teaching ability and their special interest in this type of program.

"Harding is attempting to provide an opportunity to students to overcome academic deficiencies. Those who successfully complete the developmental program will be admitted to the regular academic program in the fall semester."

Both programs will be offered to students at no additional cost in tuition or fees.

Debaters Rank High in Nationals

Three Harding debate teams accumulated the highest number of sweepstakes points in three divisions of debate at the biennial convention and tournament of Pi Kappa Delta speech fraternity in Houston in March.

In overall sweepstakes, including debate, oral interpretation, extemporaneous speaking and oratory, the Harding squad placed third among the 1,000 students from 168 schools in 33 states. Teams from Whitewater (Wisc.) State and the University of Southwestern Louisiana tied for first with 52 points: Harding had 50.

In debate, juniors Jimmy Sigmund of Lake Charles, La., and Miss Alice Landrum of Woodburn, Ky., and Roger Castle of Longmont, Colo., and Tom Estes of Montgomery, Ala., both sophomores, won seven of eight rounds to receive ratings of Superior and gold medals.

Seniors Bobby Dockery of Fayetteville and Pat Garner of Longview, Tex., debating a different topic each day, won six of eight debates and received a rating of Excellent.

Donor Establishes Scholarship Loan Fund

A $50,000 scholarship loan fund has ben established by Lawrence G. Hays to assist financially in the education of young men who are dedicating their lives to preaching.

The resident of Dexter, Mo., initiated the scholarship loan fund through a gift in the form of savings and loan certificates which bear interest for the donor. In addition to the fund Hays has deeded his home to Harding and the college will receive two-thirds of his estate.

In announcing the gift Hays said, "I am aware of the conduct of students and the many disorders that have plagued other college campuses. I have heard so many things about Harding and the great work she is doing and I have decided to invest in this great work and the lives of her students.

"When I became aware of Harding's annual deficit I realized the need for unrestricted funds in helping overcome this deficit. I hope that in some small way my gifts will assure Harding's continuing influence upon young Christian men and women."

Concluding his remarks Hays noted, "The college that has the best things to offer is Harding. The college blends the proper spiritual values with the American way of life."

During a visit to the campus. President Clifton L. Ganus introduced Hays to the student body and commented, "This gift truly represents the example of the 'widow's mite.' He has demonstrated how a person of modest means may provide major gifts to assist students in the future."

Warren, Scott Join Graduate School

Two new professors will join the faculty of Harding's Graduate School of Religion for the beginning of the 1971-72 school year, according to Dr. W. B. West, Jr., dean of the graduate school.

Dr. Thomas B. Warren, a professor of Bible at Freed-Hardeman College, and Dr. John A. Scott, minister of the White Station Church of Christ in Memphis, will assume their teaching duties Sept. 1.

Warren, who has served as chairman of the Freed-Hardeman Bible department since 1964, received his B.A. degree from Abilene Christian College, his masters degree in religion from the University of Houston and his doctorate in philosophy from Vanderbilt University.

He has done additional graduate study at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Texas Christian University and Harding's Graduate School of Religion.

In tendering his resignation at F-HC Warren noted that he felt his educational preparation would enable him to teach more effectively young preachers on the graduate level.

"Dr. Warren has a great dedication to the training of preachers and we are very fortunate to have his services as a full-time professor." commented West.

A graduate of F-HC and Abilene Christian College, Scott holds the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Pennsylvania with a major in Bible archaeology. He has also audited course assignments for the doctorate in counseling.

He has served ten years as minister of the White Station congregation during which time the congregation has grown from a membership of less than five hundred to approximately a thousand.

Commenting on Scott's addition to worked as a lumberjack. When World War II began he enlisted in the Canadian army.

In less than six months he was selected for Officers Training School, where he finished as a "ninety day wonder," shipped overseas to France and served as a commander of an artillery battalion with the rank of major.

After his military service, in addition to farming and raising stock, he entered the construction industry building new homes and remodeling old ones.

Soon after marriage he and his wife, Alma, moved to Outlook, Wash., where he began working as a rural mail carrier, a job that was to occupy the next 37 years of his life.

Upon retirement, Mr. and Mrs. Hays returned to Missouri and took up residence in Cape Girardeau where he devoted his time to the carpentry trade.

the Harding faculty, Dean West remarked, "His services as a full-time teacher will increase his contribution to the Harding Graduate School and will enlarge the opportunities of the school for service."

The enrollment of the Graduate School presently includes 134 full- and part-time students.

films and educational tours. The purpose of our seminar is to build better citizens.

"This year's seminar has been planned with the student in mind. The speakers have been chosen and the program has been designed to demonstrate best that a well informed citizenry concerning the fundamental values of citizenship and America's priceless heritage is the key to this nation's growth and productivity."

More than 500 students from eight states attended the 1970 seminar. Further information may be obtained by writing Harding College, Director of the American Studies Program.

Summer Camps Offer Variety of Activities

The college's 1300-acre camp near Batesville will be the center of several types of camping activity this year with regular Boys Camp, Sports Camp, Bible Camp and Music Camp filling the schedule.

The month-long program for boys ages 8-16 will be held June 13-July 9 with Ed Higginbotham as camp manager. The program emphasizes the development of leadership and citizenship, learning new skills, having a good time in the out-of-doors and the living of a meaningful Christian life. The routine includes horseback, rifle target shooting, swimming, floating down rivers, sleeping under the stars and others. For a brochure and further information, write Higginbotham at Harding College.

A Sports Camp will be featured for the first time this year. Two weeks of concentrated training in basketball and running for boys in grades 6-12 will be held July 11-24. Additional rec-

Lewis to Conduct Bible Lands Tour

Dr. Jack P. Lewis, a professor of Bible at the graduate school of religion in Memphis, will lead a group to the Bible Lands this summer, July 7-28. This third such consecutive tour will include a four-day stop in Moscow before proceeding to Cairo, Jerusalem, Athens and Rome.

Dr. Lewis has taught Biblical Archaeology and other Bible courses in the graduate school for 17 years. On a Sabbatical leave in 1967-68 he spent ten months in Jerusalem at the American Schools of Oriental Research in Archaeological research. An outgrowth of the research is a book, Historical Backgrounds of Bible History, to be published in June.

Further information may be obtained from Dr. Lewis at 1000 Cherry Road in Memphis, 38117.

reational activities will include horseback, riflery, swimming, canoeing, fishing, tennis, archery, hiking, crafts and softball. Harding coaches Jess Bucy and Ted Lloyd will direct the basketball and running clinics, respectively.

July 26-August 6 has been reserved for the annual Bible Camp, operated on the Tahkodah grounds but called Camp Salado, with Eddie R. Campbell as manager. Daily Bible study and devotionals are included in the activities for both boys and girls ages 8-18. Brochures may be obtained from Campbell.

The college A Cappella chorus and band will converge at the site on August 13 for the tenth annual music camp. The week-long session ending August 19 will be opened to those interested in song leading or furthering musical interests. Costs and further information may be obtained through the Harding Business Office.
