Rainfall Hastens Ceremony for 375 Graduates

Jerry Lewis of Memphis receives the Charles Pitner Memorial Mathematics Award as the outstanding graduate in the department from Mrs. Pitner.

President Clifton L. Ganus, Jr., conferred degrees on 375 graduating seniors at Alumni Field May 11 in a program hastened by rainfall near the end of the ceremony. Dallas business executive W. C. Hatfield delivered the commencement address.

Six received the Master of Arts in Teaching degree, 264 the bachelor of arts degree and 105 the bachelor of science degree.

Miss Valerie Markley of McCune, Kan., was named the top academic member of the class with a 3.98 cumulative grade point average. Douglas Shields of Oxford, Miss., was the second highest honor graduate with a 3.94 average.

Keith Gant of Nashville, who graduated Summa Cum Laude, received the Ray Kinslow Science Award for outstanding achievement in science. Jerry Lewis of Memphis received the Charles Pitner Memorial Mathematics Award as the outstanding graduate in the department.

Ganus Awards for the highest grades during the academic year were presented to Steven Younger of Effingham, Ill., Mike O'Keefe of St. Louis and Miss Markley. Each student received a $100 cash award.

The Utley Awards presented for the most self-improvement during the academic year, went to Nancy Hamel of Royal Oak, Mich., and Steve Rook of Bruceton, Tenn.

Three faculty members were named Distinguished Teachers for 1974-75. Dr. David Burks, assistant professor of business; Dr. Dean Priest, professor of mathematics; and Dr. Neale Pryor, associate professor of Bible, each received an award of $1,000.

In his address Hatfield encouraged graduates to make practical application of Christian principles as they move into their various roles in society.

"Your Christianity should permeate your life in every way, whether you are working on the job or developing personal attachments," Hatfield said.

In his presentation he listed seven practical business applications of Christian principles — courage, pride and humility, willingness to suffer, purity of heart, prayer, submission to authority, and matters of absolutes.

Hatfield is a member of the Broadway Church of Christ in Garland, Tex., and serves on Harding's Development Council.

Lectureship Program Has New Schedule

The 52nd annual Lectureship program, "They Being Dead Yet Speak," has been finalized and released with some changes being made from programs in years past.

Dates for the Lectureship have been set for October 8-11, according to Dr. Neale Pryor, co-ordinator.

Jimmy Allen, associate professor of Bible, will deliver the opening theme lecture, "They Being Dead Yet Speak," Wednesday, Oct. 8, at 7 p.m.

Subjects and speakers for other main lectures include "What Was Jesus Really Like?" Kenneth Reed of Tuscaloosa, Ala.; "A Successful Failure," Warren Wilcox of Denver, Colo.; "Abraham, Faith in Action," John Whitley of Cleveland, Ohio;

"John, Son of Thunder and Apostle of Love," Dale Foster of Wichita Falls, Falls, Tex.; "Esther, the Providence of God," Marvin Phillips of Tulsa, Okla.; and "Joseph, a Type of Christ," Wendell Winkler of Ft. Worth, Tex.

Four theme forums have been scheduled for Thursday and Friday. Participating as speakers for Thursday morning's "Monarchs of Old" forum will be C. W. Bradley of Memphis speaking on "Saul, A Tragic Failure," and Jay Lochart of Tulsa, Okla., presenting "David, A Man after God's Own Heart."

Presenting lectures for Thursday afternoon's forum, "My Servants, the Prophets," will be Frank Worgan of Corby, England, speaking on "Jeremiah, God's Iron," and Martel Pace of Kennett, Mo., "Hosea, Prophet of God's Love."

Friday morning's forum, "The Glory of the Ordinary," will feature Edwin White of Phoenix, Ariz., speaking on "Andrew, A Soul Winner," and Bill Smith of West Monroe, La., on "Barnabus, A Good Man."

Speaking at Friday afternoon's forum, "Heroes of Acts," will be

Sherman Cannon of Buena Park, Calif., presenting "Peter, A Study of Maturing," and Avon Malone of Searcy, speaking on "Paul, More Than Conquerors."

Morning and afternoon classes, open forums and a special Students' Day will also be featured during the Lectureship.

This year there will be no Saturday evening lecture to give those attending an earlier starting time for their return trips home. Saturday's activities will end with the barbecue and football game that afternoon.

Only one evening lecture will be held with the newly remodeled facilities of the College Church of Christ being used. The new auditorium is designed to seat 2,200.

Dr. Pryor noted that an effort will be made to locate free housing in the home of area Christians for those in need of accommodations.

Anniversary Project Wins First in ACPRA Competition

Harding's year-long 50th anniversary celebration has been accorded first place recognition in the Honors competition of the American College Public Relations Association Southwest District.

The announcement was made by awards Chairman Lynn Swann Davis of the University of Texas at Arlington at the district meeting in San Antonio.

Harding's entry in the development category, special project, was submitted in the form of a scrapbook which documented the activities of the anniversary year. The 55-page entry included printed materials, news articles, photographs and appropriate memorabilia from the activities conducted during the 1974 calendar year. It was compiled and prepared by Kayla Hyde Haynie and Robyn Smith Hunter of the public relations office.

"The material was compiled, not only for entering the Honors competition, but also as a record of the activities of the 50th anniversary," Mrs. Haynie explained. The album will be kept in the Harding Room of the Beaumont Memorial Library.

Entries in the competition were from colleges and universities in Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. Judging for the competition was conducted by professionals in the areas of journalism, graphic arts and photography.

Dallas Business executive W. C. Hatfield encouraged graduating seniors to make practical application of Christian principles.

Dr. Neale Pryor

Trio of Distinguished Teachers Chosen

Three faculty members were named Distinguished Teachers at commencement exercises May 11. Each received $1,000 cash awards.

Recognized for their teaching talents were Dr. David Burks, Dr. Dean Priest and Dr. Neale Pryor.

Dr. Burks is chairman of the department of business and economics and director of placement. He teaches in the department of business. Dr. Priest is a professor of mathematics and chairman of the department. Dr. Pryor is an associate professor of Bible and director of the annual Bible lectureship.

Both Priest and Pryor received the awards in 1970 also.

Awards are based on student evaluation, administrative evaluation and total effectiveness as a teacher.

Dr. Burks, a 1965 graduate of Harding, joined the faculty in 1967. He holds the Master of Business Administration from the University of Texas and the Ph.D. from Florida State University. He is married to the former Leah Gentry of Alhambra, Ill. They have two sons, Bryan and Stephen.

Dr. Priest received the B.S. at Harding in 1961, the M.S. and Ph.D. at the University at Mississippi in 1962 and 1969, respectively. Mrs. Priest is the former Carolyn Pogue of Hampshire, Tennessee. They have four daughters, Teresa, Cheryl, Matilda and Laura, and a son, Dean, Jr.

Dr. Pryor was graduated from Harding in 1960 and joined the faculty in 1962. He holds the M.A. and M.Th. degrees from Harding Graduate School of Religion and the Th.D. from New Orleans Baptist Theological Seminary. Mrs. Pryor is the former Treva Terrell of Fulton, Kentucky, and they have two children, Alan and Lori.

Nonagenarian Has Close Ties with Harding

By Alice Ann Kellar

Of the hundreds of delighted parents and friends attending Harding commencement ceremonies May 11, probably none was older and certainly none prouder than Mrs. Edna Rutherford McInteer of Franklin, Kentucky. She came to witness the graduation of grandson Mark McInteer and his wife, Melinda. The 95-year old Southern Belle climbed the football bleachers along with the rest of the crowd and sat under threatening skies to see Mark and Melinda receive their diplomas.

She had also been present in 1972 when a granddaughter, MariLynn McInteer, graduated and in 1942 when her son Jim Bill, now a member of Harding's Board of Trustees, received his baccalaureate degree.

Recent events almost curtailed her attendance this year. The hardy nonagenarian recently underwent gall stone surgery in Nashville, Tennessee. She surprised even the most optimistic with her rapid recovery. Also, she startled the surgical attendants who routinely suggested she remove her dentures, only to find she had none. Her natural molars are still intact.

Her connection with Harding College began with the college's namesake, James A. Harding, a pioneer preacher-educator and good friend of her family. Harding performed her wedding ceremony to Will T. McInteer in 1900.

She related the somewhat unusual circumstances. "Will and I wanted James A. Harding to marry us, but we learned he was involved in evangelistic meetings and was not available. We boarded a train for Louisville to get married. To our surprise, he was a passenger on the train."

Since the couple had their license, the minister, riding backwards, sat across from the couple and read the rites. "That awaiting preacher sure was mad when we arrived," she smiled.

The young couple settled in Franklin, Kentucky, near where she was born and to the place where she still resides. They operated a store for a while, and later began a farm operation.

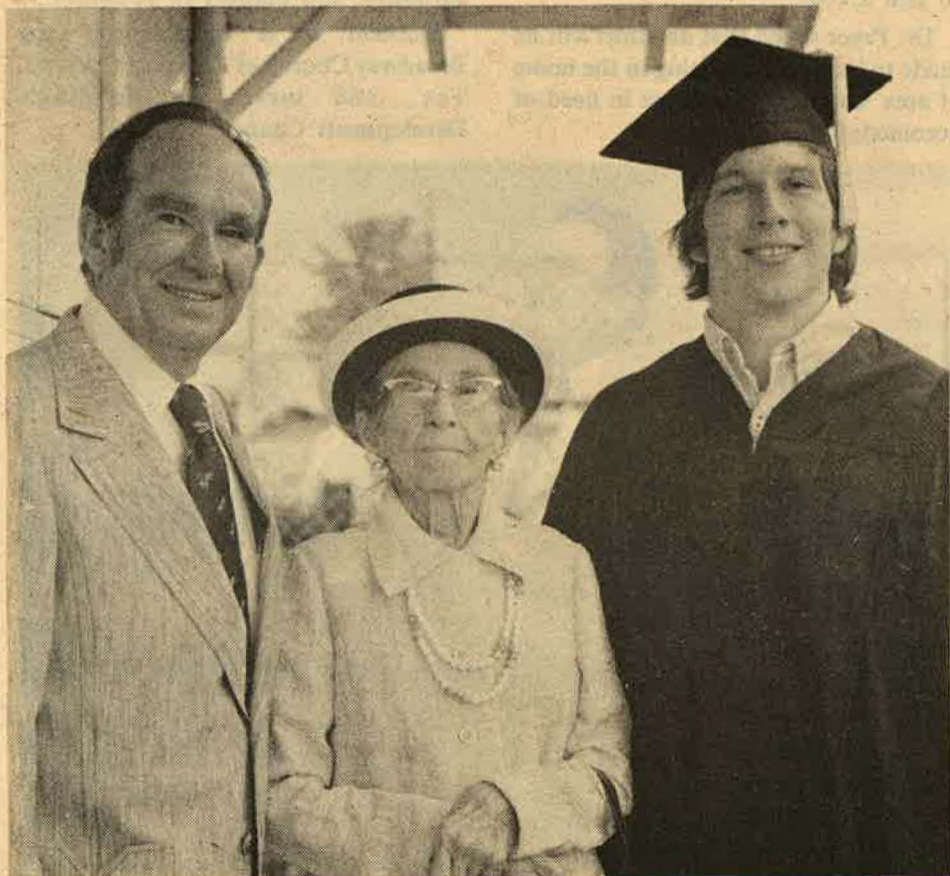

Childless for 21 years after her marriage, Mrs. McInteer in 1921 gave birth to Jim Bill, now minister of the West End Church of Christ in Nashville. "That's about the only thing worthwhile I ever did," she quipped.

She and her son continue to operate the farm. Jim Bill makes the 50-mile drive from Nashville each Thursday to oversee details and his mother accompanies him throughout the day.

Mrs. McInteer lives alone, but does have a long-time companion, Mrs. Faye McCarley Downey, stay with her at night. The only living charter member of the Locust Grove Church of Christ, Mrs. McInteer is a regular attendant there when she is not traveling around the country.

A lady of refinement and charm, Mrs. McInteer attributes her longevity not to any one particular thing. "I've always eaten proper, nourishing food," she reminded herself.

And she was hesitant to offer advice to graduates. "I do notice, however, that nowadays parents do what the children want, rather than as it should be," she said.

Graduation ceremonies find Mrs. McInteer with son Jim Bill and grandson Mark at the May 11 Commencement.

Quota Reached For Workshop

The enrollment quota of 75 has been reached for the Preachers' Workshop scheduled for August 5-7, according to Bible department chairman, Dr. Jerry Jones.

The workshop, which will feature daytime and evening classes, has been specifically designed to aid ministers in sermon preparation and development of sermon topics.

Classes for the three-day workshop will be conducted from 8:30 a.m. to 5:20 p.m. and from 7 to 9 each evening. One hour long period each night will be devoted to a sharing session in which the entire class will participate.

Topics and teachers for the sessions will be "Improving Sermon Structure," Dr. Jerry Jones, assistant professor of Bible; "Preaching from John," Jim Woodroof, minister of the College Church of Christ in Searcy; "Use of the Greek Text," Jack McKinney, assistant professor of Biblical languages;

"Preaching Persuasive Sermons," Dr. Jones; "Preaching from the Prophets," Dr. Neale Pryor, associate professor of Bible; "Use of Transparencies in Preaching," Dr. Jerome Barnes, director of the educational media center;

"Gospel Meeting Preparation," Jack Gray, minister of Springdale (Ark.) Church of Christ; "Four C's of Evangelism," Dr. Jimmy Allen, associate professor of Bible; and "Preaching from Prison Epistles," Avon Malone, assistant professor of Bible.

"Harding is offering this workshop because the Bible department faculty believes that preachers need a concentrated course to help them with sermon preparation," according to Dr. Jerry Jones.

A limit of 75 men was set in order to have a good classroom situation, Jones said. The first 75 commitments were selected.

Jones stated that the August workshop is the only one planned for 1975, but since its announcement has been so well received, other workshops will be scheduled in the future.

"We anticipate video-taping the lectures to take to others unable to attend the workshop," Jones explained. He said he hopes to make the workshop available to preachers in a given area of the country by making commitments in advance to present the program.

Library Fund Given For Graduate School

Dr. Jack P. Lewis, professor of Bible at the Harding Graduate School of Religion, has donated $5,000 to Harding College for the establishment of a library fund for the graduate school. The sum was contributed in memory of Dr. Lewis' parents, the late P. G. and Anna E. Lewis of Midlothian, Texas.

The fund, to be named in honor of Mr. and Mrs. P. G. Lewis, will be derived from earnings made from the initial investment of $5,000 and will be used to purchase books for the graduate school library.

Dr. Lewis has taught at the graduate school since 1954.

Campus Notes

Artists Recognized At Arkansas Festival

Harding art students and faculty members were well represented in the 1975 Arkansas Arts Festival in Little Rock, according to Mrs. Elizabeth Mason, chairman of the art department.

In the Arts Festival, which conducts competition in several categories, Cecelia Osborn of Memphis, Tenn., was awarded third place in the watercolor competition. She was the recipient of a $50 award.

Senior Dena Leasure of Searcy won honorable mention in the craft competition with a macrame wall hanging entry. In the drawing and graphics competition, Margaret Harrell of Searcy, a graduate of 1971, was accorded honorable mention honors for a realistic pencil rendering.

In the Bicentennial Exhibit, associate professor Don Robinson received honorable mention for a painting entitled, "The Robertson House" and, assistant professor Dr. Faye Doran's macrame project "Sunglow" was selected for showing in the Arkansas Arts Center Crafts Prints and Drawing Show.

Troy Blue Included In Honor Publication

Troy Blue, assistant professor of mathematics, has been named to Personalities of the South.

Blue received his B.S. degree from Harding and the M.A. from Peabody College. He has taught mathematics at Harding since 1967.

Professional organizations of which he is a member include the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics and the Arkansas Education Association.

Corinne Burke J. E. Berryhill

Burke, Berryhill Retire From Harding

Mrs. Corinne Burke and J. E. "Blackie" Berryhill, long-time employees of Harding College, retired this spring and were honored at the annual Faculty-Staff Banquet.

Mrs. Burke has been employed with the college for 23 years, as post mistress from 1949-56 and as library assistant from 1960 to 1975. Her husband, Leslie Burke, taught Greek at Harding for several years.

Berryhill served at Harding Academy as history teacher from 1951-75, principal from 1955-56, and registrar from 1966-75. He has been associated with Harding in some aspect almost continuously since 1930 when he enrolled as a student.

Sociology Department Gets $12,000 Grant

The department of sociology and social services at Harding has been selected to receive a $12,000 grant from the Office of Continuing Education from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The HEW grant is for a Title I project to teach mental health courses in secondary schools in White County. Application for the grant and the coordination of the project is being directed by Dr. Bill Verkler, professor of sociology.

The program for the 1975-76 school year will be a cooperative project between Harding and the White County Mental Health Association. The program will utilize Harding faculty members to teach the workshops, the college courses and some of the high school courses. The program is an expansion of an experimental project conducted during the 1974-75 school year by the Mental Health Association.

Second Orientation Set for July 20-22

For those incoming freshmen who were unable to attend the first Early Orientation session June 22-24, another is scheduled for July 20-22. More than 200 students are expected to attend the second session.

According to Dr. James F. Carr, director of summer session, Early Orientation is designed to provide incoming freshmen with an opportunity to meet and make friends with other new students, to furnish a clear picture of Harding College and its goals and purposes, and to give students the experience of college dormitory life.

Moore To Counsel Full Time

Lew Moore, assistant professor of psychology and counseling, has been appointed assistant director of counseling and full time counselor, according to an announcement by Dr. Clifton L. Ganus, president.

He will assume the responsibilities for coordinating the administration of tests which are provided by the college's Counseling Center.

The new appointment will permit Moore to assume an increased caseload in counseling. He will provide personal, vocational, educational and marital counseling.

According to Dr. Jack Thomas, director of the Counseling Center, during the past six months it has been necessary for a counselor to work several hours at night in addition to regular daytime caseloads and classroom duties.

"By being a full time counselor with

Worgan To Be Visiting Missionary

Frank Worgan from Corby, England, will be the visiting professor of missions next year, according to Dr. Jerry Jones, chairman of the Bible department.

Worgan began his preaching career in Aberdeen, Scotland, and has also worked in Germany and Holland. He is supported by the Northside Church of Christ in Odessa, Texas.

Coming to Harding with Worgan will be his wife, Isobel, and son, Stephen, who will participate in the preacher's training program before returning to Oxford University where he has received a full scholarship.

The seventh missionary to take part in Harding's visiting missionary program, Worgan is only the second who is a native of the country in which he performs his missionary work. His job, other than working with the MISSION/PREPARE program, will consist of teaching freshman, sophomore and upper level Bible courses.

This year's visiting missionary, Evertt Huffard, who has been a missionary in Jerusalem and Lebanon, will remain here another year as a member of the Bible department. He will return to the Middle East the following year.

Frank Worgan

"I believe the real strength of Harding's mission program lies in our visiting missionary policy," said Jones.

"It allows the students to learn methods from men all over the world, and has proved to be so successful that three other Christian colleges, Oklahoma Christian College, Pepperdine University and Abilene Christian College, have followed our example by establishing similar programs," he added.

Faculty, Staff Honored for Service

Forty-eight faculty and staff members of the Harding complex — the college, graduate school, and academies — and five Board members were awarded service pins and buttons at the annual Faculty-Staff Dinner. Those receiving awards and their length of service include:

Ten Years — Rita Bailey, Vera Bland, Lillie Bodiford, Pat Bowie, Carrie L. Brewer, Orpha Clements, Monteen Darden, Joyce Johnson, Alice Ann Kellar, Hazel Lomax, Ethel Ridings, Louise Rivers, William Bridges, Bill Curry, Floyd Daniel, W. C. Evatt, Bill Flatt, Dale Gould, Stan Green, Alan Isom, Earl Lomax, Clarence McDaniel, Wilt Martin, Richard Niswander, Zack Peters, J. E. Rogers, Earl Shands, Bernie Vines and Charles Walker.

Fifteen Years — Winnie Bell, Don England, Ed Higginbotham, Virgil Lawyer, John Prock, Hubert Pulley, and Bill Rushton.

Twenty Years — Lois Lawson, Ann

Sewell, Lourelia Word, Lawrence Dean and Herman Spurlock.

Board members were George Benson, 40 years; Harold Cogburn, 10 years; and Houston Karnes, Jim Bill McInteer and Milton Peebles, 25 years.

Students See France On Work-Study Tour

The third biennial French Work-Study Tour, sponsored by the Harding College Modern Foreign Language Department, left for Europe May 13 from Memphis International Airport.

After three weeks of evangelistic work with churches of Christ in Namur, Belgium, and Lausanne, Switzerland, the group will embark on a three-week camping tour of France.

Students will study ancient Roman monuments, the walled medieval city of Carcassonne, and the Lourdes shrine in southern France. In the North, they will visit the site of the Allied invasion on the Normandy beaches, the Mont-Saint-Michel, and the prehistoric stone menhirs in Brittany.

After visiting Versailles and the castles of the Loire Valley, the tour will end in Paris, where students will attend a French play and an opera. The French language will be used throughout the tour. Students will receive five credits in French Conversation and Culture. The group will return to Memphis June 24.

Members of the group include Dr. Winfred O. Wright, director; Dr. Dorothy Wright, co-sponsor; Mrs. Elsie Lynn, assistant; students Debi Baten, Houston, Texas; Maynard Friend and Douglas Henneman, Nashville, Tennessee; Sandi Jolliff, Kennett, Missouri; Sarah Sears, Webster Groves, Missouri; Jan Young, Canton, Ohio; and Bonnie Ulrey, Searcy.

Awards Given Top Achievers

Outstanding students were honored for educational and social achievements at Awards Day in chapel May 2.

Awards were presented to Ken Neller of Huntsville, Ala., best history research paper; Tim McNeese of Stradford, Mo., best history book review; Linda Garner of Little Rock, English award; Janet Smith of Ft. Worth, Alpha Chi Nolle Scholarship; and Linda Foshee of Houston, PEMM Club Member of the Year.

From the home economics department those honored were Karen Widel of Blackwater, Mo., Silver Trivet Award; and Susan Deacon of Waverly, Ohio, Crisco Award. Kathy Watson of Pangburn, Vicki Markley of McCune, Kan., Linda McKay of Opp, Ala., and Barbara Neller of Huntsville, Ala., received academic awards.

In the business department those chosen were Mark McInteer of Nashville, Tenn., outstanding senior accounting student; Cam Henderson of Searcy, outstanding business student; Aleta Fonville of Smithfield, Tex., outstanding business education student; Carol Clarke of Cass City, Mich., Junior Accounting Scholarship; and Bill Fowler of Ann Arbor, Mich., Wall Street Journal Award.

The department of modern foreign languages recognized Roxie Whittemore of Magnolia as the outstanding beginning French student; Debi Baten of Houston as the outstanding French major; Ken Neller of Huntsville, Ala., as the outstanding beginning German student; Don Prantl of West Plains, Mo., as the outstanding beginning Spanish student and Cindy Kramer of El Centro, Calif., as the outstanding Spanish major.

Psychology Department To Initiate Two-Tract Major Program in Fall

Harding's psychology department will initiate a two-tract major program for the next academic year in an effort to best suit the students' goals.

The major will require 36 total hours for those desiring a degree in applied psychology and 34 hours for students planning to continue studies on the professional level.

According to Dr. Walter Porter, associate professor of psychology, the department has recognized a need for having more than one main emphasis in their curriculum.

"We need one emphasis in the professional psychology field and another for those planning to terminate their studies with a bachelor's degree," Porter said.

Courses required for all majors include studies in general psychology, statistics, personalities, behavioral disorders, counseling and psychological testing.

For an applied psychology major, classes include child and adolescent psychology, culture and personality, social psychology and counseling techniques.

The academic psychology major for completion of degree requirements will need courses in physiological psychology, history and systems and the psychology of learning.

Facilities for lab work in the different courses are located on the second floor of the recently renovated Student Services Building.

The upper level previously was used for storage until remodeling efforts during the summer of 1974, which resulted in 12 rooms for use by the psychology and sociology departments.

Designed by Porter, the area has been arranged to include a statistics lab, library and study area, animal lab rooms, a workshop, four human lab rooms which can be converted into two seminar rooms, a student work area, and storage room.

The rooms are equipped with calculators in the statistics lab, and an operant conditioning and activity wheel, mazes and rats for experimental purposes in the animal lab. In other rooms are located charts and models of the nervous system, demonstration perceptual phenomena apparatus and demonstration bio-feedback equipment.

"Our facilities are among the best," Porter said. "We have as good as any I've ever seen for a college the size of Harding. The equipment for our undergraduates is much better than the average countryside college."

Major campaign groups and the number of workers on each include: European campaign, 91; Brazil campaign, 27; Jamaica campaign, 35; Northwest campaign, 30; Northeast campaign, 80; May campaign, 200.

Most groups have been preparing since last fall for the efforts this summer. Bible and language classes and other organizational meetings have been in progress on a weekly basis. In addition, those areas where the campaigns will take place have been preparing for the working guests they will host.

The largest effort numerically, the May campaign, this year was concentrated in the Little Rock-Jacksonville, Arkansas, area. Ten separate Gospel meetings were conducted, with the assistance of over 200 students. The May campaign workers were involved in a nine-week training course to prepare them for the task. James Woodroof, minister of the College congregation, served as coordinator, working with participating congregations in effectively organizing the efforts.

Foreign campaign groups will work in seven countries this year. For most, the departure date was May 14, with return time scheduled for June 27. An all-day preparation workshop was conducted on the Harding campus May 12. Final instructions were delivered and devotions were held.

Group leaders for the international work include Aubrey Green, Great Britain and Scotland; Don Shackelford, Italy; Jack and Joann McKinney and Ted Altman, Germany; L. V. Pfeiffer, Brazil; Alex Humphreys, Jr., Holland; and Ed Sanders, Jamaica.

The Jamaica campaign group, which will not leave until July, is composed of students in Harding's Christian Communications Program.

Cliff Clark Inducted Into NAIA Hall of Fame

Former Harding track All-American Cliff Clark, who went on to gain international recognition as a distance runner, was formally inducted into the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics National Track and Field Hall of Fame May 24 at Henderson State University in Arkadelphia, Ark.

The induction came at the banquet on the final day on the 1975 NAIA National track meet.

A 1967 graduate of Harding, Clark is now a captain in the United States Air Force and is currently stationed at Bolling Field in Washington, D.C.

"For his splendid success in track and field and cross country competition, Clark is eminently worthy of his selection," stated Dr. Robert Livingston, president of the NAIA, as he made the presentation.

Dick Johnson

Johnson Selected 'Coach of the Year'

Harding baseball coach Dick Johnson has been selected the 1975 NAIA District 17 "Coach of the Year."

The selection, determined by ballot of the area coaches, was announced by District Chairman Duke Wells of Henderson State University.

Johnson directed his Bison team to a 22-10 season record, a third place finish in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference race and the runnerup position in the NAIA District 17 playoff. The Bisons were 11-5 in AIC play after an 8-8 record last year.

"I couldn't be happier," the 50-year-old coach stated, "but the honor really belongs to the boys. They put together a great season."

An alumnus of Harding, Johnson returned to the college in 1969. Since that time the Bison baseballers have compiled a 115-66 win-loss record and have had six straight winning seasons.

A native of Memphis, Johnson played professional baseball with the Little Rock Travelers in the Southern Association before attending college. He graduated from Harding in 1959 and coached in Georgia from 1959-1969.

As coach at Dykes High School in Atlanta, he was named Region 3 AAA Coach of the Year in 1964-65-66 and the state's Coach of the Year in 1965 when he directed his team to the state championship.

In addition to his baseball duties, Johnson serves as offensive line coach in football and as an instructor in the department of physical education. He serves as director of the Searcy Pony League baseball program during the summer.

A native of Shelter Island, N.Y., Clark gained All-America honors in 1965 by finishing 12th in the NAIA national cross country meet. He was twice a track All-American, winning the 3,000 meter steeplechase in 1966 in 9:17 and finished second in the event in 1967.

In 1966 Clark was honored as the "Athlete of the Year" by the Arkansas AAU and was awarded the Neil Gibson Award by the state organization.

"Cliff was an outstanding competitor," Bison track coach Ted Lloyd stated, "but more than that, he was an athlete who could lead and motivate his teammates to give their best."

Since his graduation, Clark has represented the United States in France, Belgium, Italy, Finland, Tunisia and Thailand in distance races from 3,000 meter steeplechase to the 10,000 meter run as a member of the U.S. Armed Services track and field team.

Along with Clark, Al Fuerback of Emporia State (Kans.), the world record holder in the shot put, and John Craft, a former triple jumper from Eastern Illinois University, were also inducted.

Celsor Clears 6-11, Wins NAIA National Meet

The following article appeared in the May 25, 1975 edition of the Arkansas Gazette.

By Jim Lassiter
Arkansas Gazette

ARKADELPHIA — Just when Steve Celsor had convinced himself he was a 6-8 high-jumper for life, he went out and messed up his mind. The Harding College junior made 6-11 and just missed at 7-1. Put your best Freud theory to that.

Steve wasn't particularly thinking psychology when he leaped 6-11 here Saturday night for first place in the finals of the NAIA national out-door track meet. He was thinking more about technique.

"I changed everything," the floppy-haired Alton, Ill., native said. "My approach to the bar, my lift off the ground, even my style going over. Just everything. The thing that helped me the most, though, was speeding up on my approach."

Steve did most of his psychology work in the qualifying on Friday night. He took his body over the bar at 6-9 and that was a little piece of heaven in itself. For the longest, he had been hung up on 6-8.

As a freshman, Celsor made 6-8 1/2 in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference meet. Then as a sophomore he went 6-8 a couple of times, but could never pass the mark. Frustration began to set in.

It reached its peak this spring. Celsor suddenly became a 6-2 jumper. And 6-2 jumpers don't win many dual meets, much less place the nationals. Steve's major problem was a case of tendonitis in his left knee. The think kept swelling up and paining him until he almost retired. "It was just a pain to jump 6-2," he said. "Some meets I would jump one time and then have to pass out of the event."

But about two weeks before the AIC meet, the tendonitis left him and he began serious training once again. A jump of 6-7 gave him his second Conference title. Again he failed at anything higher.

So he entered the nationals hoping for the best, but expecting if not the worst — then another 6-8 frustration. But the 6-9 jump on Friday told him something. It told his coach, Ted Lloyd, even more. "He'll make 6-10 or 6-11 in the finals," Lloyd whispered to everyone but Steve Celsor.

When the bar got to 6-8 on Saturday, predictably Steve missed his first shot. Unpredictably, he made it on his second. The rest was cake. When the bar went to 6-9, Steve flew over the first time. After it went to 6-10, Steve cleared it by several silly millimeters on his first try. And at 6-11, he literally flew over on his first shot.

When they put it up to 7-1, which would have represented a national NAIA record, Celsor looked good his first two tries. He just took the bar down his time with his trail leg. The third time, however, he wasn't close to making it. Still, he wasn't disappointed.

"I was surprised and pleased to make 6-11," he said. "But after Friday night I knew I could win."

Joe Delacerda of Eastern New Mexico also made 6-11 and also missed three times at 7-1. Celsor won the title on fewer misses. In fact, it was Steve who got them to move the bar to 7-1 instead of 7-feet even. He knew he was ahead on fewer misses.

"I figured I have all next year to make seven foot," he said. "I knew if I didn't make 7-1, I couldn't be too disappointed like I would have been if it would have been seven foot and I missed. I've got another year and now I know I can make it."

Celsor is one of eight male students majoring in nursing at Harding. The Searcy school will begin offering a four-year degree next year. He's a top student in his class.

Steve's 6-11 jump now becomes the Arkansas state record. A bunch of jumpers had made 6-10 in the last few years. Steve Celsor didn't get stopped there. He was hung up at 6-8.

NAIA champion Steve Celsor displays top form in clearing 6-11 height.

Graduation '75

Spring Sports Round-up

Spring sports success saw Harding claim an NAIA national championship and Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference title in bowling, a runnerup position in tennis, and a spot in the NAIA District 17 baseball playoffs.

With Gary Beck leading the way, coach Ed Burt's bowlers won their fourth national title in the past six years. Beck won the national singles and teamed with runnerup Zearl Watson of Clarksville, Ark., to take the doubles title as well.

En route to the national championship, junior Brad Davis of Tulsa, Okla., won the AIC, NAIA District 17 and Area IV singles titles to put the Bisons back in the national tournament for the 11th straight year. Davis finished seventh in the national rolloff.

On the tennis court, first-year coach David Elliott directed his squad to a 20-7 season record and missed taking the conference title by a single point from Hendrix College 22-21. Three Bisons, Jeff Smith of Calhoun, Ga., Charles Ganus of Searcy and David Cannon of Warrensburg, Mo., won their respective divisions. The team of Ganus-Cannon finished second in doubles play.

Coach Dick Johnson's baseballers posted a 22-10 season record, went 11-5 for third place in the AIC and qualified for the NAIA District 17 playoff in Conway. With All-AIC and All District first baseman-pitcher Vince Adams setting the pace, the Bisons defeated conference champion Southern State 3-1 and AIC runnerup Central Arkansas

9-6 before falling to John Brown University in the finals.

Adams won the first game and Doug White, a hard throwing righthander from Wheeling, W. Va., struck out 16 in the victory over Central Arkansas.

Freshman shot putter Steve Flatt of Memphis tossed the metal ball 50-4 to win the AIC title and push the Bison tracksters to a fourth place finish in the conference meet. High jumper Steve Celsor, Alton, Ill., coming back from a knee injury, regained his conference title with a 6-7 leap, which qualified him for the NAIA national meet. Butch Gardner, Searcy, was third with a 6-5 jump.

Other Bisons scoring for coach Ted Lloyd's squad were Leon White of Little Rock, third in the 440 intermediate hurdles in 53.5; Marshall Grate of Waterloo, Ind., fourth in the mile with a 4:17.2; Mark Galeazzi of Merced, Calif., fourth in the three-mile in 14:38.3; Greg Blake, third in the triple jump with a 46-3 one-half jump, the 880 yard relay team which clocked a 1:31.7 for third place, and the mile relay unit which posted a 3:24.8 for fifth place.

Freshman Jeff Price became the first Harding golfer to receive All-AIC honors with a second place finish in the conference tournament. A native of Bloomington, Ind., Price was low scorer for coach Phil Watkins' linksters. Finishing sixth, the Bisons carded their lowest team score ever in the conference meet, a 646.
