Homecoming Activities to Reflect New Decade

"Dreaming 1980 Style" has been selected as the 1980 Homecoming theme, according to Dr. Jimmy Carr, coordinator of the Homecoming committee. The theme will be carried out in many of the Homecoming activities planned for Nov. 6-8.

"The theme reflects the setting of new goals as we enter the new decade," Carr commented, "and it complements our Homecoming musical, 'A Midsummer Night's Dream,' which will be presented in a 1980's fashion, rather than in the traditional Shakespearian style."

The first Homecoming musical to be staged in the Benson Auditorium, the production will be presented at 8:15 p.m. on Nov. 6, 7 and 8.

Lead characters in the play will be portrayed by Tracie Crum, Bloomington, Ind.; Julie Swan, Bloomington, Ill.; Jeff Johnson, Memphis, Tenn.; Robin Cannon, Lea, New Guinea; Joy Hogge, Fort Collins, Colo.; Ward Bartlett, Pontiac, Mich.; Pam Perkins, Anchorage, Alaska; Mike Foster, Atlanta, Ga.; Chris Davis, Searcy and Greg Morrison, Dallas, Texas.

The play is directed by Assistant Speech Professor Chuq Parker and features musical arrangements by Jeff Hopper, assistant professor of music.

Homecoming 1980 will open officially with the crowning of the Homecoming Queen during a pep rally on Thursday evening. Three candidates are vying for the crown:

Senior Lynn Watson is a physical education major from Marshall, Texas. A member of Tri-Sigma Delta social club and the PEMM Club, she served as intramural assistant last year.

Sue Rhoten, a Fort Worth, Texas sophomore, is majoring in home economics. A second-year cheerleader, she is also a member of Tri-Kappa social club and is a Kappa Sigma Kappa queen.

Kristi Morgan of Sherwood, Ark. is a business management major. The 17-year-old freshman attended the University of Arkansas in Little Rock last spring.

The crowned queen will reign over all of the weekend's events.

Friday's activities will include a student chili supper on the front lawn. Alumni are invited to dine together at the annual Black and Gold Banquet, which will be held at 5:30 p.m. in the Charles White Cafeteria. Harold Bowie, superintendent of Harding Academy in Memphis, Tenn., will serve as Master of Ceremonies. The guest speaker during the banquet will be Jim McInteer of the

The 1980 Distinguished Alumnus

Award will be presented during the banquet. Four new awards will be introduced, also. A distinguished alumnus will be recognized from each division of the University, the College of Arts and Sciences and the Schools of Business, Education and Nursing.

A reception for the classes of 1955 and 1930 has been scheduled for 4-5 p.m. Friday in the Olen Hendrix Building. These 25 and 50-year alumni will be guests of honor throughout Homecoming weekend. Noon luncheons are planned for both classes on Saturday. (Other class, club, and organizational reunions are listed on page 8.)

Homecoming Day will begin with a 7:30-9 a.m. alumni continental breakfast in the Hammon Student Center. Alumni chapel is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. in the American Heritage Auditorium. After a devotional period, Dr. Paul Magee of Irving, Texas, president of the class of 1955, will preside as other members of the honor classes make brief comments.

At 11 a.m. the traditional Homecoming parade will tour Searcy, stopping at Alumni Field. Congressman Ed Bethune of Searcy will act as Parade Marshall.

American Studies Speakers Announced

Three national personalities have been scheduled to complete the fall Harding University American Studies Lecture Series. Admiral James B. Stockdale, retired President of the Citadel, will speak Nov. 3, followed by Arkansas Congressman Ed Bethune on Nov. 24 and Malcom Toon, former ambassador to Russia, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Israel, on Dec. 8.

Stockdale, a native of Abingdon, Ill., is a graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy. He has served in many military capacities, including assignments as fighter pilot, test pilot, flight instructor, landing signal officer, wartime air wing commander and commanding officer of a carrier-based jet fighter squadron.

Stockdale spent eight years as a prisoner of war in Hanoi, North Viet Nam. During this time he led resistance efforts in the prisons and was subjected to torture and long periods of solitary confinement.

Upon returning to America, Stockdale was promoted to Rear Admiral and was appointed commander of an Anti-Submarine Warfare Wing, U.S. Pacific Fleet. He later served as director of the Strategy, Plans and Policy Division for the Chief of Naval Operations.

In 1977 Stockdale became a Vice Admiral and was named president of the Naval War College. He became President of the Citadel in 1979, retiring from the post in August.

During his military career, Stockdale received 25 personal combat decorations, including two Purple Hearts. He is also a recipient of the Congressional Medal of Honor.

Bethune, of Searcy, representative of the 2nd District of Arkansas, served in the U.S. Marine Corps after completing high school. Following three years of service, part of which he spent in Korea, Bethune was honorably discharged as a sergeant. He later received a degree in business administration from the University of Arkansas and graduated from the University of Arkansas School of Law.

A lawyer by profession, the Pocahontas, Ark. native is a former F.B.I. agent and county prosecutor. He helped to rewrite the Arkansas Criminal Justice Code and served a five-state area for four years as chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board.

Bethune serves on the House Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs Committee and on the Committee on Small Business. He was nominated by President Gerald Ford for appointment

Tecsam Officer to Speak During Business Seminar

The Annual Management Seminar, co-sponsored by the American Studies Program and the School of Business, will be held Jan. 16-17, 1981.

Donald F. Lane, chairman and president of LCJ-Tecsam Services, Inc. in New York City, will speak Friday night on "Improving Productivity in the Third Century."

Since 1951, Lane has been engaged as a general management and engineering consultant to more than 250 international enterprises and 12 foreign governments. He has been responsible for organizing a wide variety of work projects, supervising consultants and emphasizing principles of management and engineering which help to increase productivity.

Lane was associated with the Bethlehem Steel Corporation for twelve years. He assisted with the implementation of Marshall Plans and Productivity Centers in many industrialized countries throughout the world.

A graduate of the Johnson School of Technology and Pennsylvania University, he has written extensively on management and engineering.

Saturday's speaker will be Dr. Harold Koontz, professor of management at the Graduate School of Management, UCLA, Los Angeles, Calif. Koontz is the author of a best-selling text on management principles.

The Homecoming game will be played at 2 p.m., as Harding takes on Southern Arkansas University. Pre-game and half-time shows will be presented by the Bison band, "The Thundering Herd."

At 6:30 and 8:30 p.m., students will perform in Blackout '80, an annual variety show. Blackout will be presented in the Administration Auditorium.

Tickets for Homecoming events may be purchased in advance.

More than 50 faculty members and students are working in subcommittees to finalize Homecoming plans. Heading these work groups are:

Chili Supper — S.A. President Walt Buce; Black and Gold Banquet — Jack Ryan (speech); Alumni Breakfast — Bobby Coker (education); Alumni Chapel — David Crouch (alumni relations); parade — Student Chairman Barry Blain; Alumni Field Decorations — Ed Wilson (physical science); Blackout — Chuck Hicks (graphic artist); Tom Maddox (business); Mark Van Rheenen (business) and Dennis Swayne (media).

Homecoming guests may register at the information center in the American Heritage lobby. There will be a message board at the center to display reunion information and other announcements.

as a federal judge in the Eastern District of Arkansas. He was also the 1979 recipient of the Legislative Conservation Achievement Award. He is presently engaged in a campaign for re-election.

Toon, a graduate of Tufts University and the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, is considered one of the world's foremost diplomatic speakers.

The Ambassador came to diplomatic service from a World War II PT boat command. He has accepted assignments to U.S. Embassies in Warsaw, Budapest, Rome, London and Moscow. Also, during the 1960's, he served as Director of Soviet Affairs and as Deputy Assistant Secretary of State for European Affairs.

He served as Ambassador to Czechoslovakia from 1969-1971, when he became Ambassador to Yugoslavia. In 1975 he was appointed Ambassador to Israel.

In 1977 Toon began his service in Moscow. Fluent in Russian and well-versed in Russian policy, he has developed a reputation as a top Soviet specialist who has the ability to foresee crises and analyze potential political problems. Network television news programs, such as the "Today Show," consult him for explanations of American reactions to U.S.S.R. moves.

Campaigners sing hymns in a shopping square in New Castle, Australia. This is only one of the summer campaign groups which involved more than 400 students in missionary work in Germany, England, Scotland, Brazil, Venezuela, Ireland, Kenya, India, Nigeria and Iron Curtain countries, and more than 20 states. The summer campaign efforts encouraged 432 baptisms into Christ.

American Studies Group Will Tour New Orleans

Members of the American Studies Program will visit New Orleans and Baton Rouge, La. Oct. 26-30, under the supervision of program sponsors President Clifton Ganus Jr. and Jim Henderson.

The tour will provide opportunities for students to meet civic leaders and to observe business and government practices.

On Oct. 27 the students will talk with Ernest Morial, mayor of New Orleans. On Oct. 30 the group will meet Louisiana Governor Dave Treen and will be addressed by D. H. Holmes, owner of a large department store headquartered in New Orleans.

The week will also include tours of the New Orleans Parish Prison, the 85,000-seat Superdome, the Bank of New Orleans and other business and government organizations.

American Studies tours are scheduled semi-annually. Fifty students, selected from among high-achieving junior and senior business, history and social science majors, are allowed to participate in each tour.

Work Program Provides Tuition Funds

As of Oct. 8, the Financial Aid Office has approved 1141 students to work on campus during the 1980-81 school year, according to Accountant Zearl Watson. Of these approved workers, 924 are approved for the campus work program. A total need of $910,451.00 has been expressed.

Approximately 620 jobs are available on campus, Watson said, including a wide variety of tasks. Students may work in the cafeterias, offices, bookstore, library or student center, or they may fill receptionist or janitorial positions in the dormitories or work on the grounds crew. Some temporary jobs are created during registration and special campus events.

Students may work as many as 20 hours per week.

"When a campus job opens up," Watson stated, "we try to consider work study students first." Still, more students are interested in financial aid than can be accommodated by the work study program.

The financial aid office counsels students and assists them in finding grants, scholarships and other types of aid to help meet college expenses. Information is also provided on National Direct Student Loans, Federally Insured Student Loans, Guaranteed Student Loans and other programs, including Harding notes and bank notes. Campus work supplements these other sources of aid.

Jim Nichols, director of staff personnel, often helps students to find work off campus. Many part-time jobs are available in the factories, stores and food establishments in the Searcy area.

Assistance from any combination of these sources can be arranged into a financial aid package to meet each student's specific needs.

If a student is "over-funded," draws more aid than he actually needs, adjustments can be made in the financial aid package. "For example," Watson explained, "a loan might be decreased so that the student will have less to repay after graduation."

Fall Enrollment Cited at 3,086

At the official close of fall registration, Virgil Beckett, registrar, announced an enrollment of 3,086. This record-setting figure includes 1497 male and 1589 female students.

The freshman class is the largest, consisting of 1023 students. There are 744 sophomores, 569 juniors and 666 seniors. In addition, there are 84 graduate and special-classification students enrolled in fall classes.

The high enrollment figure has necessitated full use of dormitory and classroom space. Some classes were split and new sections have been added to the schedule to remedy crowding, according to Dr. Joseph Pryor, vice president for academic affairs.

The student body represents 48 states and 25 foreign countries.

On the cover: American Studies speaker Alexander Ginzburg strikes a pensive pose as he relates his experience in Soviet prison camps and describes the struggle for human rights in Russia.

AWH Begins Membership Drive

More than 300 women attended an Associated Women for Harding luncheon at the Governor's Mansion in Little Rock Sept. 18.

Sponsored by the Greater Little Rock chapter of AWH, the luncheon marked the beginning of a statewide membership drive. Hillary Rodham, Arkansas' first lady, spoke to the group. The program also featured comments by President Clifton Ganus and national AWH Board President Jan Burt of Dallas, Texas. Ann Hewitt, president of the Greater Little Rock chapter, presented meritorious service awards to individuals and businesses who have been particularly helpful to the organization.

Entertainment was provided by the Harding musical group "Belles and Beaux."

AWH is presently engaged in a nationwide membership drive. More than 8,600 invitations to join the group have been delivered to Harding alumnae and supporters of Christian education throughout the country, according to Dr. Jimmy Carr, Executive Director of the Associated Women for Harding. The organization has enrolled approximately 1,500 members in more than 30 states.

The AWH sponsors fund-raising projects to benefit the university. Further information about joining the group may be obtained by writing Associated Women for Harding, Box 1224, Harding University, Searcy, Ark. 72143.

Casey Earns Doctorate at HGSR

Pat Casey, pulpit minister to the Millington Church of Christ in Millington, Tenn., received the second Doctor of Ministry degree awarded by the Harding Graduate School of Religion in May.

The former manager of a shoe factory in West Plains, Mo., Casey left his profession to enroll in Harding, earning the B.A. in 1963. He also attended Freed-Hardeman before enrolling in the Graduate School.

Casey has preached for congregations in Missouri, Tennessee and Arkansas. He began his ministry at Millington in 1967. During the last 13 years the congregation has grown from about 150 to 850. A bus ministry has also been added.

Casey participates in approximately

Students to Participate In National Quiz Game

Harding students will participate in "College Bowl" this year, Dr. Jimmy Carr, assistant to the president, announced.

The contest, sometimes called "the game of the mind," is designed to challenge students intellectually, through intercollegiate academic competition, Carr said.

Nationwide, more than 250 college and university teams participate in the quiz game. Harding will compete in Region 12, which includes Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas.

Regional winners compete for national honors and $25,000 in awards. Last year's national winner was Davidson College, a private institution in North Carolina, comparable in size to Harding.

Sixteen championship teams participated in international competition.

Harding's participation in the program will begin with on-campus contests. Teams of four members from various fields of study will be formed and intramural competition will be held.

Each varsity team is composed of eight members. Harding's team will include the winning intramural team and four draftees from among the other intramural contestants.

Each university team has 22 regular-season games in addition to the playoff rounds.

Bison Rated 'All-American'

Harding's student newspaper, the Bison, has received an All-American rating for the past spring semester.

The Bison was rated superior in the five categories judged, including "coverage and content," "writing and editing," "editorial leadership and opinion features," "physical appearance" and "photography, art and graphics," scoring 4,290 of a possible 4,500 points.

The paper was critiqued by the Associated Collegiate Press from the University of Minnesota.

On the basis of the rating, the Bison will be entered in a Pacemaker contest for the top newspaper in each level.

The publication was edited by Martha Collar of Little Rock, currently employed as a reporter in Claremore, Oklahoma.

Representatives from the Bison will attend the annual College Publications Association meeting at the University of Arkansas in Little Rock Oct. 30. The all-day program will include student publications workshops and awards presentations.

20 evangelism workshops each year. He and his wife Shirley have two daughters: Ann Sangster and Lareea Hooten.

Terry Bell, minister of the Greenlawn Church of Christ in Lubbock, Texas, received the first doctorate awarded by the Graduate School last year.

CAMPUS NOTES

Al Fowler, George Freeman and Mel Lowe (development) attended a Public Relations - Development Seminar for Christian Institutions at Abilene Christian University Aug. 14-16. Fowler spoke on "Raising Funds Effectively by Phone." Lowe has been named to the 1980 edition of Outstanding Young Men of America . . .

Daniel Tullos (speech) made a presentation on Alternative Communication Systems at the Arkansas meeting of the Mental Retardation Development Disability services in Hot Springs Aug. 22. He also co-authored a paper on Neurologically Based Language Difficulties, which was delivered to the International Pediatric Society meeting in Barcelona, Spain in September . . .

Van Tate (sociology) was a lecturer during a Missions Emphasis Program at Freed-Hardeman College Sept. 2-3. He spoke on the challenge and joy of preaching, preparation for the ministry and selecting a mission field . . . Mary Shock (social work) conducted a conference for social work majors at the Wyldewood Retreat Center Sept. 6. . . Ken Qualls (admissions) was featured as a youth speaker during Midwest Christian Fellowship Day in Valparaiso, Ind. Sept. 13. He also conducted a Rookies Workshop for Christian College Admissions Officers at Abilene Christian University Sept. 12. . . Neale Pryor (Bible) delivered a series of lectures at Oklahoma Christian College Sept. 15-17. . . Beth Wilson (home economics) and dietetics majors Kerri Bullard and Lee Ann Stuart attended the F.D.A. Consumer Exchange meeting in Little Rock Sept. 18. . .

The A Cappella Chorus, under the direction of Ken Davis (music) sang for the fourth year during Greer's Ferry Clean-Up Day. The group also performed at the Camelot Inn at an appreciation banquet honoring Senator Dale Bumpers. . . Dana Lester (nursing) conducted a series of inservice programs on "Childhood Death" at White County Memorial Hospital during September and was asked to repeat the series in October. Through an aluminum drive, Lester is collecting funds for toys to be used in play therapy at the hospital. Frater Sodalitas social club has also contributed to the toy fund. . . Jess Bucy (physical education) has been named president of the NAIA District 17 basketball coaches for 1980-81.

Bradfords Ousted by Missile Alert

At least one Harding faculty member is wearing an "I Survived The Titan II Missile Explosion At Damascus" T-shirt, and it has more meaning than merely a souvenir purchased at a wayside shop.

Louise Truex Bradford, an associate professor of nursing, and her husband, Ronnie, live only four miles from the site of the explosion which not only rocked Central Arkansas but the world during the early morning hours of Sept. 19.

The Bradfords live on a chicken farm near Bee Branch, currently tending 18,000 chickens in their flock.

Ronnie was awakened by the explosion about 3:00 a.m., and felt the house shake. He watched the sky light up as the missile exploded.

The Bradfords were notified to evacuate by radio, and as the two left home they were met by a patrol going from house to house. The couple went to the town of Clinton and stayed, first at the Baptist Church then with relatives, until 7:00 p.m.

"The situation was tense, but no one thought about what had happened to the warhead until later in the morning," Mrs. Bradford recalled. (The warhead was propelled 200 yards and landed in a ditch.)

"Throughout the day we heard rumors such as having all water turned off because of contamination. We were afraid we'd lose a lot of chickens," she added.

Although the chickens were unattended, the Bradfords returned to find all well and none had died, a fact for which they are grateful.

Now things have settled down in their usually quiet community, but they will always remember that day and the reason for the inscription on their souvenir shirts.

Chorale Enlists 37; Performers Plan Tours

Thirty-seven new members have been added to the Harding Chorale this fall, including eight soprano, nine alto, eight tenor and twelve bass singers, according to Chorale director Cliff Ganus III. The group has a total of 78 members.

The Chorale had a get-acquainted outing at Camp Tahkodah on Sept. 7. Their first performance was for the Lectureship audience at Harding Oct. 9.

A fall tour has been scheduled for Oct. 31-Nov. 4. During that week the Chorale will perform at various locations in Louisiana, Mississippi and Arkansas.

The Chorale will serve as host chorus for the 15th Annual Christian College Chorus Festival Jan. 9-10, 1981. Dr. Howard Swan of Newport Beach, Calif. will be the guest clinician. More than 400 singers from various Christian institutions are expected to participate.

Also included in the spring plans is a March 6-16 tour through Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Florida and Georgia. On March 24 Chorale members will join A Cappella and the Arkansas Symphony for a performance on campus.

Ganus is making plans for a summer '81 Chorale campaign tour in the British Isles. The campaign effort, directed by the College Church of Christ in conjunction with the International Campaign Program, is scheduled for May 13-June 25. Campaigners will be divided into three groups. The tour will consist of six two-week campaigns in Scottish and English cities and nine days of concerts.

Former members of A Cappella and Chorale are invited to join current members in this effort. Further information may be obtained from Cliff Ganus III, Box 877, Harding University, Searcy, Ark. 72143.

Ruth Landry of Dallas, Texas regards an ornate fountain at a major square in Siena, Sicily.

Florence Students Active In Class Work and Tours

The International Studies students arrived safely in Florence and are well into their studies, according to correspondence from Dr. Don Shackelford, director of the International Studies Program.

The group has visited Michelangelo Square, Ponte Vecchio, the straw market and other attractions in Florence, Shackelford said. They have also viewed the world renowned Medici Exhibit, which complements the Western Heritage course taught by Dr. Gary Elliott.

Shackelford reported that "the students were pleasantly surprised how nice everything is at the Bible School." The facilities are roomy, he stated, and the food is plentiful and appetizing. The ATAF (Association Transportation Autonomous Florentine) has given special service to the group for added convenience. Even the weather is agreeable, being cool and sunny, Shackelford said in a letter to Harding President Clifton Ganus.

The students are reportedly enjoying their learning experience in Florence, and they send greetings to their families and friends in the states.

Narramore Joins Counseling Staff

Kim Narramore, the former Kim Ayers of Ft. Worth, Texas, has joined the campus ministry staff as Women's Counselor.

An August graduate of Texas Women's University in Denton, Texas, Narramore holds a bachelor of science degree. While a student at TWU she taught dormitory Bible studies for three years. As secretary to the Bible Chair, the campus ministry for TWU and North Texas State University, she was engaged for more than two years in evangelistic efforts and counseling and served as coordinator for various religious activities for the campus.

Her husband is Dal Narramore of Mt. Pleasant, Texas. He attended Harding for two years before transferring to North Texas State University, where he also became active in Bible Chair efforts. He is now a senior at Harding, majoring in speech and minoring in Bible. Upon completion of his bachelor of arts degree, he plans to enter Harding Graduate School of Religion in Memphis, Tenn.

The couple hopes to begin a campus ministry for a state college eventually.

Narramore succeeds the former Becky Moore, who married Les Tubb in September.

The Campus Ministry is provided by the College Church of Christ. The work involves Narramore, Men's Counselor Ron Highfield and Joan Porter, secretary.

Eight Named to History Fraternity

Eight students were inducted into Phi Alpha Theta, the international history honor society, in ceremonies held Sept. 30 in the home of sponsor Fred Jewell, associate professor of history and social science.

New members include Russell Lynn Anderson of Jacksonville, Ark., Buddy Baker of Searcy, Timothy Barnes of Earle, Ark., Billy Haynes of Pedro, Ohio, Mike Guy of Citrus Heights, Calif., Wayne Hood of Clarksdale, Miss., Mark Horsley of New Boston, Ohio and Mark Zuccolo of Cossato, Italy.

Officers for 1980-81 were also elected, including Philip Gould of Searcy — president; Zuccolo — vice president and Patty Barrett of Searcy — secretary-treasurer.

Membership in Phi Alpha Theta is open to any student with a grade point average above 3.0 on at least 12 hours of history. The society was founded at the University of Arkansas in 1921 and now has more than 500 chapters in the United States, Canada, Puerto Rico and the Philippines. The society has more chapters in existence than any other accredited honor society holding membership in the Association of College Honor Societies.

Nichols Elected to Cancer Board

Jim Nichols, director of staff personnel and assistant professor of education, has been elected to the Arkansas Division Board of Directors of the American Cancer Society.

The Board meets in October, February and June and is responsible for establishing objectives, policies and programs for cancer control in Arkansas. There are approximately 84 volunteer board members, half belonging to the medical field and the other half being lay delegates.

Nichols has been active in the Cancer Society for the past seven years. He has served as president and vice-president of the Ouachita County chapter of the Society. He is presently vice-president and program chairman for the Cancer Society in White County.

Diffine Conducts Economics Seminars

Dr. Don Diffine, associate professor of economics and director of the Harding University Center for Private Enterprise Education, conducted two summer workshops in Missouri and California.

He conducted a one-week Economic Education Seminar for opinion leaders at Southwest Baptist College, Bolivar, Mo. July 21-24. The program was the first in a series which is being presented by the National Center for Business and Community Leadership.

From Aug. 3-15 he directed a Julian Virtue Summer Institute for Teachers in Economics and Entrepreneurial Education at Pepperdine University, Malibu, Calif.

A charter member of the Association for Private Enterprise Education and a recipient of numerous Freedoms Foundations awards in the category of Economic Education, Diffine has also testified before a Congressional subcommittee on matters of regulatory reform, economic impact statements and inflation.

WHAT'S NEW

Class of 1962

Margaret Rogers Bonnell (BA) received the M. A. degree in speech communications and dramatic arts in August from Arkansas State University.

Class of 1964

Dr. Jimmie D. Lawson (BS) and his wife, the former Janie Miller (BS), currently on the mathematics faculty at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, are on leave for a year. Dr. Lawson has a Humbolt scholarship given by the German government and is at a technical university at Darmstadt for this period. He has been recently notified of his selection as honorary Fulbright scholar of the year. He has been invited to meet with the Fulbright scholars in October at Bonn, Germany.

Class of 1970

Mrs. Sam Hoover, the former Mary Alice Smith (BA, MA), has been appointed to the newly organized Texas Professional Educational Diagnosticians Board of Registry. The Board is composed of nine members who were appointed by the Executive Board of the Texas Association of Educational Diagnosticians.

Mrs. Hoover of Bacliff, Texas, is Director of Special Services, Santa Fe Independent School District.

Allen and Janice McIntosh (BA '70) Houtz have returned to Kenai, Alaska from Benghazi, Libya, where they spent three years in missionary efforts. During this time, Houtz was employed by Exxon. He is presently teaching instrumentation at Kenai Peninsula Community College. Mrs. Houtz plans to begin teaching a basic English course at the college, also.

Class of 1971

Sam Garrison (BA) has joined the First Family Savings and Loan Association of Heber Springs, Ark. as loan officer.

After his graduation from Harding, Garrison attended Infantry Officer School at Ft. Benning, Ga. He served at the NATO Supreme Headquarters in Belgium and was an advisor in Viet Nam. He has experience in the consumer loan business and has served as contract administrator for several Air Force jobs.

Garrison recently received his M.B.A. degree from the University of Arkansas — Fayetteville. He and his wife Sandra Kay have a one-year-old daughter, Leah.

Class of 1972

Rick Johnson (BA) is currently teaching French and English at Cabot High School, Cabot, Ark. He is also head cross country and track coach. His 1978 cross country team won the state championship. The 1979 cross country team was the state runner-up.

Future Teachers Get Pre-Professional Experience

The School of Education, under the direction of Dean Bobby Coker, will undergo examination for Harding's third NCATE (National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education) accreditation in March 1981.

Organized in 1961, the teacher education program became fully accredited in 1966. In the last 15 years, the program has produced more than 2,800 elementary and high school teachers.

The recent development of middle schools has created a need for a third area of certification. The addition of a middle school course, taught by former middle school principal Jim Nichols, makes it possible for Harding students to certify to teach grades 5-8.

In the interest of keeping the teacher education program up to date and meeting students' needs as fully as possible, the curriculum is evaluated annually. The most recent study, completed in May, was based on a questionnaire distributed to 1979, 1977 and 1975 graduates of the program, to their principals and to the class of 1980, who were just completing the supervised teaching period.

Participants in the survey estimated the degree to which the teacher education program prepares teachers for various responsibilities, such as conveying subject matter, motivating and disciplining students, evaluating learning progress and problems, demonstrating Christianity and good citizenship and relating to students, parents and administration. Additional comments were also encouraged.

"The evaluation," Coker stated, "is used to guide us in changing the content of education courses, or even in changing the curriculum." One stated weakness, for example, was classroom discipline, which has recently been named as a major problem throughout the country. "We've added some films on the subject to our curriculum lab," said Coker. The films will be available for independent viewing as well as for classroom use.

The lab itself is the answer to a need discovered during an earlier evaluation. The storehouse of curriculum materials contains supplies for use in education courses and instructional aids for students to examine on their own. "Graduates said that students needed more 'hands-on' experience with the materials they would encounter as teachers," Coker explained.

The lab, strongest in elementary, special education and reading areas, is also equipped with guides which help to prepare prospective teachers for such duties as locating and ordering audio-visual aids. English and social science resources have been strengthened in the last year, upon departmental requests.

The director of the center is Dr. Mary Ann Harris, who joined the faculty two years ago.

"Our graduates also said they'd like to have had more actual student contact," said Coker. This need, first expressed several years ago, was answered by the addition of Richard Duke, director of field experiences, to the faculty in 1978. This year, Duke said, underclassmen who are working toward teacher certification are serving as teachers' aides in area high schools, observing and participating in teaching duties.

A Pre-professional Experience Program Day was held Oct. 14. According to Duke, sophomore education students spent PEP Day at assigned schools, getting acquainted with classroom structure and school operations. "What we're trying to do," he said, "is expose students to the profession as early as possible, to help them form a commitment to teaching or to help them decide if they really want to teach." A workshop for junior education students is also being planned.

The curriculum lab, functioning as a center for reading workshops, provides some pre-professional teaching experiences. In a clinical setting, graduate students diagnose and begin to correct reading problems among community youngsters. More clinical work will be possible under the supervision of Dr. Wade Bedwell, who was added to the special education faculty this fall.

"More students should have the chance to do some 'micro-teaching,'" Coker ventured. "We need a classroom designed for that purpose." After teaching concepts and videotaping their lessons, he said, students can evaluate their own teaching abilities and weaknesses. Coker hopes to create a practice-teaching room in the American Studies Building, once the business and economics classes are removed to their new building.

As goals are met, new goals arise. "World changes create new needs in teacher education," Coker commented. "Today's teacher must be prepared to meet the needs of a multi-cultural society." Harding students are at an advantage in this area, he suggested, because they are exposed to classmates from varied backgrounds and to Christian attitudes which encourage understanding of one another in spite of personal differences. In addition, he expressed, "Our International Studies Program and campaigns give students the opportunity to travel and to deal with people throughout the world. Participation in these programs exposes students to cultural differences and teaches them to relate to many different types of people."

Individual differences are stressed in several education courses, according to Coker, and general sociology has become a teacher education requirement.

Harding is presently working with other Christian schools to develop programs for "teaching the teachers" even after they enter the profession. A National Christian Schools Workshop is already held annually. Also, a "clearing house" has been developed, Coker said, to share education ideas and employment information.

Another institutional goal, Coker offered, is to get education students more involved with one another, to develop a comradeship and a professional pride among them and "to give them a sense of identity as future educators."

57th Bible Lectureship — Lectures Focus C

The Harding campus hosted guests from 28 states and four foreign countries during the 57th Annual Harding University Bible Lectureship held Oct. 7-10. More than 3,000 persons participated in the program, according to Lectureship Director Neale Pryor.

The Lectureship opened on Tuesday evening as Harold Hazelip of Memphis, Tenn. presented the theme lecture, "We Give Thee But Thine Own." Other keynote addresses were delivered by Phillip Morrison of Memphis, Jerry Jones of Searcy and Frank Pack of Los Angeles, Calif. Chapel programs featured John Dale of Nashville, Tenn., David Wallace of Cleburne, Texas and Ron White of Oklahoma City, Okla.

More than thirty preachers and church leaders from eight states and England conducted the Lectureship. Lessons concerned faithfulness, marriage, parenthood and usage of time and talents. Daily classes focused on evolution, evangelism, church budgeting and various

Miller Remembered for Community Services

The Searcy community was stunned at the death of Harry Miller (BS '73), Parks and Recreation Director for the city, who was killed Sept. 25 when a car struck the moped he was riding enroute to his home from work at the Carmichael Community Center.

Searcy Citizen reporter Randy Kemp (BA '78) wrote the following in his record of the tragedy.

"Miller, quiet and unassuming in manner, trailed a long list of honors and accomplishments.

"He was graduated from Harding College in 1973 with a degree in business administration. While there he was involved in athletics, lettered in swimming two years, and was captain of the Bison swim team in 1973.

"After graduation he participated in AAU swim meets and was in the top 10 in three National Masters Swim Championships events.

"Miller was president of the Searcy Noon Optimist Club. In 1976, he was chosen to Outstanding Young Men of America. He was a member of the White County Foster Parents Association, the Harding University Orchestra and the College Church of Christ.

"Many Searcy youths and their parents will remember Miller for his tireless efforts to provide recreation for area youngsters. He had said that providing wholesome activities for youngsters is very important to shaping established the first organized soccer group in the state in Searcy.

"The Mobile, Alabama, native was involved with the Searcy Bluefish swim team, organized the Searcy Tennis Open matches this summer, and was involved in either a small or big way with about every youth sports activity in Searcy while working with the city.

"He has been praised by city officials for his work in getting the Carmichael Community Center started and standing as a vital element of the community.

"Miller was an unofficial public relations man for the city, whether intentional or not.

"His example was always one of enthusiasm for his projects and enthusiasm for the city, its leaders and its people."

Miller was married to Denise Tippins. Also, he is survived by a son, Michael, 5; a daughter, Jennifer, 2; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller of Mobile and a brother, Jerry Miller, of Mobile.

Funeral services were held at the College Church of Christ September 27 by Dr. Don Berryhill. Burial was in Mobile.

With four returning starters,

Bucy Optimistic About 80-81 Basketball Season

Guarded optimism surrounds the 1980-81 Harding University basketball team as eight letterman return for Bison coach Jess Bucy.

Four starters highlighted the returnees and give hope of improving on last year's 12-17 performance.

"We'll be better," Bucy stated. "We have more quality depth than we're used to and we have added some overall height to go along with our base of experience."

Providing the experienced nucleus for the Bisons will be junior center Charles Gardner, (19.2 ppg.) a 6-7 Searcy native who played the second semester last season; 6-0 senior Tim Flatt (11.8 ppg.) of Memphis; 6-5 senior Ricky Treadway (11.3 ppg.) of North Little Rock and 6-0 sophomore Hubie Smith (11.5 ppg.) of Memphis.

Also contending for starting positions are lettermen Alan Pearson, a 6-5 junior from Amory, Miss.; 6-7 senior Keith Terrell of St. Gabriel, La.; 6-8 junior Jim Salings of Oakville, Mo. and 6-5 junior David Presley of Harrison. Pearson and Terrell were part-time starters a year ago.

The Bisons will field a good shooting squad, most of whom were responsible for last year's .512 team shooting percentage. Harding will have to develop its rebounding and defensive game, however, if it is to be successful.

"We feel our inside game should be improved with both Gardner and Terrell having the size we need," Bucy said. "Treadway and Pearson are both good rebounders as well and we think some of our new boys will be able to help us before the season is too far along."

The Bisons' floor game will be directed by Smith, who stepped into a starting role as a freshman and quarterbacked the Bison offense. He will be teamed with Flatt, one of the finest shooters Harding has ever had. The speedy Flatt has scored 1,189 career points and ranks ninth on Harding's all-time scoring list.

With a year of experience behind him, Smith should improve on his scoring output to give the Bisons two of the finest scoring guards in the conference.

The Bisons' inside game should be much improved. Gardner established eligibility at mid-season last year and immediately proved his versatility by averaging better than 19 points per game and pulling down 141 rebounds in 17 games. Treadway, who led the Bisons with 160 rebounds, also is a solid scorer from inside.

The newcomers on this year's team include 6-4 Kenneth Keys of St. Louis, Mo., a transfer from Merrimac Junior College (Mo.), and freshmen Lawrence McNutt, 6-3 forward from Forrest City, Ark.; 6-8 Allen Gibbons of Little Rock; 6-5 forward Jim Robinson of Erlanger, Ky. and 6-1 guard Philip Wade of Memphis and 6-5 sophomore Tommy Tabor of Atlanta.

Harding will participate in two tournaments this season: the Evangel Classic in Springfield, Mo. Nov. 28-29 and the School of the Ozarks Invitational in Point Lookout, Mo. Dec. 19-20.

Harriers Ranked 12th in NAIA, Finish 11th at Notre Dame Meet

Harding's cross country team holds a 12th ranking in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, according to the NAIA national office in Kansas City.

The Bisons, who finished 8th in the national meet last year, recorded an 11th place finish in the prestigious Notre Dame Invitational in South Bend, Ind. October 3 against some of the nation's finest teams.

"We feel the boys have a good base of training and that we are building toward the conference and district meet on November 4," Lloyd said. "Then we'll have some time to get ready for the nationals on November 15."

This year's national competition is scheduled for Salina, Kans.

Senior Richard Teixeira, a two-time Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference and District 17 champion, has set the pace for the Bison harriers. He took second place in the Harding-hosted Bison Booster Invitational September 19 and 17th in the Notre Dame competition. At South Bend he recorded a 25:00 time in the nationally-recognized meet.

Making up the Bisons top five this year are Carter Lambert of Pearl,

Richard Teixeira

Miss.; John McAlister of Temple Hills, Md.; John Sills of Eads, Tenn.; Randy Jackson of Springdale, Ark. and Joe O'Connor of Shelter Island, N.Y.

Bison Gridgers Stand 2-3 at Mid-Season

Despite a tough intersectional schedule, Harding's young Bison footballers have posted a 2-3 record in the first half of the 1980 season.

Building around a group of 10 seniors, Harding's youth-oriented team has defeated Lane College 19-7 and Southeastern Oklahoma State University 9-6, in a game played in a virtual rainstorm.

Losses have come at the hands of Southwest Missouri, Northeastern Oklahoma and conference rival Arkansas Tech.

Junior tailback Lefe Caton is setting the pace for Bison rushers with 312 yards on 102 carries. The Inola, Okla. native also has passed for a touchdown and has scored twice. Senior Scott Ragsdale has completed 27 of 57 passes for 215 yards to balance out the offensive game.

Freshman kicker Jay Graham has accounted for six field goals in the first five games to put him on a record pace. The Harding single season record is eight.

Setting the pace for the Bison receivers are junior slotback Kevin Webb of Searcy and sophomore Durwood Dry of Merrit Island, Fla., each with 11 receptions.

Defensively, senior linebacker Kerry Thompson has led the way with 76 tackles, with 35 of them unassisted. Sophomore Ron Chase has been listed among the leaders of the NAIA with four interceptions.
