Six Honored By University Alumni Association

The Harding University Alumni Association presented five Outstanding Alumni Awards during Homecoming activities Friday, Oct. 28 on the Harding campus.

Recipients included Harry Risinger of Millington, Tenn.; Dr. Gene Rainey of Asheville, N.C.; Dr. Rubel Shelly and Robert G. Neil of Nashville, Tenn.; and Rees Bryant of Plateau State, Nigeria.

In addition, Dr. William Clark Stevens of Abilene, Texas was named the 1983 Distinguished Alumnus of the University.

The annual awards were presented during the Black and Gold Alumni Banquet Friday evening in the American Heritage Center Cafeteria by Harding President Clifton L. Ganus Jr., and represented the College of Arts and Sciences, Department of Bible, School of Education and School of Business.

Risinger, 37, graduated from the University in 1968 with a Bachelor of Science degree in Accounting, and served in the U.S. Army from 1968 to 1971, attaining the rank of first lieutenant.

He continued his education at Memphis State University and received the M.B.A. degree in 1974, later that year becoming a Certified Public Accountant. Risinger joined W.R. Grace and Co. in 1972 as a junior analyst for the Agricultural Chemicals Group, and has served in several managerial positions for the company.

He was promoted to vice president and chief financial officer of the group in 1981, and serves as a deacon in charge of personal evangelism for the Millington church of Christ. Risinger has been a member of the President's Development Council at Harding since 1975, and is currently chairman of the Ad Hoc Committee for Endowment Investment.

He is married to the former Janice Robinson and the couple has two sons, Matthew, 11 and Adam, 10. Risinger's award is from the School of Business.

Shelly is also a 1968 Harding graduate, and has since earned M.A. and M.Th. degrees at the Harding Graduate School of Religion in Memphis, and M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn.

He preaches for the Ashwood church of Christ in Nashville and is director of publications for 20th Century Christian magazine. He has taught at Freed-Hardeman College, David Lipscomb College and Vanderbilt University.

Shelly is a frequent contributor to a number of publications circulated among churches of Christ. He has written more than 15 books, including A Book-by-Book Study of the Old Testament/New Testament, Living By The Rules and The Lamb And His Enemies.

He has spoken on Christian college lectureships and area-wide training (continued on page 5)

Dr. Clark Stevens, third from left, of Abilene, Texas, was named the Distinguished Alumnus of 1983 and five others were honored as Outstanding Alumni during Homecoming activities Oct. 28-29. Belden Is Trustee Recipient

Del Belden, retired board chairman of Louver Manufacturing Company (LOMANCO) of Jacksonville, Ark., was presented the Harding University Trustee Award for 1983 at a dinner in his honor Dec. 12 at Harding.

Making the presentation was Harding President Clifton L. Ganus, who described Belden as a "leader in the business world and a friend of Christian education."

The Trustee Award has been given annually since 1974 to an individual who has contributed significantly in his or her chosen field of endeavor, and whose values are consistent with the principles of Harding. Nominations and final selection are made by the Harding Board of Trustees.

Belden was the December 1979 commencement speaker at Harding, and on that occasion was presented an honorary Doctorate of Laws degree. During 1980 he was chairman of the Harding Economics Team's Council for Realistic Economic Education, and his keynote address helped to launch the Harding-sponsored, state-wide Free Enterprise Week in the spring of 1981.

In 1982 Belden accepted a "Symbol of Excellence" Award presented to his company by Sears, Inc. LOMANCO has been a supplier of Sears for the past five years and has received the "Symbol of Excellence" Award four times. Out of 12,000 suppliers, less than one half of one percent have received the award four times.

A past president of the Jacksonville Chamber of Commerce, Belden is the son of

Del Belden

Clark David Belden, founder of LOMANCO. In 1979 Del Belden and LOMANCO generously endowed the Clark David Belden Center for Private Enterprise at Harding.

Founded in 1946, LOMANCO is the world's largest full-line ventilation equipment manufacturer.

Del and his wife, Valerie, have five children — sons John, Dennis, Paul and Ted, and a daughter, Mrs. Penny Stender. Paul Belden, current president of LOMANCO, is a 1979 Harding graduate with a Bachelor of Science degree in marketing.

Masters Program Approved

The development of a Master of Science program in accounting has been approved by the Harding University Board of Trustees, according to President Clifton L. Ganus.

The new program is scheduled to begin in the fall of 1984.

In addition, Ganus said two advisory groups also had received Board approval. They are a Business Advisory Board and a Business Associates Group.

The accounting program has been developed primarily because the Commission on Professional Accounting Education has recommended a five-year program for entry into the profession of accounting due to expanding curriculum.

"The development of the five-year program is an important factor in continuing to be able to attract the top accounting students," Ganus said.

In describing the planned program, Dean of the School of Business David Burks said it would serve two major purposes: to prepare students for the Uniform Certified Public Accountants Examination by fulfilling academic requirements of regulatory agencies in all 50 states, and to appeal to students with a non-business degree or a non-accounting degree who wish to pursue an accounting program on the master's level.

Accounting majors should be able to complete the program in one year, and non-accounting majors will be able to complete the program in two years, he said.

Dr. Jim Henderson, assistant to the dean of the School of Business, has been named director of the program.

The advisory groups are expected to provide counsel and support to the School of Business.

"It is extremely important that we meet the state-of-the-art needs of our students," Burks said. "The resources and expertise that the Advisory Board and the Associates will be able to supply will have an important impact on our program."

It is expected that the Advisory Board will be made up of chief executive officers and senior vice-presidents and will be limited to 15 members.

The Associates Group may have as many as 100 members, according to Burks. Members will give recommendations to the University and help with job placement.

"The members of this group will not necessarily be CEO's and senior VP's," said Burks. "It will also include people who have only been out of school for three or four years."

The first meetings of the Advisory Board and the Associates Group are projected for the spring of 1984, Burks said.

Haley, Jenkins Highlight Spring Lectures

The spring agenda for the American Studies Program includes lectures by nationally-acclaimed authors Peter Jenkins and Alex Haley, columnist Patrick Buchanan and an educational tour of Washington, D.C.

Jenkins, author of best sellers A Walk Across America and The Walk West, will open the 1984 series on Jan. 24. Roots author Haley will speak on Feb. 21 and the tour to the Nation's Capital will be March 24-31.

Buchanan, an oft-quoted writer, will be on campus for an address on April 9.

Dr. David Burks, director of the American Studies Program, said another speaker may be secured, but no confirmation has been arranged as yet.

The lecture series aspect of the program has proved to be a valuable supplement of the University curriculum and is a popular feature for local and surrounding area residents.

Jenkins and his wife, Barbara, reside in Spring Hill, Tenn., where they are currently working on two more books. The two were featured in a 1979 National Geographic cover story and have appeared in major magazine articles relating their experiences of their walk from New Orleans to the Pacific Ocean between July 1976 to January 1979. The stories have been translated and published in France, Australia, Germany, New Zealand, Norway, Italy, Japan, Brazil and the United Kingdom.

Haley, whose writings have won him America's two topmost writing awards, the Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Award, retired in 1959 from 20 years in the U.S. Coast Guard.

His first book, The Autobiography of Malcolm X, was published in 1965 and was selected among "The Ten Best American Books of the 1960's Decade."

Roots, his second book, became the biggest best-seller in U.S. publishing history. The seven-night television mini-series, which ran in January, drew more than 130 million viewers.

Buchanan is a conservative spokesman who hosts the television talk show "Crossfire," a program seen across the nation via educational television.

Several business firms have been named as additional sponsors this year for the American Studies Program. Included are Affiliated Food Stores, Arkansas Eastman, Arkansas Power and Light, Bryce Corporation, Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Cone Construction Co., First Federal Savings & Loan, First National Bank of Searcy, First Security Bank of Searcy, Lomanco, Inc., Orbit Valve Co., Polar Stainless, Speed Queen, The Mad Butcher, Wal-Mart Stores, Inc., Weyerhaeuser, Inc., and Yarnell Ice Cream Co.

Yearwood Addresses December Graduates

Randall N. Yearwood, chairman of the board of Yearwood and Johnson Architects, Inc., in Nashville, Tenn., addressed the 136 graduates in fall commencement ceremonies Dec. 16.

President Clifton L. Ganus awarded diplomas to seven who received the Master of Education, 64 the Bachelor of Arts, 40 the Bachelor of Business Administration, 17 the Bachelor of Science, one the Bachelor of Science in Nursing, four the Bachelor of Science in Medical Technology; and three the Associate of Arts.

Master's candidates included Michelle Betts, Carole Isom, Martina Peacock and Randy Tribble, all of Searcy; Lafe Caton of Copperas Cove, Texas; Dain Clark of Albany, Ga., and Susan Duke of Valparaiso, Fla.

Yearwood, architect for the Mabee Business Center, is a member of the President's Development Council and is an elder of the West End church of Christ in Nashville. He has designed a wide scope of projects including the Nashville Convention Center, hospitals, nursing homes, office buildings, public buildings, residences, multi-family housing, motels and hotels.

Clinical membership in AAMFT, which they previously held, requires 1500 hours of supervised counseling with 200 face to face hours with a supervisor and three years experience as a counselor. To become an Approved Supervisor, one must have at least three years experience as a clinical member and one year of supervision by a supervisor.

Faculty members for the Harding University in Florence (HUF) campus have been selected for the next several semesters, according to Dr. Don Shackelford, director of the program. Included are Drs. Carl Mitchell and Clifton Ganus III, spring semester 1984; Shackelford and Don Robinson, fall semester 1984; Drs. David Burks and Mitchell, spring 1985; Drs. Dennis Organ and Wyatt Jones, fall 1985; and Drs. Karyl Bailey and Mitchell, spring 1986.

Two appointments have been made at the Harding Graduate School Library, according to Dean Harold Hazelip. Don Meredith has been promoted from associate librarian to librarian and Mrs. Bonnie Ulrey Baker has been named assistant librarian. Meredith completed an M.Th. at the Graduate School and an M.S. in Library Science at the University of North Carolina. He joined the library staff in 1968. Baker completed an M.A. in English at the University of Arkansas and the M.L.S. at Vanderbilt University. She served as librarian and instructor in French, English and piano at Ohio Valley College from 1981-83.

Harding Ruled In Compliance With AIC

The Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference Executive Committee ruled Sept. 30 that Harding University is in compliance with the league's bylaws regarding financial assistance for athletes who participate in intercollegiate sports other than football or basketball.

The decision followed an examination of the University athletic program by AIC Commissioner Harry Hall in response to charges made by Dr. Jerry Jones, former chairman of the school's Bible department. Jones had alleged that student-athletes were receiving more financial aid than non-athletes for basically the same jobs on campus.

"We agree with the finding of the Executive Committee," President Clifton Ganus said. "Our position has always been that we want our program to conform to the rules and regulations of the conference. This we have attempted to do in the past and we intend to do in the future."

Dr. Ed Mosley of Arkansas College, president of the AIC faculty representatives, wrote to Ganus saying, "I am happy to inform you that the Executive Committee of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference by unanimous vote at a Sept. 30 meeting found no violations by Harding University of the AIC Constitution and By-Laws.

"As you know, Mr. Harry Hall, AIC commissioner, conducted an intense two-day investigation on your campus as a result of series of charges made by Dr. Jerry Jones. The Executive Committee was convinced that Mr. Hall made a proper and thorough investigation. His findings indicated that there were no violations. Thus, the committee will not bring charges against Harding to the full AIC group.

"This means that the Executive Committee feels that the current practices of Harding University concerning the compensation of athletes on a "job basis" rather than using time sheets is legal. In addition, this implies practices outlined in the four statements on pages 2 and 3 of the document entitled "Stipulation of Facts and Request for Ruling" would be acceptable. Therefore, the Executive Committee considers the case closed."

Mosley and the other members of the AIC Executive Council, Dr. Arvil Burks of the University of Central Arkansas and Dr. Charles Larson of College of the Ozarks, rendered their decision after hearing a report from Commissioner Hall.

In a two-day visit to the campus, Sept. 21-22, Hall examined official school records and interviewed athletes, coaches and financial aid officers.

The "Stipulation of Facts and Request for Ruling" document was an agreement signed jointly by Ganus and Jones Aug. 25. The agreement detailed Jones' allegations and petitioned the AIC for a definitive ruling concerning the practices and procedures of Harding in providing aid to intercollegiate athletes.

In the document both parties agreed "to accept the final ruling or interpretation of the Faculty Representatives and Commissioner as a final resolution and conclusion of the disputes and issues."

In a report to the student body during chapel Oct. 3, Ganus discussed the report of the AIC and announced the findings.

Management Seminar Set for February 10-11

The 12th Annual Harding University Management Seminar has been scheduled for Feb. 10-11 with guest speakers Charlie Plumb, Robert R. Blake and Jane S. Mouton.

The Management Seminar will begin with Charlie Plumb giving a humorous and motivational talk for managers. Plumb, 41, was born in Gary, Ind. After graduation from Shawnee Mission North High School in Overland Park, Kan., he left for the United States Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md. He graduated in 1964 with a Bachelor of Science degree and a commission in the U.S. Navy.

He went immediately to flight training, proceeded through the Navy jet aviation program, and was one of the first in his class to win his wings of gold in November, 1965. On May 19, 1967, he was shot down just south of Hanoi while on a flight cover mission. He was captured immediately and taken to the Hanoi prison complex. There he was tortured for military information. He spent the next five years and nine months undergoing brutality, degradation, and humiliation at the hand of his captors. During this imprisonment, he distinguished himself among his fellow prisoners as a professional in underground communications.

He was repatriated on Feb. 18, 1973, underwent medical and security debriefings, and returned to Kansas City on March 4 where he was awarded the Purple Heart and the Silver Star. He then began a series of public appearances, making over 400 during the first year home. He has spoken to religious, business, civic, and student groups from Albuquerque, N.M. to Washington, D.C. He is the author of two books, I'm No Hero and The Last Domino.

Robert R. Blake is chairman of Scientific Methods, Inc., a behavioral science firm specializing in organization development. He received his B.A. degree in psychology from Berea College (1940), his M.A. degree in psychology from the University of Virginia (1941), and his Ph.D. degree in psychology from the University of Texas at Austin (1947); where he was a professor until 1964.

Clark Completes Doctorate

Mrs. Nancy Clark, assistant professor of nursing, successfully defended her doctoral dissertation Nov. 8 at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tenn.

Clark, 44, joined the Harding faculty in 1977 and was named assistant to the dean of the School of Nursing in 1981. The title of her dissertation was "Clinical Practice Activities of Clinical Nurse Specialists: Conflicts and Professionalism in Bureaucracy." Her degree is in higher education administration.

Clark said her national study was based on data from 48 states and dealt with the settings and activities supportive to nurses who are providing direct patient care. She developed curriculum guidelines and guidelines for employers of clinical nurse specialists as part of her work, she said.

A native of Michigan, Clark holds a Bachelor of Science in Nursing from Wayne State University and the Master of Public Health degree from the University of Michigan. Before coming to Harding, she was an instructor for two years at Mott Community College, Flint, Mich. and also worked in various nursing capacities in area hospitals and schools.

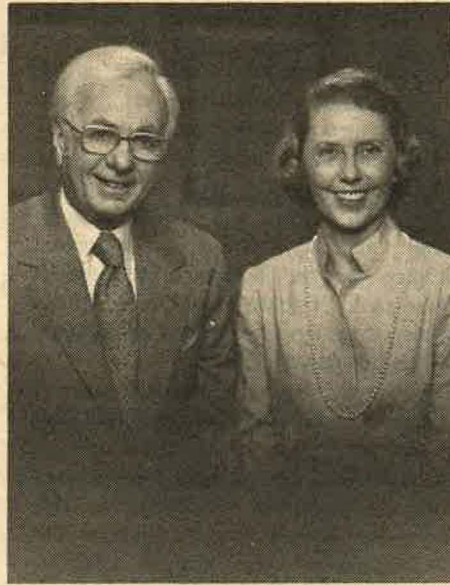

In July 1981 she presented a two-week seminar on "Infection Control in Community and Hospital" in Kenya, Africa, and

Charlie Plumb

He has lectured at Harvard, Oxford, and Cambridge universities; worked on special extended assignments at the Tavistock Clinic, London, as a Fulbright Scholar; and has served as a consultant with governments, industries, and universities in 40 countries. He is a diplomat in Industrial and Organizational Psychology, American Board of Professional Psychology, Inc.; a fellow of the International Association of Applied Social Scientists, Phi Kappa Phi, Pi Gamma Mu and Sigma Xi.

Blake is a pioneer in organizational dynamics, having initiated the first organization development effort in a major American corporation. Here he perfected the internationally known Grid approach to organization development and demonstrated its ability to promote organization excellence. Blake is the author of over 30 books, including The New Managerial Grid (1978), Consultation (1976, 1983), and Making Experience Work (1978). The original Grid book, The Managerial Grid (1964), has sold in excess of one million copies and is available in ten languages.

Jane Srygley Mouton is president of Scientific Methods, Inc., and was the co-developer of the concepts of the Grid. Mouton received her B.S. degree in pure mathematics at the University of Texas at Austin (1950), her M.S. degree in psychology from Florida State University (1951), and her Ph.D. degree in psychology from the University of Texas at Austin (1957), where she also was a faculty member.

She is an associate of the American Psychological Association; a diplomat in Industrial and Organizational Psychology, American Board of Professional Psychology, Inc.; and a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, the International Association of Applied Social Scientists, Phi Kappa Phi, and Sigma Xi.

Mouton has consulted with government leaders, executives, academicians and other administrators from over 40 countries. In addition to her work in executive management and organization development, she has engaged in research on conformity, dynamics of win-lose conflict, and creative decision making. She is co-author with Robert Blake of over 30 books, including The Marriage Grid (1971), Instrumented Team Learning (1957), and Managing Intergroup Conflict in Industry [1964].

A dinner will be held at 6:30 p.m. Friday for the Seminar participants and their wives in the American Heritage Cafeteria. Afterwards Plumb will speak from 7:30 to 10:00 in the American Heritage Auditorium. Blake and Mouton will speak Saturday morning from 8:30 to 12:30 in the same auditorium.

The purpose of the Management Seminar is to emphasize production through better management and to give students exposure to high caliber people in order to enhance their professional growth.

The seminar cost is $28 per session or $50 for the entire program which includes the dinner on Friday. For further information contact David B. Burks, Dean, School of Business, Harding University, Box 753, Searcy, Ark. 72143. Make checks payable to Harding University.

Service Awards Presented

Three longtime servants of the Lord's church — Carl Brecheen, Paul Faulkner and Charles Hodge — were recently presented Distinguished Christian Service Awards by Harding University President Clifton L. Ganus Jr.

The three Texans were at Harding to speak at the 60th Annual Harding Bible Lectureship, held Oct. 10-12 and focusing on "The Christian Home."

"These three men exemplify the spirit of Christian service," Ganus said. "Their unselfish leadership and dedication to Christian principles have touched the lives of countless others," he added.

"We at Harding are proud to bestow this honor upon such distinguished individuals," Ganus said. "The award is given to those who have made significant contributions to the cause of Christ, and these are certainly deserving recipients."

Dr. Brecheen is a professor of Bible at Abilene Christian University and director of the ACU Bible Lectureship, Bible Teachers Workshop and Ministers Renewal Workshop. He is an elder at the University church of Christ in Abilene and conducts Marriage Enrichment Seminars throughout the United States.

Dr. Faulkner is also a Bible professor at ACU and is director of the school's Marriage and Family Institute. He has a private practice in marriage and family therapy and was named ACU's Outstanding Teacher of the Year in 1982. Faulkner co-authored a book, What Every Family Needs, and conducts Marriage Enrichment Seminars across the nation.

New Day Film Productions released the Seminar on 16mm film in 1980. It consists of eight 45-minute films. The personal seminar presented by Brecheen and Faulkner has been presented to over 70,000 people in 26 states and three foreign countries. It presently is scheduled through 1988.

Hodge is a well-known minister and author who has served churches in Seagoville, Houston, Fort Worth and Duncanville, Texas. He has authored numerous books, including Will God Run?, Twentieth Century Sermons, Hodge Podge, My God and Prayer, My Preacher, Writing Out Loud, My Elders, God's Deacons, and for the past six years has participated in semi-annual medical missions trips to Panama.

Clark is a member of the American Nurses' Association, Arkansas State Nurses' Association, National League for Nursing, American Public Health Association, Sigma Theta Tau and Epsilon Omicron.

She is married to Bill Clark and the couple has four children.

Angels. He is a staff writer for 20th Century Christian and Restoration Quarterly magazines, and has preached in over 30 states.

Hodge has traveled throughout the Holy Land and Europe and is a frequent participant at teacher training series, leadership lectures and youth rallies.

Nursing Classes Set For Nigeria

The Harding School of Nursing will be offering a 10-week program for senior nursing students this summer in Nigeria, according to Dr. Nancy Clark, assistant to Nursing Dean Catherine Shultz.

The program will be offered for four hours credit, and will be divided into two five-week clinicals, pediatrics and obstetrics, according to Clark.

Clark said the students will assist the medical staff of the African Christian Hospital, a 50-bed facility in Eastern Ngwa County, Imo State, Nigeria.

Clark, who is an assistant professor of nursing at Harding, will supervise the students and provide clinical instruction. Her husband and a daughter plan to accompany her, she said.

Clark said the group will probably leave "right after graduation" in May, and return around the first of August. "We would like to make this an ongoing part of the curriculum," she said.

Clark and Shultz previously conducted a two-week workshop on infection control principles in Kisumu, Kenya, East Africa during the summer of 1981.

Debate Team Sharpening Skills

The University's forensics and debate teams competed first at Oklahoma Christian College this fall.

In that competition, the team of June Middleton and Kim Hudson won second in duo interpretation while Ellen Porter was third in total speaker points among the competing debaters.

Oct. 14 and 15 were the dates of the second tournament that took place at the University of Texas at San Antonio. It was a good meet for the team with a number of members placing, according to Dr. Pat Garner, assistant professor of speech.

June Middleton won first in poetry, and the team of Kevin Bay and Linda Counts went to the finals in duo interpretation. The team of Ellen Porter and Jodee Hobbs won first in debate with Porter also taking first in speaker points.

Southwest Missouri State at Springfield was the site of the next contest Oct. 22 and 23. Kim Hudson took first place in dramatic interpretation and Allan Kelm was fourth in dramatic interpretation. In debate, the team of Porter and Hobbs placed fourth with Porter fourth in speaker points.

To participate in these tournaments the team travels an average of 300 miles, Garner said. They usually attend about 12 meets each year.

Anyone can become a member of the debate-forensics team, Garner said. Membership is on a voluntary basis.

"The individual events help increase public speaking skills, teach the skills of dealing with success and failure in competition and also bring an increased awareness of the literature presented," Garner said. "Debate brings those things and also a strong development of research and organizational skills."

The team's next competition was at Louisiana State University in Shreveport Nov. 5.

In individual events, Kim Hudson was second in dramatic interpretation with Allan Kelm placing fourth. Hudson and June Middleton were third in duo interpretation, while Debbie Young and Kelm advanced to the finals.

In debate, the team of Parker Allen and Rebekah Davis were able to advance to the quarterfinals. Ellen Porter and Jodee Hobbs won the debate competition and tied for second in speaker points.

In the sweepstakes competition, the University's team placed third.

Music Accreditation Earned

by Mariann Cox
Student Journalist

Harding University was accepted Nov. 25 as an accredited institutional member of the National Association of Schools of Music (NASM), according to Dr. Kenneth Davis Jr., chairman of the music department.

The NASM is an association of institutions made up of deans of schools of music and heads of music departments. Acceptance into the organization was based on an extensive self-study report begun in May and completed in August, and an on-site inspection Sept. 29-30 by a team from the undergraduate commission of the NASM.

The self-study report, edited by Dr. Arthur Shearin of the music faculty, was a "comprehensive questionnaire that dealt with all phases of the work of the department, including curricula, financial operations, facilities, faculty and staff, public relations and future plans," Shearin said.

The visiting NASM team of Dr. Peter Gerschelski, chairman of the music department at the University of Tennessee at Chattanooga, and Dr. Robert Steinbauer, music chairman at Manhattan's Kansas State University, assessed the validity and accuracy of information contained in the self-study report during their on-site visit.

The men met with President Ganus, conferred with University deans and attended all of the music classes. The inspectors completed a written report and presented it to the undergraduate commission of NASM in November.

Suggestions from the team resulted in a number of improvements in the department. A jury system of evaluating private students was set up, giving music faculty committees the responsibility of determining the progress of each student. A faculty committee now will have opportunity to recommend books, records and scores to supplement the music library, with additional suggestions coming from the students.

Well-defined requirements were set forth for the piano proficiency examination, following guidelines offered by the NASM. All music students must pass the exam to graduate. They are evaluated by the piano faculty, which helped organize the requirements.

Many improvements came as the result of the self-study report. The department now offers Bachelor of Music degrees in piano, voice and strings. What once was the BA in Music Education now is a BME. The music department section in the school catalog has been revised to make requirements clearer.

Shearin said the department has adopted more of a standard operating procedure since filing the report and evaluating the music field's strengths and weaknesses. "Students can see a much closer correlation between stated procedure and practice now," he said. "More than ever before, the students know what is expected of them."

Davis said the department will continue to work on student recruiting and involvement in the lives of students. The faculty also is making more systematic efforts in keeping track of music graduates. Davis receives job information and informs former students when he sees opportunity for their placement or advancement.

Additional plans for improvement are in the making, Davis said. But for now, it's nice to know the Harding music department has received recognition for its hard work.

Berryhill Retires

Rheba Berryhill was honored for her 22 years of service to the University at a retirement dinner given by the library staff and their families.

Mrs. Berryhill, wife of the late M.E. "Pinky" Berryhill, was an assistant in the Periodicals department of the library for 19 years and was responsible for the many green plants that are visible throughout the library.

Along with expressions of appreciation made during the evening, she was presented with gifts from Library Director Winnie Bell and from all members of the library staff. A special presentation was a white gold watch, inscribed with years of service, presented by President Clifton L. Ganus.

Mrs. Berryhill and 18 classmates graduated from Harding in 1934, the last year the school was located at Morrilton. She married Pinky, a professor in the physical education department, in 1937.

Judging Completed for Invitational Business Games

Final judging of the inaugural Harding University Invitational Business Games was conducted Friday, Nov. 18 on the Harding campus, with awards being presented at a banquet Friday night in the American Heritage Cafeteria.

Fifteen teams in three industries participated during the eight-week competition which began Sept. 16, with five teams in each industry. Ten high schools and five junior colleges from nine states and Canada were represented.

Industry winners included Judsonia High School (I), Madison Academy of Huntsville, Ala. (II), and Michigan Christian College, Rochester (III). The Judsonia team also captured the overall championship in the high school division.

Other finishers from Industry I included Luckett Christian of Royal Oak, Mich., second place; Boyd-Buchanan of Chattanooga, Tenn., third place; Central Arkansas Christian from North Little Rock and Harding Academy of Memphis, Tenn.

Industry-II contestants featured Harding Academy of Searcy, second place; Christian Academy of Greater St. Louis, Mo., third place; Ouachita Christian of Monroe, La. and West Memphis Christian.

From Industry III, York College of York, Neb. placed second; Great Lakes Christian College, Beamsville, Ontario (Canada) took third; and rounding out were Ohio Valley College of Parkersburg, W. Va. and Northeastern Christian College of Villanova, Pa.

Trophies were awarded to Judsonia High School and Michigan Christian College, and plaques were given to the top three finishers in the two high school industries and the second and third place finishers in the junior college industry.

derson, associate professor of accounting; Reynie Rutledge, president of First Security Bank; Jeff Tennyson, member of the Harding Economics Team; and Bob Selco of Speed Queen, for Industry I.

Judges for Industry II were James Cone, vice chairman of the Harding Board of Trustees; David Tucker, assistant professor of economics; Tonya Newell, member of the Harding Business Team; and Mark Harris of Speed Queen.

Industry III judges included Dr. David Burks, dean of the School of Business and director of the American Studies Program; Dave Rich of Speed Queen; and Byron Carlock, member of the Harding Economics

Team.

Serving as judges for the overall high school championship were Dr. Ken Johnson, director of accounting; Dr. Bob Reely, director of the Center for Management Excellence; and Lavon Carter, assistant professor of management.

During the two month competition, each team made eight sets of decisions, representing a two year (eight quarters) period of time. Decisions included product marketing, unit producing, inventory financing and other decisions necessary for a normal business operation.

Teams telephoned their decisions on Fridays, the decisions were processed by computer Friday night, and results were mailed on Saturdays during the competition, in time for review on Mondays.

The Invitational Business Games relied on a specialized business game developed by Burks and currently used by Harding business students. The game was revised for use by high school students and others with a basic business background.

"These computer-simulated games have proven effective in providing students with decision-making experience and in allowing them to bridge the gap between textbook learning and real-world situations," said Burks.

The Invitational Business Games were directed by David Johnson, assistant professor of accounting, who said they would now become an annual event at Harding, with the purpose of "exposing high school and junior college students to the various elements within the business world and to Harding."

A Cappella Sets European Tour

Members and alumni of the A Cappella Chorus will campaign and tour in the British Isles this summer and need some extra voices and workers, said Dr. Ken Davis, Harding music department chairman.

Davis arranged the itinerary for a six-week campaign which will take singers through Loughborough and Wellingborough, England; East Kilbride, Kirkcaldy, Peterhead, Castlemilk and Sighthill, Scotland; and Northampton and Morley, England May 16-June 24.

The A Cappella tour begins June 25 in Scotland and includes the following itinerary: June 25 — East Kilbride, June 26 — Sighthill, June 27 — Kirkcaldy, June 28 — Glenrothes, June 29 — East Kilbride, June 30 — Peterhead, July 1 — Buckie, July 2 — Inverness, July 3 — Dunoon, July 4 — Castlemilk, July 5 — Livingston, July 6 — Morley.

The group will then continue in England with stops July 7 — wedding in Northampton and program in Loughborough, July 8 — Wimbley, July 9 — tour London, July 10 — return to the States.

Campaigners in East Kilbride will be working with Mike and Lis Jones, a Harding couple who serve as missionaries at the congregation. Mike and Lis sang in the Harding choruses and spent some of their summers as campaigners overseas.

Campaigns and the tour will cost $1,500, a price which includes all transportation, meals and housing. The cost of the tour alone will probably be $1,100 or less.

Any A Cappella alumnus who is interested in the summer trips should contact Dr. Davis (501-268-6161, ext. 343) before Jan. 15, 1984.

programs across the United States, and has given special lectures on Christian evidences at major college and university campuses.

Shelly is the regular speaker for "Direction," a weekly five-minute radio program heard on stations throughout the nation. He is married to the former Myra Shappley and they have three children: Michelle, Tim and Tommy.

Shelly's award is from the Department of Bible.

Neil (BA'32) was chosen the Outstanding Alumnus from the School of Education. He earned the M.A. degree in 1938 and the M.Ed. degree in 1945 from George Peabody University and has done post graduate work there as well.

He and his wife, the former Martha Walker, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Sept. 7, 1983, and are the parents of two children, Ann Porter Neil Vand Linden and Robert G. Neil Jr.

Neil's long career as a teacher and administrator spanned the period 1931-1975, covering some 44 years in education, all but two of which were spent in Nashville. From 1950-1975 he was an administrator in the Nashville Public Schools.

Neil has led singing since 1927, preached since 1940, and served as an elder for more than 20 years. He and his wife are members of the Antioch church of Christ, and he has received a long list of honors and awards during his lifetime.

Rainey and Bryant were selected as Outstanding Alumni of the College of Arts and Sciences. Rainey earned a B.S. degree in Public Affairs from Harding in 1958, an M.A. in International Relations from Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy in 1960, and a Ph.D. in International Relations from American University in 1966.

During his distinguished career, Rainey has served in the Office of Naval Intelligence, 1954-57; taught at Harding College from 1958-62; been an administrator at American University from 1963-66; taught at Ohio State University from 1966-69; and been associated with the University of North Carolina at Asheville from 1969 to the present. Rainey's teaching specialty is political science, and he has served as chairman of UNC's Department of Political Science since 1978, after serving in a similar capacity from 1969-74. He was promoted to the rank of professor in 1973.

Rainey has had two books published on American foreign policy and has completed the manuscripts for several others. He has had many professional and scholarly articles published, and presented numerous papers and informational talks to various groups. He is a member of many civic and professional organizations, and is married to the former Dorma Lee Rogers. The couple has two children, Cheryl, 18, and Eric, 12.

Bryant, who received the B.A. in 1952, is a missionary in the Plateau State, Nigeria, along with his wife, the former Pattie Mattox. The Bryants served as missionaries at the Onicha Ngwa and were instrumental in the establishment of the Nigerian Christian Hospital there.

Recently he wrote, "We have no electricity and we transport our water from a road construction camp 45 minutes away over a terrible road. Also we catch rain from the roof, but water is scarce.

Fall Activities Draw Large Crowds to Campus

The fall semester always brings a great deal of activity to the Harding campus and this year has been no different, with High School Day, Lectureship and Homecoming all contributing their share of excitement.

"The Christian Home" was the theme of the 60th Annual Bible Lectureship and response was tremendous. Between 800 and 1,000 people attended the Oct. 10-12 program according to Lectureship Director Eddie Cloer. Cloer said he is down to the last handful of copies of the Lectureship book, and is grateful to all who participated.

Family life was considered in-depth by such authorities as Carl Brecheen and Paul Faulkner, Mary and Donald Baker, Lynn and Joy McMillan, Bruce White and Mike Ireland. Also speaking were Charles Hodge, Joe Beam, Neale Pryor, Avon Malone, Jimmy Allen, Alan Isom, Jim Massey, Cecil May, Jack Paul, Charles Coil and John Paul Blankenship.

"The Amazing Grace Bible Class" was filmed live in the Benson Auditorium on Tuesday night during the Lectureship, with host Jim Mankin, song leader Nick Boone, and executive producer George Goldtrap present.

Harding President Clifton L. Ganus Jr. and Vice President for Academic Affairs Neale Pryor each delivered a six-minute lesson on the home during the program and Dr. Jack Wood Sears was the recipient of a $65 John A. Dickson analytical Bible.

High School Day was held Oct. 15, and speaking to the 1,000 young people in attendance was Charlie Hester, youth minister at the Downtown church of Christ. A slide show, performances by the Belles and Beaux and the Time of Day, and a football game between Harding and Southwestern College (Memphis) were other highlights.

Rosemary Wilson, assistant to the director of the Admissions office, feels the event was a great success. "The attendance doubled from last year," she said, "and people came from all over the country, from as far away as California, Michigan and New York. It's getting better every year."

During the afternoon, the Bisons came out on top of Southwestern 40-24 to end the day on a favorable note and round out an eventful day. The annual fall outing offers prospective students and their parents a chance to look over the campus and to be involved in a number of activities.

"Fiddles and Fun" was the theme for Homecoming '83. The featured musical production was "Fiddler on the Roof," performed Friday and Saturday nights before more than 3,000 people.

"Fiddler" was directed by Robin Miller, assistant professor of speech. Bob Ritchie of Concord, N.H. played the role of Tevye and Becky Maupin of Daingerfield, Texas portrayed his wife Golde. The show had a cast and crew of more than 100, among the largest ever at Harding.

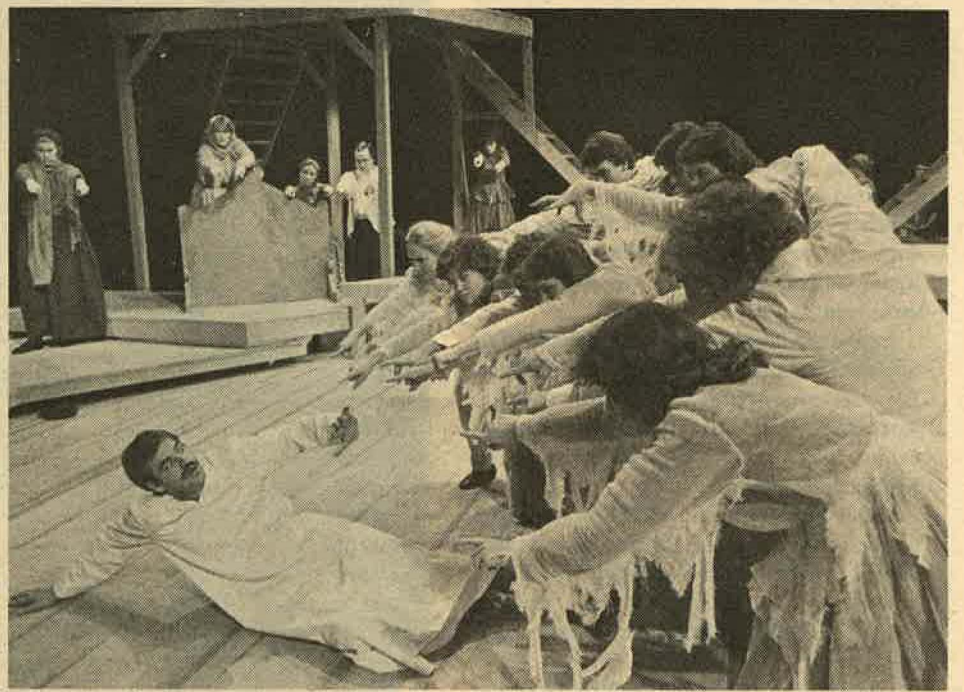

Special anniversary reunions were held by the Class of 1958 (25 years) and the Class of 1933 (50 years). The 25th year class had 42 members present and the 50 year class had an attendance of 16 members.

The Black and Gold Alumni Banquet ("Fiddles and Feast"), continental breakfast ("Fiddlesticks"), alumni chapel, social club and class reunions, variety show, Bison Stampede ("Fit As A Fiddle"), and football game made the event a memorable one.

Between 800 and 1,000 people returned for Homecoming, according to Alumni Relations Director David Crouch, who termed it "one of the best ever." At halftime of the football game against the University of Arkansas-Monticello, sophomore Kellee City, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jim City of Searcy, was crowned Homecoming Queen for 1983.

Other members of the royal court included queen nominees Stacy Green of Searcy and Gina Ward of Memphis, Tenn. Class representatives were senior Robyn Ransom of Coshocton, Ohio; junior Mary Beth Hill of Tupelo, Miss.; sophomore Susan Turner of Tupelo, Miss.; and freshman Sandy Garner of Greenville, Ill.

If you by chance missed out on the excitement this fall, there will be plenty of opportunities this spring to visit the campus and join in the fun and excitement. Make plans now to attend as many of your favorite events as possible.

Library Offers Computer Reference Service

The Beaumont Memorial Library at Harding University has added a computer reference service this fall, according to Library Director Winnie Bell.

Reference Librarian Craig Beard is in charge of the service, Bell said, and has done an excellent job. "It makes it possible for us to offer information we couldn't offer any other way," Bell said, "through the access of databases. It's kind of like having a lot of libraries at your disposal all at once."

The service consists of a Digital LA120 DECwriter III terminal/printer and a group lease agreement with Bibliographic Retrieval Services (BRS) of New York through membership in AMIGOS Bibliographic Council, a network of libraries in the Southwest.

The library acquired the computer terminal in September after subscribing to BRS this summer. The annual subscription fee is $100, Bell said. Before purchasing the Digital terminal, the library used one on a loan basis from the Admissions Office, Beard said.

Beard said the advantages of BRS over its competitors include the low rate available through AMIGOS and several databases unique to BRS, including a religion index and another called "Superindex," which is an index to back-of-the-book indexes in major scientific reference works.

Beard explained that a database is a collection of information on a particular subject that is stored in computerized form. Most databases are indexes, Beard said, but "full text" databases are also available in which a complete article is stored word-for-word. The five broad categories of databases offered by BRS are business, education, humanities, science and social science, Beard said.

"Those take in everything else," he added.

Beard said BRS offers 50 million records, or citations, to users. A citation consists of basic reference information such as the author's name, title of article, title of journal, date of publication, volume number and page number, Beard said.

"Their databases are being constantly updated," he said, "so that usually their listings are current within a week or two of publication. It's incredible!"

Bell and Circulation Librarian Suzanne Spurrier attended a BRS orientation seminar this summer to learn more about the system. They explained it to other librarians and then subscribed to the service. Beard attended a BRS update seminar in October to get further training.

"The more I know the more I can help those using the service," he said. Beard, who earned an M.L.S. degree from Florida State University, said he took two computer-related classes there, including one that dealt primarily with library usage of computers.

Although the volume of usage (25 searches) this fall has not been as high as expected, Beard said he expects it to increase as students and faculty become more aware of the service and what it can do for them.

"Sherry Pollard (counseling) was one of the first users," Beard said. "She was excited about it because it saved her hours and hours of poring through indexes and abstracts for her doctoral dissertation. She got a ream of material in less than an hour," he said.

"The computer can search more material quicker and more efficiently than is possible for a human being," Beard said. "The computer doesn't get tired of looking."

Beard said Dr. Bob McKelvain (psychology) and Dr. Edmond Wilson (science) have been very supportive of the reference service this semester. "Let's say they have the best understanding of what it can do for students," he said.

Beard said he has made searches for eight psychology students, four science students and three nursing students, in terms of most frequent usage by department.

The procedure to initiate a search involves filling out a form in advance and includes the tentative title of the paper or research project, a description of the subject to be searched, and a possible list of subject terms or names. Beard said he goes over the information and then tries to select the terms appropriate to a particular database as well as limitation variables.

"I can do my job better when the user is prepared," he said.

Beard said the computer is incredibly fast, requiring no more than 10 seconds to completely search all references to any one term. After a search is complete, the user has several options.

He can order copies of the material from BRS, or he can choose a more direct approach by having it printed directly on the library terminal. Both options cost roughly

Library Increases Federal Holdings

Beaumont Memorial Library at Harding University has recently increased the number of government documents received from the Government Printing Office (GPO), according to Henry Terrill, government documents librarian.

Terrill said the number has increased from 22 percent to 31 percent of available government publications, for a total in 1982-83 of 7,300 pieces, including paper documents, periodicals and microfiche.

The Harding Library is one of 18 federal depositories in Arkansas and 1,800 across the nation, Terrill said. Other nearby depositories are located in Little Rock, Russellville, Jonesboro and Conway.

The federal government supplies documents to depositories free of charge, and Terrill said there are so many the library could not possibly house them all. Popular titles received include the Congressional Record, FDA Consumer, Yearbook of Agriculture, Survey of Current Business, Statistical Abstract of the United States, American Education, Daily Federal Register, and U.S. Code Statutes at Large.

Terrill said business, education and health publications dominate the nearly 64,000 document collection housed on the second floor of the library, but that practically all areas are represented to some degree.

The second floor collection houses the majority of government documents at Harding, but there are some throughout the library, including general book stacks, reference room and periodical room.

The second floor collection was organized in February 1982, Terrill said, to help simplify the filing system for government documents. Harding became a depository in 1963.

"The biggest use of our collection is for informational reports," Terrill said, "because we have quite a few statistical publications." The varied collection includes weekly weather maps and publications from the Civil Rights Commission, Census Bureau, Labor Department and National Institute of Education.

the same, Beard said, although each case is unique, he explained.

A third option, hopefully avoided, is to search a different term if the first one proved unfruitful. Each database has its own hourly rate that is charged by BRS, Beard said. For example, the rate for the ERIC (Education Resources Information Center) database is $35 per hour. If the entire hour is not used, then only the percentage of the portion used is charged. Some databases have no charge, and others charge according to the number of copies made, he said.

In addition to the database charge, there is a $7 per hour fee charged by Telenet, a telecommunications network which routes the calls from Little Rock to New York and offers considerable savings over direct dialing. The user must pay these two charges, but the Library picks up the cost of the regular telephone charge by Southwestern Bell.

"We feel an obligation to our students to make it economically feasible to use the service," Beard said. "After all, it's a tremendous research tool."

The slight cost far outweighs the alternative, especially to upper level students, faculty and staff, Beard said, in terms of time, money, and amount of available, updated material.

"It's like having access to a warehouse full of information," he said. "We even have a direct line to the National Library of Medicine in Washington, D.C."

Beard said he hopes more people take advantage of the service during the spring. Now that they know about it, they probably will.

15 Class Officers Elected

Fifteen class officers were elected this fall for the 1983-84 school year.

Marty Moore won a runoff election for freshman men's representative with 87 votes, defeating Steve Powers, who had 81 votes. Also running was Paul Fite who had 48 votes.

Amber Dykes was elected freshman women's representative in the runoff with 88 votes to Sheila Cox' 72 votes. Melissa Mallard had 65 votes.

Senior class president is Charles Dupre who had 120 votes. He defeated Jody D. Hall who had 83 votes. Kelly VanPatter was elected senior class vice-president with 77 votes in the runoff election. She defeated Suzanne Hintze, who had 57 votes and Jere Matthews who had 44 votes.

Beth Hurd, a write-in, ran unopposed for senior class secretary, and Glenn Dillard had 104 votes to defeat Tracy E. Gill who had 98 votes for senior class treasurer.

The office of junior class president was filled by Grant Skidmore who had 80 votes versus J.T. Smith's 77 votes. Liz Herrel had 88 votes to defeat Joe Carson who had 67 votes for the office of junior class vice-president. No one ran for the position of secretary. Eddie Shields ran unopposed for junior class treasurer.

Scott Smith was elected sophomore class president with 112 votes. He defeated Bryan Pruitt, a write-in, who had 79 votes. David Stills had 74 votes in the runoff for sophomore class vice-president. He defeated Jay Clark, a write-in, who had 64 votes and Twila Lane who had 41 votes.

Cary Gilbert was unopposed as sophomore class secretary, and Jason Dean ran unopposed for sophomore class treasurer.

Freshman class president is Peter Colligan who had 136 votes. He defeated Scott Harris who had 125 votes. The vice-president is Deanna Hollifield who had 133 votes. Matt Bell had 131 votes in that race.

Amy Moshier was unopposed for freshman class secretary, and Lynette Sims ran unopposed for freshman class treasurer.

The married students' representative is Dan Baxter, who also ran unopposed.

Career Library Established

"What do you want to be when you grow up?" is a question a tiny tot can answer readily. But when that same child asks himself the question later, particularly at the time of selecting a college major, he may realize that choosing a major and choosing a career require a great deal more thought.

The Harding University Counseling Center has established a Career Planning Library for the purpose of providing students with reliable career information to use in making career decisions. The Center currently has 622 individual publications from "200 Ways to Put Your Talent to Work in the Health Field" to "Choosing a Career in Pest Control," with hundreds of other choices in between.

Dr. Robert McKelvain, associate director of the Counseling Center, explained reasons for the new service. "In the fall, approximately one-third of the freshman class are totally undecided on a major. Many state 'undecided' while others simply pick a major at random in order to fill in the blank.

"But good decisions require good information, and good career decisions require up-to-date, accurate and comprehensive facts about the world of work. The Career Planning Library makes such information available for Harding students," he said.

The focus for the Center will be more futuristic, with the Library providing information as to why a student needs to acquire this information. The program is intended to be separate and apart from academics, McKelvain said, and will be totally a student service offered through the Counseling Center. "However, we feel that the contribution by classroom teachers will be strengthened through this effort," he said.

To equip the Library, the staff wrote 700 different places requesting information. The project was funded by two chapters of Associated Women for Harding.

Students will be encouraged to come to the Center for assistance in the Library before choosing a college major. "We feel a student should know where he's headed before choosing a major," the director pointed out.

Brochures in the Library are displayed in racks lining the walls of the Student Service Building on Grand Boulevard. The Library will be open from 9:30 a.m. to 12 noon and from 1:00 to 5:00 p.m. Monday through Friday. All pamphlets will remain in the Center, McKelvain said, but the brochures are available on request by writing the publishers.

A reception was held Nov. 17 to introduce the new Library.

Medical Missions Trip Set

Faculty and students from the Harding University School of Nursing will participate in a medical mission trip to Panama March 30-April 8, according to Dr. Nancy Clark, assistant professor of nursing.

Clark and fellow teacher Jerry Myhan will accompany approximately seven senior nursing students and three nursing alumni on the 10-day trip to Carti and Wicha Hula, two of the San Blas Islands off the coast of Panama. The islands are inhabited by native Cuna Indians.

The Harding group will join about 30 other allied health professionals from the southern United States in making the trip, one of two annual ones sponsored by the Forest Park church of Christ in Valdosta, Ga. Bob Bryson is in charge of the Panama program.

"Our group will handle a wide variety of assignments," Clark said, "including immunizations, headscrubs for lice, initial screenings, laboratory screenings, nutritional assessments, surgical assistance, dental assistance, pharmaceutical assistance, injections, pap smears, and instruction for children's Bible classes."

Clark and Myhan have been associated with the Panama effort for the past several years, and have made numerous trips.

European Tour Scheduled

An 18-day tour to Holland, Germany, Switzerland and Italy for persons over 55 will be a part of the University's offerings for the summer of 1984.

With Dr. Jimmy Carr as host, the trip is scheduled for April 30 through May 18 with air transportation from Atlanta to Amsterdam and return. A $200 deposit will be required for a reservation and the remaining $1400 is due by Feb. 29.

A 15-day Eurailpass for first class train travel valid for all trains in Western Europe except in England and Scotland will be provided.

The itinerary will include two days of sightseeing in Amsterdam May 1-2; train travel down the Rhine River Valley through the Swiss Alps to Lucerne, Switzerland on May 3; classes, museum tours and shopping in Florence, May 5-9; three days in Rome, May 10-12; free day in Florence, May 15; evening departures by train to Amsterdam, May 16; final day in Amsterdam, May 17; and departure from Amsterdam, May 18.

Further information and a brochure may be obtained by writing Dr. Carr, Box 114, Harding University, or by phoning (591)-268-6161, ext. 462.

Andy T. Ritchie Succumbs

"Andy Ritchie was my friend," said Dr. Earl Moore at a "Victory Celebration" Nov. 7, following the death of Andy T. Ritchie Jr. Nov. 5 in Searcy.

Moore was among many who called to mind the friendliness and warmth of "Brother Ritchie," as he preferred being called. Still others recalled his many accomplishments in the work of the Lord while here on earth.

"Only one life t'will soon be past, Only what's done for Christ will last." Ritchie was fond of reciting this short message, but more importantly he lived it. Among some of the things he will be remembered for are evangelistic efforts that include directing Camp Ganderbrook in Maine for ten years and working with Camp Shiloh in New Jersey and Camp Hunt in New York.

Many people's lives were touched through these efforts, which began in 1943 when he led singing and assisted in Trenton, N.J. with a group of 35 students from Abilene Christian College. Later he worked in Schenectady, N.Y. with Charles R. Brewer. These and other accomplishments earned him the title, "The Dean of Personal Evangelism," from the North Atlantic Christian, a religious journal.

Born in Neely's Bend, Tenn. on April 25, 1909, Ritchie attended local schools and then went to David Lipscomb High School.

He left home at 14 to go there "because my father had been a student there when it was still Nashville Bible School," he said.

Singing was a genuine characteristic of Ritchie's life. He distinguished himself as a brilliant performer and choral director, having toured on his own and directed the Harding choruses from 1946 to 1953. His voice and his chorus were heard across the U.S. on the "Hymns for Harding" radio program which was created under his leadership.

Ritchie was a man whose contributions to society involved every facet of religious endeavor including singing, preaching and teaching. "We ought to find a deep joy in everything we do in our relationship to God, but joy is not the objective," he said. Completion of his book, Thou Shalt Worship the Lord Thy God in 1969, was a high point in his sharing of ideas about singing and other aspects of worship. His book is and has been since its publication the text for the course at Harding, "Worship and the Church."

The bulletin of the West End Church of Christ, Nashville, Tenn., recently expressed the thoughts and memories of several generations: "Our thanks to Andy Ritchie and all the noble things of high spiritual quality for which the man unflinchingly stood."

Longtime Board Member Dies

On Sunday, Oct. 9, 1983, D.F. Anguish died of a massive heart attack while in the hospital for knee surgery. Funeral services were held at the Shawnee church of Christ where Brother Anguish was an elder.

For 30 years (1953-1983), Doward Franklin Anguish, 77, of 6271 Sulpher Springs Road, Shawnee, Ohio, served Harding University as a member of the Board of Trustees.

Even after death, Anguish continues to serve others by unselfishly donating his body for scientific research.

Survivors include his wife, Grace; his three daughters, Mrs. Jacqueline Richardson, Mrs. Sondra Sigler, and Miss Linda Anguish; three stepdaughters, five grandchildren, six step-grandchildren, and 14 step-great-grandchildren.

Anguish had a lifelong interest in writing and publishing which was obvious through his work. He was a retired publisher working in and owning Southern Ohio Color, which published church bulletins and brochures. He also owned the Christian Leader Company, which was a church supply service. Anguish also worked as a public relations practitioner for Standard Oil for a number of years.

Two Take Photography Honors

Two members of the Harding University chapter of Kappa Pi International Honorary Art Fraternity have won the top prizes in the annual Photography Competition sponsored by Kappa Pi during 1983, according to Arthur B. Kennon, Kappa Pi news editor. "We were swamped with entries," Kennon said. "In fact, there were more than 100 entries from all over the world. It is quite an honor to win against this caliber of competition."

Darrell Truitt, a December candidate for graduation and graphic artist in the Harding Public Relations Office, won first place with a color photograph of several bicycles arranged in a geometric design. He received a cash award of $50.

Hugh Allman of Birmingham, Ala., chairman of the Photography Competition, and himself a professional artist and photographer, remarked on the prize-winning work, "This photograph is very innovative in its design and patterns. It is a truly exciting photograph."

Truitt, a native of Amana, Iowa, is completing the Bachelor of Science degree in art. The artist/photographer, 22, joined the staff of the Public Relations Office in September. While a student he served on the staff of the Petit Jean yearbook for two years as a photographer, and was head photographer for the 1983 book. The Petit Jean has won 23 consecutive All-American ratings from the Associated Collegiate Press of Minneapolis, Minn.

Susan Dean, a senior art education major from Shreveport, La., was second with a color photograph of a Starfish cactus bloom. "The texture of the bloom is clearly visible, making it an excellent floral picture," Allman commented.

Dean received a cash award of $25.

Truitt and Dean will also be featured on the front cover of Sketch Board, one of two annual Kappa Pi publications. According to Kennon, the magazine was printed in December. The other Kappa Pi publication is Sketch Book, which is printed in the spring. Kennon said the April issue of Sketch Book will carry the winning photographs by Truitt and Dean.

The Harding chapter of Kappa Pi is co-sponsored by Elizabeth Mason and Stanley Green, and according to Kennon, there are 155 chapters in the United States and 10 overseas.

School of Nursing Supplies Critical Shortage

One of the most visible and well-known areas of activity on the Harding campus is the School of Nursing.

Since the introduction of a baccalaureate program of nursing at Harding University in 1975, more than 300 students have received degrees, and of that number, 98 percent are licensed registered nurses.

To fill a critical need in the severe shortage of nurses in Arkansas, coupled with an established commitment to service by graduates of Harding, the School of Nursing grew from an offering of pre-nursing that had been a part of the curriculum for 25 years.

Under the leadership of Dean Catherine Shultz, the program has advanced to full continuing State Board of Nursing approval for three years. In 1980 the School of Nursing received the maximum eight-year accreditation from the prestigious National League for Nursing, which presents the program without qualification. The program is directed by a 19-member faculty.

As the program continues, the number of scholarships available has also increased. Through access to the University computer system, the School of Nursing is able to present state of the art instruction of current educational techniques and information.

In a strong mission emphasis, students and faculty have served in Panama and Nigeria to function as nurses from Harding University. In Nigeria, students delivered much-needed measles vaccine for the immunization of children. Graduates of the program have worked as nurses in Nigeria, Bangladesh, Brazil and Kenya.

The preparation of students includes experiences in medical, surgical, psychiatric, community health, pediatrics, maternity, leadership and primary care. From community health checkups to assistance at homes for the aged, students work with clients of varying age groups.

As "the proof of the pudding is in the eating," remarks from state leaders in the field perhaps best tell Harding's story, with Elaine Elibee, past president of the National Council of State Boards of Nursing remarking, "It's one of the best programs in the state, and the graduates are tops."

Gail Priddy, Arkansas State Nurses Association President and Surgical Clinical Coordinator at St. Vincent Hospital, said, "Every graduate of the Harding University School of Nursing that I have worked with has been excellent."

The 78 juniors and seniors currently enrolled in the School of Nursing are committed to the continuing of that degree of excellence.

Endowment Fund Started

A permanent endowment fund for faculty enrichment at Harding University has been established by Mrs. Earlene Moore of Rector, Ark.

Income from the fund will enable Harding faculty members to attend professional meetings, seminars and workshops. Income from the fund will also be used to assist faculty members in obtaining graduate degrees.

"The Roy and Earlene Moore Endowment Fund recognizes the value and importance of well-trained teachers. It is also an indication of Mrs. Moore's and her late husband's concern for the faculty at Harding," said Floyd Daniel, vice president for development at Harding.

For 28 years Mrs. Moore taught in the public schools of Missouri. Prior to his death, her husband, Roy, was owner of hardware businesses in Sikeston, Kennett, Caruthersville and Portageville for over 45 years. He was mayor of Portageville and a member of the President's Development Council at Harding.

The couple's son, Bill, of Caruthersville is also a member of the President's Development Council.

"This fund is an excellent example of how individuals can provide financial support to projects or programs at Harding. This endowment fund will be a permanent part of Harding's efforts to maintain a well-qualified faculty," added Daniel.

Literary Tour Being Planned

Dr. Larry Long, associate professor of English, and a maximum of 12 students will tour Massachusetts and the surrounding area next summer during intersession, May 14-24.

"There's not a better way to be introduced to the American authors than to go and see where they actually lived and worked," Long said. "There's a kind of personal involvement in literature when you actually get to experience their lifestyles."

Any student, regardless of major, is encouraged to take the New England tour, Long said. Students who go on the trip will earn credit in English 251, American Literature, or English 403, Studies in Literature.

Grades for the course will be determined by written reports on books the students will read, a daily journal kept on the tour and a paper written after the trip that summarizes what the student has learned or examines the work of a particular author.

Long said the cost of the trip is reasonable considering the benefits that are gained. Expenses include payment of three hours of tuition, plane tickets, hotel expenses, transportation and food. The cost of last year's tour was about $900 per student.

Those interested in learning more about the tour should contact Long at Box 898, Harding University, Searcy, Ark. 72143.

College Bowl Up for Grabs

Campus competition is in progress toward the selection of a varsity team to represent the University in the College Bowl games next spring. Four teams left in the running after initial elimination rounds will

The four teams facing the final rounds include The Mind Brokers, made up of David Wright and Kim Capps, both of Searcy, Britt Burcham of Kennett, Mo., Kyle Beaty of Fairfax, Va., and Susan Perkins of Liverpool, N.Y.; The Fifth Column, with members Neil Thompson of Marion, Ill.; David Smith of Searcy, Ed Metcalf of Bridgetown, N.J., and Keith Williams of Memphis.

Deja Vu team members include Rick Supplee of Minneapolis, Minn., Kevin Martin of Bloomington, Ind., Jeff Mead of Searcy and John Moore of McMinnville, Tenn.; and Delta Omega is represented by Kevin Klein of Tallahassee, Fla., Philip Thames of Huntsville, Ala., Berry Fisk of Prospect, Ill., and Dan Billingsley of Memphis.

Dinner Given for Cleveland

Dr. Josephine Cleveland, former professor of English, was recently honored at a retirement dinner in the Heritage Room after 18 years on the faculty.

Dr. Clifton L. Ganus Jr., president of the University, made a few opening remarks after the dinner and then asked for reminiscences from the audience. "I was amazed at how many things people remembered," Cleveland said. "There were stories about trips we had taken, incidents in the classroom . . . it was a nostalgic, happy evening."

Ganus presented her with a gold watch and English department faculty members gave her an inscribed brass tray. Approximately 45 people attended the affair.

Cleveland, who came to Harding in 1966 and retired for health reasons this fall, said that "one of the most thrilling things" that has happened to her is the naming of the annual creative writing contest in her honor.

The new name was announced earlier this fall by Dr. Dennis Organ, chairman of the English department. So far, $2,600 has been contributed by former students, colleagues and friends. The donation has pleased her: "this way, it's a living tribute," she said.

"The contest has come to be associated with me, since I helped sponsor it for several years," she explained. "Each year I would think, 'Oh, next year I can do better,' so I hung on to it."

Organ also presented her with a scrapbook containing letters from former students.

Cleveland said that she is greatly enjoying her retirement, despite missing the University and particularly the "super-special people in the English department." She reads, paints, works on her needlepoint, and cares for her plants and flowers. "One of the best things about my retirement," she laughed, "is getting to visit my grandchildren more often."

43 Selected for Who's Who

Forty-three students were selected for inclusion in the 1984 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges as national outstanding leaders.

The honorees were selected on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success. More than 1,500 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations are represented in the volume.

Included are Joyce Aebi, Norwich, Ohio; Sherry Alkire, Edmond, Okla.; Kyle Beaty, Fairfax, Va.; Liz Bell, Birmingham, Ala.; Mary Billingsley, Memphis, Tenn.; Michael Brown, Hardy, Va.; Blair Bryan, Birmingham, Ala.; Byron Carlock, Blytheville, Ark.; Mary Elizabeth Carr, Houston, Texas; Brian Casey, Newark, Del.;

—A Christmas Story to Warm Your Heart

Alumnus Recovers From Successful Liver Transplant

by Bruce Cook

Wayne (BA'69) and Linda Porter (BS'69) Craig have had a tough year. But things are better now thanks to a liver transplant Wayne received July 6.

"Every day is something we look forward to," Wayne said, "because realistically our time together could have been gone. We try to take full advantage of any spare time — a day, half day, whatever," he added.

1983 began as usual for the Craigs with both teaching their regular classes at Harding Academy in Memphis, Tenn. Linda teaches fourth grade and Wayne divides his time between ninth grade physical education classes and tenth grade biology classes. He also coaches varsity soccer (state champs in 1980) and assists with junior and senior high basketball teams.

The trouble began Feb. 1 while Wayne was getting ready to attend a basketball game. He began hemorrhaging and had to be taken to a hospital. "I was in for two weeks and they got it stopped," he said. "They thought it could be controlled chemically on an outpatient basis, but I went home on a Friday and hemorrhaged again Sunday," he said.

"I went back into the hospital and after they got things under control, they decided to do shunt surgery," he said. "Blood was backing up from my liver into my spleen, and from there to my esophagus. They removed my spleen, disconnected a vein to my liver, and reconnected it to my kidney," he said.

"The surgery was an effort to buy time," he continued. "They thought it would give me three or four more years, but that failed and from April to June I got into a weakened condition. My liver almost quit functioning," he said.

"In June I was at the point of another major hemorrhage," he said, "and the doctors didn't know if I could survive it. They decided to build my strength up with the help of intravenous (IV) solutions in preparation for a transplant.

"Due to a rare antibody in my blood, a nationwide search was necessary to locate 100 units, which is the amount they like to have on hand for a transplant," he said. "A Memphis blood bank named Life Blood took care of that.

"They put my information into a computer on Friday, July 1 and a donor

Harding alumni Wayne and Linda Craig of Memphis, Tenn. got an early Christmas present this year when Wayne received a life-saving liver transplant. (by Mike James) was located on the evening of June 5," he recalled. "They got the liver on the morning of the sixth and began surgery at 11 a.m. I was in for 11 hours," he said.

The team of surgeons, led by Drs. Santiago Vera and James Williams, used 59 units of blood during the operation, including 23 of his own which were purified and recycled, he said.

Wayne said it was three weeks and two days before he could come home from the William Bowld Hospital (University of Tennessee Center for Health Sciences) in Memphis, one of only four in the nation currently offering liver transplants. The others are located in Pittsburgh, Denver and Minneapolis, he said.

"I'm still getting over the effects (of surgery), but I'm not constantly thinking about it now, and now getting tired as much," he said. "I'm still very weak but I'm getting to the point where I'd like to be doing something on a regular basis.

"I'm still having blood tests done every other week," he said. "My blood chemistry is not completely back to normal, but it's headed in that direction.

Some of the blood enzymes are still way off line," he said. "It's a learning process for all of us."

Wayne said the first year following surgery is the most critical period for rejection of the new liver, but added that he is halfway there and the success rate of liver transplants is now 70 to 80 percent, thanks to a new anti-rejection drug called "Cylesporine." He said the drug was used on an experimental basis for three years before being put on the market, and added, "It's something I'll have to take for the rest of my life."

He said the success rate for transplants before introduction of the drug was 40 percent. In addition to Cylesporine, he is also taking Prednisone, a steroid, for a period of one year. Linda, his wife, said she feels the recovery is "going great with no major setbacks."

"It's been tougher on her than on me," said Wayne. "She spent three weeks at the hospital with me in March, worried about me until school was out, and then came back to the hospital for most of the summer. For the past two years I became progressively emotionally withdrawn," he added, "as a result of the liver disease (sclerosing cholangitis) and that was hard for her to deal with."

But the ordeal has made them stronger. "It's had a tremendous effect in drawing my wife and I closer together and closer to God," Wayne said.

The Craigs attribute Wayne's survival and recovery to prayer. "We had a strong church group and lots of friends," said Wayne. "We contacted them for specific needs many times, and we feel their strength pulled us through."

Wayne described his six-month stay in the hospital as "a time when you can see prayers being answered on a daily basis and sometimes on an hourly basis."

The Craigs are now sharing their experience with others by speaking to various groups. Wayne spoke weekly in Harding Academy's chapel this fall, and has spoken at the Highland Street church, where the Craigs are members. In addition, he has been the subject of newspaper and medical journal features, and has appeared on local radio and television talk shows.

"We seek to encourage others in their prayer life," he said.

The Craigs have been fortunate in other ways, also. Wayne said sometime between March and April the health insurance policy at Harding Academy was changed to include liver transplants. "It's just incredible," he said. "They have covered everything. We didn't find out (about the change) until June."

Wayne plans to return to work at Harding Academy in the fall of 1984. He said his doctors told him he would be able to perform his work normally, if not better. They also told him his chances for a normal lifestyle of a normal length are excellent, he said.

Wayne described his lifestyle before becoming ill as "active." He said he played softball on the Highland church team and taught the junior class there several times in the fall with his wife. He said he also moved around quite a bit in his classes at the Academy, "doing whatever the students were doing."

And while looking forward to resuming an active role, he said he is satisfied with the gift of life itself right now.

Wanda Adair Clements is a bilingual first grade teacher in the public schools in Nogales, Ariz. She also teaches English classes in Mexico to adults. She has two children, David and Mrs. Cynthia Durazo. Mrs. Clements resides at 3623 Calle Villa Hermosa, Nogales, 85621.

Wally W. Colson (BA) is president and owner of Colson Printing Co., Valdosta, Ga. Home Economics Program

Robyn Ransom of Coshocton, Ohio learns how to weave on a loom.

The Harding Home Economics Department has some of the most diverse course offerings of any department on campus and has the capability of training men and women for a variety of professions in the field of education and business.

Two Bachelor of Science degrees are offered, one in vocational home economics and one in dietetics. Harding is approved by the State Department of Education and the Federal Office of Education for the training of teachers in vocational home economics and is also approved for the training of extension home economists.

The BS degree in dietetics is approved by the American Dietetics Association for training students to become professional dietitians and food service managers. In addition to the strong BS programs, Harding also offers a BA degree for students who are interested in one or more fields of home economics for pursuing careers in business and administration. With supporting courses from other departments on campus, the home economics department is able to offer students a wide range of professional choices. With an emphasis in clothing and textiles and supporting courses in the School of Business, students can prepare for a career in fashion merchandising. In the area of foods, and with supporting courses in business and journalism, a student may prepare for food merchandising, food journalism, or food demonstration. An emphasis in family relations and child development prepares students for work with young children in such jobs as day care management and nursery school teaching. With supporting courses in art and business, and a home economics emphasis in housing, the BA degree can serve as preparation for pursuing a career in interior design.

In addition to the strong curriculum offerings, the home economics department has excellent facilities, including modern foods, clothing, and housing labs, an approved institutional kitchen, a child development laboratory that is licensed by the state social services, and well-equipped classrooms with equipment for demonstration.

With the diverse course offerings, students have many avenues for graduate study and research open to them after receiving their degree in home economics from Harding. Some of the most promising fields of graduate study are foods and nutrition, clothing and textiles, consumer economics, family relations and child development.

Celia Harding, a vocational home economist, gives a presentation on home economics.

—Dr. Bob McKelvain

Teacher's Goal in Student Involvement Is Helping Students Help Themselves

by Kim Lee & Bruce Cook

Dr. Robert McKelvain, associate professor of psychology at Harding, is one of the many Harding faculty members who are continually involved with students. By working with students directly, he said he can help them to help themselves.

"Dr. McKelvain has been the greatest influence in my life, not just as a teacher, but as a person," said graduate student Tom Cox. "He takes the time to do his best at helping you do your best."

McKelvain expects a lot from students, but not more than he expects from himself. His students attest to the fact that he does not give grades away, but expects hard work and dedication from them.

When he is not teaching, he has many other equally important responsibilities. As associate director of the Counseling Center, he tries to solve problems before they reach the crisis stage. This strategy of prevention is the basis for work done by the Counseling Center, McKelvain said. One of the main goals of the Center is to change its programs to meet changing student needs, he added.

One of the services the Counseling Center offers to students is the newly developed Career Planning Library. The library was started to enhance the career planning and academic skills programs the Center already offered, McKelvain said. The library provides information designed to assist students in choosing a career, getting a job, and improving academic performance.

McKelvain said that by listening to and talking with freshmen, and by meeting their needs immediately, fewer problems will arise for them later. His position on the Student Admissions and Retention Committees also provides an opportunity for him to have an impact on ways to improve student life.

Along with these responsibilities, McKelvain is also an advisor for the Men's Interclub Council, organized during the spring semester. As advisor, he encourages members to make their own decisions.

"I feel the strength of the ICC lies in students making their own decisions and enforcing those decisions," he said.

McKelvain said he enjoys a great deal of satisfaction from being a part of the ICC and aiding the students in learning what it is like to be part of a working community.

One of his many philosophies is that educators have a lot more to offer than what can be taught in the classroom. By working with students on a one-to-one, outside-the-classroom basis, he feels it is possible to achieve teaching at its best. This philosophy has been the basis of his work with the ICC.

McKelvain, 34, is also a sponsor for Chi Sigma Alpha men's social club, a relationship he has had since 1975, and one from which he also derives satisfaction.

During the scant hours that he is not teaching, counseling or advising, he can be found doing research or writing. "Type A Behavior, Self Involvement and Coronary Atherosclerosis," an article he co-authored with L. Schwitz and others at the Texas Heart Institute in Houston, was published in the March 1983 issue of Psychosomatic Medicine.

One of the most intriguing facets of McKelvain's private life is his involvement with the United States Junior Olympic Program. He is currently a sport psychology consultant for the U.S. Gymnastics Federation Junior Olympic Men's Team, and a sport psychology liason for the Board of the Junior Olympic Program.

He is primarily concerned with the quality of gymnastics coaching throughout the country, and is working with two other men to produce a pamphlet which will be issued six times a year. McKelvain's first two articles are concerned with using the relaxation response in relation to gymnastics.

Robert Cowan, chairman of the board of directors of the Junior Olympic program, will edit the statements of policy, and Mas Watanabe will write and edit the articles on gymnastic technique.

The pamphlet, entitled Coaching Men's Gymnastics, will also include brief summaries of important gymnastic events, a calendar of national and regional events, statements of policy and action taken by the Junior Board or other groups which affect the activities of the coaches and athletes.

The initial issues of the pamphlet will be produced and mailed by McKelvain with the help of students Lori Bailey and Doug Hurst, who will aid him in the production and editorial processes.

McKelvain is also personally involved with the gymnasts, and attends their regional and national meets. The next training session will be during Christmas break at the Olympic training center in Colorado Springs, and will be followed by a meet with Japan's Junior Olympic team.

At Harding McKelvain works with the track team, swim team and freshmen football players in the area of sports psychology.

"The two things I try to help athletes achieve are a realistic perspective of competition and a development of imagery skills," he said.

"I want them to understand that winning or losing is determined by the quality of the competition. You can choose to fly a little lower with the eagles or run on the ground with the rats. The real standard is always your own best effort," he said.

"I also try to help athletes discover hidden resources which they can use to improve their performances," McKelvain added. "Everybody talks to themselves but talk is very inefficient in sports. The best approach is to form a mental picture and let that picture control the movement."

Perhaps McKelvain's efficiency in so many areas stems from his management background. He received both a bachelor's and master's degree in public administration, but switched to counseling psychology for his doctorate at Texas A & M University. He has been teaching at Harding since 1975.

But despite his many activities and accomplishments, he modestly professes that he is only doing his job. "I feel like all the faculty at Harding work hard," he said. "Some get more attention than others, but we're a team."

"Without other people doing their jobs, I would not be able to do many of the things that I do," he said.

Modesty notwithstanding, it's also true that on every team there are leaders and followers, and Bob McKelvain is exerting efficient and energetic leadership in several key areas, the kind of leadership taught in the Bible, that begins and ends with service.

Programmers Meet

The first University computer programming contest was held this fall in the computer center of the Mabee Business Center.

Seventeen two-member teams of Harding students competed for four hours. The object of the contest was to program the computer to perform the assigned problems the quickest. There were four programs to complete, but the winning team, composed of Floyd Vanpool and Stan Valentine, only had time to complete one program and to work on the second.

Steve Baber, assistant professor of math and computer science, said that the criteria for a good programming team were characteristics like "being good problem solvers, being well versed in Pascal, FORTRAN, and COBOL, and being fast and accurate." He said that "the contest was a lot of fun for the students and it provided them with good experience."

This year's teams were comprised of math and computer science majors. "Our strategy was to pick out the program that we thought was the easiest and do it first. It took us an hour to do the first one alone," Vanpool said.

Vanpool and Valentine, along with Scott Robnette, Glenn Carr and alternates Gary Pieratt and Rob McBrayer, competed in the regional competition at Stephen F. Austin University in Nacogdoches, Texas. Included were teams from schools in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and Texas.

Yates of Sacramento, Calif.

NCA Reaccreditation Committee Formed

An 18-person committee was recently formed by vice-president for Academic Affairs Neale Pryor and Dr. Joe Pryor, who previously held the position, to direct a "self-study" of the University to prepare for reaccreditation by the North Central Association.

The North Central Association evaluates public and private institutions to assure quality education and encourage institutions to improve by providing an opportunity for self-study and evaluation. Overall, the Association strives to provide counsel and assistance to both developing and established institutions.

According to Neale Pryor, the committee members were chosen from the faculty and administration for their expertise in certain areas and their positions in the hierarchy of the school.

Every 10 years, the University is reviewed to see if it is qualified to maintain its accreditation. The University was first accredited in 1954.

The accreditation process begins with a thorough examination of the University. The steering committee selects several people to serve on subcommittees who carry out the actual work of reviewing the University, Pryor said.

"We hope to use as many faculty members as possible, as well as students, on the committees," Dr. Joe Pryor, said. "These people will help us investigate every aspect of the school, especially strengths and weaknesses and ways of improvement. The students will be asked to give their opinions on academic affairs and otherwise."

Once completed, a 130-page report will be written and submitted to the Association. Included in this will be outlines of the University's goals, community relations, faculty, physical facilities, student services, alumni and other improvements of the University since 1974.

The Association will then make an "on-site visit" to evaluate the University through meetings with faculty members, a survey of the library and visits in classes.

"The purpose for the visit is to see if we are accomplishing the goals and objectives stated in our report to the Association," Dr. Joe Pryor said.

About two months after the visit, a decision on the reaccreditation will be sent to the University.

Accreditation serves a two-fold purpose for schools such as Harding: first, it provides public certification that an institution is of acceptable quality; and it assists institutions in improving their educational programs, Neale Pryor said.

Approval of the North Central Association is necessary because it allows students to transfer credits to other universities and graduate schools without any problem, Dr. Joe Pryor said.

"Their approval leaves no question as to whether our quality of work meets accepted standards," Dr. Joe Pryor said. "Without their approval, the University would have a

International Campaigns Set

Between 60 and 90 students are needed each year to participate in summer campaigns, according to Dr. Don Shackelford, director of international campaigns.

Shackelford reports that four groups will be included in the 1984 campaigns. Locations and leaders for this year's campaigns will be: Tom Eddins and L.V. Pfeifer in Australia, Dr. Kenneth Davis and missionary Mike Jones in Scotland, James Walters in England, and Dr. Carl Mitchell in Italy.

The students and their faculty leader will stay in three cities for two weeks each or in two cities for three weeks each. The students will leave the first Tuesday after final exams and will return in time for the second session of summer school.

Campaign groups will prepare for the trip by meeting on Wednesday evenings from 8:30 to 10:00 p.m. in Bible 100.

The main purpose of these meetings will be to discuss fund-raising, Shackelford said. Groups will also practice singing and learn some of the languages of the countries they will be visiting."

As an established institution, the University expects to receive a favorable review by the Association, Pryor said.

"We do not anticipate any problems in getting reaccredited," Neale Pryor said.

will be visiting.

The European campaign will cost $1,300 and $1,600 will cover expenses to go to Australia.

During the campaign the student may participate in doorknocking, personal work, singing, helping in the office and doing other errands and whatever else the host congregation wishes them to do.

The host congregation issues the invitation to come, plans the campaign, provides lodging and some food and works alongside the campaigner.

International Campaigns provides the student the opportunity to become acquainted with the church in a foreign country, to travel, stay in the home of a citizen of a foreign land, and develop friendships that last forever, Shackelford said.

Campaigns help the student to realize the need of evangelism in other parts of the world and motivate some students to become missionaries, he said.

Members Added to Music Groups

New members were added this fall to University music groups, including the A Cappella Chorus, Chorale, Belles and Beaux and Band.

Selected for the A Cappella, directed by Dr. Ken Davis, were Denise Alexander, Lisa Brown and Liz Cottrell, first soprano; Regina Rasnick, Mary Helen Simmons, Tara Sullins and Carla Thompson, second soprano; Ramona Dallas, first alto; Julie Campbell, Kari Folkerts, Michelle Forsythe, Sharon Johnson, Karen Keeth, Kathy McKinnon, Michelle Means and Michelle Sutherland, second alto; Tim Eddings, Colin Geiger, Steve Powers and Daniel Rogers, first tenor; James Baird, Michael Henkel and Allen Sheldon, second tenor; Jimmy Berkley, Brent Craft, Paul Maynard, Jeff McGee and Stuart Peacock, first bass; Kirk Bradford, Dennis Brown, Greg Maupin, Alan Pryor, Jonathan White and Rich White, second bass.

Education Dean Advises Legislature

by Bruce Cook

During the months of September and October, Arkansas awaited the outcome of Governor Bill Clinton's special legislative session on education with mixed emotions. At stake was the future of the state, legislators were told, but higher taxes would have to pay for that future.

Proposed changes would affect everyone, it seemed, including students, parents, taxpayers, educators, and school boards. But educators perhaps had the most at stake, at least for the immediate future.

As amendment after amendment was tacked onto the governor's original package and lawmakers deadlocked over the issues, it appeared that education would once again come up short at the state capitol.

During the 38-day session, longest in the state's history and also the most expensive, Dr. Bobby Coker, dean of the Harding School of Education, represented the interests of teacher education programs in the state, along with Dr. Fred Hattebaugh of Henderson State University.

Coker is president of the Arkansas Association of Colleges for Teacher Education and Hattebaugh is the immediate past president.

The two men acted as monitors at the sessions, and were available on alternate days to speak to the Senate and House Education Committees about pending legislation. In addition, Coker served on a legislative subcommittee on teacher education.

Coker said that during the session he felt "for the first time in many years that significant things were going to happen to education in Arkansas. We were seeing an opportunity to build a stronger educational system in the state," he said. "And I think that's what happened."

"More attention has been drawn to education during the last few months than at any time during my 27 year career in education," he said. "If this moment had passed, it would have taken another 20 to 30 to 50 years before a similar opportunity presented itself."

The legislature passed 121 bills into law during the special session, and in the process changed the scope of education in Arkansas. Specific actions include the passage of an additional one percent sales tax, which went into effect Nov. 7; approval of a new funding formula for distribution of state aid to school districts; a number of educational reforms, including required testing of third, sixth and eighth grade students in basic skills, with eighth graders being held back if they do not pass; and mandatory testing of all certified school personnel (administrators, counselors and teachers), beginning in 1984-85.

Coker said the "teacher tests" will be two-fold, with one test in functional skills (basics) and another in the individual's subject area of specialty. Personnel who have not taken the National Teacher Examination (NTE) since 1980 will be required to take it, while other personnel may have a choice between the NTE or six semester hours of college work with a grade of "B" or better.

"I think the public will be disappointed in the outcome of teacher testing," Coker said, "because it won't eliminate incompetent teachers." He said that knowledge does not make the teacher, but instead the presentation of that knowledge.

The Arkansas Education Association is vehemently opposed to teacher testing, but Coker said, "If that is what it takes to restore confidence in the Arkansas education system, let's do it."

Coker said he feels the "overall direction taken by the legislature and the Education Standards Committee (headed by Hillary Clinton) will enhance the educational opportunities of students in Arkansas. We'll see a stronger educational system in the future," he said.

Coker said other changes are being planned for Arkansas education, including formation by the governor of a 19-member Teacher Education, Certification and Evaluation Committee to study teacher education programs in the state.

Other changes are currently being studied by the State Education Department, Coker said.

In addition to his responsibilities as education dean, Coker serves on the Graduate Council, Lectureship Committee, Executive Committee, Academic Affairs Committee, and preaches on Sundays at Pennington, a small congregation near Newport.

Runners Take 13th Straight Conference Title

The Harding Bisons extended their string of cross country championships Nov. 4 with a dramatic team performance over favored rival Arkansas Tech University, to emerge with a 13th consecutive AIC/NAIA District 17 title.

The 2 p.m. race on the campus of Hendrix College was held under overcast skies that put a definite chill in the air and stirred the adrenalin of the approximately 65 runners. The Bisons went through their usual prerace ritual of a team huddle followed by a prayer and then the yell, "Go, Bisons!"

ATU's Wonder Boys, meanwhile, were high-slapping and producing a few yells of their own, obviously expecting to end Harding's domination this year. When the starter's gun went off, however, the Bisons charged hard for the lead and never relinquished it.

Al Bates broke the five-minute mile barrier over the five-mile course by turning in a third place finish in 24:59. Larry Wayne, Mike Kamperschroer, and James Pinson also turned in personal record (PR) times for the season, and Eddie Neal was only four seconds off of his best effort recently at Ole Miss.

Wayne finished fourth in 25:34, Neal was sixth in 25:51, Kamperschroer was 11th in 26:20, and Pinson was 14th in 26:42. Neal was sixth in 25:51. That it was a total effort from the team was obvious, since fourth man Ken Berry, who ran a 25:54 race at Ole Miss, was hampered by a foot injury and finished well back in the pack.

Team results were Harding, 31; Arkansas Tech, 47; Ouachita, 80; UA-Monticello, 116; Arkansas College, 135; College of the Ozarks, 148; Henderson State, 162; UCA, 232; and Hendrix, 256.

Damon Martin of UA-Monticello was the individual winner in 24:55, while Matt Pearson of John Brown, 1982 champion, was runnerup in 24:58. Arkansas Tech could manage only two runners in the top ten — David Mayes in fifth and Tom Dietz in eighth. Marc Mills of John Brown was seventh, Pat Ponder of Ouachita was ninth and O'Neal King was tenth.

The Lady Bisons also turned in a fine performance in an earlier race at 1:00, but fell four points shy of winning as Arkansas College posted a 27-31 victory over Harding in women's competition. UA-Monticello scored 70 and Hendrix 102 to round out the team scoring.

Marci Crump again led the way for the Lady Bisons with a second place finish in 18:43, a personal best time for her this year. She was followed by Anne Sears, fifth, 20:52; Lynn Dupaul, sixth, 20:55, Stacie Turner, ninth, 21:22, and Tiny Fraley, 14th, 22:01.

Betsy Lee of John Brown was the individual and NAIA District 17 winner in a time of 18:28 over the 3.1 mile course, while Crump was the AIC champion.

The Lady Scots gained a berth in the NAIA nationals Nov. 19 by placing five runners in the top ten. Lois Hudson was third in 20:32, Laura Abbott fourth in 20:33, Brenda Jones seventh in 21:08, Paula Johnson eighth in 21:18, and Michelle Melton tenth in 21:26.

Lloyd's winning strategy for the Bisons proved effective as Bates, Wayne and Neal successfully challenged for the lead with ATU's top runners. "Our top three or four have got to have a great race," Lloyd had said before the race. "We don't want it to come down to the fifth man."

But the fifth man also got the job done. James Pinson knocked 35 seconds off his time at Ole Miss and really kicked up his heels on the last mile and a half leg of the race, passing several ATU runners.

Bisons Finish 21st In NAIA National Meet

The Harding University Bisons claimed 21st place at the NAIA National Cross Country Meet Saturday, Nov. 19 in Kenosha, Wisc. out of a field of 37 teams and about 350 runners. Course distance was five miles.

Leading the Harding effort was Al Bates, who finished 33rd overall and 28th in team scoring in a time of 25:45. He was followed by Larry Wayne, 91st overall and 76th in team scoring, 26:24; Eddie Neal, 107th overall and 89th in team scoring, 26:32

Mike Kamperschroer, 227th overall and 175th in team scoring, 27:53; James Pinson, 239th overall and 185th in team scoring, 28:03; Darryl Halbert, 305th overall and 233rd in team scoring, 30:10; and Ken Berry, 307th overall and 234th in team scoring, 30:20.

Marci Crump and Anne Sears ran unattached for the Lady Bisons in a field of about 250 runners. Course distance was 3.1 miles. Crump placed 100th in 19:51 while Sears was 199th in 22:00.

Coach Ted Lloyd of Harding termed the performances "a fine effort," and praised team members for their hard work throughout the year.

Crump Named All-America By Academic Committee

Marci Williams Crump, a senior at Harding University, has been selected as a member of the 1983 National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Academic All-America Cross Country Team, according to Joe Rogers, chairman of the NAIA Academic All-America Committee.

A physical education major, the 5-2, 100 lb. runner is a native of Salado, Texas. She lettered two years as a member of the Lady Bisons under Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference (AIC) Coach of the Year Ted Lloyd.

Crump was named All-AIC and All-NAIA District 17 during the 1982 and '83 seasons, and both years helped lead the Lady Bisons to the runnerup berth in the district meet. This year she was individual champion in the AIC with a time of 18:43, the first woman at Harding to ever go under the 19 minute mark.

Crump was also voted the team's most valuable member this year. She placed 100th at the NAIA National Meet in Kenosha, Wisc. Nov. 19, in a field of 250. Her time was 19:51 over the rugged 3.1 mile course only four miles from Lake Michigan. She is also the first woman at Harding to break the 20 minute mark at the nationals.

"Marci is an excellent competitor and an outstanding individual," Lloyd said. "She is the first cross country athlete from Harding to make the Academic All-America Team," he added.

Crump has a 3.70 grade point average at Harding on 100 semester hours, and plans to graduate in August. She was named to the 1984 Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities and was a member of the Belles and Beaux musical touring troupe for two years. Crump was also a two-year member of the Harding Chorale, and a four-year member of Regina women's social club.

Swim Team Working Hard

"Our training and preparation is pointed toward the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference championships in February," Harding swim coach Jack Boustead said.

"Swimming is a little different from some sports," he said. "You actually train through dual meets and such and train to give your best performance where it really counts — the championship meet."

The Water Buffaloes, 13 swimmers and three divers, have been arduously working out since early fall and Boustead said the group could be one of Harding's finest teams.

Leading the '83-84 squad are two seniors: Richard Denny of Rock Island, Ill. and Terry Jones of Rogers, Ark.

Two talented athletes, one a transfer and the other coming off an injury, are expected to strengthen the team with the beginning of the spring semester.

Distance swimmer Allen Fitzgerald of Cedar Rapids, Iowa is returning to action after sustaining a broken collarbone in early September. He has been released by his physician, but will have to make rapid progress during the holiday break to build up his overall condition.

The transfer student is another distance performer, Glenn Alexander of Concord, Calif. "He is a distance man, but has talent enough to enter a number of events, including the freestyle, the butterfly and the medley relays."

Newcomers are counted on to help the Water Buffaloes in several departments. Six freshmen include Brett Ferguson of Blytheville; Paul Fite of Pascagoula, Miss.; Gary Marnoch, Newberg, Ore.; Scott Peyton of Newberg, Ore.; Matthew Scorzelli of Liverpool, N.Y. and Mike Smith of Wallingford, Conn.

"We're young but we're also determined," Boustead said. "From what we know of the conference, we think we're realistically looking at a solid shot at third place in the AIC. Two teams are loaded and we should be in strong contention for the next spot."

Ted Lloyd Named Coach of The Year

Ted Lloyd, professor of health, physical education and recreation, was recently named 1983 Coach of the Year in men's cross country, according to AIC commissioner Harry Hall.

The 49-year-old native of Spring Hill, Kan. has been coaching for 27 years, 17 of them at Harding University. Since 1968, his teams have won 14 AIC championships in cross country, with a string of 13 consecutive titles to date.

He has been honored numerous times as coach of the year and was inducted into the NAIA Hall of Fame, Track and Field Division, in May 1983.

A member of the Arkansas Association of AAU, Lloyd currently holds the office of first vice president in that organization.

Jones, Poston Named to All-Conference Team

Two Harding University footballers, Greg Poston and Bobby Jones have been named to the 1983 All-Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference team according to Commissioner Harry Hall.

Poston, a linebacker from Memphis, Tenn. and Jones, a tailback/return specialist were selected by vote of the conference coaches.

"We couldn't be more pleased," Bison head coach John Prock said. "These young men have been standouts for us this season and the recognition is very deserving."

A 6-2, 200 lb. senior, Poston has been the leader of the Bison defense this season. Playing at the right linebacker position, the former Harding Academy of Memphis athlete has led the team in tackles (141 tackles and assists) and pass interceptions (5 for 98 yards). Against Henderson State he also caught a fumble in midair and returned it 39 yards for a touchdown.

A tri-captain, Poston came into the current season with 246 career stops (tackles and assists). His totals this year move him into second place in Harding's all-time defensive chart.

In addition to the pass thefts, Poston finished the season with two blocked punts, four recovered fumbles, five pass interceptions and five stops of runners for 17 yds. lost yardage.

Jones is a 5-9, 155 lb. runner who moved in as a transfer from East Mississippi Community College. A native of Steens,

Greg Poston

Miss., Jones made an indelible impression on Harding fans for his all-purpose running ability.

Seeing rotating duty at tailback until teammate ZCO Uhatafe was injured, the lightweight but durable performer responded by rushing for 645 yards on the ground in 143 carries. He had 100-yard plus rushing games four times, coming against Evangel (105), Southwestern of Memphis (101), Henderson State (131) and Ouachita Baptist (137). For every time he rushed, Jones averaged 4.5 yards. He led the team with five touchdowns.

Jones excelled as the Bisons' kickoff return man where he was the AIC leader as well as earning a national ranking for four consecutive weeks. On 27 returns, Jones totaled 659 yards for a 24.4 yard average.

Harding closed out the 1983 season with a 3-6-1 record as midseason injuries played havoc with personnel.

Completing their collegiate football careers were Poston, John Tom Thompson and Mark Hoppe of Nashville, Tenn., Bret Frantz of Dallas, Texas, Steve Hunter of Stigler, Okla., James Joyce of Huntsville, Ala. and Durwood Dry of Merritt Island, Fla.

Bison Stampede Results

The Bison Stampede, which included a 10-kilometer run, a two-mile run and a 20-kilometer bicycle race, was held Oct. 29 in Searcy in conjunction with the Harding University homecoming.

Steve Tucker was the men's 10-kilometer winner in a time of 32:20. Mitch McCohn was second and Tomy Sitton third.

Al Bates, a member of the Bison cross country team, won the two-mile run with a winning time of 9:40. Larry Wayne was second and Darryl Halbert third.

Pete Corn won the bicycle race in a time of 32:44. Jon Vancil was second and Mike Erickson third.

In the women's division, Shelia Cox won the 10-kilometer run, Keith Ann O'Neal was second and Pat Johnson third. Kim Clark captured the women's two-mile run in 12:37. Stacie Turner was second and LeAnn Eno third. Ruth Danner won the women's 20-kilometer bicycle race.

The age group winners in the men's 10-kilometer run were: 12-and-under — Kyle Citty; 13-17 — Jimmy Kirk; 18-24 — Tomy Sitton; 25-29 — Mitch McCohn; 30-39 — Steve Tucker; 40-49 — Cliff Sharp; 50-59 — Jack McKinney; 60-and-over — Ed White.

Shelia Cox won the women's 18-24 age group and Pat Johnson the women's 25-29 age group in the 10-kilometer run.

The age group winners in the men's two-mile run were: 12-and-under — Matt Miller; 13-17 — John Wood; 18-24 — Al Bates; 25-29 — Nelson Ruscini; 30-39 — Gene Johnson; 40-49 — Gary Flake.

Winning the age divisions in the women's two-mile run were: 12-and-under — Cathy Headley; 13-17 — Robynn Falcinelli; 18-24 — Kim Clark; 25-29 — Frances Schmittle; 30-39 — Jane Headley.

The age group winners in the men's 20-kilometer bike race were: 12-and-under — John Richard Duke; 13-17 — Gerald Jones; 18-24 — Jon Vancil; 25-29 — Mark Danner; 30-39 — Pete Corn; 40-49 — Charlie Boyd.

Roundballers Find Talent In Veterans, Newcomers

After a bumpy start the Harding University Bisons are finding their basketball legs and are optimistic about the 1983-84 season.

Coach Jess Bucy's crew, 3-3 in early season play, present a mixture of youth and experience; tempered with the addition of newcomers from the junior college ranks.

"We feel we had a fine recruiting year, but it's going to take a while for everyone to adjust to our system," Bucy said. "It takes a little time for everyone to get pointed in the same way but we have some fine young men involved in our program and that is especially important."

Senior Allen Gibbons, the slim 6-9 NAIA All-America honorable mention from North Little Rock, has picked up where he left off a year ago. He was the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference's scoring leader as a junior and is averaging 15.4 ppg. He also is the leading rebounder with a 9.2 average per game.

Juniors David Allumbaugh (11.0 ppg.) of Dallas and Rich Foster (10.4 ppg.) of Festus, Mo. also are averaging in double figures in early season action.

Opening the season with a two-game road trip saw the Bisons lose to John Brown University and School of the Ozarks. Since then Harding has posted victories over Austin College (Texas), John Brown and Christian Brothers College (Tenn.) while losing only to the University of Arkansas at Monticello in the finals of the Harding Classic.

"We've played pretty good ball our last three outings," Bucy said. "The quickness of our guard play from seniors Floyd and Lloyd Smith has been good. Our depth at guard is the best we've had."

Two December games against School of the Ozarks (Mo.) and Christian Brothers College before the holiday break, and a Jan. 2 bout with Bethel College (Tenn.) will prepare the Bisons for the tough 18-game round robin conference schedule.

"This could be an exciting year for Bison basketball," Bucy said.

Thweatt Earns All-AIC Honors

A season of women's intercollegiate volleyball was added to the sports schedule for the fall semester, and Coach Karyl Bailey directed the 15-member Lady Bisons through a double round-robin schedule that included two tournaments.

The team ended the season with a 4-17 record and valuable experience with good prospects for upcoming years of competition. "I believe we have the caliber of girls to compete extremely well within the next year or so," Bailey said. "I was impressed with the way the girls were appreciative of the opportunity to participate. We had excellent support and response from everyone involved in the program."

Sophomore Julie Thweatt from Taipei, Taiwan, was named to the All-Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference team, the only Lady Bison to achieve the honor in the conference listing that included five from conference champions Arkansas Tech, three from Ouachita Baptist University, three from Southern Arkansas, two from Central Arkansas and one each from Henderson and Hendrix.

Included on the inaugural roster were Sue Bruns, Laguna Hills, Calif.; Vicki Cutts, Tabernacle, N.J.; Cheryl Easley, Little Rock, Ark.; Rita Glenn, Strafford, Mo.; Lois Goodin, Rosell, Ill.; Susan Gray,

Julie Thweatt

Wheeling, W. Va.; Sarah Jimenez, Alexandria, Va.; Susan Mattox, Wills Point, Texas; Lea Ann Morris, Searcy; Michelle Olree, Memphis, Tenn.; Diane Pearson, Harrison, Ark.; Carla Phillippi, Cincinnati, Ohio; Gail Reaves, Hillsboro, Mo.; Beth Shanklin, Decatur, Ill.; and Thweatt.

Women's Basketball Underway

Harding's entrance into women's intercollegiate basketball became a reality Nov. 14 when the Lady Bisons coached by Phil Watkins met the powerful Arkansas College Pipers at the athletic center. The Lady Bisons fell 49-111 at the nets with Dallas sophomore Kim Tyler hitting for 12 points and the team high for the night.

"We're still working on basics and trying to become molded into a team," Watkins said of the team, formed earlier in the semester basically from players in the University's intramural program, "but we're improving with each outing and we feel we're definitely working better together as a group."

A full 14-game schedule is on the agenda for the year, plus tournaments in Blytheville and Memphis. The Lady Bisons will not compete in the AIC race but have Arkansas

Tech in addition to Arkansas College on the schedule. The season ends Feb. 18.

Forty-six hopefuls reported for the first called meeting early in September, but Watkins and graduate assistant Beverly Jo Pryor now list 17 on the roster. Included on the charter team are Ginger Berry of Manila, Ark.; Clea Colson of Valdosta, Ga.; Juanita Elliott of Nashville, Tenn.; Barbara Elrod of West Helena, Ark.; Louise Evans of Shreveport, La.; Shere Ferguson of Shreveport, La.; Tiny Fraley of Turrell, Ark.; Lynette Gardner of Andover, Kan.; Annaliese Gay of North Little Rock, Ark.;

Julie Harvey of Jonesboro, Ark.; Beth Mitchum of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Mary Moore of Griffithville, Ark.; Carla Phillippi of Cincinnati, Ohio; Jill Shipman of Shreveport, La.; Vicki Turner of Flint, Mich.; Tyler of Dallas; and Angie Wood of Hope.
