Annual Youth Forum To Discuss 'Christian Challenges'

"So you want to be a real Christian" is the question which will be posed to young people by Jeff Walling at the 22nd Annual Youth Forum at Harding University, March 28-29.

Each year Walling challenges young people and adults to live for God as he speaks at lectures, gospel meetings, teen programs and on college campuses across the nation. His dynamic style has made him a favorite speaker for many, especially among youths. During his 12 years of preaching he has appeared on more than 500 programs in this and other countries.

Highlighting the Youth Forum program will be Walling's four talks. Walling will deliver lessons titled "You Call That A Faith" and "The Jesus Factor" on Friday, March 28 at 2:30 and 3:45 p.m., respectively. On Saturday, at 9 a.m. and 12:45 p.m., Walling's talks will be titled "Out Of This World" and "Back To The Future."

Other items on the Youth Forum schedule for Friday include tours of Harding's campus for newcomers, a viewing of the annual Harding University slide show, a performance by the musical variety group Belles and Beaux and a special musical presentation, courtesy of the University's music department.

A choice of entertainment will be available Friday night with the annual, musical extravaganza Spring Sing starting at 7:00. For those not attending Spring Sing, the musical group "Time of Day" will perform at 8:00 in the Administration Auditorium. Afterwards, a campus-wide devotional is set for 10:30.

On Saturday, prospective students can obtain scholarship and grants information from the Financial Aid office from 8 a.m. until 1 p.m. Questions about admissions, academics and other subjects will be answered at a Faculty-Parent-Student Conference available from 8 until 9 a.m.

Apart from Walling's talks, the schedule is completed with a performance by the "Time of Day" at 10:30 a.m. and two performances of Spring Sing, in the afternoon at 3 and at 7 p.m. Also, the movie "The Natural" will be shown at 7 and 10 p.m. for the admission price of $1.

All other Youth Forum activities, except Spring Sing, are free. Spring Sing tickets are $5.50 each. All meals are at guests' expense.

Spring Sing Rehearsals Underway; Capacity Attendance Expected

Production has begun on campus for the 13th Annual Spring Sing to be held March 27-29. According to Dr. John H. Ryan, Spring Sing coordinator, social clubs have started signing up for themes including dental plaque, baseball, scarecrows, security officers, swinging singles as Tarzan and Jane and werewolves.

Social clubs which have already signed up to participate include Chi Sigma Alpha, Regina, Sigma Tau Sigma, Kappa Delta Kappa, Chi Lambda Chi, Tri Sigma Delta, Kirei Na Ai, Omega Phi, Kappa Tau Omega, OEGE, King's Men, Chi Alpha Rho, Ka Re Ta, Galaxy, Ju Go Ju, Gata, Alpha Tau, Knights, Phi Delta, Kappa Sigma Kappa, Kappa Kappa Kappa, Shantih, Titans, Ko Jo Kai and Sub T-16. Faculty members are also planning a program.

Preparations are also being made by Bob Ritchie, lighting director; Warren Casey, director of the jazz band; C. Robin Miller, technical director; Dustin Hughes, assistant stage manager and Steve Holder, hosting director.

Serving as hosts and hostesses this year are Mark Brown, Laura White and Lori Bailey of Searcy and Paul Lockhart of Vinita, Okla.

Ryan said approximately 30 judges have been selected to rate the shows in the categories of theme development, music, costume, and choreography.

The sweepstakes winner (the show with the highest number of total points from the four areas) will win a trophy plus $300 per club. First runner-up will receive $250 per club plus a trophy; third runner-up, $150 per club plus trophy.

Plaques are awarded to the winners of each area and a plaque is also given to the club with the highest percentage of members participating.

Ryan expects capacity crowds to attend the four performances which will begin at 7:00 nightly and 3:00 on Saturday afternoon. Tickets are $4.50 for Thursday and $5.50 for Friday and Saturday performances.

Tuition Gift Certificates Available

A Tuition Gift Certificate program to prepay future tuition costs has been introduced by Harding University for its alumni and friends, according to Lott R. Tucker, vice president for finance.

The program will make it possible to purchase credit hours at the current rate and hold them in escrow until a future time, Tucker said.

"A parent with young children or a grandparent may be interested in pre-purchasing credit hours for the time when the child will reach college age," Tucker said.

After purchase and designation of the recipient, the gift certificate is non-assignable and non-refundable. It also cannot be transferred.

"We think this program will open several opportunities for those who want to meet future obligations at today's prices. For

Presidential Search Continues; Committee Announces Progress

Continuing progress is being made by the Presidential Search Committee, according to chairman James H. Cone.

The committee, appointed to seek a successor to President Clifton L. Ganus, met on campus in January.

"The committee has received a number of nominations as well as letters of interest and we feel we are making good progress in the search," Cone said. "At this point the application period is not closed and we are open to entertain additional recommendations."

Cone indicated the committee is on schedule in its selection procedure. Plans call for a president-elect to be selected by May, 1986.

"The interview stage is still in front of us," Cone said. "Again, on behalf of the committee, I want to emphasize our commitment to find the most qualified candidate. This is not an activity you want to rush through and the committee is determined to make a complete and thorough study of all possible candidates."

Serving with Cone on the Search Committee are Board members Richard Gibson of Longview, Texas; Roy Sawyer of Sardis, Miss.; Dan Russell of Shreveport, La.; Jim Bill McInteer of Nashville, Tenn.; Russ Burcham of Kennett, Mo. and Donald Shores of Cave City, Ark.

those already planning to attend Harding it would provide a method of meeting college costs in advance," Tucker said.

Durward McGaha, director of admissions, was especially enthusiastic in his support of the program. "This is a tremendous opportunity for our alumni. I believe at least 100 families will take advantage of the program within the next school year.

"For parents of high school age students, the program will make it possible to save the cost of any inflation one might face in the next two or three years. All parents, regardless of the age of their children, will want to look into this program."

More information concerning the Tuition Gift Certificate program can be obtained by writing Tucker, Harding University, Station A, Box 9401, Searcy, Ark. 72143.

UPLIFT Bible Camp Planned For June 22-27

The second UPLIFT Bible Camp with the theme, "In His Image," is scheduled for June 22-27 on the campus, according to Allan Isom, UPLIFT director and a professor in the Bible department.

Five well-known speakers have been slated to deliver keynote talks during the five nights of UPLIFT. The speaker for Sunday night's opening session will be Neale Pryor, chairman of Harding's Bible department. Monday night will feature Buddy Bell of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

Ronnie White of Oklahoma City will speak Tuesday night and Jay Utley of Edmond, Okla. will speak Wednesday night. Jeff Walling of Mission Viejo, Calif., will be the closing speaker for UPLIFT.

The first UPLIFT, held in June of 1985, was a resounding success, Isom indicated, with about 500 young people attending. That first, five-day session saw 68 youths respond to the gospel message, with eight being baptized.

"Lives were changed for good," Isom said. "Many who came then (in 1985) are already planning to attend this year. Youth ministers who attended said they had never been to a better college-based camp than UPLIFT."

UPLIFT is an intensive Bible camp where young people stay in the air-conditioned dorms on Harding's campus. The campers eat in the university cafeteria and are involved in Bible classes, unique teaching and sharing sessions, and worship periods throughout the day.

There is also ample free time and organized entertainment activities, which take advantage and full use of the athletic and recreational facilities on campus. Recreational activities include movies, swimming, tennis, basketball, volleyball, softball and weightlifting. A nominal fee is charged for bowling and video games.

The cost of UPLIFT is only $75 and includes the registration fee, 14 meals, and UPLIFT tee shirt and housing. More information can be obtained by writing to the following address: Harding University — UPLIFT 1986, Allan Isom, Box 939, Searcy, Ark. 72143.

Jim White

Admissions Advisor, White Joins Staff

Jim White, former Director of Admissions at Ohio Valley College in West Virginia who has also worked as a youth minister, joined the University admissions staff January 1 as a counselor.

White will be responsible for student recruitment in the western states, including Alaska and Hawaii, and will primarily be working with young people in churches in Louisiana and Texas, according to Durward McGaha, Harding Director of Admissions.

"With Jim's experience in admissions and among young people in churches, he should be a 'natural' for this position. We are extremely pleased to have him as a member of our staff," McGaha said.

A 1972 graduate of Harding Academy, White, son of Ed White of the University English faculty and Mrs. White, attended Harding University, Ohio Valley College, and the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville, where he received a B.A. degree in 1979.

"Both Martha and I grew up in small towns, and we wanted that experience for our daughter," White said. "Needless to say, especially since both of us have our parents here, we are most pleased to be back in Searcy."

In Fayetteville, he was youth minister of the North Street Church of Christ. During his service at Ohio Valley College, the school achieved its record enrollment. For the past two-and-a-half years, White has been Minister of Youth and Education at the Airline Drive Church of Christ in Bossier City, La.

He is married to the former Martha Hart of Searcy and the couple has a daughter, Meredith, age 2.

HEAVY LOAD — Workers install machinery necessary to generate high and low pressure steam in the cogeneration plant.

Cogeneration Development Expected To Reap Savings

By Stan Green

Utilities and their costs — like death and taxes — seem to be with us always.

Energy costs for the family home continue to spiral upward. Consider the magnitude of utilities for a busy university campus — where energy needs cost approximately $1.4 million in 1985.

On the Harding campus, the new buzzword is cogeneration — the process by which an entity, Harding in this case, generates its own steam by burning some type of fuel or waste. The steam is then sent through a turbine to create electricity.

For University officials, cogeneration will enable the school to cut utility costs dramatically at a time when budget belts are being tightened and saving dollars are taking on special significance.

"What we are looking at is the best way to utilize our assets without spending additional funds," said President Clifton L. Ganus. "We want the best system possible for the least price."

In concert with Cogeneration Power Systems Inc. (CPSI), a company formed by Stan and Terry Pearson, Harding will purchase power to provide heating and cooling for the entire campus.

Pearson, with 35 years' experience in industrial engineering and his son, Terry, a former business professor at the University, formed CPSI to build the $1.9 million power plant. Harding has contracted to purchase power from CPSI with an option to purchase the plant at fair market value in five years.

CPSI is constructing the plant facility on the south side of the campus, immediately behind the Administration Building. It will house six Caterpillar G-399 natural gas engine-generator sets. Electricity will be metered at the CPSI plant and be distributed into the Harding system.

"Heat will be generated as a by-product of producing electricity and that heat, through boilers, will generate the high and low pressure steam we need for our system," Lott Tucker, vice president for finance, said.

The University is now installing the necessary piping systems to the campus buildings to transport the water for heating and cooling purposes. The campus delivery system will be directed by Herman Spurlock, director of engineering services.

"With energy costs continuing to escalate, cogeneration is expected to cut our utility costs and provide some stability to that continuing expense," Tucker said.

According to Tucker, Harding's energy costs in 1984 were $1.3 million. That figure increased to $1.4 million in 1985. Cogeneration projections will save the University approximately $180,000 in each of the first five years. At the end of the five year contract period, Harding can exercise its option to purchase and operate the cogeneration plant from CPSI. At that time the savings are expected to be much larger. Should any excess power be generated, CPSI would be allowed to sell it to Arkansas Power and Light Company under the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978, a federal law which requires electric utility companies to buy back excess power from private operators.

The project was initially begun in January, 1984 and completion of the CPSI plant is expected within the next few weeks. The system is expected to be on-line and operating this spring.

"Optimistically, we have felt from the beginning that cogeneration has great potential for us," Tucker said. "We have progressed through the construction phase and are close to the starting up point. I still have the same expectations for the amount of savings the University can realize."

Florence Program Adds '86 Summer Session

A summer session has been added to the Harding University in Florence (HUF) program of study and travel in Europe with the first term to be May 15-Aug. 15.

Dr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Pryor and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Eddins will accompany the group in the first session to the University-owned villa in Florence, where Pryor and Eddins will join Terry Edwards, who resides at the villa, to conduct classes in Italian, Bible, humanities and electives in physical science and mathematics.

For several years, Harding has operated the program with fall and spring semesters, with about 35 students attending each semester. The summer program will be continued, completing a year-round operation, if demand is sufficient. Dr. Don Shackelford, director of the program, said.

"We have such a nice facility there that it seems a shame not to make it available throughout the year," he said.

The semester will conclude on May 5, but some members will remain longer for evangelistic campaigns and private travel.

A group of 38 left the Searcy campus Feb. 5 for the spring tour, which will include several trips to surrounding cities in Italy, a ski trip to Abetone, a cruise to Greece and free time for elective travel throughout the continent.

Dr. Shackelford said a limited number of spaces remain open for the 1986 summer session. Further information and reservations may be obtained by writing Sta. A, Box 939, or by phoning 268-6161, ext. 448.

Shortwave Communications System Erected On Ezell Bible Building

A donation of amateur or "ham" radio equipment has given the Harding University Bible Department the potential of instantaneous communication with missionaries and students around the world.

The radio system, consisting of a transmitter, a receiver, a linier amplifier and a host of related equipment has been placed in Harding's Missions Laboratory which is housed in the Ezell Bible Building. "On air" capabilities were achieved Saturday, Jan. 11, with the construction and placement of an antenna atop the building.

"The primary emphasis in use of the system will be two-fold," said Bill Ryan, an associate professor of business, and avid amateur radio operator, who will oversee the operation of the system.

"First," Ryan explained, "we will seek to train missionaries, missions students and other interested students so they can get their amateur radio license. Secondly, we hope to set up a communication link to missionaries around the world."

Other areas of benefit, Ryan indicated, will be to let students transmit greetings home, to provide emergency communications for the community in the event of a natural disaster, and to provide an element of "just pure fun" through talking to people around the world.

The system may also be used to communicate with students and faculty at the Harding University-Florence (Italy) campus and with the Harding School of Biblical Studies in Nassau, Bahamas. How the radio may be used in those regards may be limited, however, by either United States law or laws of the other nations.

Ryan explained that some nations have regulations prohibiting anyone without a license to transmit messages, even if a licensed operator is controlling the equipment. In such a situation a non-licensed person would need to have his message conveyed by a licensed operator.

Also, Ryan said this form of radio is intended for personal transmissions and is not to be used for business purposes.

"This is not to replace or take over the commercial aspect of telephones," Ryan explained. "For business purposes the radio cannot be used in place of other forms of communication."

Presently, Allen Isom, acting chairman of the Bible Department, is seeking to gather a directory of missionaries and other Christians who operate amateur radio stations. Licensed operators who are interested in the project can send their name, address and call letters and numbers to Isom at Harding Box 939.

Variety of Classes Offered In Summer

Efforts to have 1,000 students in summer sessions during the various offerings of the 1986 program have intensified with plans for Intersession, two five-week programs and Summer's End session set for May through mid-August.

The mini-course of Intersession, when students may earn up to four hours of credit in the 13-day period of study, has been set for May 12-28.

Five-week sessions will be held June 9-July 11 and July 14-Aug. 15, with students having opportunity to earn seven hours of credit per session during this time.

Summer's End session will take place July 28-Aug. 13, leaving two days for students to study and complete finals for the second five-week session. Four hours of credit may be earned during this session.

"Summer school is an excellent time to take classes in consideration with financial planning and time involved," said Dr. Larry Long, coordinator. "We are glad to have these classes available to assist both currently enrolled students and those who have been out of college for a while in completing or advancing their education."

A full schedule of classes may be obtained by writing Dr. Long at Box 898 for further details.

ON THE COVER: Space Shuttle pilot John Creighton spoke as a part of the American Studies Lecture Series in January to a capacity crowd of students, faculty and Searcy residents. Creighton presented a slide program with running commentary about the space flights, discussing the history and future plans of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) program. Creighton served as the Commander of the Discovery mission last summer and is currently deputy manager for operations for the Space Shuttle program.

Annual Youth Citizenship Seminar Schedules Top Line Of Speakers

The 30th Annual Youth Citizenship Seminar is being planned for June 15-21, and will be sponsored by Civitan International, Arkansas and Tennessee Farm Bureau and the University's American Studies Program.

Several hundred high school juniors and seniors will spend a week on the Harding campus to learn more about American democracy, free enterprise and Christianity. In past years, the students have come from Arkansas, Georgia, Alabama, Florida and Tennessee to attend the seminar.

Dr. Bob Reely, director of the Center for Management Excellence and assistant director of the program, said he considers the seminars to have a twofold purpose: the program educates them in the country's heritage and goals and encourages them to take active roles as citizens and leaders in the future.

Individual clubs sponsor the visiting students who will hear speakers including Oddvar Berg, former missionary in the Belgian Congo; Col. Joseph E. Hickox, former attache to the U.S. Embassy in Moscow; Charles Plumb, former prisoner of war in Vietnam; June Collier, chief executive officer of National Industries in Montgomery, Ala., and Eldridge Cleaver, former Black Panther leader.

Harding President Clifton Ganus and Dr. Don Diffine, director of the Belden Center for Private Enterprise Education, will also have a part on the program.

On the final day of the seminar, students will be given opportunity to display their talents or make presentations of what they have learned during the week at a formal banquet.

Elderhostel Sessions Sponsored For Summer

The University will sponsor its Fifth Annual Elderhostel Program this summer by offering two sessions June 22-28 and June 29-July 5, according to Dr. Jimmy Carr, coordinator.

The Elderhostel program is for those 60 years of age and over to enroll in courses strictly for the opportunity to learn. There are no examinations, no grades, and no homework for Elderhostelers, only interest fun and sharing.

Courses for the first session will include "Utopian Communities of the 19th Century," taught by Ray Muncy, chairman of the Department of History and Social Science; "Indian Leadership West of the Mississippi" with Virgil Lawyer, professor of history, and "Memorabilia from Nature's Attic," instructed by Bill Rushton, professor of biology.

The second session course schedule includes "Memorabilia from Nature's Attic" with Rushton; "The Life of Christ," taught by Neale Pryor, chairman of the Department of Bible and vice president for academic affairs, and "Painting" (oil or acrylic) with Don Robinson, chairman of the Department of Art.

Harding's Elderhostel program can accommodate a maximum of 40 students for each of the 1986 sessions. Participants will be housed in the American Heritage Center with private baths, dining and meeting rooms available.

For more information write the Elderhostel Program, Box 1224, Station A, Harding University, Searcy, Ark. 72143. Harding is one of seven universities in the state of Arkansas participating in the Elderhostel summer programs.

Brewer Awarded Doctorate

Rodger Brewer

Rodger L. Brewer, an assistant professor of English, completed requirements for the Doctor of Philosophy in Education and received the degree in ceremonies Dec. 15 at the University of Missouri in Columbia.

A 1970 graduate of Harding, Brewer also holds the Master of Science from East Texas State University. He joined the faculty in 1973.

Brewer's dissertation was written on "Sentence Combining in the Writing Workshop: A Student of the Effects of Two Methods on the Writing Quality and Writing Apprehension of College Freshmen."

He holds memberships in the National Council of Teachers of English, the English Education Council, and Sigma Tau Delta National English Society.

The Memphis native is married to the former Grace Stroup of Somerville, Tenn. They have two children, Rachel and Josh. The family resides on Rt. 5, Searcy.

In last spring's commencement, Brewer, along with Dr. Dean Priest and Dr. Wilt Martin, received the Distinguished Teacher award for 1984-85.

GOOD NEWS — Members of the newly formed a cappella singing group, "Good News Singers" rehearse for appearances at youth rallies and other church events.

A Cappella Visits Beloved Songwriter

"Worthy of Praise," the A Cappella Chorus album, gained new meaning for the Chorus members and Dr. Kenneth Davis Jr. during a short visit in January to Hilltop Haven in Gunter, Texas, where 100-year-old Tillit S. Teddlie resides.

The group, returning from the 20th annual Christian College Choral Festival in Lubbock, made a stop in Gunter to visit songwriter Teddlie, whose compositions were used in the record album released by the Harding singers in 1984. Many other of Mr. Teddlie's songs are familiar hymns used in churches around the world.

Director Davis led the chorus in several numbers before being interrupted by the composer, who has difficulty with both seeing and hearing and who is confined to a wheelchair. "You sang that one too fast," the alert Mr. Teddlie announced. "It should go like this." With that he positioned his arms and began singing and directing the students.

"Of course we all joined in," Davis said, "and it was a thrilling moment for us all. It was certainly an experience not many folks have, and I'm glad our students could share in it."

Davis said the singers gathered round him lovingly as he signed autographs.

Members of the Gunter Church of Christ provided lunch for the Chorus at the visit. Mr. and Mrs. Pete Teddlie of Dallas were also present for the presentations.

"Good News Singers" Organized

A new singing group called "Good News Singers," made up of a mixed double quartet, has been formed to sing at high school youth rallies and for other church groups.

The group was organized by Dr. Allan Isom, assistant chairman of the Bible department, for the purpose of communicating through religious music. "Good News Singers will concentrate on hymns and gospel music," Isom said, "and the group is ready for bookings."

The eight selected following auditions by 48 volunteers include Joanna Pearce of Greenfield, Mo.; and Alicia Music of Grapevine, Texas, sopranos; Maria Reynolds of Dayton, Ohio, and Laura Davidson of Judsonia, Ark., altos; Chuck Combs of Carthage, Mo., and Steve Powers of Poteau, Okla., tenors; and Mike Anderson of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, and Stan Beck of Rockville, Md., basses.

"These are some of the finest students we have on our campus," Isom said of the choices. "I believe they will be able to teach others the Gospel through their singing and through their lives."

Two other student music groups, "The Time of Day" and "Belles and Beaux," travel for the University but their music is not limited to the religious category.

Isom said scheduling will be handled through his office and inquiries may be made to Box 939 at the University or by phoning 268-6161, ext. 448 for more information.

Soon after the group was formed, requests for appearances were being received, Isom said. Since all are full-time students, there will be limitations in scheduling, he added, and said that groups wishing to schedule the singers should make plans as far in advance as possible to avoid conflicts.

Enrollment Drops Slightly

Spring semester enrollment dipped from last fall's top of 2,772, with administration officials expecting approximately 2,600 for the current term, slightly higher than the spring 1985 tally.

The registration deadline had not arrived at presstime, but more than 2,550 had started classes and approximately 60 more were expected at the first sessions of graduate study. Graduate students normally enroll at the first class meeting.

Spring enrollments are traditionally less than for fall, partly due to the 136 who received degrees in December graduation.

Lynn England

Lynn A. England - Assistant Professor of Home Economics, B.S. (1960) Harding University; M.A. (1966) University of Mississippi

Say "Delight, Arkansas" and many folks think of singer Glen Campbell. But as far as Harding is concerned, another native of the small town in Southwest Arkansas is giving the home territory good reason to brag.

Lynn Alexander England is an assistant professor of home economics whose talents and energies have been valuable to the Harding family for many years.

Being a part of Harding came naturally, however. Her father, Flanoy Alexander, was appointed to the Board of Trustees in 1953. Her grandfather, the late J. A. Copeland, was a well-known pioneer preacher of the gospel in the early 1900's. Many of his children and grandchildren ("I don't even know the number," she says) attended Harding, including Lynn's two brothers, Wallace and Harold. "And the number continues to grow; some are here now," she notes.

The impeccably neat, soft spoken Lynn joined the Academy home economics faculty soon after she graduated in 1960. While living in the home management house that fall, she met a newcomer to the college faculty — Don England, now a Distinguished Professor of Chemistry. The 'chemistry' between the two resulted in their courtship and marriage in December 1961.

The couple went to graduate school in Mississippi, with Lynn receiving her master's. Upon returning, she taught one year in the college before the arrival of Donna, and Mark joined two years later.

During those years, she was busy with Harding activities, serving in 1973 as editor of Favorite Recipes From Associated Women For Harding, Volume II, the popular cookbook of the women's group.

She returned to part-time teaching in the spring of 1977, and has gradually added course upon course till she has a full schedule of classes, which includes courses in housing, foods and family relations. Of particular interest to her is the area of interior design, which is a rapidly growing area of the growing department.

With the likes of Lynn England, "Delight" and Harding's "delight" will continue to ring a positive note.

Ohio Valley, Harrison High School Win Business Games

Ohio Valley College and Harrison High School (Ark.) captured top honors in their respective divisions at the third annual Harding-Lomanco Invitational Business Games.

The competition is a simulation of actual business situations for which each five-or six-member team makes decisions. Each team decision sets the production schedule, salaries, inventory, etc. of a fictitious manufacturing company. At the end of the games, each team has made the equivalent of two years of quarterly decisions.

Louver Manufacturing Company (LOMANCO) of Jacksonville, Ark. provides financial and technical support for the business games. This year Lomanco even provided information from its own operating history so the participants could make decisions about situations which actually occurred.

The business games consisted of a series of decisions, which were phoned in to Harding's School of Business over a three-month period.

The results were announced at a banquet by David Johnson, coordinator and director of the games. Paul Belden, president of Lomanco, also spoke to the banquet audience.

There were three high school divisions, or industries, and one junior college industry in which awards were given. An overall winner was also named in the high school division; which was Harrison High School.

Complete results were as follows (in consecutive order from first place on):

Industry I (junior colleges): Ohio Valley College, Michigan Christian College — team one, North Arkansas Community College (Harrison), MCC — team two.

Industry II (high school): West Memphis (Ark.) Christian School, Nashville (Tenn.) Christian School, Madison Academy (Huntsville, Ala.).

Industry III: Ouachita Christian School (Monroe, La.), Boyd-Buchanan School (Chattanooga, Tenn.), Searcy (Ark.) High School.

Industry IV: Harrison High School, Harding Academy of Searcy, Mars Hill Bible School (Florence, Ala.).

Other participants were Bald Knob (Ark.) High School, Living Word Academy (Oklahoma City), Christian Academy of Greater St. Louis and Luckett Christian Academy (Warren, Mich.).

The teams come to the Harding campus to make a final decision and to give a presentation before a panel of judges. Each team makes a professional presentation with charts, graphs or other visuals and explains the strategy behind the decisions that were made. The teams seek to show both how well their company did and that they know why. The winners in presentation and in industry results are awarded plaques at the awards banquet.

NASA Tragedy Touches Students

By Sherry Snow

Printed by permission of the Daily Citizen

When Christa McAuliffe, the 37-year-old New Hampshire school teacher, died in the explosion of the space shuttle Challenger Tuesday morning, she took with her the dreams, respect and pride of thousands of students nationwide. Some were students she had known and taught, but many more were the students of other teachers who so admired McAuliffe that she became a symbol to them, and in turn, to their students — a symbol of all that is good in education.

Two Harding University freshmen from Concord, N.H., had a personal stake in the shuttle tragedy. They were former students of McAuliffe's, and in an interview with the Citizen tried to sort through this very emotional time.

"I have a plaque in my room that she gave to me after we had the big parade for her. The plaque says, 'Let your future be limited only by your dreams,' and is signed by her," Debbie Blampied said. Blampied is petite and dark-haired, with eyes that are sad and hurt on this third day after the shuttle explosion. She looks to David Berberian, also a former student of McAuliffe's, for comfort.

Berberian said, "So many times I wanted to get up in front of chapel (a period when the students all gather for several minutes of Bible study daily) and tell everyone, 'She (McAuliffe) was my teacher!' I was so proud of her and what she had accomplished."

Both described McAuliffe as an excellent teacher. Blampied had her for English, and Berberian, for American Foreign Policy. They said she was strict but fair, "never mean" in the classroom.

Berberian said he had her his sophomore year, and "I got along with her better in the halls and after I'd had my first class with her. My best friend and I were in her class, and she wouldn't put up with nonsense from us, although we tried her."

Blampied said she was friends with McAuliffe outside of school, as well as in school. Her family and McAuliffe's both belonged to the Country Club, and would see each other there.

Blampied said she was in class when she learned of the shuttle disaster, and was unbelieving at first, then started crying. Berberian was in the library typing.

Blampied said she went to find Berberian and together they went to the student union to watch on television the replay of the explosion, all the while thinking, "If I haven't seen it, maybe it hasn't happened." Berberian is very protective of Blampied, and reaches to put his hand on hers.

He is upset with the news media and much of the coverage of the explosion. "She was more than just a teacher going up into space, and all the talk of no more civilians being allowed to go (on shuttle trips) makes me angry. Having known Mrs. McAuliffe, I know she would go again if she it to do over. All the talk now about putting robots aboard would anger her.

"The civilian aboard didn't make this happen. As far as no more civilians being allowed to go aboard, a civilian's life is no more important than anyone else's life.

"Only twice (so far) on news accounts on television have I seen background on people other than Mrs. McAuliffe's. They (the news media) have concentrated so much on her. Right after the explosion, her family (her parents) was focused on. Why couldn't they leave them alone at a time like that? Some of the footage (of the immediate aftermath of McAuliffe's family's reaction when they realized what had happened) was lost on the film, and Tom Brokaw (anchor for NBC) remarked that 'maybe that was for the best.' He earned my undying gratitude for saying that," Berberian said.

European Tour Postponed Until 1987

The European Tour for Harding University Alumni and Friends that was scheduled for April 30-May 19 has been postponed until 1987, according to Dr. Jimmy Carr, coordinator.

"Due to a number of considerations, including that we began organizing the tour late so publicity time was too short, we have decided to delay this tour until next year," said Carr. "Everyone who had responded has been contacted about the time change."

Carr also said, "The two previous European tours were very successful and we are looking forward with much anticipation to the one next year."

The possibility of travelling in Europe by bus rather than by train as in the past will be researched this summer by Dr. Don Shackelford, director of Harding University in Florence.

Other Alumni and Friends tours are being considered, according to David Crouch, director of alumni relations. "Inquiries have been coming in regarding the tours as well as suggestions on places to visit," said Crouch. A tour to Alaska is being considered for late this summer.

For information or suggestions about Alumni and Friends tours, please write to the Alumni Association, Box 768, Harding University, Searcy, Ark. 72143.

13-in-1 Bible Workshops Scheduled for July 28-31

The biennial and unique 13-in-1 Bible Workshop will take place on the Harding University campus July 28-31, 1986, according to Eddie Cloer, workshops coordinator.

Each of the 13 workshops, held simultaneously, provides concentrated Christian training in the particular subject area. The training is provided by a variety of Christian teachers, leaders and preachers recognized for their expertise in the areas covered.

"The 13-in-1 Workshop program is unique in our brotherhood," said Cloer. "There is nothing like it; there is no other program which provides this quality of training in so many areas. And that's our goal — to give a large number of Christians, who have varied interests, in-depth training in a specific area of Christian service."

Each of the 13 workshops gives practical training in an area of concern to contemporary American Christians. The titles of the workshops are: The Christian Home; Educational Work of the Church; Stewardship; Time and Stress Management; Mental Health; Preaching; Overseeing The Church; Evangelism; Youth Ministry; Teaching Children; The Christian Woman; Counseling; and Personal Bible Study.

About 5,000 attended the last 13-in-1 Workshop in 1984. Just as many are expected for the 1986 program. More information may be obtained by writing Eddie Cloer at: Harding University Bible Department, Box 939, Station A, Searcy, Ark. 72143.

GRAND PERFORMANCE — Jeff Hopper, associate professor of music, presented a recital with the Music Department's new grand piano in January.

Music Department Adds Grand Piano

A new seven-foot grand piano has been added to the music department and the instrument was inaugurated with a recital by Laura White and Dr. Arthur Shearin.

White, a senior music major, and Shearin, associate professor of music, were accompanied by Mrs. Neva White, assistant professor of piano, on the German-made Forster piano.

"This piano represents not only a fine addition to our department," Chairman Kenneth Davis Jr. said, "but it also opens a new dimension in that department recitals and concerts can now be given in the Heritage auditorium."

Miss White sang Robert Schumann's Frauenliebe und Leben (Woman's Love and Life) and Shearin sang Peter Cornelius's Christmas Songs.

Two Selected for Shirley Scholarships

Two seniors, David Asbill and Kirk McCrary, have been selected to receive the newly established Dewey Shirley Scholarship for the spring semester.

The scholarship was started by Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Shirley of El Dorado, Ark., to provide grants for students majoring in Bible or missions at the University. Recipients must be a junior or senior and meet all academic standards of Harding, and who have been recommended by the chairman of the Bible Department.

Applicants will also be considered in the areas of scholarship, demonstrated capability, potential for future services as a minister or missionary and financial need.

"We are extremely pleased to make this grant available," President Clifton L. Ganus said. "This represents a most unselfish and sharing gift from this caring family who has chosen to help young people."

The Shirleys are parents of the late Dewey

Asbill

McCrary

Shirley, a Searcy chiropractor.

Asbill, a Bible major, is the son of Mrs. Joy Asbill of Magnolia; McCrary, majoring in Biblical languages, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmet McCrary of Fountain Valley, Calif.

The Shirley Fund may be supplemented through contributions or memorials and all receipts will be added to the scholarship. Gifts may be sent to the University Relations Office, Sta. A, Box 941.

McInteer Proves $10 Investment Worthwhile

By Tim Bruner

A $10 scholarship got him here, a lifting college experience kept him here and the Christian spirit on campus keeps Jim Bill McInteer coming back . . . and back . . . and back.

"Someone would be accurate if they said I've really never gotten Harding out of my system," the 1942 graduate said. "But I've never really wanted to get anything out of my system with the eternal implications Christian education has."

McInteer, minister of the West End Church of Christ in Nashville, Tenn., has served on the University's Board of Trustees for 35 years. As secretary since 1976, he is active on the Board's executive committee. Also, he serves on Board committees for public relations, the graduate school and development.

His long relationship with Harding began in 1940 when Clinton Davidson, longtime friend and supporter of Harding, tempted McInteer to Searcy by promising to cover the prospective student's $10 room reservation fee.

"It was exactly $10 more than anyone else offered me," McInteer explained. "And yet I still feel compelled to repay Harding in every way possible, because of all the ways I benefited and grew from my experience there. I would certainly think that I got my money's worth out of that $10 'scholarship.'"

If McInteer got his money's worth, Harding has realized an untold amount of wealth through the efforts of McInteer in his roles as alumnus, parent, minister and board member. In recognition for his service to the institution, McInteer was honored in 1963 as Harding Distinguished Alumnus.

His friends have acknowledged his Harding ties by establishing a scholarship fund in his name, with interest from the fund awarded to a student seeking a Christian education at Harding. Operated through the West End congregation, the scholarship is listed in the University catalog with other leadership awards.

Much of McInteer's return is measured in the lives of those closest to him, his wife Betty, class of '43, and their children, MariLynn (Canterbury), class of '72, and Mark, class of '75. Mrs. Canterbury directs library operations at David Lipscomb High School, and Mark serves as vice president of 20th Century Christian.

"Betty and I met at Harding, and we shared a bond that was born in the spirit of Christian education so evident on the Harding campus," he said. "We wanted our children to catch that same spirit, to find themselves in that same Christ-centered atmosphere and to grow in the love that abounds there."

"And it must all still be there, because they caught it. Now they have their own warm memories, close friendships that began there and a stronger foundation to build on. We have been blessed as a family by that mutual heritage in Christian education."

And those family ties are what keeps McInteer giving of his time, energy and various resources that translate to Harding's return on an investment in his life.

"I get excited when the subject of Christian education or Harding comes up," the Kentucky native said. "I get a special thrill being involved at whatever level and in whatever capacity in building something that will last forever."

The leadership that McInteer has provided on the Board of Trustees has been a vital ingredient in that building process, and he is pleased with the end product — graduates of Harding.

"We've seen changes come and go through the years," he said. "Styles vary with each new class, and other aspects of our culture make a college experience a little different than what it was 40 or 45 years ago. But that spirit is still there, and it manifests itself in the campus atmosphere of friendliness, camaraderie, helpfulness and genuine concern.

"Each year's graduating class goes out as proof that Harding is indeed maintaining that spirit, living up to its purpose and producing good fruit. Those young people put their training into practice and eventually become the professional and spiritual leaders we need in this nation and in the church."

Leadership takes on a more significant meaning this year for McInteer and his Board associates who must turn their attention finding a successor for Dr. Clifton L. Ganus. The Board's choice will be announced this spring. McInteer expressed confidence in the committee's progress.

"The Harding Board has never made a mistake in selecting a president," he said. "And though we don't know who it will be, I am convinced that a person worthy of all our support will be brought to the forefront."

With the leadership being produced through Christian education, McInteer said he is also optimistic about continued success and growth of institutions of higher Christian education.

"Just as the Lord will bless Harding as we continue our presidential selection process, He will likewise bless the school with a growing number of families who will learn how much Christian education can help their young people," McInteer added.

"There are a large number of families in our brotherhood who have yet to take full advantage of the benefits of Christian education, so we've still got work to do in that area. But those are untapped resources that make the outlook of growth of Christian institutions very bright indeed."

With the tapping of such resources as a Jim Bill McInteer, whose leadership and personality make a bright outlook even brighter, Harding University has every reason to be thankful . . . and perhaps to consider reinstating the $10 scholarship.

Longtime Board Member Compares Change, Stability

By David Crouch

"I would use the words change and stability to describe Harding during my 20-year tenure on the Board of Trustees."

As paradoxical as it may seem, these words of Dr. Harold Cogburn reflected upon the Harding he has known.

The Forrest City, Ark. physician was added to Harding's governing body in 1965. At that time the school had an enrollment of 1,472 and a budget of $3.8 million.

During his Board tenure he has seen the enrollment peak at more than 3,000 and the budget climb to $23.5 million. He has also seen 13 major campus building projects and six renovation/expansion projects.

"The growth of the physical plant has truly been remarkable. From the science building in 1966 to the new cogeneration facility now being completed, the changes on the campus in this 20 year period have been unparalleled in the school's history," he said. "I'm so happy I've been able to be associated with the school during this period."

But change is not the only thing Cogburn has noticed nor has it been the most important in his opinion. "I believe the stability that Harding has enjoyed in these 20 years has been the most prominent characteristic of the school," he said.

"By stability I mean the way in which administrators, faculty and students have remained committed to the values upon which the school was founded. Also there has been a stability in the school's leadership. Commitment and leadership have brought Harding to the plateau where it now finds itself," added Cogburn.

Another part of the stability that Cogburn emphasizes is the leadership provided by the Board of Trustees. "I have a great trust in my fellow Board members. They are all conscientious about their responsibilities to Harding.

"I am really excited about the new Board members who have been added in recent years. They are going to help the Board continue the great Christian influence so characteristic of the group in previous years."

A graduate of Texas Tech University and the University of Tennessee Medical School, Cogburn has practiced medicine in Forrest City for more than 35 years. He has been actively involved in civic affairs and serves as an elder of the Lindauer Road Church of Christ.

Although a Board member for two decades, Cogburn's relationship with Harding actually began in 1945. He became acquainted with the school through Dr. Clifton L. Ganus. At the time Ganus was preaching in Charleston, Miss. Ganus performed the wedding ceremony for Cogburn and his late wife, the former Virginia House.

"We've been friends for a long time, and he has kept me involved in Harding. He not only performed our wedding ceremony, he also married my daughter Jean and her husband, Dr. Les Wyatt of Little Rock."

The retirement of President Ganus as the chief executive of Harding will be the next change that Cogburn will see during his service on the Board. Although not a member of the Board's Search Committee, he has, as vice chairman of the Board, met with the committee. He will be involved with the other members of the Board in the final selection of a new president.

"I regret seeing Dr. Ganus retire. He has done so much for the school, and he deserves a lot of praise and our sincerest thanks. His leadership has laid the groundwork for the future.

"In one sense the next few years at Harding will be a time of transition as a new president is selected and he takes office. In another sense it will merely be a continuation of the same commitments the school has had for more than 60 years.

"I am truly confident that the Board will select the right person to lead Harding into greater avenues of service. There will be a change in the presidency, but the change will not diminish the stability of the school," explained Cogburn.

"The Board cares for, is concerned for, and prays for the faculty, staff, and students at Harding. It has been a blessing for me to be able to serve with these Christian men and women.

"It is our (the Board's) job to see that the direction of the school is not shaken from its founding principles. We take that job seriously."

COLLINS ON RECORD PACE — Senior center Kenny Collins [44] displays the scoring style which has pushed him into third place in the school's all-time scoring list. The Valley Springs, Ark., native has 1,524 points and is averaging 20.3 points per game.

Collins, Wilkins On Record Pace, Lead Conference In Scoring

Two Harding basketballers are setting a red hot scoring pace in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference as competition revves up following the holiday break.

Kenny Collins, a senior from Valley Springs, Ark., and Kim Wilkins, a senior from Flippin, Ark., are leading the men's and women's division, respectively, with 20 plus scoring averages.

Collins is averaging 20.3 points per game and has moved into the top ten on the all-time scoring list. A 6-6, 195 lb., four-year starter, he has scored 426 points while leading the Bisons to a 12-10 record. He now has 1,524 career points to move into third place among Harding's top scorers.

An All-AIC and All-NAIA District 17 choice last year, he also was named to the 1985 Academic All-America team sponsored by the College Sports Information Directors of America. He carries a 3.43 grade point average on a premedicine major.

Wilkins is leading the AIC with a 21.8 point average per game. Already the Lady Bisons' all-time scoring leader with 350 points last year, she has scored 338 points in 17 games in 1985-86. With seven games remaining, she has a solid chance of becoming the AIC's all-time scoring leader if she maintains her present pace.

An All-NAIA District 17 honoree last year, Wilkins has 688 career points in less than two seasons. She was a transfer from North Arkansas Community College where she was a two-year all-league performer.

Despite Wilkins' accomplishments, the young Lady Bisons are off to a 2-15 start. With the women's program in only its third season, coach Phil Watkins' teams have made great strides.

The Lady Bisons are holding down a seventh place NAIA national ranking in team free throw shooting. Teamwise they have recorded a .736 percentage.

Indoor Schedule Set; NAIA Meet Feb. 21-22

Harding will host three track meets in an eight-meet winter schedule announced by Bison head coach Ted Lloyd.

Two All-Comers Meets and the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference Invitational were held on Harding's indoor track. Dates for the All-Comers Meets were Jan. 25 and Feb. 1. The AIC Invitational is set for Feb. 13.

Other competition will include the Mason-Dixon Games Jan. 25, the University of Kansas Invitational Feb. 8 and the NAIA National Championships Feb. 21-22 in Kansas City, Mo.

In addition, Lloyd indicated Harding would host a High School Boy's Invitational Meet Feb. 15 and a Girl's High School Invitational March 1.

Quinn Named All-America Honorable Mention By NAIA

Harding's senior noseguard Fanasial "Dump" Quinn has been selected to the NAIA Division I All-America honorable mention team for his outstanding play during the 1985 football season.

Quinn, a 5-9, 234 lb. powerhouse, led the Bisons in tackles for each of the past two seasons after transferring from East Mississippi Junior College.

During his two years of competition, Quinn recorded 242 tackles, including 146 solo stops and set a school record of 23 1/2 quarterback sacks. He stopped 13 runners for 27 lost yards, recovered five fumbles and blocked a kick.

"Dump was the perfect noseguard," Bison head coach John Prock said. "He's fast, strong and has a low center of gravity. He may be the best one I ever coached."

In addition to the national recognition, Quinn was selected to the All-NAIA District 17 and All-Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference first team units, was named NAIA District 17 Player of the Week twice and Selected Player of the Week by the Arkansas Democrat. Five times during the 10-game schedule Quinn earned Bison Defensive Player of the Week honors for his outstanding play.

Harold Horton, head coach of the NAIA national co-champion University of Central Arkansas team, had words of praise for Quinn, who recorded 12 solo tackles against his offense.

"Dump was the premier down lineman in our league this year. He's a superb player who couldn't be blocked in a one-on-one situation. In our game, he totally took away our drop back passing game. And he can't be put off because of his size, either, he plays much bigger than he is."

A senior from West Point, Miss., Quinn

completed his eligibility and will pursue a major in business. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Curlie Quinn, he has been one of the most popular players ever to compete for the Bisons.

"No doubt about it, Dump is a one-of-a-kind," Prock said. "He has been an outstanding part of our program."

Also completing their eligibility were eight other seniors. They were defensive end Matt Clouser of Huntsville, Ala., tackle Scott Franklin of Dunwoody, Ga., tackle Wes Hunt of Denison, Texas, defensive back Drake Jackson of Temple, Texas, linebacker Franz Patterson of Killeen, Texas, center James Smith of West Helena, Ark., and fullback Z.C.O. Uhatafe of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Harding completed its season with a 5-5 record.

Moore Earns NAIA Division I Academic All-America Honor

Sophomore footballer Jack Moore has been named to the 1985 Division I Academic All-America team selected by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA).

The announcement was made by Charles Eppler, NAIA Director of Communications.

A 5-11, 176 lb., wide receiver, Moore earned a perfect 4.0 grade point average while majoring in premedicine/chemistry. He is a native of Huntsville, Ala.

During the 1985 season, Moore caught 16 passes for 208 yards and three touchdowns. He also returned five kickoffs for an 18.2 yard average. As a member of the specialty team he was credited with four solo tackles.

"Jack has already achieved an excellent record in the classroom and he's an outstanding athlete as well," Bison head coach John Prock said. "This is a tremendous accomplishment."

Moore and teammate Scott Corbin also were nominated for the Academic All-America team selected each year by the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA). Corbin, a sophomore defensive end from Searcy, and Moore were selected to the District 6 team, made up of student-athletes from Arkansas, Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Mississippi and Louisiana.

Jack Moore

"Jack and Scott are outstanding young men," Prock said, "and they have done a great deal for our football program."

Corbin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Corbin of Searcy and Moore is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Moore of Huntsville, Ala.

Bison Teams Make Preparation For Spring Competition

As the Harding University spring sports program prepares for the 1986 season, all of the six Bison teams are anxious to begin competition in the tough Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference.

Baseball

The baseball team, under the direction of 1985 NAIA Coach of the Year Dick Johnson, will look for leadership from six seniors in a bid to repeat as NAIA District 17 champions and runnersup in NAIA Area V.

Senior all-conference second baseman Greg Thompson of Decatur, Ill., will be joined by a cast of nine returning All-AIC honorable mention selections. The honorable mention seniors from 1985, catcher Scott Finley of Searcy; outfielders Jim Cooper of Melbourne and Bruce Brantley of Newport; and pitchers Steve Pilkington of Heber Springs and Randy Allman of Columbus, Ohio, provide a strong core of AIC veterans. Also named to the All-AIC honorable mention squad last season were junior pitcher James Mayes of Searcy, junior first baseman Barry Jones of Jonesboro, and sophomore pitcher Marty Spears of Searcy.

Tennis

On the tennis court, Coach David Elliott hopes his Bisons can return to the successful form that brought them a share of last year's AIC championship.

Searcy native Donnie Wallis, an honorable mention All-AIC performer last year, and Jon Wood of North Little Rock should provide leadership as seniors. Also returning is All-AIC and All-NAIA District 17 ace Vernon Lewis of St. Mary's, West Indies. In all, the Bisons return 10 players from last year's team.

Men's Track

Men's track coach Ted Lloyd says his team will feature strong individual performers, including senior Al Bates of Nashville, Tenn., the AIC champion in the 1500 meter run. Senior Ed Van Der Kaaij of the Netherlands returns from a 1985 season in which he earned All-American and Academic All-American honors as a pole vaulter. Discus specialist Doug Ogburn, a senior from Warren, Mich., was also selected to the Academic All-American team.

Back in school for the spring semester after playing a season with the United States Football League's Denver Gold, senior Gill Stegall of Searcy, an All-AIC performer in 1984, will run the sprints for the Bisons. Also boosting the sprinting corps will be sophomore Attah Frimpong of Kumasi, Ghana, who also achieved all-conference status in 1984.

Women's Track

As for the women tracksters, Coach Cliff Sharp says his team should be a strong one, due largely to the addition of several cross-country team members to the roster.

Outstanding senior Mindi Williams of Salado, Texas, will run sprints, as well as competing in the long jump and triple jump events. Other top performers should be sophomore Beverly Gardner of Fort Worth, Texas in the long-distance runs; sophomore Jodie Murray of Carthage, Mo. in the 800 meter and 1500 meter runs; and junior Teresa Durham of Bakersfield, Mo. in the half-mile run.

Golf

According to Coach Phil Watkins, the Bison golf team should show great improvement this year. The team's roster is strengthened by four experienced seniors, including Didier Vallard of Royan France; Bob Pittenger of Shawnee Mission, Kan.; Mike Saegert of Siloam Springs; and Kevin Wise of Pensacola, Fla.

Outstanding newcomers to the team include sophomore Cliff Hays of Benton and junior John Beavers of Searcy.

Swimming

Turning to the water, Harding's Water Buffaloes look to be strong with four seniors returning. Coach Jack Boustead expects this year's team to surpass school records in many events.

Returning are seniors Glen Alexander of Concord, Calif. and Gano Butcher of Yamhill, Ore., both qualifiers for last year's national championship meet. Butcher was also named to the NAIA Academic All-American team last year. Two other seniors, Chris Boutcher of Fountain Valley, Calif. and Phil Pafford of Oakdale, Calif., provide good reason for Boustead's optimism. Seven returning lettermen are featured in the Water Buffaloes' lineup.

Quartet Receives Four-Year Awards; Bison Football Announces 45 Lettermen

A quartet of four-year award winners are among 45 Harding University football lettermen announced by Bisons' head coach John Prock.

Receiving their fourth letter award are defensive tackle Scott Franklin of Dunwoody, Ga., offensive tackle Wes Hunt of Denison, Texas, defensive back Drake Jackson of Temple, Texas, and fullback Z.C.O. Uhatafe of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Three year lettermen are John Fox of Searcy, Ark., Paul Golden of Caddo Gap, Ark., Brent LeDoux of Jennings, La., Mannie Lowery of Little Rock, Ark., Chris McDavid of Dallas, Texas, James Smith of West Helena, Ark., Glen Segars of Lithonia, Ga., Chris East and Steve Dudley of St. Petersburg, Fla., and Matt Clouser of Huntsville, Ala.

Earning two-year honors are John Collins of Uniontown, Ohio; Mickey Adkison of Tulsa, Okla.; Jack Moore of Huntsville, Ala.; Roddy Mote of St. Mary's, W. Va.; Bob Harvey of Irving, Texas; Dennis Levenson of Memphis, Tenn.;

Derrick Williams of Fort Worth, Texas; Stuart Varner of Marietta, Ohio; Franz Patterson of Killeen, Texas; Fanasial "Dump" Quinn of West Point, Miss.; David Escue of Memphis, Tenn.; Todd Potter of McGehee, Ark.; and Kenneth Forte of Little Rock.
