National Advisory Board Appointed

Sam Walton and Jack Stephens Head List Of 20 Selected To Serve on ASI Board

Two prominent national businessmen will direct Harding's newly formed National Advisory Board for the American Studies Institute.

Little Rock investment banker, Jack Stephens and Wal-Mart founder Sam Walton will co-chair an advisory board of 20 national business, government and educational leaders.

Stephens and Walton will direct the National Advisory Board of Harding's American Studies Institute. Dr. David Burks, Harding's president, announced the creation of the board in July. The first meeting will be September 24.

"The advisory board will provide counsel and advice to strengthen and enhance the effectiveness of the American Studies Institute," said Burks. The American Studies Institute was established in 1953.

Other Arkansans serving on the board are James

Lectureship Program Announced

Landon Saunders will open the 67th annual Bible Lectureship Sept. 30 with a lecture on the 1990 theme, "The Church of God in a Pagan World." A roster of 60 other well known speakers from throughout the country will continue the series on topics taken from I Corinthians through Oct. 3, when Nick Hamilton of Little Rock will close the program with an address on "But Now Christ Has Been Raised!"

Inside

The series will feature an old time songfest from 6:30-7:30 p.m. Sunday under the direction of Dr. Arthur Shearin, director of Harding's Concert Choir, preceding Saunders' opening address.

"The 1990 theme addresses a vital challenge facing the church," said Don Shackelford, the university's church relations director who is also directing the lectureship. "This concentrated study from I Corinthians will help Christians of all ages in dealing with this theme."

The 1990 series will include a Monday-through-Wednesday format of 10 classes offered at 8 a.m., 9:45 a.m., and 3:00 pm. daily with chapel, theme lectures and Bible forums interspersed throughout the day.

Other theme speakers include Harold Hazelip, "The Work Of The Cross," and Prentice Meador, "Unity Versus Sectarianism," Monday; Cline Paden, "Becoming All Things To All Men," and Ken Durham, "The Church — The Body of Christ," Tuesday; and Jimmy Allen, "Spiritual Gifts," Wednesday.

Dr. Bill Teague will speak on "If All Else Fails: Think!" at the annual Elders-Preachers dinner Monday at 4:30 p.m. A Scholars' Forum will be held from 9:00-10:00 p.m. with Wendell Willis speaking on Monday, Bill Flatt on Tuesday and Carroll Osburn on Wednesday.

A full slate of luncheons and dinners has been included throughout the week. A World Mission Fellowship luncheon and the Gospel Advocate/Christian Chronicle combined luncheon will be held Monday.

Tuesday's slate includes another World Mission Fellowship luncheon, and Harding Graduate School and African Christian Hospital's Foundation luncheons as well as a dinner for Harding School of Biblical Studies alumni and a China Missions News-World English School banquet, both at 4:30 p.m.

Parents Program Planned

"Open House '90," a dual program for parents of current students and prospective students and their parents, has been set for Oct. 5-6.

The High School Days program was consolidated with Parents Weekend to form the Open House event to accommodate both groups.

The program will open with registration on Friday, Oct. 5. Parents of current students have been invited to attend a class or classes with the students throughout the day. Prospective students are also invited to attend classes on Friday.

On Saturday both groups will be guests of the university for a Continental Breakfast at the American Heritage banquet room. Faculty members will be on hand to meet parents and to answer questions.

During the Saturday activities parents will be able to tour the new Brackett Library and one of the newly renovated residence halls. These construction projects were completed just prior to the beginning of the fall semester.

On Saturday afternoon the parents of current students will be guests at a barbecue at the home of President and Mrs. David Burks. Prospective students will be treated to a pizza party at the American Heritage building, hosted by the Admissions Services Office and the Student Association.

At 7 o'clock, both groups will be guests of the university at the Bison-University of Central Arkansas football game at Alumni Field.

NASA Awards $100,000 Grant For Joint Venture Program

Harding University is one of nine schools nationwide chosen for a $100,000 National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) JOVE Grant, according to an announcement made in June by Arkansas Senator Dale Bumpers. The grant, a NASA-university Joint Venture program, will enable three Harding University professors to analyze data from space science missions.

Dr. James Mackey and Dr. Lambert Murray, professors of physics, and Dr. Steve Baber, associate professor of mathematics and computer science, have been chosen for the JOVE program, which will be directed by Dr. James Dowdy, a 1971 graduate, in Huntsville.

"I am pleased that Harding University has been selected for this prestigious program," Senator Bumpers said. "It will be both stimulating and beneficial for students and professors, not only at Harding, but throughout the nation."

Mackey spent the entire summer at NASA's Douglass Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Ala. Baber spent ten days at the facility and Murray received his training during July.

The three will work for the next two years through electronic links with NASA researchers to analyze images of the sun's magnetic field taken from Skylab in 1973 and 1974.

Though the data is 17 years old, the Harding teachers will use new computer analysis techniques trying to yield new information.

Through electronic links with its own research teams, NASA will work with the professors to improve data collection from solar images taken above the earth's atmosphere. The grant will fund the research, allow the selected professors to attend a 10-week summer research orientation at a NASA facility, and pay for equipment and travel.

In exchange, Harding will be involve undergraduate and graduate students in the research, and conduct an outreach program in space science for nearby secondary and elementary schools.

"We are delighted to be a part of the NASA-JOVE initiative project to involve colleges and universities in space research," Harding President David Burks said. "I know it will be meaningful to Harding, particularly to the faculty and students involved. We have had excellent relations with NASA in the past and I am looking forward to this renewed opportunity to work with them."

The JOVE program was begun in 1989 with six participating universities. By 1992, NASA plans to further expand the program to involve all agency facilities.

Nursing Students Honored at Ceremony

Twenty-eight seniors were honored at the Harding University School of Nursing's 14th annual pinning ceremony.

The invocation was given by Richard Smith, assistant professor of nursing. Dr. Mike Justus of Searcy introduced Dr. Cathleen Shultz, dean of the school, chosen by the seniors to be the speaker. Dr. Shultz, completing her 13th year as head of the program, spoke on the meaning of service to the nurses of the 1990's.

Kathy Knight of Bradford presented the senior gift to the school of nursing, an oil painting of Dr. Shultz to be displayed in the school lobby. The dean then presented the student awards to the outstanding seniors. Kathy Knight and Yvonne Francois of Livonia, Michigan, shared the Daedalus award for greatest improvement. Miss Francois also won the Outstanding Colleague award and shared the Community Service Award with Christy Golden of Murfreesboro.

The Outstanding Academic Award went to Donna King of West Virginia, and the Research Paper Award was won by Tara Baggett of Memphis. Kamy Smith of Tulsa won the prestigious Head, Heart and Hands award given by the faculty in each year of the school's existence.

Mrs. Dorothea McDowell, associate professor, presented family members at the request of the seniors. The pinning itself was done by Mrs. Tawna Pounders, instructor, and Dr. Louise Bradford, professor. Dr. Shultz presented each senior with a farewell memento.

Following the slide presentation designed to acquaint and entertain the audience with sketches of nursing student life, the class charge was given by Tracy Weldy and Kamy Smith. Stephanie Carger presented three faculty members, Dr. Bradford, Mrs. McDowell and Mrs. Pounders, with plaques honoring them as outstanding teachers.

The benediction was given by Dr. Sam L. Shultz. A reception in the American Heritage Building given by Sgt. John O'Brien, Army Nurse Recruiter, honored graduates and faculty.

Ethics Course Offered On Searcy Campus

Dr. Douglas Brown, associate professor of Christian doctrine at Harding University Graduate School of Religion, will teach a graduate level course on "Christian Ethics" this fall on the Searcy campus. Dr. Brown is a visiting professor of medical ethics with the University of Michigan OB-GYN Department and a visiting fellow with the Michigan State University Center for Ethics and Humanities in the Life Sciences.

The course will address five areas of thought: (1) a review of the biblical resources for modern decision-making, (2) an overview of the history of Christian ethics, (3) an analysis of modern non-religious explanations of human behavior, (4) a detailed interaction with three contemporary interpretations of the process of Christian decision-making, and (5) and open discussion of such ethical concerns as reproductive technologies, marriage/divorce, AIDS, human sexuality, truth-telling, abortion, euthanasia, civil disobedience, and materialism.

The course will meet from 1:00 p.m. to 6:45 p.m. on six Thursdays spread through the fall semester.

Lecture Series Scheduled

The Harding Graduate School of Religion Student Association will present the 15th Annual W. B. West, Jr. Lectures for the Advancement of Christian Scholarship. The speaker will be Dr. Jack Lewis, retired professor of New Testament at the school.

He will discuss the importance and effect of modern English Bible translations on Christian scholarship.

The lectures will be held in the auditorium of the classroom building on the Memphis campus on Tuesday, September 11. The lectures will begin at 10:00 a.m.

Certificate Program Begun in Counseling

The Harding Graduate School of Religion will begin this fall offering a certificate in ministerial counseling designed especially for preachers, elders, Bible school teachers, and other Christians who wish to increase their expertise in ministerial counseling but are not interested in completing a degree program.

A college degree will be required for admission. Courses must be taken for credit and completed with at least a grade of C in each course. Specific courses required are: Basic Counseling; Basic Counseling Skills; Theories of Counseling; Marital Therapy; Internship in Counseling; and two additional counseling courses as electives.

These courses will continue to be offered in the regular schedule of classes and will also be scheduled as "Short Courses" to make this training available to people nationwide.

Economics Team Wins Regional Contest

Tom Alexander

Alexander Completes Doctoral Studies

Thomas C. Alexander, assistant professor of Bible, received the Doctor of Philosophy degree in religion at Emory University's Graduate School of Arts and Sciences in Atlanta, Ga., in May. Mrs. Elizabeth Dole, a cabinet member in the Reagan administration, addressed the graduates.

Alexander, who has been a member of the faculty since 1978, wrote his dissertation on "Paul's Final Exhortation to the Elders from Ephesus: The Rhetoric of Acts 20:17-38."

A native of Dresden, Tenn., Alexander attended Freed Hardeman College in Henderson from 1965-68 and received the B.A. from David Lipscomb College in Nashville in 1969.

While pursuing the M.A. and M.Th. degrees at Harding Graduate School of Religion in Memphis from 1969-72, he served as youth minister of the Getwell Church of Christ. From 1972-78 he was pulpit minister for the Providence Road Church of Christ in Charlotte, N.C. He is a member of the Society of Biblical Literature.

Harding's economics team won first place and $1,500 in the Mid-South Regional Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE) competition at the Omni Hotel in Memphis in April.

The team's entry, "Free Enterprise — The Great American Bargain," included 65 projects and programs which were presented to civic, professional and educational groups in the mid-South. The project was judged by chief executive officers of American business and industry.

Team members included Karen Norwood of Searcy, co-captain; Drue DeMatteis of Richmond, Va., co-captain; Jim Hull of Columbus, Ohio; Susan Isom of Searcy; Lee Mackey of Searcy; and Jason Pace of Searcy. Dr. Don Diffine, professor of economics, was sponsor of the team.

SIFE is a Springfield, Mo., organization which involves more than 4,000 college students and 300 faculty members whose educational programs and projects reach more than 300,000 college students and 80,000 school-age children. Mass media contacts reach more than 52 million community citizens.

HUF Celebrates Anniversary

Harding's educational campus in Florence, Italy celebrated its tenth anniversary June 12 and on that date was officially recognized by the Italian government.

President and Mrs. David Burks, Mr. and Mrs. James Cone of Little Rock and Dr. and Mrs. Carl Mitchell of Searcy participated in the anniversary program. Cone is chairman of Harding's board of trustees and Mitchell is dean of the College of Bible and Religion.

At the anniversary celebration, Italian officials in the Ministry of Education announced that Harding has been granted status as "an American university in Italy." Harding's administrators and attorneys had been working for several years to obtain the recognition status.

Because of Harding's efforts, 10 other American universities with educational programs in Italy have also been granted a similar status. Two of those schools, California State University and Pepperdine University, had representatives at the anniversary program.

During the program, Burks presented Terry and Kim Edwards with Harding's Presidential Service Award and a check for $500. Edwards has served for six years as director of the Harding University in Florence (HUF) program. He will be returning to the U. S. in the fall to pursue a doctorate at Florida State.

Also at the anniversary celebration, a ground breaking was held for an all-purpose recreational facility at the Florence campus. Funds for the project were contributed by former students at HUF.

While in Europe, Burks and Cone participated in an educational study trip to East Germany. They visited in Munich, Regensburg, Karl Marx City, Dresden and Berlin. One day in Berlin was spent shooting video footage with an ABC-TV film crew for an American Studies Institute video being produced by Harding.

During the trip, Burks spoke in Oelsnitz at the only congregation of the Church of Christ in East Germany and also spoke in West Berlin and Regensburg.

Chorus Completes European Tour

University Chorus Campaigns '90, a month-long evangelistic tour to Europe and Great Britain, was pronounced as "outstanding" by Director Cliff Ganus III following the return of the group June 12.

The group of 40 sang to more than 3,000 persons in 22 concerts and to hundreds more in informal singings in shopping areas and homes for the elderly, Ganus said.

Highlights of the tour included the opening program, a joint concert in Liege, Belgium, with a local chorus, with proceeds going to the cancer society.

In Nantes, France, alumni families — Maurine and Buddy Jones and Mike and Karen Mason — invited 26 choruses from the city to the program. Singing in the Protestant Temple, an audience of about 250 attended, although Jones had anticipated only about 75. "This was the largest French audience ever assembled for a church-sponsored event," Jones said.

In Leeds, the group sang at the Civic Hall, with the Lord Mayor in attendance. The benefit concert was for the Save the Children Foundation. Concerts in Northampton and Livingston, Scotland, had full houses in attendance. The church in Aberdeen, Scotland rented the Aberdeen Music Hall for $300 per night rather than the usual charge of $1,700. Crowds of 265 and 350 attended the two programs, and the group had a fine review in the local newspaper. The audience at the Festival Hall in Corby, England, numbered more than 400.

While in Berlin President David Burks filmed a segment for an American Studies Institute video which will be released in September.

Eighteen Added To Faculty for 1990-91 School Year

Eighteen new teachers will join the Harding University faculty for the fall semester, with 10 added to the College of Arts and Sciences, five in the College of Bible and Religion; one in the School of Business and two in the School of Education.

Twelve of the new teachers are full-time faculty while the remaining six will serve in an adjunct capacity. The adjunct teachers were hired to fill the needs of the campus' full enrollment for the fall semester.

Joining as full-time faculty members are Pamela Aaron, Gregg Barden, Jeff Custer, John Fortner, Paul Haynie, Kim McLarty, Martin Kent Miller, Bryan Phillips, Dan Stockstill, Gordon Sutherlin, David Todd and Flavil Yeakley.

Adjunct teachers will be Mark Berryman, Shirley Boyd, Kayla Haynie, Don Helms, Judy Hopper and Susan Knight.

Aaron is a 1981 graduate of Harding who holds the Master of Social Work and is licensed by the State of Arkansas. Formerly a social worker with Arkansas Children's Hospital in Little Rock, she will be an assistant professor of behavioral sciences.

Barden, a graduate of Harding Academy in Searcy, received the B.S. in chemistry from Harding University in 1989. He is currently pursuing a master's degree and will be an associate instructor of physical science.

Custer is a 1975 graduate of Harding who holds the Master of Theology from Harding Graduate School of Religion in Memphis. He and his wife, the former Suzanne Groover, have been working as missionaries in Brazil. He will be the visiting professor of missions.

Fortner, an assistant professor of Bible, received the B.S. in Bible from Harding in 1972. He also holds the M.Th. and M.Phil. degrees. Fortner has been preaching in Cincinnati, Ohio. Mrs. Fortner is the former Janet Millson, a Harding alumna.

Paul Haynie will be added as an assistant professor of history. A 1971 graduate of Harding with a major in Bible, he received the Ph.D. from the University of Arkansas. He has been teaching at Mississippi County Community College in Blytheville.

McLarty recently completed the Ed.D. at Vanderbilt University. A 1983 graduate of Harding, she will be an assistant professor of education.

Miller, whose hometown is Winston-Salem, N.C., received the B.F.A. magna cum laude in spring commencement. He will be an associate instructor in art.

Phillips is a graduate of Oklahoma Panhandle State University and received the Master of Education from Harding in spring commencement. He will be an instructor of physical education and track coach.

Stockstill, an assistant professor of Bible, has been serving as a youth minister in Lexington, Ky. A 1976 Harding graduate who also holds the Master of Theology from Harding Graduate School of Religion, he is married to the former Cindee Mansur, a 1976 Harding graduate.

Sutherlin, a 1971 alumnus who holds the Ed.D. from Memphis State University, will be an associate professor of education. For the past 10 years he has been teaching at Cabot High School. His wife, Cynthia, is also a graduate.

Todd is a Hampton, Ark., native who holds the M.S.E. from Henderson State University. Formerly a coach at SAU-El Dorado, he will be an assistant professor of physical education and assistant basketball coach.

Yeakley, a minister since 1950, has most recently been director of the Center for Congregational Development at Abilene Christian University. He holds the Ph.D. from the University of Illinois in psychology and speech communication and will be a professor of Bible and communication.

Berryman holds both the Master of Arts and the Master of Education degrees. He has served as a missionary in Africa and has led campaigns to Kenya. He will serve as the missionary in residence.

Boyd is a 1952 Harding graduate and holds a Master of Arts. She has been teaching English at Harding Academy since 1983. She and her husband, Glenn, served as missionaries in Germany and also worked with the Pepperdine University Year in Heidelberg program. She will be an adjunct instructor of German in the modern foreign languages department.

Kayla Haynie, who holds the B.A. in English from Southwestern Texas University and the Masters from Arkansas State University, will be an adjunct instructor of English. She has been teaching at Mississippi County Community College in Blytheville.

Helms is a retired professor at Arkansas Tech in Russellville, and a 1959 Harding graduate. He is a CPA who also holds the Ph.D. He will be an adjunct professor of business. His wife, Margaret, is also a Harding alumna.

Hopper, will join the music department as an adjunct instructor of music. A 1972 graduate of Harding, she also holds the Master of Education in music. Her husband, Jeff, is also a member of the music faculty.

Knight, who received the B.S. from Harding in 1988, will be an adjunct instructor in art. She is currently in graduate school. Her husband, Adrian, is a systems analyst in the Information Services office.

Armstrong Scholarship Fund Established

An endowed fund honoring J. N. Armstrong, Harding's first president, and his wife, Woodson Harding Armstrong, has been established by the couple's niece.

Mrs. Gertrude Paine Deese, granddaughter of James A. Harding, made the initial contribution to the fund. She is a retired school teacher now living in Winter Park, Fla. The university is named for her grandfather.

Born in 1870 on a little farm near Gadsden, Tenn., Armstrong was the third of eight children. He attended Western Tennessee Christian College (Freed-Hardeman University) and Nashville Bible School (David Lipscomb University).

Armstrong was a student of James A. Harding and later married Harding's daughter, Woodson. The Armstrongs worked with five Christian colleges before he became president of Harding College in 1924.

In 1936, Armstrong relinquished the presidency, but he remained as a teacher of Greek and chairman of the Bible department until his death in 1944. He had been intimately involved in Christian education for more than 50 years.

Mrs. Deese taught for 22 years at David Lipscomb High School in Nashville, Tenn., prior to her retirement. She is a 1936 graduate of Harding. Her association with the school began in 1930 when she enrolled as a junior in Harding Academy.

She will help build the Armstrong Fund through annual gifts and through a deferred gift in her estate.

The annual income earned by the Armstrong Fund will be spent to strengthen the university's entire program, with priority being given to faculty development and to scholarships for students.

"Gertrude Deese has a natural interest in the work at Harding both as an alumna and as a relative of its pioneer administrator and teacher," said Floyd Daniel, vice president for university relations. "She shares with Harding administrators a strong belief that remembering and honoring those early educators is a significant part of the Harding heritage today.

"The board of trustees is pleased to have this fund established to honor the Armstrongs. It is so appropriate for the establishment of this fund to come from an individual who is so familiar with the work of J. N. and Woodson Harding Armstrong. Mrs. Deese's generosity and commitment to Harding is certainly an example to everybody who knew and loved the Armstrongs."

Daniel pointed out that it was Mrs. Deese's idea to establish the Armstrong Fund as a way of giving other Harding alumni an opportunity to honor J. N. Armstrong's work and his influence on the lives of students during his tenure as both president and teacher.

Daniel encouraged other alumni, particularly those in the classes of 1924 to 1945, to join Mrs. Deese in making an annual gift to the Armstrong Fund and to consider including the Armstrong Fund in their wills or through some other estate plan such as a trust or annuity.

For more information about the fund, write Daniel at Box 941, Harding University, Searcy, Ark. 72143.

Graduate School Offers New Degree

Harding University Graduate School of Religion in Memphis will begin the fall semester offering the Master of Arts in Religion degree on a new schedule.

The M.A.R. Track II degree is designed to be completed by attending school in the evenings and on Saturdays, avoiding most job conflicts.

The new degree program is especially designed for three groups: church leaders, ministers, teachers and others who cannot enroll during the regular daytime schedule of classes; those interested in ministry as a second career; and those interested in personal spiritual enrichment.

The M.A.R. Track II degree program consists of 42 graduate credit hours. Included in these credit hours is a Supervised Ministry Experience within a local congregational setting where the student applies his or her studies in situations that benefit the local congregation.

No undergraduate course work in religion is required as a prerequisite for this degree.

Developments

Librarian Retires After 30 Years

by Alice Ann Kellar

Winnie Bell, director of Beaumont Memorial Library, always claimed she'd work for Harding for nothing provided she could figure out a way to survive. After more than 30 years on the payroll, she was faced with that very opportunity at the end of only one week of her official retirement date from the university, June 30.

So what did she do? "I decided I better prove it," Bell said. By July 10 she became the first volunteer worker on hand at Brackett Library, staying on the job faithfully as the 345,000 volumes of books were moved from temporary quarters back to the new $1.6 million library which will be ready for use in the fall.

How could she not be interested in the project! It was Bell who had engineered the complicated job of directing some of the volumes to the Administration Auditorium and the remainder of the library's stacks to a warehouse on campus without the help of professional movers and with minimal delays in May of 1989 when the renovation and expansion started.

Also, it was Bell, according to all knowledgeable sources, who had steered the collection toward computerization during a period when many other libraries and librarians were nowhere close to that direction. Self-taught, in the last five years she has become proficient in LOTUS and d-Base as well as word processing. "Her enthusiasm for information delivery via computers has propelled the library into its commitment to state-of-the-art electronic information delivery," said Suzanne Spurrier, Bell's assistant for several years who has now been named Harding's library director.

"Now we feel that she's somewhat like Moses," said Spurrier. "She's been the one so vitally responsible for all this — and now it's hard to imagine she doesn't even get to have an office in this beautiful new 'promised land.'" But Bell only laughs, saying, "This is the best of both worlds. I can come to work at my convenience and leave the problems with you when I go home!"

As an unwed lady with four daughters, 10 grandchildren and three great grandchildren, however, skirting the usual would seem nothing unusual for Winnie Bell. Her decision to become legal guardian for four young girls at a time when single parent adoptions were not "fashionable" was only one of the progressive turns her life has taken from its beginning on a farm back in Waxahachie, Texas.

Winnie was a very young child when the Depression hit, but she joined the rest of the tenant farmer family in chopping cotton, hoeing corn and doing all the other tasks, including driving the mules, required to survive.

When she finished high school, she got a job at Kress Five and Dime store, earning $8 a week ("...but I'd worked up to $13 a week by the time I quit," she recalls). Her older sister, Mildred, taking advantage of the jobs available as a result of the start of World War II, had landed a job in Dallas at a whopping $1 per hour wages. "We thought that was something," Winnie says.

When the War ended Mildred had managed to save $598. She made a bold suggestion to Winnie. "Why don't we go to college!" was Mildred's thought.

Encouraged by a letter from the late L. C. Sears, Dean of Harding, assuring them they could get a job, the sisters set out for Searcy and Harding, their first venture outside the state of Texas. Their arrival on campus provided another couple of firsts — a taxi ride from Kensett and dinner in a cafeteria. The two worked their way to graduation in 1949. (Dr. Mildred Bell is retired as chairman of Harding's department of Home Economics.)

After graduation, Winnie moved to Wewoka, Okla., to use her business degree working in a bank.

In 1959, at the suggestion of Harding Librarian Annie May Alston Lewis, Winnie came back to Searcy. She attacked library science with the same enthusiasm she'd always known, and found another true calling. She was named head librarian in 1975.

Winnie started hearing about computerization. In her characteristic pioneer spirit, Winnie investigated the new field, learned there were grants available, made application, and received a grant. Some others had done so, but made no progress toward implementation. "I decided I wasn't going to let that happen, so I started digging in the manuals. I had no one to help me understand what I was doing, and I made a lot of mistakes. At least I learned a lot of what not to do," she said. Not giving up, she continued to learn and even advanced as she went along, increasing not only her skills but the equipment as well. Currently the library isn't totally computerized, but it's well on its way, thanks to Winnie Bell.

In the meantime, her daughters were growing up, and her widowed mother — Mrs. Ineeta Bell, who died last year — had moved to Searcy to live with Winnie and Mildred. So life was becoming routine for Winnie Bell? Not so. Word via the late Jimmie Lovell of California regarding World Bible School materials sounded appealing to Winnie. She quietly began working on enrolling students and grading lessons at the Downtown Church of Christ in Searcy. But soon the influx of mail became such that she needed help.

Comfortable now with her expertise in computerization, she purchased a computer for her home and applied her d-Base expertise to tame unwieldy WBS lists, make mailing labels and track students' progress. Over the last 15 years, she has been instrumental in teaching more than 37,000 students. During the time, she has enlisted the assistance of others and currently has a volunteer coming to her home two hours each day to work on the WBS materials.

"Sometimes I stop and ask myself 'What am I doing?'" she says, "but then I think, 'God has decided I can do this and I'm just going to do my best at whatever I attempt.' Maybe I couldn't speak publicly, but I could show others the Gospel through World Bible School!"

And Winnie Bell moves along. She and Mildred have some plans for travel. With her daughters living in Tennessee, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Hawaii, no doubt she'll have occasion to do some visiting with them. "But I'll probably continue to come to the library a couple of days a week," she says.

Spurrier described what may best sum up the reason for Winnie Bell's thinking about the continued connection with the library. "Her quiet manner and frequent giggle belie her wisdom, foresight, creativity and initiative," Spurrier said. "She is committed to Harding University and the Library's vital role in Harding's mission to Educate for Eternity. Her managerial choices have emphasized her conviction that students are our raison d'etre."

Winnie Bell could be the plural for 'raison d'etre'!

and lectures are planned on the Harding campus and in major metropolitan cities nationwide.

"We believe Harding University has a mission to accomplish in promoting democracy and the free enterprise system," said Burks. "We are strategically positioned to accomplish this mission now with the counsel and advice from our advisory board."

A national newsletter will be developed, special programs will be designed for high school students and teachers, and videos and printed materials will be designed and distributed to targeted audiences. The university's Youth Citizenship Seminar will be enlarged.

Members of the advisory board will assist the American Studies Institute in the selection of speakers, topics to be discussed, the location of programs, audiences to be reached, and materials to be developed and distributed.

Harding's American Studies Institute has a 37-year record of achievement. Faculty, administrators and students have been recognized with more honor medals from the Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge than any other university in the nation. The American Studies program has been recognized as the outstanding campus program in American on three different occasions.

Shackelford Replaces Edwards

Robert E. (Robbie) Shackelford will be the new manager of the HUF program, replacing Terry Edwards, the manager since 1984 who will be returning to the States to enter doctoral study.

Shackelford and his wife, Mona, along with their sons, David and Jonathon, joined the staff in Scandicci earlier in the year to facilitate the transition. Shackelford spent several years in Italy while his parents were missionaries there and he is fluent in the language.

Shackelford will be assisted by Randy Barnes, a recent graduate, who left for Florence earlier this summer.

Professors Attend Lilly Endowment Workshop

by Alice Ann Kellar

Four of Harding's College of Arts and Sciences professors were among participants invited from 25 colleges and universities to the 1990 Lilly Endowment Workshop on Liberal Arts at Colorado College in June.

Dr. Dean Priest, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, was accompanied by Dr. Dennis Organ and Dr. Larry Long, professors of English; and Dr. Travis Thompson, associate professor of math and computer science, for the prestigious workshop.

According to Ralph Lundgren, education program director for Lilly, the Endowment's long-standing commitment to supporting liberal arts programs and teaching at the undergraduate level is based on the belief that the overall success of colleges and universities depends on the vitality of their undergraduate program.

The Endowment invites a different group each summer to send a team of four to the workshop essentially to share information.

Formerly sponsored by the Danforth Foundation, Lilly assumed sponsorship of the workshop in 1978. Approximately 1,000 faculty members and deans, representing more than 260 different college and universities, have participated in the program since that time.

Each institution selects a liberal arts problem or issue that its team will address during the two-week workshop. "The workshop," Lundgren said, "makes possible rich connections among individuals, disciplines and institutions that produce creative solutions to compelling liberal arts issues."

The Harding group chose faculty development as its issue, basing the decision on the university's recently-completed new evaluation program and a study of the general education curriculum.

"It seemed natural," Priest said, "that we should have a faculty development program to help faculty members develop in light of their evaluations and also to develop new course content relative to the new general education program. Larry, Dennis, Travis and I were delighted to work on the program." For years Harding has encouraged and assisted faculty to achieve the Ph.D. A more broadly based faculty development program will help faculty do a better job in the classroom.

During the workshop, each of the four faculty members lead two semin-nars which addressed major issues concerning undergraduate education from the perspectives of curricula, legal, ethical, administrative, historical and developmental. Priest said the team returned with a model "which we think will be of great help to the Harding faculty in keeping current."

"The seminars themselves were very interesting and helpful," Organ said. "One I attended on 'The International Curriculum' was especially helpful to me in getting concepts for our general education curriculum in addressing global literacy."

Priest pronounced the collective participation of the four as a professionally rewarding and upbuilding experience which should be of great benefit to all.

In addition to Harding, universities represented at the workshop were Corpus Christi State, California State, Central Washington, George Mason, Indiana Northwest and South Bend, Johnson Smith, Purdue, Texas A&I, California, Maryland-College Park, Massachusetts-Amherst, Minnesota-Twin Cities and Western Michigan.

Colleges with representatives were Bloomfield, Fitchburg State, Gettysburg, Heritage, Juniata, Lake Forest, Lane, Rockhurst, Rust and Tusculum.

Harding University 67th Annual Lectureship September 30-October 3, 1990

The Church of God in a Pagan World

STUDIES IN FIRST CORINTHIANS

First Corinthians is one of the most diverse books of the New Testament. Covering instruction from church discipline to church survival, the book of First Corinthians contains incredible amounts of information pertinent to today's church. The Harding University Lectureship will be thorough in its coverage of this book. You'll want to take advantage of one of the most in-depth studies ever conducted of First Corinthians.

Photography Director Selected

Leslie Downs, a 1989 alumnus, has been named director of photographic services in the Public Relations Office.

The native of Shreveport, La. was photographer for the Petit Jean while a student from 1983 to 1988. He also was a student photographer in the Public Relations Office from 1986 until 1989.

Prior to returning to Harding he attended graduate school at Northeast Louisiana University and worked as free-lance professional photographer.

Downs was a psychology major at Harding with minors in Bible and computer science.

NAIA Honors Prock

Former Bison head football coach John Prock has been elected for membership to the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) Hall of Fame. The announcement came from NAIA Executive Director Dr. Jefferson Farris.

Prock, who retired as Harding's head coach in 1987 after 24 years, will be inducted in the Hall's Football Coach category. Formal induction ceremonies will take place at the NAIA Football Coaches Association meeting next January at the New Orleans Hilton Hotel in New Orleans, La.

Prock led the Bisons to Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference championships in 1972 and 1976. He was named NAIA District 17 Coach of the Year in 1969, 1972 and 1976, and NAIA Area V Coach of the Year in 1976. His 1972 squad finished the season 10-1, including a 30-27 win over Langston University in the Cowboy Bowl in Lawton, Okla., and ranked sixth in the final NAIA poll.

"I have admired him both on and off the field for a long time," former Central Arkansas head coach Harold Horton said of Prock. "He has projected the qualities of honesty, passion, leadership and care. He received from his players the best that they had, and regardless of what profession one is in, this is what we all are seeking...He is very deserving of this honor."

The Hollis, Okla., native, who serves as professor of health, physical education and recreation, was a light weight, hardnosed guard for Southwestern (Okla.) State University, graduating in 1955. He served as an assistant coach under former University of Oklahoma great Carl Allison at Clinton, Okla. High School until Allison came to Harding in 1959 as head coach. A year later, Prock joined Allison at Harding as an assistant, and served in that capacity until 1964, when Allison stepped down.

When Prock retired, he was the sixth winningest active head coach in the NAIA with 114 wins. During his tenure, he coached 10 NAIA All-Americans, four Academic All-Americans and 63 All-AIC honorees.

"I'm proud to consider Coach Prock as one of my best personal friends," said Ouachita Baptist head coach Buddy Bob Benson, who is a member of the Hall. "Perhaps the greatest legacy he left was the many Bisons who today are making substantial contributions to their communities and cities. John Prock always emphasized sportsmanship, high character and integrity in his players, and he touched many young lives in a most positive way."

Prock is married to the former Charlene Knight, and they have three children, Mrs. Ronnie Peacock, Mrs. Lee Daniel and Mr. Cam Prock, and eight grandchildren.

Prock, who is a charter member of the Harding Athletic Hall of Fame, is the eighth individual from Harding to be named to the NAIA Hall.

Senior Track Athletes Receive Scholar Awards

Seniors Sharon Coleman and Jon Murray have been named the recipients of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference's Downing-Swift-Wallace and Cliff Shaw Scholar-Athlete Awards. AIC Commissioner Harry Hall made the announcement.

Coleman, a three-year letterman on the Lady Bison track and field team, graduated summa cum laude in May with a Bachelor of Business Administration degree in management. She achieved a perfect 4.00 grade point average on 130 hours of college work.

A member of Alpha Chi National College Honor Society and Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities, Coleman was awarded the school's Wall Street Journal Award, presented annually to the student in the School of Business with the highest grade point average. She was honored as the first recipient of the Baldor Scholar-Athlete Award in women's outdoor track.

Coleman served as vice-president for Delta Mu Delta business honor society, and was a member of the school's Marketing Research Team that placed nationally. She was also a member of College Republicans, Harding's Future Alumni Communication Team, American Studies, Campus Ministry and the school's athletic committee.

As a member of the Lady Bison track team, Coleman excelled in the sprint events and was named All-AIC as a senior. She finished second in both the 100-meter and 200-meter dashes and was a member of the winning 1600-meter relay team at the 1990 AIC Outdoor Track and Field Meet.

Murray, a four-year letterman on the Bison cross country and track and field teams, graduated magna cum laude in May with a Bachelor of Business Administration degree in management. He achieved a 3.79 grade point average on 135 hours of college work.

A member of Alpha Chi National College Honor Society and Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities, Murray received the senior management award for his work in the classroom. For his athletic endeavors, he earned NAIA All-American honors in indoor and outdoor track, and was a four-time All-AIC/NAIA District 17 selection in cross country, and three-time All-AIC Outdoor Track and Field Championship. In 1990, he became the first runner ever to win the 10,000 meter, 5,000 meter and 1,500 meter runs in the same AIC championship meet. He holds the AIC record in the 10,000 meter run, with a time of 31:03.3.

At the 1990 NAIA Outdoor Track and Field Championship in Stephenville,

Sharon Coleman

Texas, Murray won the marathon event with a time of 2:33.22. He finished third in the event in 1989.

Murray capped off his collegiate career by being named the winner of the first-ever Baldor Scholar-Athlete Award for men's cross country, indoor track and field and outdoor track and field.

The prestigious Cliff Shaw and Downing-Swift-Wallace Scholar-Athlete Awards are given annually to the senior AIC male and female athletes posting the highest academic grade point average who have earned at least two athletic letters in AIC-sponsored sports. Twenty-two Harding men and women have won the award since the men's award was first presented in 1957 and the women's in 1984.

Tennis Players Named All-American

Two Bison tennis players were named All-American for their performance at the NAIA Tennis National Championship in Kansas City, Mo.

The doubles team of Richie Roberts and Ernesto Tovar received second team honors after reaching the round of 32 at the national tournament, which was played at the Rockhill Tennis Club in Kansas City.

Rovar and Roberts won their first three matches before losing to the number two seeds Adam Kework and Stefan Cambal of the University of North Florida, 6-4, 6-2. They advanced to the fourth round by beating doubles duos from Transylvania (Ky.), Graceland (Iowa) and Elon (N.C.).

Their performance in doubles competition catapulted the Bisons to 18th place over with six points.

Lloyd Named Sports Information Director

Ted Lloyd, who has directed the men's and women's cross country and track teams for many years, has been named sports information director for the Bison and Lady Bison athletic programs. The appointment is effective in July, according to President David Burks.

Lloyd will succeed Ken Bissell, who has served as SID since 1987. Bissell will leave Harding for graduate studies in journalism.

In addition to his SID duties, Lloyd will continue to serve as men's and women's cross country coach and women's track coach.

Burks also announced that Bryan Phillips will serve as men's track coach and assistant SID.

Lloyd has directed the men's and women's cross country teams to a combined total of 25 AIC and 22 NAIA District 17 championships, including 19 consecutive men's and four women's titles.

He is a professor of health, physical education and recreation. He is a 1957 Harding alumnus and was inducted into the NAIA Track and Field Hall of Fame in 1983.

Phillips is a 1982 graduate of Panhandle (Okla.) State University with a degree in natural science. He will complete his master's degree at Harding in August.

Prior to coming to Harding, he was a teacher and coach at Heritage Hall in Oklahoma City. He coached state championship track teams in 1987 and 1988.

In 1987 Phillips was inducted into the Oklahoma Track Coach's Hall of Fame.

In an administrative change, the sports information office will be a responsibility of the school's athletic department.

Returning Lettermen Provide Optimistic Outlook

by Ken Bissell

Sports historians will remember the fall of 1989 as the season of "Bison Mania." For Harding University football fans, their team had finally defied the odds and reached the summer of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference.

Relegated to either last or next to last in most of the AIC's preseason polls, the Bisons fought through a schedule that included eight nationally ranked teams to post a 7-4 record. The highlight came in the regular season finale when Harding upset top-ranked Central Arkansas to gain a share of the conference title with the Bears and earn the league's automatic berth to the NAIA Division I playoffs.

If predictions hold true to form, the Bisons should be near the top again as 19 starters and 37 lettermen return. Only four seniors graduated from last year's team.

"When you start discussing last year, you have to center much of the attention on the UCA game," recalled Larry Richmond, who was selected the AIC and NAIA Region VI Coach of the Year. "It's rare that the conference championship and playoff bid comes down to the last game of the season. It was truly the highlight of the year."

The cinderella story ended in the first round of the playoffs when the Bisons fell to a seasoned Emporia State (Kan.) team, 38-6. The Hornets went on to finish runner-up in the playoffs. The Bisons wrapped up the banner campaign with their highest season-ending ranking in 17 years, at 9th in the nation.

"It was a tremendous achievement that we accomplished last year, but it's even harder to repeat," the coach said. "There are a lot of positive things that come out of that kind of season. We had a banner recruiting year, it boosted school spirit, and it put our program in the limelight. Hopefully, the winning will be contagious."

Defense, Richmond says, will be the squad's strength with 10 starters returning. Tradition should play a part as Harding usually ranks among the national leaders defensively, but experience at virtually every position and great depth in the secondary will contribute.

"If you win championships, you win them on defense," he said. "We relied on our defense in every game last year, and there were a couple that we won with our defensive play." He pointed to the UCA game, in which the Bison defenders intercepted six Bear passes.

Leading the defense is junior linebacker Patrick Gill (5-9, 225), who paced the team and possibly the nation in tackles with 198 takedowns on his way to first-team All-American laurels. Richmond says Gill "works hard to improve every game. He plays such an important role for us."

Joining Gill on the All-AIC squad was senior defensive end Kenwick Thompson (6-0, 225), half of the "Thompson Twins" bookends. Opposite of him is junior Matt Thompson (5-11, 210). Kenwick led the team in sacks with 12, while Matt led the front line in tackles with 74.

The front line may be young, but it is experienced. Sophomore Troy Foster (6-1, 235) and Kyle Eubanks (5-9, 240) started throughout their freshman campaigns and played like veterans. A third sophomore, Richard Proctor (5-11, 240) logged extensive duty and will provide support.

Gill will be joined by freshman Brooks Harrell (6-3, 215) at linebacker. Harrell will fill the void left by the graduation of four-year starter John Spann. Weakside linebacker Tommy Shoemaker (6-1, 205) was the defensive star against UCA after intercepting three passes. He'll be supported by senior veteran Lee White (5-9, 181), who'll also see playing time at cornerback.

Richmond calls the secondary "the strength of the team". Six of the top eight defensive backs are seniors who have earned 16 letters between them.

Leading the group is cornerback Lance Rodgers (6-1, 180), a first-team all-conference selection who pulled down five interceptions a year ago. On the opposite side, Detric Cathey (6-1, 190) broke into the starting lineup late in the season. Strong safety Eric Cook (5-10, 185) is starting his third straight year, as is free safety Pete Phillis (5-10, 185).

Richmond fully expects his offense to pick up where it left off last fall. After starting slowly, the Bison attack gained momentum and was among the league's best by season's end.

"Last year we were fairly

Junior Darrell Biggers of Augusta, Ark., is one of the reasons for optimism in the Bison football camp for the 1990 season. Biggers led the Bisons in rushing last year.

young in several positions, so that experience will help us," he said. "With (quarterback) Tad (Niblett) going into his junior year as a two-year starter, we feel that the offense is in good hands."

Niblett (5-10, 180) completed 44 percent of his passes for 1,447 yards, third best in school history. Already he's sixth on the school's career passing list, and he would break the record with another season like 1989.

Senior veteran Chris Hill (5-10, 205) is set to start his fourth year in the backfield, moving from tailback to fullback. Junior Darrell Biggers (5-11, 190) takes over at tailback and will receive help from sophomore Richard Holmes (5-8, 180). Hill and Biggers both rushed for 462 yards to lead the team, while Holmes added 303 yards. Hill will be backed by burly junior Wayne Shorter (6-1, 225).

The graduation of all-conference flanker Mike Alexander has left a void in the Bison receiving corps, but split end Barry Bowens (5-8, 160) should take up the slack. Bowens caught 31 passes for 536 yards last year. Sophomore Tommy Brown (5-11, 180) will fill in for Alexander at flanker.

In the line, the big question mark is at center where four-year stalwart Fred Wiley graduated. Eric Peters (6-2, 255), a redshirt freshman, earned the top spot in the spring, but incoming freshman Brian Wansley (6-1, 255) will see considerable playing time.

A quartet of veteran juniors will fill the remaining line slots. Tackles Terry Clay (6-5, 290) and Lance Proctor (5-11, 275) join guards Chico Ford (6-0, 260) and Jay Johnson (6-3, 270) to give the Bisons their most experienced line in three years. Senior tight end Kris City (6-2, 210) is a three-year starter who has 21 receptions the last two seasons.

Junior punter Mark Thomas (6-2, 220) averaged 36 yards on 77 punts last year. In two years, he's never had a kick blocked. Sophomore placekicker Brent Goodwin (6-2, 180) was good on 10 of 15 field goals and led the team in scoring with 40 points.

Biggers topped the team in kickoff returns with a 29.7-yard average, including a 77-yard touchdown return. Cook and Rodgers will likely return punts.

Ben B. Boothe (BA), after a 15-year banking career, severed ties in 1989 to embark on a new endeavor as an author and a national speaker. In the past 12 months, he has released three books, two of them national releases. He is currently traveling, making media appearances and addresses. A reaffirmation of business ethics, "To Be Or Not To Be An SOB," was released by Eakin Press. Targeted at business owners and executives, the book was based on the premise that successful business need not come through unethical business practices. "Confessions of a Banker" was released in 1990. The true stories are not about bankers only, but about people struggling to find meaning and survival in the world and their humorous, colorful, sometimes outrageous response to life. The third, "Grandpa's Hat," a common sense guide to life, was published by Unicorn Press. The volume is a collection of stories about "Grandpa's" generation, including the values, ethics, wit and wisdom of the age. He has also completed two westerns and is working on a manuscript entitled "How to Borrow All of the Money You Ever Wanted." "There is so much trash on the bookshelves," Boothe said, "I wish to offset that by creating positive, helpful books, which help people build dreams for successful living." He and his wife, Paulette Holbrooks ('70), live at Ft. Worth, Texas. Their summer address is P. O. Box 608, Rocaída, NM 87742.

In 1987 Shawn Clanton, age 9, was diagnosed as having aplastic anemia, a disease that destroys bone marrow, the tissue that produces blood. Shawn was in need of a bone marrow transplant from someone who has had his same genetic makeup. No match was found in his family. His parents, Stan (BS) and Tawyna Turner ('72) Clanton, were told by doctors that nothing could be done at that time. Shawn didn't return to school, but instead remained at home where he was tutored for nearly a year. Shawn, surprisingly, managed to ride out the storm, and returned to school to complete the fifth grade. In the summer of 1989, his blood count decreased dramatically, making his situation appear irreversible. Improved procedures and the advent of national registries improved the medical profession's outlook on unrelated donors. As a result, the Clantons began their search for a donor. In February, they received a phone call from a local hospital. A match had been found in London, England. Shawn was admitted to the hospital on March 26. On the morning of April 5, an anonymous woman's bone marrow was harvested in London and flown immediately to the Harper Hospital in Detroit, Mich., where the Clantons waited in anticipation. Later that day Shawn lay awake as the marrow entered his system through a tube. Follow-
