ACBSP Accredits School of Business

Harding's School of Business reached a new milestone with the announcement June 22 that the Association of Collegiate Business Schools and Programs (ACBSP) had accredited the institution.

Harding became the first school in Arkansas to receive accreditation and the first school in the brotherhood of the Church of Christ to receive the distinction.

The announcement was made by John L. Green, Jr., executive director of the organization, at the annual conference held in Atlantic City. More than 350 representatives from ACBSP's 500 member schools attended the meeting.

Only 21 four-year member institutions have received accreditation by the organization. Harding is a charter member of ACBSP which was formed in 1988.

ACBSP is one of only two organizations in the United States which accredit business schools and programs. Accreditation by ACBSP focuses on teaching excellence in business schools and programs within colleges and universities which have already achieved institutional accreditation through one of the six regional accrediting bodies.

Representing Harding's School of Business at the meeting were George Oliver, former dean; Randy McLeod, associate dean; and David Tucker, dean.

"We are delighted to receive accreditation by ACBSP," said Oliver. "Our School of Business has received many awards and honors in the past, and we believe accreditation by ACBSP is just another indication of our academic quality."

"We are pleased that ACBSP places primary emphasis on promoting excellence in teaching since this closely parallels our mission of excellence inside and outside the classroom."

Dr. Edward P. Myers is congratulated by President David Burks after Burks announced Myers is the new executive director/dean of the Graduate School of Religion in Memphis.

Myers Selected to Fill Graduate School Post

Dr. Edward P. Myers, a professor of Bible at the Searcy campus, was named in June as the new executive director/dean of the Graduate School of Religion in Memphis by President David Burks.

After a number of applicants were interviewed by Burks and a search committee, Myers was selected for the leadership position at the school. He replaces Dr. Philip Slate, dean, who requested a return to full-time teaching duties.

"We feel very confident to have a talented and effective individual like Ed Myers administering the program of our graduate school. He shares the commitments and goals that Harding has made to the area of graduate education," said Burks.

It was recently announced that Harding is expanding its dedication to graduate study. A new Ph.D. program in religion will be offered at the school beginning in 1993.

"I'm stepping into this job with a level of fearful anticipation, but I'm also ready to continue the great work of this school as we boldly march into the 21st century," Myers said. He pledged a spirit of cooperation to the school's faculty, students, and alumni.

Myers joined the staff of Harding's College of Bible and Religion in January of 1992. He is an adjunct faculty member at Oklahoma Christian University, Magnolia Bible College in Kosciusko, Miss., and at Mid-South Christian College in Memphis. In 1990, he was a visiting professor in Seoul, Korea, at Korea Christian College.

He has previously served as academic dean and professor of Bible at Alabama Christian School of Religion. From 1982-1985 he served as chairman of the Bible department at Ohio Valley College in Parkersburg, W. Va. He is a frequent columnist and writer for the Gospel Advocate.

Myers received his Ph.D. magna cum laude from Drew University in 1985, where he majored in historical and theological studies. He received a master of philosophy degree in 1982, also from Drew University. He also holds a master of theology from Alabama Christian School and a master of arts in religion from Harding University Graduate School of Religion. He received a B.A. in Bible from Lubbock Christian University.

He has written several books, including Doctrine of the Godhead and The Problem of Evil and Suffering. He is a member of the Society of Biblical Literature and the Evangelical Theological Society.

More than 200 students are expected to enroll this fall at the graduate school. Spring 1992 enrollment stood at 198 students, with 114 auditors not included in that figure.

Lectureship Centers on Revelation

The 1992 Bible Lectureship, to be held Sept. 27-30, will be an informative and thought-provoking study of the book of Revelation. Centering on the theme "Vision of Victory," more than 60 speakers will share their study and thoughts with the lectureship participants.

"We've taken 18 months to plan these three days of classes and lectures. I really think people will feel that this series will be one of the best in Harding's history," said Don Shackelford, director of the lectureship.

Theme lectures will be given each evening following a musical program featuring an old time songfest or one of the university's choral groups.

John Gipson will open the lectureship Sunday evening with a lesson entitled "God on His Throne." Other main speakers include Wendell Winkler, speaking on "Worthy is the Lamb," Jimmy Allen delivering a message titled "The Judgement," and A. W. Chism with a sermon on "Heaven."

Lectureship Central will again be located in a large tent in front of the Student Center. Display booths featuring both commercial and non-commercial exhibits of religious books and Bible school teaching materials will be on display. This is also the location that lectureship guests will use to complete registration.

Several featured luncheons will also highlight the week. Three ladies luncheons, "The Joy of Hearing Him," "The Joy of Praising Him," and "Victory in Suffering in Illness," will be featured Monday through Wednesday at 11:45. Additional luncheons will be held for a variety of other groups including World Mission Fellowship, African Christian Hospital, Gospel Advocate, 20th Century Christian, and Harding Graduate School of Religion.

Further information on the Lectureship can be obtained by calling (501) 279-4660.

Fall Preparations Underway

We are eagerly anticipating the beginning of the fall semester and a new school year. Applications for the fall semester are presently 120 more than at this same time last year. We are expecting a record freshman class and a capacity enrollment. Plans are complete for a great Student Impact experience for all new students.

The new Hammon Student Center should be near completion at the beginning of the fall semester. It is really exciting to see it develop day by day. It is going to be a great blessing for us.

The American Studies Building is also making good progress and will be ready for use at the beginning of the fall semester. It houses the education, history and English programs. It will be thrilling to see this historic building in great shape for the fall semester.

A host of activities have taken place on campus during the summer months. Uplift attracted a record number of 1,572 young people. Girls State was on our campus for the second year with more than 1,000 students in attendance.

Our students are also involved in a number of activities this summer. More than 300 students and faculty members were involved with Campaigns International. Numerous students are working in Christian camps and in other church-related activities.

I am particularly excited about the ongoing plans for us to begin a Ph.D. in biblical studies on our Memphis campus and a master's degree in family therapy on this campus. I am pleased that Dr. Ed Myers has been named executive director and dean of the graduate program, and I believe some great things are in store for us in the area of graduate education both in Memphis and in Searcy.

The entire Harding team has been involved in an intensive effort this summer to update our Strategic Plan for the next five years. We have been able to complete most all aspects of the five-year plan adopted by our Board in 1987, and we are now working to update a new five-year plan for presentation to various groups this fall.

Please come visit the campus whenever you can. We are appreciative of your comments, your visits and your support in every possible way.

Applications Up Nine Percent; Capacity Enrollment Expected

Applications from freshmen and transfer students for the 1992-93 school year are up approximately nine percent from the previous year.

More than 120 additional applications have already been received pushing the total number received over the 1,400 mark.

The 1991-92 enrollment was a record 3,564 including students on the Searcy, Memphis and Florence, Italy campuses.

Enrollment statistics for 1992-93 won't be available until mid-September, but the Admission Services Office is expecting another capacity enrollment.

Applications for next year (1993-94) are also up over previous years. The staff of Admission Services is encouraging students to complete their application now for the 1993-94 school term.

Because of the large number of students applying and being accepted for the current school year, there may be as many as 100 fewer spaces available for freshmen and transfer students in 1993-94.

Fall Finds Nine New Members on Faculty

As the fall 1992 semester approaches, Dr. Neale Pryor, vice president for academic affairs, has announced nine new faculty members that have joined the university.

Dr. K. Richard Blankenship, a professor of special education and chair of the department at Southeast Missouri State University in Cape Girardeau, Mo., will serve as a professor of education for the School of Education.

Blankenship received his M.A. from Northeast Missouri State University in 1959 and his Ed.D. in 1963 from the University of Denver. He has been at Southeast Missouri State for 27 years, serving as a professor since 1977 and as department chair since 1990.

Monte Cox has been named the visiting missionary for 1992-93. Cox, who held the same position during the 1988-89 school year, serves as a missionary in Kenya. He is a native of Georgia and received his B.A. in Bible in 1981 from Harding. Cox previously served effectively in the visiting missionary position, which is designed to encourage missionary involvement among the student body.

Another addition in the College of Bible and Religion is Kenneth Neller, an associate professor of Bible. Neller received his B.A. from Harding in 1976 with majors in both Bible and history. He attended the Graduate School of Religion in Memphis where he received his M.Th. in 1979 and his M.A. in 1980.

Neller most recently served as the minister for the Southside Church of Christ in Lexington, Ky., a position he has held since 1983. He has also worked as a preacher for a congregation in Kirkcaldy, Scotland. While in Scotland, Neller studied at the University of St. Andrews where he received his Ph.D. in New Testament Language and Literature.

In the physical science department, two faculty additions have been made. Marsha McNutt will serve as an assistant professor of chemistry and Keith Schramm will serve as an instructor of chemistry.

McNutt graduated from Harding in 1987 with a B.S. in biochemistry. Since that time, she has studied and worked at Texas A & M University where she is finalizing work on her Ph.D. in biochemistry. While at Texas A & M, McNutt has served as a teaching assistant, lecturer, and private tutor.

Schramm received his B.S. in chemistry from Harding in 1980 and his masters in physical science from the University of Central Arkansas in 1986. For the past 12 years, he has been a chemistry and physics teacher at Central Arkansas Christian School in North Little Rock, Ark., and has served as the school's science department chairman.

John E. Williams has joined the department of English as an associate professor. He received both his B.A. and his M.A. from Memphis State University, which he attended from 1970-74. He received his Ph.D. in American literature from Ohio University in 1990.

Since 1976, Williams has worked as an instructor and associate professor at Ohio Valley College in Parkersburg, W. Va., teaching courses in English composition and American and English literature. For the past seven years, he served as the school's communications division chairman.

In the School of Nursing, Linda Evridge joins the faculty as a lecturer. She comes to the university from the Baptist Medical System School of Nursing in Little Rock where she was employed as an instructor. Prior to joining Baptist, she was a staff nurse at Veteran Affairs Hospital in Little Rock, and she has worked for Illinois hospitals in Decatur, Mount Vernon, and Benton.

Evridge is presently a candidate for the M.S.N. degree from the University of Central Arkansas. She received her B.S.N. from Harding in 1987.

Two additional faculty members include Ken Bohannon and Jan Jones in the department of music. Bohannon will serve as an adjunct instructor of music and Jones will serve as an adjunct instructor of piano.

Bohannon, a native of Jacksonville, Ark., has a B.A. degree from Hendrix College, and a master of music degree from the University of Tennessee at Knoxville. He is currently completing work on a doctor of music arts degree at Indiana University. He has served as an apprentice artist in the Knoxville Opera Studio and the Sarasota, Fla., Opera Company.

Jones is a 1976 graduate of the Harding music department, and also holds the master's degree in education from Harding. She has taught music in the Searcy public schools and has also taught in the Harding music department previously on an adjunct basis.

Administrative Changes Announced by Dr. Burks

President David Burks announced July 1 the following administrative changes for the coming school year.

Dr. Jerome Barnes will be director of special projects and reports to the president. He will be responsible for the Student Association and Student Impact and will supervise the Media Center, the Television Studio and Counseling Center.

The Student Services division will now report to Dr. Jim Carr, executive vice president, Dean Butch Gardner will continue as assistant vice president and dean of student services. The Health Center and the Housing Office will now report to Gardner.

The university's Public Relations Office will also report to the executive vice president. Previously the office was in the University Relations division of the school.

Responsibility for Harding's physical plant has been reassigned to Lott Tucker, vice president for finance. Dr. Bill Ryan will continue as physical plant engineer.

In the Department of Health,

Physical Education and Recreation Dr. Wilt Martin will replace Dr. Harry Olree as chairman of the department. Olree will continue to serve as the athletic director in addition to his teaching responsibilities.

The offices of Career Planning and Placement and Cooperative Education have been combined under the direction of Dr. Ed Higginbotham. The combined offices will be located in the American Heritage Center.

All of the administrative changes were effective July 1.

Tucker New School of Business Dean; Oliver Returns to Full-time Teaching

President David Burks announced July 16 that Dr. David S. Tucker, a member of the School of Business faculty since 1980, has been selected as the new dean for the school. He replaces George Oliver, who returns to full-time teaching duties in the school.

Tucker graduated from Harding in 1977 with a bachelor of science in both accounting and economics. In 1981, he received his master's degree in economics from Georgetown University in Washington, D.C., and in 1987 he obtained his Ph.D. in economics from the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville. He is also a CPA.

In addition to his teaching duties as an associate professor, Tucker also directs Harding's Walton Scholarship Program. The program was started in 1985 by the late Sam Walton to provide Central American students with a spirit of democracy and free enterprise. Currently 60 students are enrolled in the program.

In a related effort, Tucker is coordinating the American Studies Institute's Central American Freedoms Forum. Seminars will be given in Costa Rica and El Salvador this fall.

The recipient of many distinguished teaching awards, Tucker was the recipient of the 1989 Leavey Award for Excellence in Private Enterprise Education. The award was given by the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

In 1988, the Freedoms Foundation also honored Tucker with the George Washington Honor Medal for his published work entitled "The Economics and Philosophy of Liberty."

Prior to joining the Harding faculty, Tucker worked for two years as an accountant for Arthur Andersen & Co. in Dallas. He belongs to several professional organizations, including the American Institute for Certified Public Accountants, the Association for Private Enterprise Education and the Mid-South Academy of Economists.

organization's board of commissioners recommended to the full membership at Atlantic City that Harding receive accreditation. Nine other schools also received the membership's approval at the annual conference.

Approximately 800 students

major in degree areas offered by the School of Business. The accreditation by ACBSP covers all six Bachelor of Business Administration (BBA) degrees offered by the School of Business: accounting, computer information systems, economics, management, marketing and professional sales.

ACBSP has established national standards for academic achievement in education for business. Each school must comply with certain threshold standards relating to the percentage of doctoral and professionally qualified faculty, teacher to student ratio and the basic academic excellence offered in its business core requirements.

The organization's primary emphasis is the encouragement of excellent teaching within its member schools and the continuous evaluation of teaching effectiveness.

While recognizing the divergent needs of its member schools, ACBSP promotes institutional freedom to develop new ideas and to experiment. In encouraging this flexibility, ACBSP advocates an experimental component in learning, such as those provided by Harding's internship programs and its annual visiting professors from business and industry.

Oliver Elected Chairman-elect by Association of Collegiate Business Schools and Programs

The Association of Collegiate Business Schools and Programs (ACBSP) elected George Oliver, former dean of Harding's School of Business, as the association's chairman-elect for the baccalaureate graduate degree board of commissioners at the annual conference held June 21-23 in Atlantic City.

Oliver was selected last year at the organization's annual meeting in New Orleans to serve a three-year term on ACBSP's board of commissioners. He will continue to serve on the executive committee of the board.

As ACBSP chairman-elect, Oliver will serve as chairman for the 1993 academic year and will also hold a seat on the board of directors. ACBSP has two boards of commissioners serving under the board of directors, the baccalaureate/graduate degree programs and the associate degree programs.

Third Runner-up

Members of the Economics Team which took fourth place in the Students in Free Enterprise competition are Sponsor Dr. Don Diffine, Clint Blair, Tracy Crouch, Jill Creighton Childers, Tom Duncan, Anessa Hobby, Bill Oldham, Jason Pace and Anna Conley.

Team Third Runner-up in Economics Competition

Harding's eight-member student economics team in May was named third runner-up at the International Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE) competition held in Kansas City.

For their efforts members of the team received a trophy and a check for $2,500.

Finishing ahead of the Harding team were Lubbock Christian University, Dyke College and University of Texas-Pan American.

Approximately 300 teams began the year-long competition. Teams advanced through regional competitions with 40 making the finals in Kansas City.

Judges for the competition were 90 chief executive officers from American businesses along with their senior executive public affairs counterparts in industry.

Co-captains of Harding's team were Jason Pace of Searcy and Jill Creighton Childers of Melbourne, Ark. Other team members were Clint Blair of West Liberty, Ky., Tracy Crouch of Judsonia, Ark., Tom Duncan of South Lyons, Mich., and Anna Conley, Bill Oldham and Anessa Hobby, all of Searcy.

Dr. Don Diffine, professor of economics and director of Harding's Belden Center for Private Enterprise Education, was the sponsor of the team.

Harding's entry, "Free Enterprise — The Great American Bargain," was presented in a detailed multi-media fashion that described more than 60 projects and programs which were presented to civic, professional and educational groups in the White County area during the 1991-92 school year.

In the SIFE competition, Harding teams have won six national championships and finished as first runners-up on six other occasions. The national SIFE competition began in 1978.

Harding Graduate School Of Religion

"Social Justice" Theme of W. B. West Lectures

The "W. B. West Lectures in Christian Scholarship" will be conducted on Sept. 15 at the university's Graduate School of Religion in Memphis. This year's theme will be "Social Justice."

Dr. Evertt W. Huffard of the Graduate School faculty, and Dr. Sammy Jones, from Freed-

Hardeman University, will serve as respondents for the lectures.

An open invitation is extended to the public. Ministers and elders will especially benefit from this experience. Anyone needing additional information can contact the school by calling (901) 761-1353.

"Sentimental Journey" Chosen as Homecoming Theme for '92

Plans for Homecoming '92, slated for Oct. 29-31, are finalizing as the date grows nearer. "A Sentimental Journey" will be the theme for the weekend.

Activities will officially begin Thursday evening with the Golden Circle dinner with the class of 1942 inducted into the Circle following the dinner. The Homecoming queen will be crowned in chapel the following morning. Golden Circle members will be honored guests at chapel services.

The annual Black and Gold Banquet will be held Friday evening. Presentations of the Distinguished Alumni Awards will be made at the banquet.

The Homecoming musical production of "Fiddler on the Roof" will be staged both Friday and Saturday evening at 8:15 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., respectively. The play is jointly produced by the department of communication and the department of music.

Special alumni chapel services will be conducted Saturday morning at 9:30 with the class of 1967 in charge. The remainder of Saturday morning will be filled with social club reunions, a Belles and Beaux concert, and a Pied Piper performance for children of all ages. The Homecoming football game will be played at 2:00 p.m. against the University of Arkansas at Monticello.

Further information on

Homecoming '92 can be obtained from the Office of Alumni Relations by calling (501) 279-4276, or by writing the office at Box 768, Searcy, 72149-0001. Registration for the weekend will be held in the American Heritage lobby.

Alumni College Hosts Full Slate of Activities

Alumni will have an opportunity to return to the campus October 18-24 for a nostalgic week of instruction, fellowship and fun. Alumni 50 years of age or older are eligible to participate in Alumni College.

A variety of extracurricular activities will be conducted during the week. Trips will be made within the area to places of interest. Guests will experience entertaining programs throughout the week, and sufficient free time will be available for participants to become better acquainted with other participants.

The week will be a time of personal growth, fellowship, entertainment, reminiscing, and making new friends. Three courses, which have no homework, exams or grade, will meet each day.

Dr. Tom Howard, a professor of political science, will teach a class entitled "Government by the Minority: The American Oligarchy?" The class will review political attitudes and participation in the American democracy. The decline in voter turnout and what individuals can do to preserve America's political system and freedom will be discussed.

"Filling the Ancient Measure" will be a class on the restoration movement among the churches of Christ. Emphasis will be placed on people, places and patterns of the on-going attempt to restore the church in modern times. Dr. Ray Muncy, professor of history, will teach this class.

A third class, "How to Live 365 Days a Year," will be an exciting exploration of Paul's "love letter" to the Philippians. Dr. Carl Mitchell, dean of the College of Bible and Religion, will show participants how to make life more enjoyable and how to experience more of life's fun.

These three classes, as well as daily chapel with the student body, constitute the curriculum experience for Alumni College. Accommodations will be in the Heritage Inn and meals will be in the Charles White Cafeteria.

There can be a maximum of 48 individuals enrolled. For additional information or to enroll, call the Office of Alumni Affairs at (501) 279-4276, or write Box 768, Searcy, 72149-0001.

Parents Weekend Scheduled October 9-10

One of the highlights of the fall semester for students is the weekend when parents are invited to the campus. Traditionally, this event has occurred under the direction of the alumni and admissions offices and was called Open House.

Beginning this year, however, the two events have been separated, and Parent's Weekend will be held Oct. 9-10 under the oversight of the Alumni Office.

During the weekend, a full schedule of activities is planned. On Friday evening a pep rally will be held to build enthusiasm for Saturday's football game against Harding's main rival, the University of Central Arkansas. Parents of football team members will be introduced during the halftime activities of the game.

All families attending will be invited to a barbecue at the home of President and Mrs. Burks on Saturday afternoon preceding the football game.

A late night devotional by the Lily Pool, entertainment by the school's musical groups, and informational presentations on various school programs like Harding University in Florence are all items that will be available to visiting parents. Financial aid information will also be available.

A favorite for many families is the opportunity to have a portrait made in one of the famous Harding swings. These will be made near the Bell Tower under the stately oaks on Harding's front lawn.

All campus buildings will be open for tours. The Hammon Student Center and the American Studies Building will both be completed after having undergone extensive renovation and expansion work.

For more information on the weekend, contact the Alumni Office at Box 768, Searcy, 72149, or call (501) 279-4276.

November High School Days to Feature Acappella, Cope

High School Day, a recruiting activity on campus sponsored by the Admissions Office, will be held the weekend of Nov. 13-14.

In recent years the event has been held in conjunction with Parent's Weekend and was referred to as Open House. "We hope to attract an even greater number of students by having a separate event exclusively for them. There's been confusion in the past when it was held as Open House," said Mike Williams, director of admissions.

The music group Acappella will perform over the weekend, and Mike Cope of Abilene, Texas, has been scheduled to address the students. Additional activities are still being planned.

As the event nears, more information may be obtained from the Admissions Office at Box 762, Searcy, 72149-0001, or by calling toll free 1-800-447-4407.

UPLIFT

Bible camp has largest session

UPLIFT, a week-long Bible camp for 8th through 12th graders held on the university campus, experienced its largest session to date when it was conducted the week of June 22-26.

A record 1,572 individuals from across the nation attended the camp. More than 250 teenagers were informed they would not be able to attend because the camp had reached capacity level. UPLIFT began in 1985 with 125 participants.

"I think we've grown because this camp is serving a need among the young people of our fellowship enabling them to grow and struggle with their faith in an environment that reassures them," said Dan Stockstill, an associate professor of Bible and UPLIFT coordinator.

A total of 93 people were employed this year to serve as camp counselors. Comprised mainly of Harding students, counselors from Lubbock Christian, Freed-Hardeman, David Lipscomb, and several state universities were also hired.

Eight Slated for American Studies Lecture Series

Seven nationally and internationally known speakers will highlight the 1992-93 American Studies Institute's Distinguished Lecture Series.

The series will open Sept. 22, with a debate on current issues between Robert Novak and Bob Beckel.

In 1963, Novak teamed with Rowland Evans, then a Congressional correspondent for the New York Herald-Tribune, to write Inside Report, a political column now published four times a week. It is syndicated to over 200 newspapers.

He is a commentator for the Cable News Network where he is co-host of the Evans and Novak interview program. Novak also appears on and serves as co-executive producer of CNN's new political roundtable — Capital Gang. He is a frequent co-host of CNN's Crossfire program and often appears as an interviewer on NBC's Meet the Press.

As the youngest Deputy Assistant Secretary of State in history, Beckel steered the controversial Panama Canal Treaties through Congress. He moved to the White House as head of an Administration effort to press Congress into passing the Mideast and Salt II Treaties.

He is featured on broadcasts by Conus Communication to television markets throughout the country. He is a guest host for CNN's Crossfire and Larry King Live.

For the 1992 campaign, Beckel is appearing regularly on CBS This Morning and is on-air consultant for WUSA/Channel 9 News in Washington, D.C.

Jim Cathcart, author of Relationship Selling, will be the speaker Nov. 19 at the annual sales seminar.

He is the author of five other books and the creator of "The Art of Choosing Well" executive skills training. Cathcart is a specialist in human behavior as applied to business. Annually his research team conducts inquiries nationwide into how and why people behave as they do.

Professional basketball player and Little Rock businessman Sidney Moncrief will be featured on Feb. 2, 1993.

Moncrief, one of Arkansas' most notable athletes, led the University of Arkansas basketball team to three Southwest Conference championships and went on to a ten-year professional career with the Milwaukee Bucks.

He was a five-time NBA All-Star and is second only to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar as the leading play-off scorer in Bucks' history.

Harding alumnus and IBM vice president Gerald Ebker will lecture on Feb. 25. He is also president of IBM's federal sector division.

On February 4 the speaker will be Paul Craig Roberts, a member of the ASI National Advisory Board.

Roberts has the William E. Simon Chair in Political Economy at the Center for Strategic and International Studies in Washington, D.C., is Chairman of the Institute for Political Economy, and is senior research fellow in the Hoover Institution, Stanford University.

A former editor and columnist for the Wall Street Journal, he is currently a columnist for Business Week and the Washington Times.

Ebker is responsible for IBM's operations with the federal government, including custom systems integration and aerospace solutions and commercial product offerings. The division has major contracts with the Department of Defense, NASA and the Federal Aviation Administration, as well as with other federal government entities.

He has a bachelor's degree in mathematics from Harding (1960) and a master's degree in the same subject from Kansas State University (1962).

Why a Revocable Trust?

Q&A

Donald Kee, Director
Financial and Estate Planning

QUESTION: I have heard many people talk about and I have read numerous magazine articles about the use of Revocable or Living Trusts. In basic terms, what is a Revocable Trust?

ANSWER: A Revocable Trust is one which is established during the lifetime of the person setting up the trust. The person or persons who set up the trust (called the Grantor) retains the power to amend or revoke the trust. The trust document outlines instructions to the Trustee (who is typically the same person who is the Grantor) for managing and distributing trust assets.

QUESTION: What are the advantages of a Revocable Trust?

ANSWER: 1. Incapacity. A Successor Trustee can be appointed to manage the Grantor's financial affairs in the event that he or she is incapacitated. Without a Revocable Trust being set up one would have to seek Court intervention to declare the individual incompetent and have a guardian appointed. (One could avoid having to seek Court intervention for the appointment of a guardian, if the incapacitated person had executed a valid Durable Power of Attorney.) The Guardianship process is usually expensive, embarrassing and cumbersome. An individual through a Revocable Trust can designate whom he or she wants to manage his or her affairs in the event that he or she becomes incapacitated.

2. Probate. A Revocable Trust avoids the probate delay and expense. Probate can be expensive, particularly for large estates, in some states where the attorney and executor fees are fixed by statute.

3. Publicity. A Revocable Trust avoids the publicity of probate. Whenever a will is probated, it becomes public record and everything that is filed becomes public record. Some states do require that the trust document be filed in probate court when a pour-over will is probated. A Pour-over Will is a will that transfers all property to the trust at death. Your attorney would need to make sure that the law in the state does not require that.

4. Multi-state Administration. Probate of the will must be done in each state where the decedent has real estate in order to pass title. A Revocable Trust avoids this ancillary administration in another state where the real property is held.

5. Income Tax Return. If the trust is a self-trusted trust, that is the Grantor serves as one of the trustees, no separate tax identification number is secured and no separate Federal income tax return is filed.

6. Family Disputes. When assets are distributed under a Revocable Trust family members who are not beneficiaries of the Trust are not required to be notified. In the probate process they are required to be notified. The use of the Revocable Trust could in some cases minimize family disputes. Also, the Revocable Trust may be less susceptible to challenge since it may have been ongoing for several years with the Grantor's capacity being proved very easily.

QUESTION: What are the gift tax consequences of establishing a Revocable Trust?

ANSWER: The creation and funding of a Revocable Trust has no gift tax consequence. No gift is established because a Grantor has full control to trust assets. The assets may be reclaimed by the Grantor at any time and therefore the trust income is taxable to him.

QUESTION: What are the estate tax consequences of establishing a Revocable Trust?

ANSWER: For Federal estate tax purposes, trust assets are includable in the Grantor's estate.

QUESTION: If I establish a Revocable Trust and transfer substantially all of my assets to the trust, do I still need a will?

ANSWER: Yes. A simple will is still necessary. First of all, only a will or some separate document in some states can appoint guardians for minor children. Secondly, a will can distribute certain assets, such as automobiles, furniture, clothing and other personal items, the Grantor may have neglected to transfer to the trust. In addition, filing the Pour-over Will for probate would allow you to take advantage of the deadline for filing claims by creditors against the estate. Typically, the simple will would have a pour-over provision to transfer all assets right into the trust at the Grantor's death and the assets would be then distributed according to the terms of the trust.

Bisons Face Five Ranked Teams; Richmond Enjoys the Challenge

Head football coach Larry Richmond likes a challenge and his 1992 schedule will provide just what he's looking for and maybe even more.

Five games on the 10-game schedule are against teams ranked in the NAIA's pre-season top 20. Fortunately for the Bisons, four of those games are at home at Alumni Field.

The first two home games are against Northeast Oklahoma State, ranked fourth, and the University of Central Arkansas, ranked first.

Harding also hosts Iowa Wesleyan ranked 11th and Southern Arkansas University ranked 16th.

On the road the Bisons must face 17th ranked Henderson State University.

"Our schedule is challenging, but I like that," said Richmond. "It will make us better when we play really good teams."

The Bisons have also been tabbed as a pre-season top 20 team, holding down the number eight spot.

The Bisons return 15 starters and 27 lettermen from their 7-3-1 season which saw them come as close as a missed extra point going to the national playoffs in 1991. Harding finished second in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference race behind Central Arkansas, the eventual NAIA national champion. Harding and UCA tied 6-6 in Conway.

Some familiar faces will be missing when practice starts in August. Most notable will be Pat Gill, the three time All-American linebacker; Tad Niblett, who now owns most of the career passing records; and All-American punter, Mark Thomas.

John Turbeville, a fifth year senior came out of spring practice with the first shot at the quarterback starting role. Red-shirt sophomore Paul Mann had an excellent spring practice at quarterback as did sophomore Scott Davis.

"Our schedule is challenging but I like that. It will make us better when we play really good teams."

— Coach Richmond

Ball carrying chores will rest heavily on senior running back Richard Holmes, who was a mainstay on the '89 conference championship team and again produced important yardage last year. The offensive line will be new except for junior Bryan Wansley, a solid two-year starter at center.

Wide receiver is a strong point with junior Ron Sparkman, second team All-AIC, among the conference statistical leaders, and senior starters Jimmy Sloan and Tommy Brown. Sloan, an All-American trackster, produced unexpectedly last year after a four year absence from football, and Brown led the team in touchdown receptions.

Experience is the big word on the defensive side of the ball. All-AIC and All-American candidate Jon Newby heads a talented and experienced defensive team. The two time track All-American was among the national leaders with eight interceptions in 1991. Lorne Latiker (five interceptions), Eric Howell, Brooks Harrell and Kyle City are all returning starters.

Four of the five man front line starters are back and three are co-captains. Seniors Troy Foster, Kyle Eubanks and Richard Proctor are all captains along with linebacker Steven Fitzhugh. The Bisons leading sacker, Paul Simmons is back at one of the defensive end positions. Brent Goodwin and Casey Smith are slated to handle place kicking duties.

Newcomers include fullback Amos Washington from Calhoun, Ga. and Northwest Mississippi Junior College. Washington was voted the MVP of the Mississippi Junior College Conference in 1990.

Freshmen looking for playing time are: Jeff Patterson-OT, Plano, Texas; Ronnie James-DT, McKinney, Texas; Chris Scudder-LB, Tyler, Texas; Clay Beason-QB, punter and DB from Forney, Texas; and a quartet of Searcy High School players, Michael Garner-OT, Jamie Moore-RB, Chad Griffin-DB and Blake Chapman-DB.

The coaching staff will welcome over 100 candidates for this year's team. Freshman practice starts August 17 and they will be joined by the upperclassmen two days later.

Lady Bison Volleyball Aims for Fourth Conference Title

What does the Harding Lady Bison volleyball team do for an encore after three consecutive conference championships and a trip to the national tournament?

That will be the question for coach Karyl Bailey and his team of 15 coeds when practice begins August 18.

A fourth Arkansas Intercollegiate conference championship would be nice, but four other AIC teams may stand in the way of the Lady Bisons.

Henderson State University on paper appears to be loaded with skilled players and Harding, Arkansas Tech, Southern Arkansas University and the University of Central Arkansas are not far behind. According to Bailey, Henderson State will be the team to beat for the championship.

One of Bailey's first tasks is to replace graduating seniors Susan Humphry and Tammy Kodatt. Humphry was a four-year starter and Kodatt was a three-year starter.

The 1992 Lady Bisons will rely on three-year starter Larrie Maples, an outside hitter and setter, to lead the way. Larrie is the lone senior starter returning. A trio of junior starters lend added experience to the team. Robin King Heasley (outside hitter); Kathleen Bassham (middle hitter) and Chrysta Ferguson (setter), all played major roles last year. The lone freshman starter is outside hitter Amy Deuel.

Contending for starting places will be sophomores Emily Corely (middle hitter), and Angela Johnson (setter).

New comers include Regina Huddleston, Abilene, Texas; Marcy Winters; Jonesboro, Ark.; Tove Sporcheim, Kastianund, Norway (North Little Rock exchange student); and Casey Wolfe, Breckenridge, Texas.

Winters was MVP in the Arkansas High School All-Star match and Sporcheim was named MVP in the class AAAA State Tournament.

The schedule is tough with at least five good conference teams and four outstanding tournaments on the schedule. The IUPU tourney in Indianapolis will have five or six of the top 20 NAIA teams participating. The Daniels Classic in Austin, Texas, had last year's number one and four teams in the nation, and the Graceland Iowa Invitational always has top teams.

Bailey designed the schedule to prepare the young team for national caliber competition.

Tradition, Experience are Keys for Men's and Women's Cross Country

Tradition and experience will be the keys for Harding's 1992 men's and women's cross country teams.

The Lady Bisons have won six consecutive conference and district championships while the men boast a record of 20 conference titles over the past 21 seasons.

Experience is apparent, especially for the men's team, with the conference's top three returning runners all wearing Harding uniforms. Seniors Allen Gill from Nashville, Tenn., Dave Hutson from Circleville, Ohio, and Nathan Mills of Fredonia, Kan., finished second, third and fourth, respectively, in the 1991 meet. All three are talented and experienced runners.

In addition to the three All-AIC runners, junior Damon Work returns from an eleventh place finish to give the Bisons a solid top four. Work won the AIC 1500 meter run and was runner-up in the 5000 meters.

The Lady Bisons have good runners returning, but team depth may be a problem again as it was at times during the 1991 season. Four time All-AIC runner Kelsie Hutchison was lost to graduation, but All-American candidate and defending conference champ Shauna Queen returns. Queen, a two time All-American in track, will be looking for a high finish in the national meet.

Andrea Robertson, sophomore from Searcy and junior Keri Hutchison of Joplin, Mo., were both all conference runners last year. Senior Chandra Latimer is also a former all-conference runner and a three-year performer for the Lady Bisons.

Seven Named All-Americans

Six Bisons and one Lady Bison were recognized with All-American awards during the 1991-92 school year.

Heading the list was Pat Gill, a senior linebacker for the football Bisons. Gill was named for the third year to the NAIA honor team and became only the second Harding athlete to receive Kodak All-American recognition. The Kodak team includes NAIA, NCAA Division III and NCAA Division II schools. Gill is from Hallsville, Texas.

Shauna Queen and Jon Newby became two-time All-Americans. Queen was runner-up in the 1000-yard run in the NAIA indoor track meet, improving on her third place finish in the 1991 meet. A sophomore, Shauna is from Ogalala, Neb.

Newby, a junior from Canton, Texas, has the distinction of being honored in two sports (track and football). Jon narrowly missed winning a national championship, finishing runner-up in the 400 meter hurdles and was also named to the honorable mention squad in football as a defensive back.

Jason Koch, a junior from Fairfield, Iowa, was a fourth place finisher in the national indoor 600-yard run and sophomore Tquan Moore from Ft. Walton Beach, Fla., placed sixth in the outdoor track championship.

Honorable Mention All-American certificates went to punter Mark Thomas of Crowley, Texas, and Matt Thompson, defensive end from Huntsville, Ala. Both Thomas and Thompson were graduating seniors.

Chorus Campaigns on European Tour

The Harding University Chorus, under the direction of Cliff Ganus III, conducted a campaign and tour through Europe May 14—June 10. Three of the countries visited were Eastern European countries that were not accessible to evangelistic efforts until recently.

The chorus, consisting of 48 members and four alumni, toured seven countries, campaigning and singing in five of them: Germany, Switzerland, Czechoslovakia, Poland, and Lithuania.

Conducting in excess of a dozen formal concerts at various local churches, the chorus performed for more than 3,000 people. The group also sang on street corners in different cities to help advertise upcoming campaigns.

"We were impressed by the receptiveness..."

-Cliff Ganus III

"We were impressed by the receptiveness of the people in these countries. They were very willing to accept literature and other material we distributed, and several of our students enrolled individuals for correspondence Bible study," said Ganus.

Every trip, of course, has a few obstacles along the way. When the group tried to enter Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, they discovered that the Canadian students would require additional visas. Paul Bruno, a senior computer information systems major from Dominica, could not enter Poland from Czechoslovakia because of visa requirements.

"That didn't deter Paul," said Ganus. "He met a fellow, studied with him and then baptized him. He rejoined us seven days later in Berlin."

Following the completion of the chorus tour, 16 members traveled to Marseilles, France, to assist in an evangelistic campaign. They completed their efforts June 16 and returned to the United States.

"We each learned a lot about other cultures, and we all feel blessed to live in this country. We all know how especially blessed we are to know God," Ganus said.

Burger King Makes Fall Harding Debut

When the renovated Hammon Student Center opens for the fall semester a familiar name will occupy the southwest corner of the building.

Burger King, through an arrangement with ARA Services, will be making its debut on the campus. ARA provides all food services for the campus.

The Burger King Express Way facility will be operated by ARA's campus management team and will employ approximately 24 students.

The Harding site will be one of five new Burger Kings opening in August nationwide on college campuses in a new marketing plan between ARA and Burger King.

On other college campuses ARA also manages Taco Bell, Pizza Hut, Baskin Robbins and TCBY operations.

In the renovated student center, ARA's expanded services will also offer a self-service bakery display, Itza Pizza and Colombo Frozen Yogurt. ARA will have approximately 25 percent more space available for food services.

Students will be able to use their declining balance card (DCB) to purchase food items in the student center. The DCB is a method that allows students to use their campus identification cards to purchase food items from ARA.

10-Day Economics Institute Held In July

Thirty-five elementary through high school teachers from six states participated in a 10-day Summer Economics Institute sponsored by the American Studies Institute (ASI) in July.

The theme for the sessions was "Coming Together To Learn Economics." The summer institute was the first of three new programs being launched by ASI in 1992.

The summer program was a cooperative effort by ASI, the Wilbur D. Mills Educational Cooperative, the Arkansas State Council on Economic Education, and the School of Business, School of Education and the Belden Center for Private Enterprise Education.

Participants in the institute represented school districts in Arkansas, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Kansas, Alabama and Nebraska.

The two-week institute provided graduate academic credit (a three-hour course) which participating teachers could use for gaining or renewing teaching certificates or to satisfy degree requirements. The courses were offered at the master's degree level.

All participants received full scholarships which included full tuition, materials, housing and meals.

Fort Smith, Ark., teachers Stanley Wells, Blanche Hill and Opal Robinson served as curriculum consultants for the summer program. All three are Economic Education Award winners in the state and have been recognized for the development of programs at elementary, middle school and high school levels.

During the two-week program participants met in daily classes involving guest speakers, group activities, panel discussions and field trips. Twenty-nine lecturers and guest speakers also participated in the summer institute.

The Summer Economics Institute was directed by Dr. Bob Reely, associate executive director of ASI. He was assisted by Dr. David Tucker, professor of economics, and Dr. Jim Nichols, professor of education.
