CONSIDERATION OF OTHERS

Consideration for others should be one of the easiest characteristics that we can develop, but it is evidently the least developed if we are to judge by the astounding number of laws in our books.

It is sadly amusing to note some of the laws we have. In Texas it is a violation of an old law to carry a pair of pliers with a wire cutter. This law was necessary to protect others from an inconsiderate person. In our parks we have signs reading, "keep off the grass" and "$50 fine for cutting shrubbery." In our libraries we have rules governing quiet and regarding care of books. All of these are needed because of inconsideration.

Laws cannot be enforced! Considerate people do not obey laws! Laws are for the inconsiderate who will not obey the laws anyway.

The first lesson we should all strive to learn is the lesson of consideration for others. Cardinal Newman in his "Conception of a Gentleman" places consideration for others high in the list of requirements.

Let us learn to be considerate in what we do and we won't have to obey rules. We will be thoughtless—in obeying them!

COLLEGE STUDENTS

It is the privilege of a small child to be changeable. A child may take on stand at one time and another stand at another regarding the same subject. But as the child progresses into adulthood this privilege must be given up.

When a young man or woman is reprovved or meets the discipline committee for a misdemeanor he or she demands to be treated as a "college student." He becomes insulted if he is treated as a child. Yet this same "college student" will shout in the hall, talk in the library and promiscuously cut classes and pass it off by saying, "Oh, that's different." Is it?

SEEK AND YE SHALL FIND

"Seek and ye shall find." Yes, you agree if one seeks something he will find and yet how many of us really seek for some things. Yes, we can go shopping and find what we want. The prospector can search and eventually make his "strike." The traveler can hunt his way and will eventually find his road.

But how many of us seek for the good we can find in our associates and our environments? If we try to find the good qualities in our acquaintances we will find that they usually overbalance the bad.

The prospector finds his "strike" by traces of other minerals, and the traveler finds his good roads by the use of his maps and by reading the highway markers. But human characteristics are in a wilderness without maps or markers.

There is no set rule for judging one's character or for determining his good or bad traits. All people are different. In a recent experiment with Siamese twins, who should have parallel traits of character if any two people could, the twins are found to differ greatly in their characteristics.

The best policy for us all is to fight against our prejudices and seek the good in everyone. It is surely true for it was said that no good could come out of Nazareth, yet Christ, our Savior, was a Nazarene.

BE GRATEFUL

Thank God every morning when you get up that you have something to do which must be done whether you like it or not. Being forced to work, and forced to do your best, will breed in you temperance, self-control, diligence, strength of will, content, and a hundred virtues which the idle will never know.—Kingsley.

Character is not developed by comfort and ease but by toil and struggle. Thus it may be that those days that are so trying to so many people present to us a greater opportunity than we realize. If there is developed within us the power to overcome obstacles and to rise superior to the difficulties that confront us, they may be to us of far greater value than days of prosperity could ever have been.—Christian Observer.

The next time the American people set out to make any part of the world safer for anything, they had better do as Charity does and begin at home.

The Federal office of Education reveals that the average total cost of educating a child for the year 1933 in 299 cities was $87.65 as compared with $113.03 for 1933. Perhaps the teachers can offer an explanation.

And that reminds me—During the last lyceum number there was a mix up of clothes.

And speaking of falling—John Stewart fell rather hard Friday night—but not for a girl.

The inhumanity of some boys! Some of them carried George Bralley's supper to him one night when he was sick and ate it before they got there. We call this cruelty to dumb animals. Now we wouldn't think of doing such a thing. (Don't you have a tray you want carried over, Miss Howell?)

Like the last lyceum? I thought it was grand. Each one did his part well. When plays are better Harding Campus Players will put them on.

Anticipation is much sweeter than realization, or the day before Christmas is much sweeter than the day after. Many students are anxious for school to close but before next September they will be ready to come back.

The last Bison gave an account of the basketball game lost to Hendrix, but I want to tell you that the very next opportunity the game went our way.

Stay right in there boys we are all for you, with the band and everything you can't keep from winning.

W. H. C.'s—"ole" Sez-I wants to tell you how much the little chapel program was enjoyed. Everyone thought it was so nice, cute, and—oh, well, you know the rest of the adjectives. Any way the other programs will have to be extraordinary if they are better.

Little dabs of powder, little bits of paint,
Make a feller look like what he ain't.
Little dabs of study, little bits of bunk,
Make the teacher think you know all that junk.

This week we are to attend a good meeting. K. C. Moser will hold it and it should be good.

The Freshmen are working on their intelligence test. In the days to come they will learn more. At any rate they will be more intelligent.

Dogs bark and donkeys bray just to be heard. Why not take a lesson from them and speak only when necessary? You will be looked up to as important and people will feel that what you say amounts to something.

The cast has been selected for the opera and Lyceum number, Pinafore, and soon it will be presented. Watch for the date.

It is so peculiar that a number of students are always seen going over to "the Club" at twelve-thirty and at six o'clock. Oh, well, we can't blame them, we all like interesting things.

A discussion of first honor roll privileges was had in girls meeting Thursday. Judging from the different suggestions there will be some good ones.

It isn't long until Valentine Day. I have been told that certain little people give certain others remembrances, in other words Valentines. Maybe that will do the trick; we will wait and see.

Reader's Viewpoint

The recognition of one's own abilities is an important step towards success in life. Thus, we come to college, in a large measure in order to recognize and develop those God-given powers that lie within every one of us. This knowledge helps one to determine the niche he can fill in life, and to take advantage of every opportunity that comes his way in short, to live life to the full.

In this great effort to "find" ourselves, the college paper plays an important part. It constitutes an index which records the success of the student's efforts to know himself. It records on its pages his chances of failure or success in adapting himself to the vicissitudes of life.

The records in the "Bison" enable the student of Harding College to see himself as others see him. It is a mirror which reflects the impression he makes on those about him.

Since man is a social being, to be a success he must him himself into society. If one fails to do this in school, he has failed in the biggest thing school can offer. The pages of the "Bison" record the progress of the Harding student in adjusting himself to those about him.

The college paper, also, portrays the attitude and thinking of the students as a group. If the paper is a record of honorable deeds and happy, uplifting thoughts, then, the chances are that the group it represents is of the same calibre.

Then, too, the college paper reflects the temperament of the whole school. Thus, let us remember the claims of Harding—"Standard Four Year College, Bible Stressed"—and let us see that our paper reflects the proper spirit. Let it be one that is noble and in keeping with the principles of Christianity. Of course, a college publication must have good literary qualities, yet it must have character, too. Generally speaking the "Bison" of Harding College, conforms to this dual standard in a highly commendable way. The "Bison" is a good influence, so let's boast it all we can.

ARTHUR GRAHAM.

High Lights of Sports

When one of the cars broke down on the Arkansas College trip, Love and Trent highwayed the rest of the way to Batesville. Maybe they got "hitch-hikers thumb" and that kept them from playing a very good game that night.

Bell and McReynolds played dominoes all afternoon so they had spots before their eyes that night. They should eat "Tums . . ." McReynolds had a big steak about two hours before the Arkansas game. Maybe something was resting heavily on his mind (?) that night.

Gaston and Love rode back from Batesville in the back end of Isabel's coupe and it is rumored that Gaston got sea sick. We wonder why?

The boys played Little Rock Junior College on the Deaf and Dumb school court and everyone was afraid to say anything because they couldn't tell who could hear and who couldn't.

Manager Pace was commenting on the beauty of a certain supposedly deaf and dumb girl and she turned around and smiled. Was his face red? Some one else remarked that they would certainly like to have a date with a certain girl and she turned around and said: "Well, why don't you ask me for one?"

Pace got his nickel back from a pay telephone eight times while trying to report the game. Sam Bell likes peanuts. Ask him. Pierce thinks Little Rock likes E. Pierce likes Little Rock Junior College "co" or "ed's" one or the other, at least he didn't see much of the game.

Bell and McReynolds were caught playing ping-pong. Sissies! But the climax of the game was "Barnum and Bailey" McReynolds, who was reported in the Arkansas Gazette as being the whole show. Isabel, McReynolds, and Pace got lost in that newspaper's press room. They must not be true woodsmen. Pace is still afraid to stop in Conway. Ask him why if you don't know.

Little Rock Junior College Trampled By Herd

The Bisons easily beat the Little Rock Junior College Trojans in a slow game on the school for the Deaf court in Little Rock by a score of 32 to 18 Friday night, February 9. The Bisons did not allow the Trojans to score until the middle of the first half and the rest period came with Little Rock on the small end of a 32 to 18 score.

The second half was opened by a scoring attack by Little Rock but Harding stopped it easily and the game ended with the Bisons leading by a 32 to 18 count.

McReynolds, Bison forward, took the individual scoring honors with 14 points, scored on six field goals and two free throws. Frich Little Rock center, was second high with nine points scored on three field goals and three free throws.

Harding vs. Arkansas College

The Bisons lost a hard-fought game to Arkansas College Tuesday night, February 6, by a score of 62 to 30 at Batesville. The Bisons were on the small end of the score most of the game but were unable to stop a scoring streak in the second half. The rest period came with Arkansas leading by a 40 to 26 score and Harding never recovered from that handicap. The absence of Berryhill was keenly felt by the Bisons.

Banon, Arkansas center, captured the individual scoring honors with nineteen points. McReynolds, Bison forward, led his teammates with eleven points. A return game will be played in Morrilton Friday night, February 16. The line-up:

Harding Arkansas
McReynolds 11 Carpenter 15
Bell 10 Epperson 5
Forwards
Love 3 Banon 19
Centers
Trent 3 Marshall 9
Wadley 5 Shaver 12

Old Songs and New Featured in The W. H. C. Buggy Ride

What a chapel program! The W. H. C. club struck up a tune on the opening of the curtain until the close. There were hearts of joy, sadness, melancholy, and happiness as the club led from one song to another. The romantic age was called back by the "Old Fashioned Garden," the "Dream Train" could be heard rattling down its track, the soap bubbles were floating in the air and even one of the girls appreciated the buggy ride. To climax the situation, the old rattle-trap of a "meant for" Ford sallied forth on the road to the tune of "Breezing Along." When it came to a standstill, every heart was stirred by the clubs friendship song "Until The End." Then the ringing of the bell hurried the girls along to the tune of "Gotta Go" and the curtain was drawn. An excellent program. Even the bump on one of the boy's head caused by a slung basketball wasn't mended so much, because the girls all had a spirit of love and cheerfulness. Let's have another program W. H. C.'s!

Who's Who in The Senior Class

Ervin "Pinky" Berryhill, of O'Brien, Texas, is completing his four years of college work at Harding. He is an outstanding student, has played on the varsity basketball team all four years, being captain one year and coach last year. "Pinky" is a splendid baseball player, having played all three preceding years and plans to coach the team this spring. He was a good football player the two years before the game was eliminated, and has served as president of his class for three years. Berryhill has been selected by the student body as best all-round boy in the "Who's Who" for the Petit Jean, the college year book, for the past two years.

Rheba Stout, of Russellville, Alabama, was selected as girl favorite for the Petit Jean "Who's Who" during her Freshman year at Harding. She was a member of the girls quartet, an outstanding member of the Campus Players, and was W. H. C. basketball captain for two years. She's now vice-president of the senior class. Rheba is an unusually good student and is one of the most popular girls on the campus.

WHO'S WHO IN THE JUNIOR CLASS

Among the fifty-two members of the junior class this year is Durden Stough from Montgomery, Alabama. Stough comes to Harding from David Lipscomb College. He plans to stay at Harding during the summer to finish work on his degree then to continue his work at Vanderbilt next year.

Another Junior who is very much in evidence is Carroll Trent of Harmon, Okla. Trent attended Oklahoma Christian College where he was business manager of the school paper and an outstanding debater. He also attended Southwestern Teachers College, Okla., and North Texas Teachers College. This year Trent is business manager of the Bison and a member of the debating team.

Leonard Johnson of Pikeville, Tenn., comes to Harding from David Lipscomb. Both years since Johnson played on the varsity basketball team, was an active member of the Dramatic Club, and filled preaching appointments on Sundays. He is still preaching and also teaching Latin in the Academy as well as continuing his school work.

Hey Girls!

Nah, this isn't about the tooth-paste that removes six stains or the washing powder that gives you seven more days to play bridge and gab. It might, however, cause a certain tall dark and—well he is tall and dark—young man to visit the barber shop and come away with the "skin you love to touch." All of which is leading to the answer to that touchy question, "Why does any man want to grow a moustache?"

The answer to this question came to light when we saw "Green Stockings" Tuesday night, for the young man with the cookie duster played the part of William Faraday, an Englishman, and, of course, the well dressed Englishman this young actor read about wore a moustache.

We hope that the moustache takes an exit and that the long concealed lip will soon be "soft as old linen."

Moral: Don't grow a set of whiskers for "your best friend won't tell you."

SOPHOMORES ENJOY HIKE

The high school sophomore class had a very enjoyable outing Friday night, February 9. The entire class and their chaperones, Miss Marion Wright and Bernard Lemmons, hiked to the river where they built a fire, roasted weiners, and played games.

SPEECHES ARE BENEFICIAL

On Tuesday Lewis T. Oldham addressed the student body during the regular chapel hour. He delivered a most interesting speech about Chinese civilization in past centuries. Dr. W. K. Summit spoke on Wednesday and Professor S. A. Bell on Thursday. Both gave interesting and beneficial talks.

Harding was well represented at Little Rock last Monday. Miss Frances Ruby Lowery, Loye Ruckman and Gene Paulus went on business in regard to the annual; Neil Cope went on private business; George DeHoff and James Johnson went to hear Aimee Semple McPherson lecture; and James Bales and Ross Jones went to the Little Rock Boy's Club where Bales wrestled Monday night.

The boys have been conducting themselves better since last issue. This is six weeks exams you know. Have more scandle for you next time.
