Feminine Fancies

By Mildred Majors

A great many people are considering New Year resolutions. This is surely not the season for great moral improvement, but we are not discouraged by the season's tendency to bring to mind the thought of improvement in one way or another.

As a matter of fact, there is no reason why one should not keep up the idea of improvement even when the year has passed. The idea is to make the best of one's present situation, whatever it may be. The idea is to make the best of one's present situation, whether one is happy or not. The idea is to make the best of one's present situation, whether one is healthy or not. The idea is to make the best of one's present situation, whether one is wealthy or not. The idea is to make the best of one's present situation, whether one is beautiful or not. The idea is to make the best of one's present situation, whether one is fashionable or not. The idea is to make the best of one's present situation, whether one is popular or not. The idea is to make the best of one's present situation, whether one is successful or not. The idea is to make the best of one's present situation, whether one is ambitious or not. The idea is to make the best of one's present situation, whether one is contented or not. The idea is to make the best of one's present situation, whether one is satisfied or not. The idea is to make the best of one's present situation, whether one is pleased or not. The idea is to make the best of one's present situation, whether one is happy or not. Senior Makes Bid For Varsity Post

Nathan Creek of Hilda, Tunna-son, who has come to Harding to complete his senior year, has the best possibilities for making the base- ball team this year.

Creek has had two years of ex- cellence playing on varsity teams. When he was here before, he was the teams's catcher and leadoff man.

Creek is six feet in height and tipped the scales at one hundred and forty-five pounds.

Creek makes a good mark on the outside and is a very good friend to the team. Along with this he has a fair eye for the baseball field.

Rifty sports come to a ter- rific low price to pay for a season ticket for basketball—especially when ticket is good for ten games. That makes such games not only free but, and that is what the season tickets cost last season. A team cannot be run manfully from a financial standpoint when the fans require such a ticket. That was proven conclusively last year. In view of that fact the tickets will be higher this season. If we are true to Harding College we will support the team by buying tickets. It is not the object of athletics at Harding to put money in the treasury but to keep from taking money out of it. No one instructed to sell ticket be- cause some would have better use of the money now asking to buy one because it is felt by those in authority that you will get your money's worth. So do your part by buying a season ticket.

Ham Dickson, our regular basketball coach with David Lip- man handling the football team when she makes the trip to Nokomis, has been announced as ready for the season's opening day.
