LECTURE GIVEN ON RADIUM BY DR. S. H. GABLE

Famous Scientist Talks
On the History of Radium

Speech Is Illustrated

Many Interesting Facts
Are Given During The Talk

Dr. S. H. Luther Gable, famous scientist, gave a lecture on radium in the college auditorium Wednesday evening. Dr. Gable, whose home is in Chicago, Illinois, is the lone survivor of a group of six scientists who played an important role in the commercialization of radium. The program Dr. Gable presented consisted of the lecture and slides showing the history of the development of radium. The power of radium was demonstrated and samples were passed through the audience.

According to Dr. Gable the history of radium was started by Madame Curie when she discovered a mysterious substance in pitch which is now known to contain radium. Later her daughter was awarded the Noble Prize for her outstanding work on (radium) and its rays. Dr. Gable expressed the belief that radium will revolutionize the commercial and medical world in the future.

Dr. Gable revealed that there are only approximately three pounds of this indestructible element in the world if it were all put together. Although much is known about the activities of radium, not enough has been learned to make it absolutely safe for general use, according to the speaker. Probably the greatest improvement made lately is in the safety devices used by the research workers.

Maintaining that radium is of inestimable worth to the medical profession, Dr. Gable said it was not dangerous in the hands of experts. The element has been used in recent years successfully as the cure of insanity but the enormous expense has been prohibitive so far, he said.

Not only was the element valuable in the medical world, Dr. Gable said, but in the production of agricultural products it did the work of an enormous amount of fertilizer.

Dr. Orrok's Speech On Women Certainly Starts Things Rolling

Ah! Now Dr. Orrok! The schematism of your supraliminal rendition on the sanctimonious oofishness of woman wasn't even half bad because we knew all the time you had your fingers crossed or else you just wanted a little publicity in some other section of the paper other than the scandal sheet. You approached the realms of Queen Scheherazade. Now that's one woman I bet you'll have to look up. (Well, she's on page 889 of my old man Webster's, Fifth edition.)

The zealotry of such a vituperation—it makes we women want to vociferate.

But did you get every one's attention! Why, could you see Miss McClure back there on the edge of the back seat? I thought she was going to get clear out in the aisle before you finished, but I think she was enjoying it. But now take Alexine Hankins—she says she's boiling over and is just dyin' off to have a little tete a tete with you and in case you don't know Wallace Beasley's nickname for her it's "Battle-axe," so I'd advise you to engage yourself in your French or German when this piece of womanhood approaches.

To say the least of it you got Dr. Armstrong all excited. He was blushing as much as all those girls. He evidently hadn't been made a believer of women's frailty.

Oh, you've started something around this place all right. You even incited a little indignation in our matron and dean of women. Your remarks even rated the girls' meeting and I suppose you read all of that article "The Decline of Men" which some indignant female placed in your plate that evening at dinner.

Second Lyceum To Be Presented Soon

Dramatist to Give "The Bird's Christmas
Carol"

"The Bird's Christmas Carol," by Kate Douglas Wiggin, will be presented by the Campus Players December 15 in the college auditorium. The theme of the play, which has been revised by Mrs. Armstrong, centers around a "poor little rich girl" who wishes to share Christmas dinner with the alley neighbors. The child's father is not at all pleased with the child's interest in them and the plot is developed from this.

Two different scenes will be staged during the play. One scene will be the home of Mr. Bird, who is a busy "front street" man, while the alley shack of the Ruggles family will constitute the other principal scene. The latter home contains eight children and much of the action is around them.

The cast will include Mildred Dawson, William Medearis, Mrs. Oral Cone, Kathleen Langford, Jack Wood Sears, Virginia O'Neal, Eva Thompson, Keith Coleman, Herbert Dawson, Sam Bolding, Lucille Harwood, Ellis Copher, and Tom Bolding.

The play will be given as a Christmas entertainment as it has been in former years. The orchestra will assist between acts.

Poetry Club Has Interesting Talk

At the regular meeting of the Poetry club Thursday night, December 3, the use of the supernatural in poetry was the subject of discussion. Sam Peebles read several illustrations of its use.

Following this, original poems by the different members of the group were read and discussed anonymously. Because of the imminency of term examinations, it was decided that the next meeting of the club would be postponed until after the Christmas holidays. At this time Dr. Orrok, sponsor of the group, is scheduled to make a brief talk on some phase of poetry. Original contributions by the members of the club will be quatrains dealing with the subject of the futility of life.

SEVERAL GIRLS SOCIAL CLUBS HAVE PARTIES

Five Clubs Entertain

Informal Parties Given
By the Majority
Of Clubs

For the past few days the girls' social clubs have been having their quarterly entertainments. Thursday evening the Adelpheans entertained their dates with a theatre party and were the guests of Mrs. Neil Cope afterwards. On the same evening the O. G. club entertained their dates with an informal party in the reception room of the boys' dormitory.

The W. H. C.'s entertained with a dinner at the Mayfair Hotel and a theatre party afterwards Friday night while the Ko Jo Kais also took their dates to the theatre and had coffee afterwards at Headlee's. Concluding the list of parties, the Ju Jo Ju Club had a formal party at the Mayfair Hotel Saturday night.

Those who attended the O. G. party were Hilda Williams, Sam Peebles, Kathleen Langford, Harry Webb, Kathryn Garner, Gene Pace, Elaine Maxey, Joe Rector, Opal Harp, Brantley Boyd, Thelma Abram, Alphaeus Hubbard, Sarah Cashon, Rogers Bartley, Dorothy Pearson, Rufus Daniels, Margaret Hassel, Aubert Hubbard, Jane Ford, and Julian Dewberry. The W. H. C. group, and their dates, included Ama Lou Murphee, Alfred Johnson, Theda Pinkston, Dr. Orrok, Kathleen Halbrook, Aubert Hubbard, Bernelle Anderson, Joe Spalding, Elizabeth Travis, Glen Johnson, Margaret Overton, J. D. Bales, Marjorie Overton, Joe Pryor, Mary Halbrook, Robert Vann, Mary E. Faris, Bluit Gilliam, Rebekah Henderson, Robert Lawyer, Yvonne McGregor, Herman West, Miss Heltsley, Charles Pitner, Miss Rhodes, Granville Tyler, Delma Pinkston, Nick Camp, Uzella Dykes, and Bill Bryant.

At the Ko Jo Kia party the following were present: Louise Terry, Sam Peebles, T. Rose Terry, Mack Greenway, Ruthel Hardy, George Ford, Helen Hughes, L. D. Frasher, Dorothy Bixler, Billy Yount, Nanny Fern Vaughn, Hugh Rhodes, Erlene Helms, Clifford Cronin, Annie Hugh Compton, La-Voy Hagler, Francis Stroud, E. G. Couch, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Hughes, Virginia Simmons, Mildred Cagle, Guy Thompson, Maxine Brittel, and Ollie Quick. The Ju Jo Ju group included Helen Mattox, Raymond Vaughn, Marjorie Hartzel, Rogers Bartley, Sammy Sue Mason, Lyndal Griggs, Mary Neal, Charles Pitner, Billy Bartley, R. T. Clark, Corinne Bell, Robert Vann, Christine Reese, Bill Bryant, Elsie May Hopper, Emmett Robertson, Lora Freeman, Jim McDaniel, Avanel Elliot, Joe Spalding, Janis Neal, Hazel Barnes, Joe Leslie, Mary Crockett, Sam Peebles, Doris Ruby, Wallis Beasley, and Mrs. L. C. Sears.

Those who attended the Adelphean party included Mary Nell Blackwell, George Abernathy, Anette Bean, Bluit Gilliam, Arrawanna Hyde, Alvin Bodine, Irene Conner, Don Cox, Virginia Wells, Bill Medearis, Elizabeth Rhodes, R. T. Clark, Nell Garner, Emmett Robertson, Leola Mock, Granville Tyler, Virginia O'Neal, Malcolm Harrison, Alice Bryant, Carrol Cannon, Pauline Moser, Jess Rhodes, Joyce Clark, Don Bentley, Hilda Copeland, Austin Tabor, Lorenda Harper, Jim McDaniel, and Mr. and Mrs. Neil Cope.

FACULTY HEARS MCQUISION IN INFORMAL TALK

Educational Program Of Arkansas Is Theme
Of Speech

New Program Given

Objectives of Program
Set Forth By State
Employee

In a very informal manner, Mr. Ed McQuision, Curriculum Director for the State of Arkansas, spoke to the Harding College faculty Thursday afternoon. Dr. W. K. Summitt had invited Mr. McQuision to speak to the faculty in order to give them some ideas as to how they could help in the Arkansas program of education which is now being tried in the state.

After a few introductory remarks by Dr. Summitt, Mr. McQuision began by stating that the biggest task was to make "new teachers out of old teachers." By that he meant that it was absolutely necessary that the older teachers who have been teaching by old methods would have to be educated to the point where they would teach according to the new curriculum ideas.

Mr. McQuision talked very favorably in behalf of the progress of the Arkansas program. He stated that the new plan was being tried in most of the schools. But at the same time he gave facts that show that teacher-training institutions have much more work to do yet in preparing teachers for this program. He stated that every four and one-half years the teachers, on an average, are changed in each school.

According to Mr. McQuision, some of the things which teacher-training institutions need to watch are: the stressing of the theory side of the question, the forgetting to practice the program, and too much departmentalization of their subject matter. He also showed that unless institutions were careful, they would crowd too much activity into their units and thus be like Columbus in that he didn't know where he was going or where he was when he got there, and when he got back he didn't know where he had been.

"Teachers must know more than one field. As for Harding College, she can do what she wants to, in the way she wants to, because no two institutions handle the problem in the same way. But first of all, each teacher should know the Arkansas program," were the words of the speaker.

After giving an outline of what the curriculum program of Arkansas is by showing how it is being used in the schools of Little Rock and other schools of the state, the speaker answered the questions of the faculty members concerning the program.

Because our contracts call for only 32 issues of the Bison for the entire year, the staff has decided not to publish another issue before Christmas. The next issue will be January 12.

THE "TRIAL BY JURY" WILL BE GIVEN TONIGHT

Department of Music To Present a Famous
Light Opera

Orchestra to Assist

Several Guest Artists
To Appear On the Program

Tonight at 8:15 in the College Auditorium, the music department of Harding College will present Gilbert and Sullivan's light opera, "Trial by Jury." This will be the first appearance of this department this year. The production is being given under the supervision of Miss Avon Lee Blakely, head of the music department. Miss Blakely is also cast in the opera.

Six members of the group will have leading roles in the production. Miss Blakely explained that this opera differs somewhat from play production in that there is no distinct lead by any one player. Fletcher Floyd has the part of an usher and attends Miss Blakely, who is cast as the bride. Wallace Walker, guest artist from Searcy, is the defendant in the trial, and Jess Anderson plays an important role as judge as does Jack Wood Sears, who is foreman of the jury. Characterizations of the first bridesmaid by Uzella Dykes leads the roles of nine other bridesmaids, who have parts in the opera. The jury is composed of five tenors, seven altos, seven sopranos, and ten bases.

"Trial by Jury" was the first of the Gilbert and Sullivan series to be written, and was first produced at the Royalty Theatre in London, March 25, 1875.

Various factors expressed by the voices center around a breach of promise suit between the two characters, Angelina and Edwin, played by Miss Blakely and Mr. Walker. The first of the scenes finds the defendant, Edwin, pleading his case before the judge, but the entrance of the bridesmaids and the bride herself causes the judge and jurors to be moved in their favor.

The case progresses until the defendant finds himself in a dilemma, because if he does not marry Angelina, he is confronted with a breach of promise suit and if he marries a second time he is to be accused of bigamy.

A solution of the case seems improbable until the judge, who has become intensely interested, suddenly decides to marry Angelina himself. In this is exhibited his ability to solve the case in his pro-

Debaters to Enter State Tournament

Annual Tourney Will Be Held In Monticello
Dec. 11 and 12

Under the direction of Coach L. C. Sears, the college debaters have been preparing for the state debate tournament which is to be held in Monticello December 11 and 12. During the past week four boys' teams and one girls' team was selected to represent the school in the tournament.

Granville Tyler and E. G. Couch, James Bales and James McDaniel, Woodrow Whitten and Edwin Hughes, George Abernathy and Joe Spalding, and Zelma Bell and Doris Ruby were the teams that were chosen for the debating.

The school will also be represented in the oratorical and extemporaneous speaking contests to be held at the same time at the tournament. Delmar Owens will be the local representative in both of these contests.

The debaters will be the guests of Monticello A. and M. College during this annual tournament. In past years Harding has been among the top ranking colleges in debating and placed second in the tournament last year which was held here. A few years ago they won both the boys and girls division of the tournament and one year won the extemporaneous speaking contest.

Dean Sears expects to make a good showing in this year's tournament, having several experienced men on the teams.

New French Books Placed In Library

Announcement has been made by the administration that several new books have been added to the French department and are now in the library for use. Included in the number of books received are the following: "Theatre Choice" by P. Corneille, "Coeuvres" by Descartes, "Defiance and Illustration" by Du Bellay, "De l'Existence as Dieu" by Fenelon, "Les Caracteres" by La Bruyere, "Fables," by La Fontaine, "Cuzman a' Alfarache" by Lesage, "Pensees," by Pascal, and "Theatre," by Racine.

Hubbard Brothers Read More Magazines Than Other Students

You can't tell by looking but "hit don't make no difference," as Lucille Westbrook would say. But who would have ever thought it? Now, can you please imagine "Eggs" Hubbard, or Brother Aubert either, sitting peacefully in their room reading any magazine? Well, when an accurate survey was made of the matter it was found that the Hubbard brothers read more magazines than any other people on the campus. Talk about variety and well-read persons, they should be that. "Hooley," "Film Fun," "Spicey," "Madamoiselle," "True Story," "Country Gentleman," "Cappers Weekly," "Saturday Evening Post," "True Romance," "Gospel Advocate," and "The Truth Seeker" were all on their list, but Eggs said he always sent the last two home to his mother.

"Give me the Whizbang" or "The Hooley" was Elizabeth Rhodes' answer to our inquiry. Miss Maurine, Elizabeth says she does wish you would take something besides the "American" and "Red Book" and all those she can't understand.

It seems that Dr. Winn doesn't like to read but reads to find out something. "Time" will give you all the news of the world and you won't have to read but four or five pages to get what you want," so he says.

Make Your Parents Happier During the Christmas Holidays

In a few weeks most of us will go home for the Christmas holidays. But what will that homecoming mean to our parents? Will it mean more work for them? More worry? More hardships? If it does then we are not fit subjects for their love.

We should strive to do every thing in our power to make them happy the short time we will be at home. They have worked and slaved for three months to keep use in school and to give us many things that we should be thankful for. Then we should try to repay in a measure what they have so unselfishly given us. Our every word and action should be manifestations of our gratitude, for it is only through their untiring efforts that we are permitted to be here.

The greatest gift that we can give our parents is happiness. Their thoughts and emotions are wrapped up in our welfare and the least that we can do is make them happy. In this holiday season, with all the joy and good cheer that it implies, we should, above all, think of others instead of ourselves. And who are more deserving of this thoughtfulness than our parents? So, let's repay, in part, the great debt that we owe them while we are at home!

Staff Expresses Appreciation Of Co-operation Received This Term

During the past three months The Bison has been going through an experimental stage of growth that has been of the greatest importance to its history. Besides progressing to a weekly paper, the staff has added many features that were intended to appeal to the student body. In taking these steps, the staff feels that it has been successful to a certain degree and wishes to take this means of expressing its appreciation of the cooperation given by the faculty and student body.

The task has not been easy but The Bison feels that the service rendered has more than paid the debt. After the first of the year it will be the aim of the staff to continue the present policies of The Bison, and, if possible, to add other attractive features. To say that we appreciate the position the student body and faculty have taken would be putting it mildly for we feel that with our cooperation what little we have accomplished would have been impossible. It shall be our ambition to bring you a better paper in 1937!

With Other Colleges

How do you like these famous sayings from the L. R. H. S. Tiger:
The first hundred years are the hardest.—Methuselah.
You can't keep a good man down.—Jonah.
Treat 'em rough.—Henry the Eighth.
Keep the home fires burning.—Nero.
I'm strong for you, kid.—Samson.
It floats.—Noah.

The student Alibi:
Can't study in the fall—Gotta play football;
Can't study in the winter—Gotta play basketball;
Can't study in the spring—Gotta run track;
Can't study in the summer—Gotta girl.

—The Flor-Ala.

Here's the lesson for the week taken from the Bray:

- 1—Man is born.
 - 2—Man grows up.
 - 3—Man kicks the bucket.
 - 4—Man is buried.
 - 5—Man turns to dust.
 - 6—Grass grows from dust.
 - 7—Horse eats grass.
- Moral—Never kick a horse, you might injure a former relative.

Here's some sentences to think about:

WHOOZINIT

After a year at Harding Charles Amick has finally broken over and gone a courting. You should be right proud of your enticing him out, Floris Beasley.

Madeline Doolittle was heard to say that school's not so bad after all. It would seem that these last few days have given her a new lease on life at Harding. Of course Beasley and Robertson wouldn't have anything to do with that.

What takes the cake this time, I think, is that a certain person didn't find out until their senior year that it is against the rules to go to the show on Sunday afternoon.

I bet Joe Leslie, Al Johnson, and Woodrow Whitten surely get hungry before supper time. Boys, you should take more time for eating your lunch.

Mack Greenway and T. Rose Terry can tell you all about the new gym—anyway, they should be able to as much as they wander around down there.

Better watch out, Elizabeth Rhodes. It is reliably reported that Olla Lee Saylor's thinks J. T. Gilliam is just the nuts.

I hear that it was quite comical to see Rufus Daniels and Ralph McClure Saturday when they were handed certain letters requesting their presence down town—and not to a social event, either.

Hum. Miss Heltsley walked off with Pitner the other night and Mary Neal had to go to the show by her self. Now that was cruel, or was it?

Say, Mr. Cope, why don't you lay off the scandal writer? He hasn't said a thing about you in this column—yet.

They tell me that the Ju Jo Ju's enjoyed their swimming party down to the Mayfair Saturday night. And them with evening dresses on, too.

Oh! Dr. Benson was almost fined for speeding in Pine Bluff not so long ago. And in that Ford of his too. Both facts are unbelievable.

So Sara Cashion didn't like it because Bartley went on a party with Marjorie Hartzler, eh? I wonder, also, how Major will feel when he reads this, Marjorie?

Say, Maxey, you ain't so hot at acrobatics so why don't you quit trying? You almost killed Brother Hubbard the other night with your light fantastic.

All right, you guys. This is the last issue of The Bison this year so you can do a few things from now on out without fear of having it published.

All right, Doctah, if you just must make scandal why then you just must. But remember that there are several hundred witnesses to your latest escapades with Theda Pinkston.

Virginia O'Neil, I hope you still haven't caught a cold after that jaunt Malcolm Harrison took you on Sunday night.

R. T. Clark, I really don't think you had better go home again for quite a while. At least if you think enough of Billie Bartley to stay in the race.

Don't expect your ship to come in unless you have sent one out.

SPECTRUM

In less than two weeks we'll be packing to go home for Christmas. It would be a fine thing if we could each of us bring into our homes as much happiness and comfort as we expect to derive from that home while there. I am sure that we all love our fathers and mothers, but how good it would be if we were to show our love by acts of kindness, and thoughtfulness during the coming holidays.

At last the buds have appeared and, in another week, I expect to see my narcissus bulbs in bloom. I have gotten so much pleasure from watching their growth that I wish I were able to buy narcissus bulbs for all my friends for Christmas. Watching the growth and development of life and beauty in this simple form, I have seen in it the hand of God. He has put so much beauty and so much potentiality into even the minor things of nature that I marvel and bow down in reverence.

The students have been criticized because so many of them failed to attend the lecture on radium last Wednesday night, but, although I'm sure it was partly our fault, I feel that it was more the fault of those who were responsible for the lecture. Any time that anyone puts on a program of any kind, it is their responsibility to bring this program to public attention and manage to keep it there. I feel sure that there would have been better attendance if announcement had been made on the day of the lecture. People are generally forgetful and so need reminding. It seems to me that this would be a good suggestion for any group to follow when putting on a public performance.

With the basketball season opening I'd like to say a word to our basketball squad. I know that you are working under a handicap, I know that the defeats of last year are not yet distant enough for comfort. I know that student support in the past has not been as great as could be desired. But now you are beginning a new season and I'm sure I speak for the student body when I say that we are behind you and that we are wishing you all success.

Things I'd like to do:
Pay for a good gymnasium for Harding . . . write good poetry . . . sail around the world . . . learn to ski . . . sing . . . sleep late . . . be able to say what I want when I want . . . fly . . . live—for about a week—in an igloo . . . turn back history and take a look at "the good old days" . . . own a speed boat . . . make good biscuits.

This week the operetta, "Trial by Jury" is scheduled to make its appearance on the Harding stage and I am very anxious to see and hear it. Since I have been at Harding there has not been a single operetta given. I am partial to operettas, especially Gilbert and Sullivan ones, and I'm certainly going to go. I hope you'll be there too, not only because you'll enjoy it, but also because it is a good move and worthy of your support.

Do you like parties? I do. I had lots of fun last week at the one I went to. A good dinner and congenial company—what more could one ask?

Militaristic nations may be proud at due to their blustering the world now has 8,500,000 men under arms. Mr. and Mrs. Carol Trent of Elaine, Arkansas have announced the birth of a daughter, Carol Virginia, on November 29. Trent, whose home is in Hammon, Oklahoma, received his B. A. degree from Harding in 1935. He was a member of the Press Club, Debate Club, president of the T. N. T. social club, and business manager of the Petit Jean while in school here. Mrs. Trent was formerly Rachel Jackson, 1935 graduate from Marvel, Arkansas. She was a member of the W. H. C. club and a student teacher while in school here.

Lula Beasley, 1935 graduate from Red Bay, Alabama, is teaching in the primary grades at Pleasant Site, Alabama. While at Harding she was a member of the Las Companeras Club, the Flagala Club, and the Glee Club.

Edna Helm, ex. '36 from Melbourne, Arkansas, is teaching in the primary grades of the Melbourne Consolidated Schools.

Harvey Dykes, 1931 graduate of Cordell, Oklahoma and his wife, formerly Elizabeth Pancretz, also a 1931 graduate, are working for the Church of Christ at Wichita, Kansas.

Reva Poole, ex. '36 from Austin, Arkansas, is teaching in the high school there. Last year Miss Poole was a member of the Dramatic Club and the Las Companeras social club.

Dona Pursley, 1936 graduate of Miami, Texas, is connected with the Soil Conservation Service at Amarillo, Texas. Miss Pursley was prominent in campus activities while at Harding. She was a member of the glee club, mixed chorus, press club, Campus Players, secretary of the Texas club, and president of the Ju Jo Ju social club. In 1934 she was an honor student, and was voted the Best All Around in 1935 and 1936. She was editor of the Petit Jean last year, also.

Johnny Kirk, ex. '36, from Wichita, Kansas, is working in the Advertising Department of the Hub Clothing Company in Chicago, Illinois.

School Continues To Hold Rallies

Five Men Are Working In the Field At Present

Dr. George S. Benson returned Monday afternoon from an extended trip to Chicago and Detroit. Rallies were held in both places.

"Chicago received us very well because of contacts which Dean Sears and I made while in school there. We got over $1,000 in pledges to be paid within the next four years," Dr. Benson stated.

At Detroit about $500 was given. Gary, Indiana and East Chicago gave at least $100 each.

Dr. Benson will leave Wednesday for Ft. Worth, Texas where he will spend one week; then return for the closing of the term.

Dr. J. N. Armstrong accompanied by J. J. Hopper and Kern Sears returned yesterday from Blackwell, Oklahoma where a rally for the college was held Sunday.

It is estimated that the total amount received thus far in the financial drive would equal around $20,000.

J. G. Reese, who has been working for over a month in Texas, has held rallies at Dallas, Waco, Austin, San Antonio, Corsicana, Tyler and Marshall. He reports that the attendance is large and that the drive is meeting with success every place that he has visited. He left Saturday for Lexington, Tennessee, where he will have charge of the regular services.

E. L. Pearson, who has been in the field for some time, reports favorably of his appointments in Dallas, Houston and Marshall, Texas, also. No check up has been affected lately but it is thought that the total sum has gone well over the $17,000 mark.

L. C. Sears talked over the radio at Sheffield, Alabama Sunday morning and in the afternoon he and Granville Tyler conducted a rally at Russellville, Alabama. Zelma Bell and Maxine Brittel accompanied them. No report has been given yet of the rally, however.

Inter-Club Council Plans Progressing

Although the Inter-Club Council will not meet again until the first of the year, the organization of the group has been practically completed. According to the officers of the council, the adoption of a constitution will be the first business to be considered next term.

The constitution is being written now and will be presented to the group at its next meeting. No definite plans have been made for the organization to date but it is understood that the pooling of club projects will be considered soon.

To date there are 12 members in the council, including presidents of all the social clubs. However, it is planned to have 24 members as soon as the organization is completed.

Second Weekly Vote Places Pryor And Rosenbaum As Senior "Who's Who"

In their second weekly election, the Press Club selected Joseph Pryor and Claudia Rosenbaum as this week's "Who's Who" in the senior class. Pryor is editor-in-chief of the Petit Jean and circulation manager of the Bison while Miss Rosenbaum is assistant editor of the year book and co-editor of the Bison.

Pryor started a brilliant academic career during his freshman year when he was chosen honor student of the college and has continued in that capacity up until this year when that position has not been determined. During his initial year in college he was also a reserve on the basketball team and a member of the Dramatic Club.

Starting his sophomore year, Pryor was chosen editor of the Bison and pledged the newly formed T. N. T. social club. He was also selected as a Campus Player, one of the highest positions in the Dramatic Club, and was again chosen honor student. His extra-curricular activities increased during his junior year and he again edited the Bison, placing among the top ranking papers in the state. After a year's absence from the basketball court he returned to earn a berth on the team at the center position and was elected vice president of the T. N. T. club.

He was one of the charter members of the Alpha Honor Society and served as its first president. He was also assistant laboratory instructor in the Chemistry department, a member of the H club and the Arkansas club and honor student during his junior year.

This year Pryor is editor of the Petit Jean, circulation manager of the Bison president of the Alpha Honor Society, assistant laboratory instructor, alternate captain of the basketball team, vice president of the H club, and a member of the T. N. T. club and the Arkansas club. He is seeking a double major, getting a B. A. and B. S. degree. The former will be in Mathematics while the latter will be in Chemistry. He is the son of Professor and Mrs. L. E. Pryor.

Miss Rosenbaum attended Magnolia A. and M. College at Magnolia, Arkansas for two years before entering Harding. Attending that college on a scholarship, she was outstanding in her work there. During her freshman year she was a member of the Y. W. C. A. and the International Relations Club, a reporter on the school paper, The Bray, and played in the orchestra.

During her second year at A. and M. Miss Rosenbaum was vice-president of the Y. W. C. A., chairman of the program committee of the International Relations club, part time editor of the Bray and editor of the college year book, the Mulerider, and was elected the most versatile student.

Last year Miss Rosenbaum entered Harding as a junior and was a reporter on the Bison, doing features and a column. She was president of the L. C. social club and active in campus activities.

This year she is co-editor of the Petit Jean, assistant editor of the Petit Jean, and a member of the L. C. club. Seeking a B. A. degree, she is majoring in English and Spanish. Besides her other duties, she is engaged by several of the college professors in assisting in their work. She also teaches senior English in the academy and is sponsor of the senior high school class.

professional capacity, and be rewarded with marriage, also.

A part of the orchestra that will accompany the group is composed of players from the Little Rock High School orchestra while the remainder is composed of students. Ellsworth Shanks, who recently resigned his position here as director of the band and orchestra, will be the acting director.

Miss Blakely has announced that the price of admission will be 15 and 35 cents.

work of typing, reading copy, and reading proof, we've reached the end of type and one whole galley is vacant—absolutely vacant.

Why, or why, did we ever decide to edit the Bison? Then, why, oh why, don't students do things so that we'd have something to write about? If we had the time, we'd start a revolution, or make straight A's, or in some way make the headlines each week.

But why talk about what we'd do when all there is left to do is to write words to fill up space. Well—'tis done, but as we finish the task we can't help but send up a prayer that more things will happen on Harding campus after Christmas.

Equipment Bought For Playgrounds

Through the united efforts of Mrs. Cathcart, Mrs. Rowe, O. M. Coleman and Mr. Emery Hopper, playground equipment has been secured and erected for the benefit of the grade school pupils.

At present there are twelve swings in operation and plans are being made for the erection of trapez bars and other means for the children's recreation.

This has been a co-operative enterprise. Funds were donated by the pupils of the grade school, college students and the remainder paid by the college.

Pictured above is Miss Lois Albright, who will have charge of the orchestra work after the first of the year. Miss Albright is a former teacher, having been here in 1934 and 1935.

Know God's Truth—

Some of us have a love for God's Word, some of us do not. There are a few, a very few, who, by a close association with God, have grown to that high plane of reality, actually, loving God—so much so that our lives are nothing in comparison to His love. Such people are rare. Of such have been the martyrs.

How did these martyrs possess such faith and love? We believe that the answer is that they knew God. So, knowing God can answer many of our present day questions. It is all important that we know Him; therefore, we repeat, "To know God is to love Him."
"I know," says one, "that to know God I must study the Bible, but how can I study as I should when I am not interested or become tired of trying to read? Such a person has never studied, and, as someone has said, we cannot have our daily bread except by the sweat of our brow, so neither can we learn God's truth except that we travel the same route. God's word does not open itself to us unless we seek it, and its knowledge.

There is a way to interest us in our studies at school: spend time on them. So there is a way to get an interest in Bible study: by sitting down and spending some time studying it. This is the most worthwhile use you can expound in study.

In the first sentence of this article we mentioned that some of us have a love for God's work, some do not. This love many times is the result of our mother's, or perhaps some relative's, interest in us as children. Having a love themselves for God and His word, they instilled into us that same love. Among the first words that some of us spoke was the name of Jesus—taught us by someone who loved us and God and wanted to make our lives rich and happy, and eternally so.

Albright to Take Shanks' Position

Former Instructor Will Return for Rest of School Term

Announcement has been made that Miss Lois Albright of Chicago, Illinois, will have charge of the orchestra work during the winter and spring terms. She will fill the position left vacant by the resignation of Robert Shanks. Miss Albright had charge of the violin and orchestra work during the 1934-35 term and will conduct another class in violin work next year, also.

During the time she was here Miss Albright was very active in the orchestra work and presented several featured programs. The orchestra assisted in all of the lyceum numbers presented during the year and gave a number of programs itself. At the beginning of the school year she directed the orchestra before the Kiwanis Club and was featured a short time later in a chapel program.

Miss Albright was very successful with the orchestra and had one of the best groups that department has ever known. Although the group she worked with was small in comparison to the present orchestra, she gave several outstanding programs during the year and is expected to add much to that department this year.

In addition to the orchestra work and a class in violin it is thought that Miss Albright will have charge of the band work, however, that has not been definitely settled yet.

But if we did not have such a love instilled into us at the beginning of our lives we must get it now. As Christians it is imperative that we know God and love Him and His truth. Sit down now and read an hour in God's great Book, do the same tomorrow, the day following, each day for a year, then see the difference in your life, the joy and peace that comes from a full trust in Him and His mighty arm that is stretched out to the wayfaring sons of men in this wilderness.

Orrok Speaks In Chapel on "Women"

"In 563 A. D. women were granted souls" was the unusual statement which Dr. Orrok made at the beginning of his chapel speech last Wednesday. In the Bible, man was given dominion over women, hence man has ever since excelled women. No woman has been prominent in the development or production of fine arts. "Woman has created no work of art unless it be man" were the words of the speaker. He admitted, however, that a few women had been outstanding as actresses but added that perhaps it was because on the stage woman was in her natural role of deceit.

Next Dr. Orrok mentioned Eve and a few of the goddesses. He stated that to call Minerva the goddess of Wisdom was rather sarcastic. "Women are children all their lives and have a diseased imagination all their own which makes them rather good nurses and teachers," Dr. Orrok declared.

In conclusion he quoted lines from Byron and Burns and cunningly proclaimed how idiotic the poets were.

BISON SPORTS

HERD TRAMPLES M'RAE FIVE IN SEASON OPENER

Bisons Take Independent Quintet By a 44 to 13 Score

Vaughn and Roe Star

Initial Contest Easily Taken by Erratic Bisons

Opening their pre-season play on foreign territory, the Bisons easily romped over the McRae Independent quintet with a 44 to 13 score at McRae Thursday night. Besides being the season opener for the Herd, it was their first contest under Coach Robert Vann, D. L. C. alumni. It was the Bison's contest all the way and they were never in danger of being beaten.

Although the game was roughly played, the Herd showed a fairly smooth floor game most of the time. With an attack that centered around Captain "Foots" Vaughn and Elwin Roe, the Bisons jumped to an early lead and were on the long end of a 24 to 4 count at the half way mark. From then on out it was only a repetition of their first half play.

Roe, who played the entire game at one of the guard positions, dropped in eight field goals and one free toss to lead the field in individual scoring with a total of 17 points. Although the majority of his shots were craps, he pushed in an occasional long shot that bordered on the spectacular. Vaughn, playing a forward post, came in just one point behind Roe to score 16 points for second high scoring honors. He found the basket for four field goals and eight free tosses. Both men were outstanding in their play.

For the McRae team, Hombs and King, both forwards, were the high scorers. Both accounted for two field goals and one free throw apiece. Curry, McRae center, was probably the outstanding player for the losers.

The line ups:
Vaughn 16 Hombs 5
Lancaster 5 King 5
Forwards.
Pryor 2 Curry 1
Centers.
E. Roe 17 Cook 0
R. Roe 2 Raines 1
Guards.
Substitutes: Harding—Vann, 3; Kieffer and H. Rhodes.
McRae—Price 2. Referee—S. Bell.

Herd Has Only Four Contests Scheduled

According to Coach Robert Vann, only four basketball games have been definitely scheduled for the Bisons in 1937. Vann revealed that he was trying to get games with practically all of the colleges in Arkansas but that only Arkansas College of Batesville had given definite dates.

To Manage Athletics

Pictured above is Wallis Beasley, who will again act as manager of athletics. Beasley, who is captain-elect of the baseball team, was chosen in a recent election by the basketball squad.

Beasley Selected Athletic Manager

Served In That Capacity During the 1935-36 Season Also

Wallis Beasley, 1936 manager of athletics, will again fill that position in 1937, following an election by the basketball squad some time ago. He has been approved by the Athletic Committee and assumed his duties last week.

Beasley, who is classified as a junior, has been outstanding in athletic circles during his two previous years at Harding. During his freshman year he earned a berth on the baseball team, playing the second base position and hit a healthy .400 to top the Herd batters. During that season he was given honorable mention for the second base position on the all state team and was considered one of the Herd's outstanding players.

Last year, besides managing basketball, he was again a member of the Bison nine, playing the same position. At the close of the season he was elected captain of the 1937 team and will serve in that capacity next spring. His extracurricula activities include membership in the Sub-T, Flagala, and H Clubs.

In making their selection the squad was unanimous in choosing Beasley for the position that he has held since the middle of the 1935 season.

The Herd will play at Batesville January 12 while the Panthers will come to Searcy for a return contest January 23. Then the Bisons will again go to Batesville on February 16 for the third game of the series and the Panthers will come here March 6 for the concluding tussel of the series. This game will also mark the final contest of the season for the Herd.

Vann revealed that he is seeking games with State Teachers, Arkansas Tech, Hendrix, Arkansas State, Ouachita, Henderson State, and several other teams, both in Arkansas and out of the state. He expects to have the schedule completed by the first of the year, he said.

Sportorically Speaking

By Gene Pace.

In the last issue of The Bison it was announced that the Herd would play Lipscomb here the 12th, but Coach Vann says that only the D. L. C. high school team is coming over and they are to play our freshman team. Now isn't that lovely? Paying good money to get a high school team from Nashville to come over here and play our freshmen when we could get a high school team from any place in Arkansas to play the frosh. Oh well, it isn't my money they are spending so why should I worry.

How many of you knew that we were going to play McRae Thursday night? I'll bet not half the school knew it and nothing was said in chapel about it—until afterwards. How do you think the team felt, going on a trip without a single word of well wishing? That is about the way things will go all season too if someone doesn't take it upon himself to organize a pep squad—now that the girls have been excluded.

The boys seemed to have done right well for themselves in that game too. Vaughn and "Preacher" Roe certainly got their share of points with 16 and 17 respectively. The McRae team didn't have an especially good quintet but it was good enough to show what our boys can do and that was the object of the game.

And still the football upsets keep rolling on, although the season is officially closed. When Washington picked Pitt to play in the Rose Bowl in place of either L. S. U. or Alabama the only conclusion that can be drawn is that it is another "up set." It is my opinion that the Huskies thought they had a better chance of beating Pitt than the other two. And as far as that goes, I believe they do have a better chance.

Oh, Oh! Rumors are floating around that another good basketball player will enroll after the Christmas holidays. Personally, I don't know a thing about him, but from all that I can hear he is plenty good. Well, a few more wouldn't hurt anything. I wonder just how much publicity the Bisons will get this year from the state press. It seems to me that it would be a good idea to start publicizing them now like the rest of the colleges in the state are doing their teams. But I have been saying this same thing for years and years and have received for my pains exactly nothing. And then we wonder why our men are never mentioned when it comes time to name an all state team. We certainly don't deserve anything if we just sit back and do nothing. I believe this is one case where "all things will not come to him who waits."

So Wallis Beasley took the managership of the basketball team again, huh? That is one of the hardest and most thankless jobs on the campus and believe you me, I know it is. He has a lot of work to do, little to do it, with, and, if things haven't been changed, no pay for doing it. So don't be too hard on him all of the time.

Since this is the last issue of the Bison this year I suppose I should try to put a lot in this column about how the Herd looks and son on but they don't look good to me yet so I'm going to wait a while. It is true that they ran up a good score against McRae but that doesn't prove a thing. They won their first game last year, too, and look what happened to them then.

In glancing over the subjects of several freshmen themes the other day I was surprised to see the number that wrote on athletics and their connections here. Some went so far as to uphold the playing of football at Harding. Now, personally, I'd be almost afraid to write on that for fear I would flunk the course. Evidently the frosh don't know the position of the teachers on that subject.

Well, until another year, Ill sign off and quit speaking through this column. It has been a lot of fun saying what I thought and I hope I can continue it in 1937.

FROSH TO PLAY LIPSCOMB TEAM HERE SATURDAY

Local Class Champions to Meet a Strong D.L.C. Five

Frosh Team Is Good

First Year Men to Have Several Varsity Players

The freshman quintet, class champions of the current year, will meet the David Lipscomb High School team of Nashville, Tennessee on a local court Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock. It will be the first time in the history of the two schools that a Lipscomb prep quintet has played here.

From reports received of the D. L. C. aggregation it is evident that Coach Bob Neil, a graduate of Harding, will bring a good team with him. His Mustangs were second place winners in their home city last year and have practically the same team this season. They have been working out for some time and will be primed to take the frosh.

The frosh, however, will have a good team, themselves. Included in their number will be several varsity aspirants and their play in the class tournament will go a long way toward their winning the game. Lancaster, Elwin and Roy Roe, and Hugh Rhodes are among those that will play with the frosh and all saw action in the Bison's initial contest with McRae. The Mustangs will have a hard time stopping Elwin Roe, who counted for 17 points against McRae and Lancaster who, although not scoring many points, is considered one of the smoothest players on the squad.

SPORTS GAZING

The sage who claimed figures don't lie never saw college football. Scores of the 1936 season can be so twisted as to make a score of small teams champions of the nation. Our nomination for the undisputed title is St. Vincent's College of some 400 students located at Latrobe, Pa. Here's how the St. Vincent Bearcats won the crown:

The Bearcats beat West Virginia, 6 to 0, the Wesleyans beat Dequesne which beat Pitt, which beat Notre Dame, which beat Northwestern, which beat Minnesota, which beat Washington, which won the Far West bowl bid role by defeating Washington State, 40 to 0. By such process of arithmetic, the Bearcats could lick Minnesota, 67 to 0. They could whip the Washington Huskies, 74 to 0, and hold a track meet at poor Washington State's expense to the merry tune of 114 to 0.—COMMERCIAL APPEAL.

When girls are seen coming off their athletic field, smiling and complimenting each other, the value of their program is obvious. When girls say "I like to play opposite her," we can tell that it is because that girl admires her opponent's playing ability and good sportsmanship. There is nothing to equal the general good feeling and congeniality of the girls in any other phase of the athletic program at Catawba.—PIONEER.

This isn't an editorial column but one can't help admiring such a program and setting it up as somewhat of a goal for us to shoot at. For this goal is, or should be, the aim of all amateur athletics.

Candidates for the Little Rock Junior College basketball team have been ordered to report for practice in the new gymnasium at the college, Coach Longstreth announced.

As the gym has not been completed, the cagers will hold drills at the Arkansas School for the Deaf.—ARKANSAS GAZETTE.
