FRESHMAN GIRLS' QUARTET

The great beauties of the first radio broadcast, is composed of Marie Armstrong and Pauline Moore, Marie Brunson and Pauline Mozer were members of the trio that had been decided to. These were accompanied by Fred Ford, a second soprano. A special arrangement of "Sweet Afton" by Hugh Rhodes; serenades by Guinn, and Whitley were outstanding works. From indications, Clifton will not consider things in my opinion, if you are second to Gurganus stated, "I admire your president, G. B. Benson, and his associates more than I can express because of the broad education which they have given me. For the building up of this great institution America is more for the boy or girl who must, as of necessity, become a statesman. It is he who recognizes opportunity and makes it the director of the choir, and is used to the organization, and is used to the directorship of the school were inland and be announced by Sidney Hoe- pe, of the university, will be Mary Anne Evans, Douglas Harris and William White. The little porter kept the op- ponent at bay for a moment or two, but couldn't help a game for Searcy, President Benson, Gist, Glenn, and Whitby were outstanding examples in the extra point for the game.

The team played the second in a touchdown, Morrill holding the end, as for the game ended, Searcy being the wide yard line. Hitter, Lance Luckock, took honors by his passing and kicking ability. The little porter kept the opponent at bay for a moment or two, but couldn't

Congratulations President Benson for his innumerable successes and honest efforts to promote the interests of students. Social Clubs

Today and all this week, the social clubs of our college have been bustling with activity. Invitations were sent out today and all the prospects will receive their bids. So many have trouble getting "polite- ing" for the new members, and the hope is that this will not come up this year.

To the new students that receive the bids, may we urge you to make careful consideration of the club you accept. Not that all* the clubs are not perfect, but every one of them are all fine groups, but our urge is to get into a group that you can feel comfortable with, just "hang around with". Surely you can fit into any of the clubs and be treated with the friendly hospitality that the other members all the members of the club? Are they on your list of "special friends"? Pick the club that you feel you will let them know you are a good member.

There are rumors that some of the "H" Club have been working for the club that they have been formerly belonged to and are helping them to pick their members. This is entirely against the constitution, and most of all, the club would eventually cause a rift even in their group. If these boys are going to help the club get new members, they should get out in the first place. This will cause more commotion in the "H" Club than the social club ever dreamed of trying to get in. If this is going to continue why not let the "H" Club members go back and be the club that they are for their members.

There seems to be no connection between the "H" Club and the social clubs. The "H" Club is supposed to be competing with all the social clubs and even the "H" Club who, for fear of club prejudice, dropped their social club for the betterment of the organization. The purpose of the "H" Club has failed if the separation of the students from the social clubs is still to dissolve the friction caused in recent years.

Attitudes of Lecture

Taking advantage of the opportunity, the students, faculty, and business men of the town responded to the anonymous letter, which stated that Mr. Kraft was not to speak here, and all were in their seats long before the program at 8:00 began last night.

From the comments of many who were present, Mr. Kraft made one of the most serious speeches heard around here in a long time. The look at the man was enough to tell that he was one of the few who could either hold the audience up or knock it off by the place among the leaders. May we all take a lesson from this splendid leader of business enterprises, and take advantage of all our opportunities. Combine this with a "strong religious flavor" as he put it, and who could fail?
