Record Enrollment Predicted By Officials

Reservations In Both Dormitories Filled With Additional Pours In

ONE STUDENT TO LIVE IN HOUSE TRAILER

According to the reservations sent in, Harding College will have one of the largest enrollments in the history of the school.

"To date there are more reservations sent in than there were at the beginning of school last year," reported Bursar Brown. "This is an indication that we should set a record this year."

Both dormitories are practically full and the general rush for rooms has not yet started. Facilities for light-houseskeepers have been filled and some students may be forced to find rooms out in town.

States not represented last year that have representatives this year are: Massachusetts, West Virginia, Georgia, and New York. Twenty-six states will be represented in this year's student body.

One student, from Massachusetts, is coming by plane to Little Rock and continue her journey to Harding with a special delegate sent by the college. Another student, from Michigan, is going to live on the campus in a camp trailer with his parents.

School will officially begin Monday, September 25 with freshman registration. Tuesday and Wednesday, September 26 and 27 will be devoted to registration of sophomores and upperclassmen and classwork will begin Thursday morning, September 28, at 8:00. A special chapel program will be given on the opening day of school and on the same evening at 8:00 p.m. the Faculty will entertain the student body with a reception, an annual event adopted some years ago.

Students are asked to arrive early enough to get settled and ready for class work Thursday morning, September 28.

New Laundry Employees Added

J. M. Simmons, from Sayre, Oklahoma, accepted the position as manager for the Harding College Laundry and assumed his duties this summer. Mr. Simmons succeeds Hugh Rhodes as manager of the laundry. Rhodes will continue to work in the laundry and attend school this fall.

John Landrum, from Shamrock, Texas, was appointed as solicitor for the cleaning and pressing shop. Mr. Landrum resigned from a similar job at Rogers, Arkansas to accept this one. He succeeds Oran Maness in this position. Mr. Landrum and his family moved to Searcy recently, where his children plan to attend school.

Several Teachers Take Vacations During Summer

Several members of the college faculty took vacations this summer following the closing of the summer term of school work.

Dr. and Mrs. Benson and Dean and Mrs. Sears, visited in the northern states on a combined vacation and campaign trip. They visited in Washington D. C., where Dr. Benson interviewed Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mrs. Roosevelt devoted her column "My Day" to a discussion of the interview and on Harding College, the following day. From there they visited in Wilmington, Delaware, and on up to New York City, and the World's Fair. From there they went up into Canada and then returned to the college.

Professor B. F. Rhodes visited his daughter, Mrs. J. C. Kingsley in Colorado Springs, Colorado. From there he visited his son, Frank, who is pastor for the church in San Francisco, California.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lee Dykes visited Mrs. Dykes' parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Wilks in Cordell, Oklahoma.

Teachers who took summer work at various universities this summer are:

Mrs. Maxie T. McCullough at Richmond, Virginia.

Mr. Neil B. Cope in Northwestern University at Chicago, Illinois.

Mrs. S. A. Bell in the University of Chicago at Chicago.

Mrs. O. M. Coleman and Mrs. Fletcher Jewell in the University of Michigan at Benton Harbor, Michigan.

SPORTS EDITOR REVIEWS LAST YEAR'S INTRAMURALS

It is the custom in the Harding intra-murals for an all-star team to be picked at the conclusion of each sport. This very thing happened last year and it is the purpose of this writer to dig back into the past records and bring forth the heroes of yester-year.

A long, long time ago, back in the fall of 1938 just after school had started, the Harding intramural program started off with touch football. The majority of the boys reported and teams were chosen. They were the Comets, led by R. T. Clark; the Vikings, led by Raymond Vaughn; the Bulldogs led by Excell Berryhill; the Mudhens, led by John Mason; and the Frolikers, led by Hubert Flynt. Well, passes were thrown, touchdowns made, teams lost and teams won and when it was all finished the champs were of two teams who had played to a scoreless tie in the final game. By the toss of a coin the Comets won over the Vikings. Then came the all-star team, consisting of Raymond Vaughn of the Vikings at fullback, R. T. Clark of the Comets at halfback, Bill Harris of the Bulldogs at quarterback, Louis Green of the Frolikers at left end, Bill Bell of the Comets at center, and Red Garrison of the Bulldogs at right end. Reserves on the all-star team were Jack Lay

Many Improvements Made On Campus During Summer

Swimming Pool Repaired; Dining Hall And Kitchen Cleaned; Campus Made Ready For Coming Year

Many improvements have been made on the campus during the summer, in preparation for the opening of school.

One of the outstanding jobs is the cleaning of the kitchen. The walls and floors of the various rooms have been scoured and cleaned.

The swimming pool has been repaired and cleaned also. Door facings that have depreciated were remodeled and concrete pillars were placed at the bottom of the door facings. Some pipes in the filter room which had burst were replaced and the building as a whole was given a thorough cleaning.

On the campus the work included pruning of trees and general cleaning of the grounds.

Quite a bit of painting is being done also. Most of this work is being done in the boy's dormitory. The new art studio is being painted and the floors and walls on the first floor are being varnished.

All of the work is being done by student labor and under the supervision of Hopper, Berryhill, Erwin, Joleman, and Dykes.

Equipment Added To Bus. Ad. Department

Additional equipment has been added to the business administration department, according to Bursar Brown. The new equipment includes a posting machine, demonstration charts, and a dictaphone.

President Benson Gives Welcome To The Students

As the day for the fall opening approaches I can hardly wait for the privilege of seeing the faces of old students on the campus at Harding. The grounds have been well kept during the summer, the buildings have been put in order, and everything is in readiness for your return.

The number of reservations has surpassed that of any previous year; consequently, we are expecting a record enrollment with prospects for the greatest year in the history of Harding.

We have also made definite progress on our financial campaign and are still looking forward to the complete liquidation of our indebtedness this calendar year. In fact, we are still hopeful that the mortgage can be destroyed on Thanksgiving day. In this event, we will have the greatest Thanksgiving day in the history of Harding College.

We want each of you to continue his efforts to bring new students this fall. This is exactly the time that some students will be making their final decision, so renew your efforts with those whom you have had in mind during the summer and bring with you every possible student.

We hope that no one of you who has been planning to enter Harding College this fall will allow anything to prevent your doing so. Remember, "Where there is a will there is a way." Continue your efforts to be with us for the biggest opening in the history of Harding College.

Sincerely yours,
George S. Benson
President

Print Shop Busy This Summer

During the summer, the Harding College Print Shop has been running at full speed.

Under the supervision of Homer Howk, the shop has printed six bulletins, the college catalog, several small jobs, and this issue of the Bison.

The bulletin work, totaling over 100,000 copies, was done in two color printing, thus making the Kluge Master Feeder Press revolve approximately 200,000 times on the bulletins alone.

The college catalog, numbering 2,500 copies, was printed also, including the binding and bookwork, which was done in the shop.

In addition to Mr. Howk, the print shop crew includes Quentin Gateley, Dennis and Winston Allen, and Mona Belle Campbell. Gateley is in charge of the shop while Mr. Howk is on his vacation in Ohio.

Softball Team Here This Summer

While the summer school was in session Harding was represented by a softball team which travelled around the county playing teams who in turn came to the Harding diamond for return engagements.

Under the leadership of Coach Berryhill and Prof. Joe L. Leslie, the team won 9 games and lost two. The two games lost were to Judsonia who also suffered defeat at the hands of the Bisons.

Six New Teachers Added To College Faculty Rostum

Elliott, Hopper, Stapleton, Stapleton, Hughes, And Rhodes Added To List Of Faculty.

Six new members have been added to the faculty of Harding College for the coming year. Totalling thirty-four, the faculty rostrum includes:

College Dedicated to Helping Young People Fit Themselves for Christian Living

"Harding is different." This is a statement one hears frequently around the campus from those who have seen the school from close range. Everyone who has experienced a year or more at Harding understands why the school has come to deserve its reputation of being "different," for its individuality is no doubt the most prominent feature of this small but influential school.

The vast state owned institutions and the extensive privately controlled universities, though their research departments have accomplished much in scientific, social, and educational directions, have in most cases become rather stereotyped in their under-graduate processes of mass-production education.

Harding's size contributes definitely to her individuality in a number of ways. The new student does not become lost in a maze of names, becoming a nonentity. He is able to know personally every student; the close association of young people who possess ideals similar to his own soon proves an antidote for that uncomfortable homesickness common to those leaving home for a strange place. The faculty is able to know the student, and the student more easily attains profitable associations with teachers in an environment which is not so large that one becomes lost. Personal and individual instruction with due regard for each student's possibilities and interests is a reality at Harding, and further progress is being made in this direction continually.

But Harding has been extending her boundaries each year. Students from more states are coming this year, and each new session since her beginning has shown an increase in the number of students who wish to take advantage of the many things that are "different" at Harding.

In being different Harding has not sacrificed the quality of her academic training. On the other hand the liberal arts training which authoritative educators value most highly in the college and university educational process has been constantly improved. Completely trained instructors in charge of standard courses are adding materials which make them more interesting and profitable. New courses are being added to keep each department up-to-date. It is possible also to obtain along with training in the arts and sciences that specialization which has been found practical for students entering the business field, teaching, and many other professions.

Each faculty member and administrator at Harding believes in the importance of higher education. But of infinitely greater importance is the fact that at Harding—and this is the most easily recognized difference setting this college apart from all others—there abounds a unified Christian environment. Harding believes that religious training and practical Christianity are most important in any type of education.

Truly, an education which ignores the principles of Christ has not a great deal to recommend it when final analyses are made. Christian living is best living, and education is preparation for living in this world as well as the next.

Harding is different!

Press Club Expecting A Profitable Year Of Activity, Editor Says

The Bison, Press Club publication and student newspaper of the college, anticipates during the school year soon to begin a profitable period on its own part as well as a full year of reporting and recording campus events for its readers, according to Buck Harris, Editor of the paper.

"We are expecting all of last years' able staff workers to return and, with an infusion of new material, begin the year with a great deal of enthusiasm," stated Harris, adding that a good many improvements are being planned in the routine work of the Press Club with the assistance of Mr. Cope, Faculty Adviser.

The college weekly begins its twelfth year of publication with the present issue, its fourth year as a weekly, and the second year of printing by the Harding Press.

"Our primary purpose," explained Harris, "is to present all the news desired by the students, faculty, administration, parents, alumni, and all others actively interested is the institution."

The Bison also helps to create, through the expression of students thought and ideals, a wholesome college spirit which will support the aims and traditions of the institution. Worthy college activities are encouraged and supported.

As an outlet for creative efforts of students not only in writing, but in drawing and photography, the paper hopes to extend its usefulness as a helpful tool in profitable education.

The paper has won in the past many honors in competition with other college papers of the state through the Arkansas College Press Association of which it is a member. In 1937-38 it was awarded first honors as best weekly in the state, and barely missed repeating last year. The cup for best makeup has been won by the paper for the past two years, and numerous other individual awards have been won by members of the Press Club.

Meditations

MABLE DEAN McDONIEL

I'm glad Buck asked me to write my column for this Welcome edition of The Bison. It gives me an opportunity to say "welcome" to the new and "I can hardly wait to see you" to the old students.

Harding will not be the same this year as it was last. Every new group of students bring new ideas, new purposes. I returned my second year and saw the mass of new students and so few of the old in comparison, I felt like a stranger, whereas I had expected to belong. Again, it will be the same—but it is that ardent group of enthusiastic, eager, freshmen that makes for the fervor and excitement that accompanies the coming of a new term.

The old campus looks as natural and familiar as ever. I drove by the other day and I missed: the usual group gathered about the fish pond... couples in the swings... loafers about the dorm steps... and a stream of students bursting forth from the Ad. building, fresh from classes.

I never knew a place could be so lonesome as a college during the summer. After most of the students had gone I remained a few weeks to keep the library and I received a sample of what the deserted village must have been like.

It's wise to make plans now, freshmen, to participate in a number of activities. The happiest college student is never idle—Press... poetry... glee clubs... chorus... debate... oratory... athletics—all await to be chosen. Scholastics, literary, social and athletic activities—a fair sprinkling of each helps to make a complete college life, with little time for homesickness.

The confusion of classifying, hunting for classrooms, the sizing up of teachers, meeting roommates, changing and fixing rooms, unpacking, making new friends—all are synonymous with the beginning.

Soon I shall expect to see: Mr. Hopper, sitting down by the boiler room... Dr. Benson, hurrying to his office, half walking, half running... Bro. Armstrong, instructing his Bible class, vividly, patiently... Miss Score, hunting carefully for a book... Mr. Kirk, leading singing in chapel... and everyone!

And I'm looking forward to: The first chapel... the get-acquainted party... first press club meeting... just looking across the campus from the stilt... greeting new students... seeing old friends and the faculty... fall outings... getting settled in the "Armstrong palace"... and just being back.

Spirit Of Christ

Harding's Christian Influence

By Hugh Rhodes

There is certainly a value to Christian influence. The question, however, is this: just where can we obtain this influence for good.

There are many universities in the land today. They are established for mental and physical training. These universities are well prepared for this kind of training, but they seem to leave out the main item in a person's life, especially Christianity. That is the training in this life for the future life.

Some of these institutions even teach that there is no God and no hereafter. This fact has wrecked the faith of many young men and women who go there in order to prepare themselves only for this life. Their minds are soon taken away from the value of the future and centered on values of this life.

You know sin is horrible and the results of sin are damning. When Adam sinned, he had to die for that sin, and all the human race since has had to suffer for sins of their own and of others. Sin has caused all the sickness, sadness, strife and envy of the world today. If it were not for sin there would not be war in foreign lands at the present and innocent women and children would not have to suffer because of the sins of others. Sin causes mental suffering such as idiocy and insanity.

Any thing that is the transgression of a law is sin. The making of a law does not keep people from sinning or transgressing the law. It takes more than a mere law to make man live right, and this is a fact that many state institutions of the country overlook. They don't realize that it takes a high moral standard and a way to make young men and women realize the value of these standards in order that they may live right.

Many parents who have not had the right concept of the future for their children have sent them to some school that knows not God. They were sorry after it was too late because the faith of their boy or girl was wrecked forever.

Harding College realizes the fact that it takes a good environment and the establishing of a strong Christian Spirit in the hearts of its students in order to make them valuable in his Christian life.

Not only is there a value in the young Christian's life in the fact that he has a promise of the greatest reward ever give to man, that of eternal life. But there is also a value in this present life. Why are some of the largest industries and nation's leading business firms asking for all the graduates that can be sent to them from Harding? The only reason is that Harding instills honesty, purity in living, and even a stronger faith in humanity within the hearts of its students. Business firms realize this value and even though they are not Christians themselves they want graduates from a Christian institution.

One of the main facts that makes the influence for good so outstanding in Harding is the fine group of teachers that it has. Such men, I feel, are great in God's sight because of their humbleness, and great in man's sight because of their willingness to sacrifice for the cause and spread of Christianity. They are the ones who are responsible for the good influence of Harding. Bro. Armstrong, Bro. Rhodes and Bro. Bell are men who have been with Christian schools for many years, yielding a great influence over the boys and girls who come here and are interested in Christianity. Bro. Benson, who has been president only three years, has the respect and admiration of the students of Harding because of his personal interest in each of them and his high standards of Christian living.

We can't leave out the fact that the students of Harding also play a part in the Christian atmosphere. Many of the students, especially upper classmen, realize that there are younger students who are less

The New Year

Well, here we are again, all set for another year of sports writing, and from all reports this should be a good year, sportically speaking. The vast intra-mural program, which is outlined in Coach Berryhill's article, should afford plenty of food for the sports writer's appetite. The advantages are that this year there will be many more new sports added, and of course this will mean many more participants in the sport field. After all, the more people who can enter sports for the recreation and enjoyment in it, the more there is accomplished.

Searcy Hi Lions

The Searcy High School Lions

experienced looking to them more or less as an example. I remember my first year a Harding after I became acquainted with the different types of students, I picked out three or four seniors who were preachers as my models. I hoped that by the time I had become a senior, I might be looked up to by the student body as these were and that I might have the influence over some freshman that they had had over me.

When we speak of the Christian influence of Harding I don't see how we can leave out the Spirit of Harding. I believe that the spirit of Harding plays a great part in the influence of the school. There is something about Harding that every student likes. It can't be described but yet it is here. The student body and faculty have been termed a "just one big happy family," and this term is certainly true in a sense. If this were not true, why would the majority of the seniors hate to leave the place, and why do so many want to come back every chance they get? It is because of the close relationship the students have with each other in Christian living.

Friends, Harding's influence cannot be excelled. Of course from all reports the other Christian schools are the same, but I know and appreciate Harding because it has been my home for the past three years.

Her Christian influence will be priceless to you, too.

will begin their '39 football season this Friday under the floodlights at McRae Field, their opponents being Heber Springs. The Lions, captained by Guy Davis and Eldon Polletts, will face a reasonably tough schedule this year, and with thirteen lettermen returning, should capture the majority of the games.

Bill Hilger, Guy Davis, and Curtis Walker are the mainstay of the Lion offense, and James Aclin, Glenn Reynolds, and Conley Bolding will serve equally as well on the defense.

Harding Academy has a former student on the Lion squad in Burl Dykes. Burl lettered last season, and with this experience to his credit, should become one of the Lion ground-gainers.

Preacher Roe

According to the Baseball Weekly, a national baseball magazine, Preacher Roe is doing right well for himself while playing for Rochester in the International League. In one game that Preacher hurled, he allowed only one hit to win by a score of 4 to 0. The latest dope that this department has on him is that he has won six and lost one. To those who don't know who Preacher Roe is, let me say that he is one of the best athletes Harding has produced. He pitched the Bisons to the championship in 1938 and has given Harding more publicity than the bulletins.

By the way, I hear that he plans to continue his education here in the winter term.

Swimming

Swimming should "take its place in the sun" this year in Harding athletics. This sport has been made obsolete of the regular intra-murals and with so many good swimmers on the campus shows a promise of popularity among the students. Last year, the college was privileged to have among its student body two Red Cross Life Saving Examiners. This year, both Margaret Alston and Buck Harris will be back to serve in that capacity again. In addition to these two distinguished life saving workers, I, myself, attended a National Aquatic School at Rockaway Beach, Missouri, last summer where I became a Water Safety Instructor. Of course, our indoor pool here limits a water safety program, but this also includes the life saving that is included in an examination, thus making three Red Cross workers on the campus. It is the present trend to replace examiners with the water safety instructors.

Searcy Lions Prepare For Tough Schedule

With the return of thirteen lettermen to form the nucleus of the squad, the Searcy High School Lions began football practice September 1st in preparation for their 1939 schedule, the first to be played here on September 15.

Coach "Curly" Ball, former all-stater from State Teachers, predicts a better season for the Lions despite the fact that they will face a much tougher schedule. The team will be led by Guy Davis and Eldon Pollett, to serve as co-captains. Davis has been shifted from his end position to the backfield and will have the major part of the ball carrying burden. Pollett will continue to pave the way for Lion touchdowns from his blocking back position.

Other outstanding lettermen are Bill Hilger, triple threat back who is noted for his quick kicks and accurate passing, Curtis Walker, passer and ball carrying speedster, and James Aclin, who is the main cog in the Lion defense from his center position. Other lettermen are Burl Dykes and Conley Bolding, backs, and Shelby Forrest, Wendall Singleton, Warren Lanz, Louis Cupples, Jack Spaulding, and Vernon Cole, linemen. Reserves from last years squad are Hassell Newton and Hendrix Bell, backs and Walter Smith, Glenn Reynolds, Jewell Stringfellow, and Billy Hammond, linemen. Combined with eleven new men the squad numbers 32 candidates.

Searcy fans will have plenty of chances to see the Lions in action this season. Seven of the 12 games will be played at home. New opponents of the Lions are Helena, Cotton Plant, and Lonoke. The schedule is as follows:

- Sept. 15 - Heber Springs, here.
- Sept. 22 - Stuttgart, there.
- Sept. 29 - Helena, here.
- Oct. 6 - Newport, there.
- Oct. 13 - Walnut Ridge, there.
- Oct. 20 - Cotton Plant, here.
- Oct. 27 - Morrilton, here.
- Nov. 3 - Batesville, there.
- Nov. 10 - Lonoke, here.
- Nov. 17 - Conway, here.
- Nov. 24 - Carlisle, here.
- Nov. 30 - Augusta, there.

LAST YEAR'S INTRAMURALS

swimmers were Toar Pryor of the Minnows, Robert Oliver of the Sharks, Hugh Rhodes of the Sharks, Maurice Hinds of the Whales and Scott Blansett of the Perch.

The next phase of the intramural program was the social club basketball tournament. All the clubs entered teams, and played in single elimination, the results were as follows: Lambda Sigma defeated the Koinonias 30 to 19, the Sub-T's drew and a bye, the Cavaliers trampled the Pix 49 to 16, and the Tagmas defeated the T. N. T.'s 18 to 17 for the first round. In the semifinals the Lambda Sigma won over the Cavaliers 13 to 12, and the Sub-T's beat the Tagmas 34 to 32. Then in the finals the Lambda Sigma nosed out the Sub-T's by a score of 27 to 26 for the championship. The all-star team chosen consisted of Oren Heffington, Sub-T, forward; Buck Harris, T. N. T., forward; Gorman Wilks, Lambda Sigma, center; Clark Stevens, Tagma, guard; and Jack Hudkins, Cavalier, guard.

All Harding turned out on Friday March 31 for the annual track and field day with the competition between the various social clubs. The results of the meet were: Lambda Sigma 55 points, Sub-T 44, T.N.T. and Cavalier each 25, Koinonia 23 and the Tagmas 4 in the boy's division. In the girl's division the Sap-phonians won with 24, Ko-Jo Kai's 20, L. C.'s 19, Ju Go Ju's 5, W.H.C.'s 3, and the Mu Etta Adelpheans, we see your name among the all-stars?

Individual stars were Hugh Rhodes for the boys and Theda Hulett for the girls. For the final intramural event of the '38-39 school year, the Harding athletes assembled at the tennis courts for the spring tourney. With competition very close the tourney advanced to the finals with Jack Hudkins defeating Clark Stevens 6-4, 6-4 for the school championship. Thus ended the intra-murals. But not for long. They will be resumed this year with much more concentration and many more games. New ones added are badminton, croquet, horseshoes, hockey, volley ball, and indoor soft ball. Again this year all-star teams will be chosen and points will be added for awards to be given at the end of the school year. May we see your name among the all-stars?

Berryhill Gives Athletic Outline In Phys. Ed. Dept.

Several New Games Added To Intramural Program

Actual participation on the part of each student in some worthwhile physical activity has long been regarded as one of the aims of education. In order to better attain the objectives of a well-rounded program of physical education for students as a whole, the department of physical and health education has divided the program into three phases one of which receives full credit and leads to an academic minor. The purpose of this article is to explain in some detail the plan above that students may understand more completely the opportunities for individual participation in the various activities. It is not necessary that a person be an expert in order to engage in these activities. This point cannot be stressed too greatly. All one needs is the desire to play or to learn to play. Now to the program in detail.

First, the department will offer courses leading to a minor in formal physical education. These courses are designed to meet the requirements of the state accrediting agency. Studies in the history of physical education, health and safety education, gymnastics, direction of intra-mural programs, swimming coaching of basketball, coaching of track and field, and supervision of playground games will be made available in addition to regularly required freshmen courses. Second, special attention is being given to improving recreational activity opportunities on the campus. Playgrounds including croquet, horseshoes, and badminton; tennis courts; gymnasium; and swimming pool will be available to students at all times when regularly scheduled physical education classes are not in session. Each student is encouraged to make a practice of engaging in some recreational activity each day. Third, is the organization of the intra-mural program. These activities will be open to all students. Anyone wishing to participate may do so by registering for each activity as it is presented. A permanent record of the participation of each student in the various activities will be kept on file for transcript reference purposes. A system of recording points is completed and suitable awards will be given to the highest point makers over the entire year. Such awards will be made on the basis of ability, performance and sportsmanship. A schedule of the activities on the intra-mural program follows.

1. Softball: to be finished by November 1.
2. Touch football: to be finished by November 25.
3. Horseshoe tournament: to be finished by December 9.
4. Basketball: to be finished by January 20.
5. Volleyball: to be finished by February 7.
6. Gym Hockey: to be finished by February 24.
7. Badminton: to be finished by March 9.
8. Boxing: to be finished by March 30.
9. Track and Field: to be finished by April 6.
10. Wrestling: to be finished by April 27.
11. Swimming: to be finished by May 4.
12. Tennis: to be finished by May 16.
13. Softball: remainder of year. Will not count in points for intra-mural awards.
