Bursar Brown Reveals The Hard Task Of Being A Bursar-Collector

During a conversation with Bursar Brown, I found in some small ways that he has to get into the habit of keeping accounts and trying to collect money from those who owe the school. Here is an unusual but not unknown to the turner in regard to old accounts. Names and dates in the old ledgers.

Mr. C. D. Brown
Business Manager
Farmingdale, N. Y.

Your letter of Sept 1st—and also the one of Oct 21st do not in any way affect the account of....

On the other hand, the statement of the above was only a small part of the information that Bursar Brown was prepared to give. It is interesting to see how much of this information was covered by the title of the article when it was published and distributed to the students.

At this point, I would like to thank Bursar Brown for his time and effort in providing this information. It is clear that much care and attention is needed to ensure that students are properly informed about their financial obligations.

FRESHMAN CLASS ORGANIZE UNDER CONSTITUTION

When requirements for membership are met, Marie and Louis have been initiated yearly. It seems that we have received blessing~ which have been increased yearly. until today we have been able to give to others as much to be thankful for as we do. Others enjoy some of the privileges we do not.

Last week's editorial contained some words which struck home for many extra-curricular activity. And indeed there are many examples here. A student who is too busy to think of others who study, or to think of himself, or to think of his own activities, is living in a world of his own. He is likely to think of others only when someone else brings it to his attention. This is one reason why the candle ceremony is so important. It is the crowning achievement of those who have been initiated. It is the recognition of their efforts, and their sacrifice. It is the acknowledgment of their contribution to the community.

When one is initiated, it is not enough to receive the candle and to say, "Thank you." One must also be willing to give. One must be willing to help others. One must be willing to be a part of the community. One must be willing to be a part of the school. One must be willing to be a part of the world. One must be willing to be a part of society. One must be willing to be a part of history.

The candle ceremony is one of the most impressive moments in the life of a student. It is the crowning achievement of those who have been initiated. It is the recognition of their efforts, and their sacrifice. It is the acknowledgment of their contribution to the community.

We have, of course, many blessings already received to give thanks for, but our greatest blessing lies in our latent powers. We have in our possession, the ability to do all that we can. We have the ability to think for ourselves. We have the ability to act for ourselves. We have the ability to lead ourselves. We have the ability to make our own decisions. We have the ability to be our own masters. We have the ability to be our own rulers. We have the ability to be our own judges. We have the ability to be our own creators. We have the ability to be our own critics. We have the ability to be our own editors. We have the ability to be our own writers.

JOIN THE AMERICAN RED CROSS

This week is the week for the annual drive for the American Red Cross in our school. Although I have joined it this year, I have not done so in the past. Those who have become members realize that it is through the efforts of others who have had as much as possible to give that we are able to help others.

Along with our Thanksgiving to God this week, we are grateful for the generosity of others who have had as much to give. We are grateful for the generosity of those who have given beyond what they could give.

Let's add one more reason for giving thanks to God this week. Let's add one more reason for giving thanks to God this week. Let's add one more reason for giving thanks to God this week.

The selection is important—next year's annual drive will depend on the results of this year's drive.

Bears Go On

Teams Will Meet Thanksgiving Day

One of the greatest exhibitions of touch football at Harding has been witnessed since the Bears conquered the Green Bay Packers 13 to 6.

This first quarter was an even battle in both sides, but, the Bears called in the second on several running plays after they had intercepted a Packer pass.

The fourth quarter found the Bears in a scoring mood. They held the ball, put in two touchdowns to reverse the course of victory and scored the big point. Buck Harris made an extra point.

The Bears came right back in the second quarter when they were awarded a safety after the Razorbacks fell on the ball. Jack Lay started the drive from the Harding 28 yard line. The Bears scored on the first play, and the Bears in a scoring mood. They have been defeated by a Reveille.
