Invitations Sent Out As Six-Weeks Period Ends

A new era in college life was be- gun Monday morning when invitations from the social clubs were sent to prospective members. The boys' and girls' clubs have been clasping chances to win six weeks before deciding who would be most suited to their respective groups. This was in accordance with the regulation of the club organization between the clubs themselves.

Those who accepted invitations to become members of various social organizations are as follows:

Boy's Clubs:

Tages: John Sone, Ed Studdard, Rodric Cullity, Durin Hager, Cicee Poore, and Billy Robinson.

Cavaliers: Jack Rack, Lloyd Lloyd, and Beene Brown.

Lamba Sigmas: Arthur Mundy, Coby Smith, Billie Stumpf, and Deener Dobbins.

Girls Social Clubs Initiate New Members Friday Night

Gata

Simplicity and dignity marked the impressive formal initiation of the GATA club, Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Dykes.

The rooms were spectacularly decorated for the occasion with a lithe flower, the white chrysanthemum. Whatever may have been the only light.

Eleven new members were received by Dot Baker, Verl Craver, Myrona Williams and Mrs. Dykes and were seated in a semi-circle around the table where a large GATA pin made of chrysanthemum and blue flowers was placed. This was a token of GATA unity and symbolizing the hopes, ideals, aims, strength, peace, purpose, happiness, service, and devotion of each GATA. Individual corsages were placed beside the pin. These were regal in form and a symbol of affection.

As Jane played "When They Do Dance," by G. B. De Bryta, melody on the violins, Dot Baker, president, extended the invitation to all new members, and bade the assembly at the GATA pin. As she made a wish, Myrona and Verl Craver pinned a corsage on each individual member. They made a wish to make, to make their lives happier and brighter and more beautiful. In conclusion, Jack Baker, vocalized "The Man of Gita." A tea was given in honor of the new GATA's immediately following the initiation.

The table was covered with a white cloth. The centerpieces was a bouquet of white chrysanthemums on a blue cloth. White illuminated decorations completed the decorations. Mrs. Dykes, club sponsor, presided at the tea table.

Oklahoma's Give Halloween Party In Dining Hall

The Oklahoma Club entertained the students and faculty Thursday night in the ball hall with a Halloween party. The party was kept up from the general idea of Hallowe'en and was emblematic of Oklahoma and the American Indian throughout. Costumes and masks were made by students and prizes were given for the best costumes. Fy O'Neill, in typical Oklahoma overdyed denim, conducted the program.

The program consisted of orchestral music, the original and musical Interlude in the original, a general costume and acrobats, a fort Kr. D. Lawrence and Carley Page, who played the harmonica and guitar, a shadow show, and an apple eating contest. After the winners were announced, the Oklahoma Club served refreshments consisting of apple cider, cookies, and popcorn balls.

The dining hall was decorated in orange and black paper, and the traditional Jack-o-lanterns, pumpkins, and corn shocks. The elaborate decorations required several hours of labor, for which Fy O'Neill deserves all honor. The "riddles it is explained, "are thank them for it.

The Sadie Gyms, assisted by Ad-

Gates, bested the contest with his dancing of the black- man. Prices for the apple eat- ing contest were received to Lloyds Store and his assistants.

Before closing the program, O'Neill, realizing for the Oklahoma Club invited the students back for another party and Halloween. He said that it is an annual affair.

The Oklahoma Club consists of 20 members and an Oklahoma, about twenty-

Clifton Gaines, wides a busy sniper from his past achievement, has now developed into a triple-threat back, winning ball passer, sending the oval down in long aerial puffs, and hitting like a pins driver when the occasion demands.

The Giants and Packers have proven themselves to be formidable foes. Both teams have big running men and are lacking not one wit in for three downs backs a crushing 20-6 blow.

The Bears were handed a hard blow by the injury of Kyle Dykes a punt game. With Dykes out of the picture, the Bears were off balance. They could not use his passes and deceptive running.

In the third game of the current football season the undefeated high school Lions held the Bears, 17 to 0. The Lions managed to score two touchdowns, each run coming on the sidelines with the Bears ailing. The Lions' defense was so effective that the Bears were shut out.
