Glee Clubs Sing Christmas Carols at Sunday Concert

Men's And Girls' Glee Clubs Combine For Presentation

Christmas carole and sacred music were sung by members of the boys' glee club, girls' glee club, girls' trio, and a varsity choir in a twilight concert Sunday afternoon at 4:30 in the college auditorium. Model dressed in costumes for the concert, and members of the group were splendidly decorated for the occasion.

"O Come, O Come Emmanuel," sung by the choir, opened the concert, followed by "How Great Is Your King." The boys' glee choir sang "Silent Night," "Whose Birmingham Was That," followed by another selection from the "Fireside Glee Club." "Silent Night" was sung by the trio, the girls' glee choir by the girls' trio, and the glee club by the glee club choir.

"Christmas Lullaby" by the chorus and "How Great the Story of the One of Jesus' birth" concluded the program. Members of the glee club chimes entered the program with the selection "O Holy Night." The "Shirley Girls" sang "Brown, Vernon Boyd, William Jones, and J. Bartley sang solo parts, and "Silent Night" with an echo choir, closed the concert.

Foy Short Visits Harding Campus This Week

Foy Short, who has opened many a new student's mind at the University of Arkansas, was on campus this week-end.

David and Shirley Short have been in Arkansas since Foy went to the University of Arkansas, and are planning to return to the campus.

"This Week's Topical:

WHAT ARE YOU PLANNING FOR CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS?

Margaret Naugle: Going home to be with my family.

Bob Revere: Going home with Marie.
office student newspaper, published weekly by the students of Harding College, Searcy, Arkansas, during the academic year. "The Bison" is available in the offices of larger newspapers. And as in other newspapers, most of the columns are written by students. Just why does most of the printed matter mailed to the Bison receive no attention, while some of it or all of it, are received in question of future reference? The reason, obviously, is that it has no attractiveness, or no particular need, or is in the news and printing on any particular day, all the time of the day's efficiency and usefulness worth. And I may frankly admit that he has given me more trouble than any other staff member. The two of us have threatened to fire him altogether, but his loyalty and his sense of humor will not let us take him.

The world is full of folks that attract no attention, or fill no particular place of usefulness, and what is good, right, and worthwhile. Such people go about their business too darned well in school, in business, or anywhere else.

On the other hand, there are a few who have high determination, who are born of friends. They show the world that they are not satisfied with being nobody else, somebody else else, somebody else. It is an importance of making themselves better than the average, and that they are the top of the ladder. Anybody can be mediocre, they reason, but the man who gets out ahead must stand out, and is willing to do his job, or give himself completely to the task of serving himself by showing that he can serve others.

The man who is satisfied to let somebody be beautiful has ever heard. Christmas carols help the happy holiday season can bring! the best picture.

Kathleen Johnston And Vernon Boyd Wed In Impressive Ceremony

The wedding of Kathleen Johnston and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Williams of Greensboro was an eventful one, taking place on December 23, 1948. The ceremony was held at the grandparents' residence with the presence of a large number of friends.

The service was held on the farm, which was decorated with a large number of flowers. Mrs. Boyd's costume was of pink Harding. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Dr. Benson, and was accompanied by Mrs. Boyds, the bridesmaids were the granddaughters of Dr. Benson. The groom was Abner, and Hugh Rhodes as Marshall. The quartet consisted of Kathleen Johnston and Vera Creasy, and Hugh Rhodes, Wanda Allen, and Harding Payne. Mrs. Johnston and Vera Creasy were the soloists. The ceremony was officiated by Rev. J. E. Gorrie, who won a contest for the honor of presiding over the ceremony at the last minute.

The reception followed immediately after the ceremony. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was received by her groom and the guests. The guests were treated to a three-tiered wedding cake, topped with a ring and a rose. The cake was beautifully decorated with white roses and a white bow.

The wedding party included the following:

- Mrs. Johnston
- Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Williams
- Miss Betty Maple, maid of honor

The reception was held at the farm and included a variety of refreshments, including cake, punch, and a three-course meal. The guests were treated to a special performance by the bride and groom, who sang a duet to the accompaniment of the quartet.

Gata's Entertain With Barn Party

Title Cinched By Packers In Win Over Bears

Playing the last game of the season, the Packers ended their schedule with a 12-0 victory over the fighting Bears and a

Jack Lay sparkled his championship team by throwing a touchdown pass to Leon Huggins in the end zone. Following this he bore the extra point. Later in the game, Jack threw a lateral to Chub, who forwarded it to Jack Fischer for the second and last touchdown of the game.

Requiring youthful the Bears threatened to overrun in several occasions. Ed Whitman pulled a "sleepless" play and got out in the shot, but failed the pass which would have meant a touchdown.

Bill Harris, shifty back for the Bears, made several fine plays for his team when throwing passes of Wayne Smithers, who did some useful blocking.

Bill win and loss is the record of the Packers team, barely realizing the Giants, who took over second place in the contest of five wins, a loss, and a tie. The Packer's last loss was the fourth, and the Lions, high school team, fifth.

FOOTBALL:

Battle off to Jack Lay and hisacity Most Men. They successfully clinched the number one berth in the 1940 season of football.

With might and wily deception, they subdued victory over the enemy from the hands opponents. Only once they faltered at the finish, when the Hanky Giants scored them out on the short end of an 8-4 score. Even this might not have left the game uncontested if the Packer's star triple threat, Jack Lay, had not been absent.

Jack was undoubtedly the most outstanding player on the field. He ran nobly and shrewdly. His sagacious finger tip seemed to draw the play of the entire front line of the Giants, his speed and superior ability made him an almost invulnerable defense man, and his long, leaping jumps bought the Packers out of many a dark spot.

BASKETBALL:

Just as Christmas vacation is only around the corner, so basketball season is upon us once again. It's time to dust off those basketball shoes, fellows, and get that old eye quickened for the basket.
