ARMSTRONG TALKS TO PREACHERS AT RELIGIOUS FORUM

Fair Play, Kindness, and Truthfulness Are Emphasized in Discussion on Nationalism in Next Topic for Discussion

J. R. Armstrong spoke on the subject of "Fair Play in Dispute" at the first meeting of the religious forum Thursday evening in the chapel.

"For a speaker to be kind, fair, and considerate does not mean that he is not standing and firm in the battle," Dr. Armstrong said. "We are not fighting the man but we are fighting evil and wrong. Therefore, a preacher who has not been a bulldog, but who is kind, not fighting the man, but fighting the issue, is doing a great deal of good for the cause he believes in."

The goal is to educate people and considerate does not mean that he is not fighting the issue. It should be presented without the use of force. It is better to win the argument than to win the battle. The goal is to educate people and present the issues in a way that people can understand and accept. This is what Armstrong emphasized in his discussion.

Write Muses On Problem Of Love on Harding Campus

By (Arthur Moody)

There is love and lust and love, and the supreme love man can express is in his obedience to the will of the Creator. How much better it would be if all men had such love of God's lovely creation rather than the Creator himself.

John Knows, president of the Interrelations Club, called an early meeting of that group in the beginning of 1942 to organize a full program for the year. The first meeting was held in the Administration Building.

"The supreme love man can express is in his obedience to the will of the Creator. How much better it would be if all men had such love of God's lovely creation rather than the Creator himself.

Notice!

One of the plan sponsors for theหนองийศกินงาน was called to the chapel to announce that the topic for discussion on the evening of January 16 would be "Who's the Perfect Preacher?"

The topic was announced by the chairman of the chapel, John Blanding, who spoke on the subject of "Preachers and the Church." He emphasized the importance of preaching in the church and the role of the preacher in today's society. He also discussed the challenges faced by preachers today and the need for them to be adaptable and responsive to the needs of their congregations.

Debate Teams Enter Tournament At Tahlequah

Three Harding teams attended the junior debate tournament at Eastern State Teachers College in Tahlequah, Oklahoma, January 10 and 11.

Professor Queen and Winfield Roberts won one of their two out of three debates, failing to qualify for the finals. Their topic was "Was Justice William Marion and Kelley defeated in all of their two out of three debates, was required to win four out of five to qualify for the finals.

The question for the senior debate was the one used at the junior debate, "Resolved: That the nation of the Western Hemisphere should enter into a permanent pacification."

Robert and Janae Thomas were selected as the team of the year, and Robert also received the individual award for most distinguished participation.

"Studying Bible" Is Subject of Radio Sermon

By (Woodrow Wilson)

Dr. Armstrong spoke for the regular morning devotional broadcast and announced the topic for the reading of the Bible. In this he was directed by the President of the university and the Bible for everyone.

Even fears was the announcement of the subject for the Sunday morning, in the morning prayer.

"The hymn singers offered the music of "Christ the Lord Is Risen Today," and "I Could I Speak The Message" and "In Christ Is Cross of Christ I Glory.""
ATHLETICS BEING DE-EMPHASIZED

In a late issue of the College Profile, weekly student newspaper of Harding College, Searcy, Ark., an editorial comment appears calling attention to the fact that Harding College has no varsity football team. The College Executive Committee has announced that there will be no recruiting of football players for next season and that the football schedule for 1942 will not be announced.

The new policy, according to the College, was due to the budgetary conditions of the institution. In its steady, according to Dr. H. J. Hazelwood, head of the Harding athletic department, this will conduct an experiment in making recreation a distinctly educational function. This will be accomplished by including some extra activities which will eliminate some of the student activities and allow the team to participate in other activities which are the result of the intercollegiate football program.

Another nearby school that has de-emphasized all sports activities is Western University in Searcy, Ark. The College Executive Committee has announced that there will be no recruiting of football players for next season and that the football schedule for 1942 will include only those individuals who are attempting to fulfill the requirements for the degree similar to that of Southeastern. It is hoped that in time the Western athletic department may be included in the group of the leaders in a concern with preventing football being just football and not in college business," the committee stated.

Also comes a report of an official meeting of the Southeastern Athletic Conference which was held in New York City recently, who took several steps toward “dancing up” collegiate athletics especially football. This is in keeping with the move made by the administration of Chicago several years ago to do away with intercollegiate sports altogether in favor of an expanded intercollegiate program for educational and recreational purposes.

Such reports came with particular interest to Harding students because of their peculiar relation to us. Intercollegiate football was abandoned by our school a short time ago because it made such heavy demands upon the student time and was so injurious to health and expensive to maintain. This policy was further endorsed by the administration in a gathering of all of intercollegiate athletics and the adoption of an intercollegiate program which did not call for participation in athletics.

On the other hand, in the formation of intercollegiate sports. It recognized the de- materialization of the features of such athletes along with such athletes from such colleges and universities, in a sense, have become unique in its adoption of a newer and better way of life.

There was a barrage of criticism from many quarters when the administration an- nounced its decision to abandon athletics a year or two ago. But the success of the program has been such that many of the students and other colleges in the same direction, indicates that this is the right way. Not only have the results of the present system proved more gratifying to the students, but the limited number of the former program have been removed.

We are pleased to note this present trend in athletics and are proud of the fact that Harding was one of the first to take a lead in that direction.

Freshman And Juniors
Are Favored Boys' Teams

Junior-20; Senior-18

Appearing on the court for the first time this year, the Junior boys flashed across the hardwood floor to hand the seniors a decisive 20-16 defeat.

The seniors started the game strongly, taking a 4-point lead in the first few minutes of play. However, the juniors settled down quickly and by the end of the first quarter they had gained a 11-4 lead themselves. They continued in this rapid one-end and before the half was over their lead had been increased to 19-6.

Heads action and jump ball gains were characteristic of the third and last quarters. Both teams scored in intervals but the seniors retained a 15-point lead at the final whistle, the score standing 32-17.

Not only was the junior team outstanding offensively, but defensively as well. Expert blocking of shots prevented many a senior goal, and the speedy guards quickly retaliated a major portion of the rebounds.

Wayne Smashers, junior forward, led the scoring with 18 points to his credit and K.E. G. senior center, ranked second with 7 points.

Boys' Basketball

BOYS' BASKETBALL

It looks as if there will be a tough three-way battle for the crown in the basketball league this year. The seniors, frosh, and juniors will all have very strong teams, and the opponents still may give plenty of trouble.

That freshman-senior game was certainly a thriller. The freshmen showed that they had speed, and consistently teamed up, but they shot rather wildly at times. It might be interesting to note that the seniors attempted 18 field goals and scored only twelve. Spencer and Jackson each made 5 for 12 attempts.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

Vida Mocomich established quite a reputation for herself in her first game, and for she has not fallen it is any less.

The freshmen have a strong team, but they lack height in their guards. They make up for this to a great advantage.

The senior girls are shooting a few more field goals than the frosh, but they are not as accurate in their shooting. Verle, Frances, and Myrene see that height is a great advantage.

The junior girls got off on the wrong foot, but they shot better on the second half. Verle, Frances, and Myrene showed that height is a great advantage.

Frosh-26, Senior-25

The thrilling freshman-senior game was a close one. In fact, there is still some dispute as to who won the game.

Although the freshmen were supposedly the winners after an overtime period, a check up on the official scores after the game proved that the seniors had really won the game by a score of 26-25 before the overtime was ever played. This innocent little score card has free throws. Verle Craver, another senior, was close on her kicks with 12 points to her credit.

Rhodes announces that since there was a discrepancy in the score, it would be neither unfair to declare one way or another, that the game will have to be played over, and the outcome of this second game will decide the honors.

Girls Show Enthusiasm
As Wins Pass Around

Sophomores-19; Juniors-18

In the first game of the current girls' intramural basketball season, the sophomores negated the odds outside in a desperately contested 26-25 battle.

The game proved to be as exciting as girls' basketball circles, because the seniors and frosh were just unbelievably good.

Marjorie Chambers, diminutive junior forward, led the scoring with 11 of her team's 25 points in her credit, and Christine Ford led the seniors for the aloft with 19 points.

Seniors-25; Juniors-26

Smashing from their recent triumphing by the seniors, the junior team came back strongly to defeat the seniors by the score of 26-25. It was the second consecutive loss for the seniors, as for their part of the game continued. Myrene Williams led the scoring for the seniors with 10 points.

Vida McComich, forward, was the outstanding player of the evening. With deadly accuracy she dropped the basketball into the hoop for 5 field goals and 2 free shots, making a total of 21 points.

Myrene Williams was the leading scorer for the seniors, making 9 points.

Sophomores-20, Sophomores-18

Slashing at a steady pace throughout the game, the seniors established their lead down to 21-13 before tumbling the game.

In a flashy display of passing and one-handed shots, the freshman forwards virtually controlled their end of the court. Despite their lack of height, the diminutive fresh guards also held the senior attack in check throughout the game.

Vida McComich, forward, was the outstanding player of the evening. With deadly accuracy she dropped the basketball into the hoop for 5 field goals and 2 free shots, making a total of 21 points.

Myrene Williams was the leading scorer for the seniors, making 9 points.

Controlling the ball throughout most of the period of play, the seniors forced forwards continued to show fine teamwork and very accurate shooting. The sophomores stood no chance against the seniors, as the seniors established their lead down to 21-13 before tumbling the game.

The game proved to be a heartbreaker for the seniors, forcing them to work on the part of the jun-
