Armstrong Speaks On God's Love

Dr. J. N. Armstrong was the keynote speaker at the Student's Love radio program. His subject was based on the principle of loving the poor as well as the rich, and also expressing this love for the poor: John 3:16 was his text.

The song harmonized by Bob Bronson, a junior at Kentk High, was "Tsong's Mother Taught Me." The song harmonized by Bob Bronson, a junior at Kentk High, was "Tsong's Mother Taught Me." Professor: LOUISE MoCORE

Address: Can you serve company? Professor: Miss Mc; what is it? New Maid: Yes, ma'am; so they'll come again or not we'll see.

I promised you that I had some very interesting data for this week, and as you know, I'm not one to disappoint a fellow if I can. So I'm going to tell you all about it.

There are my plans. I am going to have a contest in which I shall try to determine the couple that is really the most efficient and the most devoted to each other, and the best in style or grace in keeping svelte attire. There will be judges, a junior division and senior division, and a group which is classed among the corresponding courting couples.

In the junior division will be the following couples: Bob Reeves and Virginia McDaniel; Roy Byng and Ethel Smothers; Serena and Evelyn Jamison; Jim McNeil and Nell Oborne.

In the senior division will be: Don Bentley and Belle Vander; Beam and Betty Johnson; Tad and Sue Hart; and Kerrell and Margaret O’Brien.

In the junior division the contest will be based on influences of the judges, and in the senior division the votes will be cast by the students.

Please tell me that you will sign for the one you are going to vote for.

The Silver Rain

By (Kenn Sears)

The one time of the night. The silver rain.

The street light.

I heard the rain drip from the trees.

The lightning.

I saw the clouds that hid the moon. The silver rain.

Seminars 24-Juniors 25

Using their superior height to great advantage, the surprising senior five upset the unbeaten junior squad 85-80, thus virtually assuring the seniors of their first honors. Aggressive play and free recovery of rebounds enabled the seniors to out-point the tricky junior quintet by the score of 41-38.

Grabbing an early lead, the seniors continued to pump the ball through the basket, pulling steadily away. From the bench, McArthur, Berrill called for 5, Spencer broke loose for 4, and Greenway drove in for 3 more, allowing the seniors to enjoy a 12-2 lead at the end of the quarter.

In successive short, desperate thrusts at the basket, the juniors were able to pile up 4 more points by the half of the game. This left the semifinalists in a 71-56 advantage.

Not one did the juniors give any serious threat to a senior victory. They had managed to cut the lead within 4 points of the seniors at the half, but were outscored 13-8 in the last half of the game.

Looking to first half goals, L. E. Pryor, senior captain, again led his team in scoring, combining with teammate Johnnie Green, Jr. for one point. Spencers (g) 3 1 7; 2 2 1 17-13 advantage. Jackson 8 8 16.

Smathers And Jackson Tied on Points Scored

Vying for top scoring honors in the current instrumental basketball season are Smathers, rating junior forward, and Jackson, rating forward forward and center. Both men have a total of 40 points to their credit thus far.

Sathers has consistently been the leading scorer on the junior squad, averaging better than 11 points per game for four games. Not only has his offensive play been outstanding, but he has also been the leading spark plug of his team, setting up plenty of flight in every sense for a loose ball. Jackson has been a sure source for the fraction. He likewise has an average of 11 points per game, having also played in four games. In the first meeting between the front and soph, the seniors nared off the singing record of the season by dropping 37 tall through the basket. He is without a doubt the only outstanding man on the freshmen team.
