Phil Was A Good Boy

Receiving an inheritance in early youth, Phil now had money, a handsome body, and strong mind. He learned how to use it. Phil was a very handsome boy with just about every girl jealous of him. His popularity was increased proportionately as they were tailored about town to parties. Not that he was himself averse to being wrong in having parties or in giving a fellow a lift, but the harm came in when Phil thought his popularity would make his friends single with skin-deep pleasures for a season.

Phil took his friends to the swankiest luncheon palaces. At Harding he could have bought three meals with what he pressed with his personal attractiveness. Night after night he played with his friends as a small boy would tussle with Campus Effusions his dog. It was pointless, having no future and only a moment.

Beneath My Feet

Transplanted and treading on many feet.

Pushed and shoved around Yet soft and friendly too,

Doesn't mind the beatings While driving the bus.

A very popular thing to do is to follow the crowd. This is the easy way to become accepted and recognized. The crowd is not very critical—its standards are flexible as the pattern for the group or community. Despite its lack of character, it is still the crowd.

Dear Angus...

After sticking my nose in almost every department on the campus in an effort to find something nitty, I landed on the idea of giving a brief biographical sketch, perhaps more nearly a personality sketch, of some faculty members. There are some interesting people, especially when you see them every day, that makes you want to know them better. People with distinct tastes and ambitions, and people that, for some reason or other, cause you to wonder why they talk, walk, and act like they do.

But take Dr. Summitt, for example, professor of Chemistry and head of the education department. He lives in his own house, and found himself in a strange social position, and occasionally jolted something down. I wanted to ask him, "What do you want?" by saying I wanted a short interview with him, he was too busy, or rather said, "Don't have time," I was prepared for the possibility that he had in his mind a picture of someone else to talk to him on a picnic, and remember that he eats them with equal interest and consideration.

If ever you want your psychological question answered, the "Do's and Don'ts of College Life" by Thomas is a must. He has been set up outside this week. In addition to this he indicated that his family cares rather summarily of the vegetable produce from the garden.

In regard to the teaching profession, Dr. Summitt says that the greatest pleasure he gets out of it is to see that he is helping prepare students for the field of work that they are interested in, and observe the gradual polishing off or change they go through each year.

The greatest difficulty in his work, he feels, is the constant battle of the small person and yet we come in talking and listening to the crowd. This is the easy way to become accepted and recognized. The crowd is not very critical—its standards are flexible as the pattern for the group or community. Despite its lack of character, it is still the crowd.

Sixth Team Wins Volleyball First; Lose No Matches

Finishing the season with five victories and no defeats, the number six team won the intramural volleyball championship. Throughout the season they lost only two games, one two-set victory, and one was dropped to the fifth team, and the other to the fourth.

The winning team was composed of M. Ganus, A. Swang, R. Smith, C. Ganus, J. Whiteson, and J. B. McIntyre. Their individual ability was impressive, but their team play made them the best team in the league. They combined "head-up" action with cooperation to kill many opponents' attempts to score. Not far under the sixth team in ability ranked the number four team. Louis Tandy led his team to a season of four victories and one defeat, that being registered by the sixth team.

The results of the final match will be announced on the intramural board this week.

The West Point high school senior wrestling team defeated a group of Harding students 45-43 during the fourth quarter. The game was played in the West Point gym and was tied at 40 all at the end of the fourth quarter. The game started fast with McLaughlin skating a field goal to put Harding in the lead. They were never behind until the fourth period. Harding led at the half, 23 to 18. McLaughlin led both teams in scoring with 20 points to his credit, being especially accurate with his pivot shots. Wilson scored with 18 points, followed by Holden with 16.

Last year there were several sorry boys, in more ways than one, because they forgot that ten minutes is a long time to pull and tug with an opponent, especially if he is as good as you are.

Frosh Set Back Ruffians, 38-29

The high school Ruffians went down in defeat before the onslaught of the college freshman team, losing by a score of 38-29.

Joe McLaughlin, tall, fresh forward, was high point man of the game with eight field goals and two free throws to his credit. Claude Richardson, also of the frosh team, looped in six field goals for 12 points. Virgin Lawyer led the high school scoring with five field and one free goal, totaling 11 points.

Playing consistent basketball, the freshmen led in points at the half, 20-12. During the third quarter Virgin Lawyer came through with four field goals and brought the score up to 26-20, but McLaughlin and Richardson retaliated with two field goals apiece and widened the lead in their school's favor.

During the fourth quarter the high school made six baskets while their opponents brought in eight, bringing the scoring at 38-29 in favor of the freshmen.

Using the zone defense, the frosh team forced the high school five to freeze the ball until an opening was made. This slowed the scoring and kept the shorter high school boys from getting many set-ups. Most of their points were made from a distance.
