American Accused of Lip Laziness—Are You Guilty?

By LAMAR SAUNDERS

An article appeared in The Century Magazine by Edward W. In which he said that Americans are lazier than people in other countries as to the lip action people in the world.

If this is true (and how can we doubt it) it is cause for blaming. Why should we, the leaders of the world in industry and administration or government, in addition to being a great world power, fail to do our duty in speaking our own language.

We need good speech. It is becoming more and more necessary. Any public speaker should plan to make good speech use of the fundamental tools. Progressive communities are more and more demanding that the be a requisite for school teachers. Any why not. A teacher with any degree of conscientiousness about his work will not go into a job without preparation along this line. After all, parents will entrust their children to you from 9 to 6 hours a week. To teacher has a right to expect that very important part of a child's development, the lack of which will handicap him for life. No matter how full of facts the teacher may pour him, if he is neglected he will be limited.

Because good speech is becoming so necessary, it seems every parent ought to give his children a heritage of clear expression, and simplicity of expression.

Ideas in themselves are worth little unless they can be forcefully and clearly expressed. It is important that every parent should teach his children a heritage of clear expression and simplicity of expression.

What We Know About Women

Do you realize that women are the leaders in the fields of science, literature, and art? For example, the Nobel Prize for Physics this year was awarded to a woman, Marie Curie. She was the first woman to win a Nobel Prize, and the only woman to win two. She made significant contributions to the field of radioactivity and discovered two new elements, polonium and radium.

Furthermore, women have made notable contributions to the arts. Women composers, writers, and artists have made significant contributions to their respective fields. For instance, Emily Dickinson was a poet who wrote most of her poems in the 1800s. She was known for her unique style and her exploration of themes such as death and solitude.

Women have also played important roles in history. Susan B. Anthony was an American civil rights leader who fought for women's suffrage. She was a key figure in the movement to grant women the right to vote, and she played a crucial role in the passage of the 19th Amendment.

In conclusion, women have made significant contributions to society across a wide range of fields. Their achievements continue to inspire and empower future generations.
There are three seasons of the year when our horsehoe drive is a nasty, dusty bother. On a windy day dust is sprinkled all over the school and onto the buildings and the roof. The horsehoe drive has been like this each year, but as yet nothing has been done about it.

This does not mean that such an unpleasant condition goes unnoticed. When a car whizzes by and leaves a black cloud of dirt, the familiar, good-natured comment comes, "Hmm, something ought to be done about that windy old drive." We have fixed the drive like Benjamin Franklin said people did their repentance; they kept putting it off.

School Not At Fault

It would be foolish to expect the administration to remedy every complaint that is received. We have a good idea how a limited budget can prevent many wishes. But it does seem possible that among all the truth that will be at least one organization that could give some attention to this need.

Why Not Fix the Horseshoe Drive?

When President Benson was asked what he would consider a worthwhile project he first looked toward the old horsehoe drive and wondered if it would be possible to do something about it. This work is to the interest of all of us.

Now Is the Time to Do It

Though we are not bothered with a dirty drive through the winter months, the time isn't far off until the beginning of May and the hot, sunny weather, and then we'll get an irony full of our own every time we venture out on the campus. In view of the fact that clubs, classes, and other groups are now planning what they'll do for their projects, and that spring will soon be here, bringing out the worst points of our cinder drive, we consider it the most favorable time to broach the old and familiar subject. "Fixing the Horseshoe Drive."

What Kind of Material?

Since this is an age of priorities, perhaps the first question of all should be, "What kind of material will be secured for the drive?" Though asphalt would be the most desirable, it cannot be secured at the present. In fact, the only thing they have heard of that can be obtained is crude oil. Equipment necessary to apply the crude oil can be secured from the State Highway Department. In spite of our not being able to get asphalt, if the drive had the necessary grading and leveling, along with a crude oil topping, it would serve adequately for at least two years.

Cost Will Be Estimated

Another likely question is the cost. As an estimate of the cost is being prepared now, and will be given next week. According to the amount clubs have spent on projects in the past, it may be reasonable that two or three clubs could pay for this job. If as many as half dozen clubs want to contribute to this work it would be just as well.

A Good Project

A good project is one that serves the greatest immediate need and benefits the greatest number. Surely there are few projects that would be as worthwhile and beneficial to us as the horsehoe drive, and no one will doubt that a smooth, dust-free drive will benefit everybody that comes on the Harding campus.

WhoWill Do It?

Now, the only other problem in getting the drive fixed is, "Who will do it?" Bless us all or classes that take the responsibility for doing this job! Let's not just talk about the dirty old drive this year; let's see that something is done about it. Who will do it?

Backstage

By WELDON CASEY

During the present school year the dramatic club has been working on a written constitution. A committee was appointed to frame the constitution and at last the finished product was read by Everett Maxwell to the drama club at the regular meeting last Thursday. After the constitution was read several corrections were made by different members and the first written draft of the Constitution, as it now stands, was given to the club.

"For the soldiers."

In the country Dr. George Tipps, circulation manager, was also present. Dr. Tipps has preached for the congregations of Evawson and Baton Rouge, Louisiana. He was a member of the Louisiana social club then.

Dear Angus

Now, Angus, I have written another poem, and this one I want to dedicate to those who are in the courtin' circle.

"THE COURTIN' HOUR"

An hour or so after twilight And sometimes a little before. Comes a change in the student-day occupa­tions At last it is known That is known as the courtin' hour.

I can hear at the building just west of the sun Some fifty or sixty feet A request to hunt the house and undergo an examination next. The causes of the day are forgotten. They are relieved of their cares and are usually free to meet with every interest and nothingness.

"The courtin' hour..." The courtin' hour... I can hear at the building just west of the sun Some fifty or sixty feet A request to hunt the house and undergo an examination next. The causes of the day are forgotten. They are relieved of their cares and are usually free to meet with every interest and nothingness.

TNT Saturday Night Jamboree
Purly Western

Cowboys were the style of the evening at the TNT social club party Saturday night at the Legion Hall. Joe Whittemore & Johnnie "Dusty Me On the Loose" Prain were on hand to add to the fun. It was a great night, and the place was crowded.

Following the banquet guests attended dancing until late. Those in attendance included Louise Moore, Joe Whittemore, Jack Frost, Charles Frost, Billy Lynn, Betty Colman, Dickie Dean, Maryline Threl- lon, George Kegler, Lola Porter, Ereville Christmas, Darlene Edmonson, Josie Moore, Lyn-Marie Maddux, Jordan Miles, Dorris Wright, Tom Hendren, Jo Rutherford, Jerry Baker, Louis Campbell, Larry House, and others.

W.H.C. Invitations Sent Monday
Plenty of good food will be the specialty of the evening since the event was given by the W.H.C. club. Club President Mrs. Joe Whittemore, club sponsor, was present Monday night. Following the business meeting the girls went to the College Inn for a Dutch treat.

R.C. Girls Plan Banquet
The R.C. club met at Mrs. Colby's house on Shore Street at 7:30 Saturday night.

Committees reported on plans for the annual banquet to be held sometime in February. Following the banquet girls will probably attend a show, though all arrangements have not been completed.

NOVICE SKATER—by logical but it will never amount to quite a number of hard thighs, nevertheless.

2. Keep your feet on the couch.

3. If skating in the street, get out of the danger zone when you see a car two blocks away.

4. Always unbuckle skates and show all unattached skaters the "right-of-way."

5. The best time to skate is after dark. This is true for two reasons: first, you can't see where you are going to land, and secondly, it is more amusing when you do.

6. If you get hurt, don't sit at "Kneer" hour here. Skaters...
Short Story

By ROBERT COLLINS

"Jim, hurry on over here! The recruiting officer wants to see you!"

"Inside Jim was just finishing his last, but that wasn't what he was thinking about. He was trying to think of a comfortable position for his wife and boy. He knew that he could not keep them both within a short time because he didn't want to go back anywhere, but he didn't want to stay as long as he was here."

"All right, Jimmy, stand up! The recruiting officer wants to see you!"

"The boy was just over a year old now, and hadn't seen him for nearly two years. How long it seemed. He could hope he could see them once again before he left for France."

"Call from Tom brought him back to the present. Here he was in camp over 200 miles from home and liable to be sent away any hour. He opened the tent door and stepped outside. Tom came running up and, grabbing him by the arm, began to lead him toward the C.O. office."

"Dutifully, the C.O. wants to see him right away," he began to explain. "He says it's important and for him to see you right now."

"All right, Jimmy, respond, as he began to run. "I'm right away. From the way you talk it must be important."

"Dutifully, the C.O. wants to see him right away," he began to explain. "He says it's important and for him to see you right now."

"Yes, it is. Very important. He said something about going to France and starting in the next week. I hope I'm wrong but you know."

"Reaching the building he jerked open the door and walked into the C.O. office. He was at the desk giving orders. The score was written, and the man had been waiting."

"Good, the orders he gave. If these were a few more we couldn't get them done," said Tom as he began to return to the afternoons."

"Yes, and we'll be lucky if we can get these done," replied Jim. "And just as I am going to get a present for Mary!"

"I don't want all of this work to be done but I think he's not willing to get a letter written."

"I'll get one written tonight so he will get it to-morrow."

"At home Mary was reading the letter from Jim. Although she saw where he had written that he regretted that he could not send her a present right away she was more worried because she knew he wasn't safe across the water as he said he was in America."

"She could not help worrying about his safety, and hoping he could be home."

The letter he received the day before Christmas read as follows: Dear Mary: We have engaged our enemy and driven them off. They did not, however, inflict a great number of losses on both sides."

Here it is Christmas. One more real day. Security of a happy home until he be away in a foreign land in battle. Christmas even meant more to me than it did today, as I recall the death and destruction all around."
