LET'S BUILD

Twenty-six years ago the world was undergoing the worst wrecking it had ever known. The destruction in the first World War was as nothing compared with the second. The latter was in some respects a war of attrition—slow, tiring, maiming, and remorseless. World War I was destruction upon destruction.

Today we see the forces of destruction rampaging as never before—We call it World War II. This war deals blows of ruination which makes the evil of the first war look good. Material destruction is beyond our comprehension. Again nations are crushed out of existence and at least crippled, but even worse than the first war. Today armies are burned, men mentally butch- ered, and whole cities have been blasted and made formulae of destruction and destruction. This war destroys for days, weeks, months and years, and still we go on.

Remember?

Remember a few weeks ago we were all talking about improving our chapel services? For a few weeks we walked into the auditorium and simple New Testament Christianity was asked of us. We were plunged into the background. Too often we are writing in the library, but this week we just pulled our hair. Remember how the old maxim about the last mile always proved the hardest? This can now apply to the entire war. Some weeks the news is so scarce that the staff members resort to pulling their hair and tearing their clothes. But this week we just pulled our hair.

This week the editors (some weeks the news is so scarce that the staff members resort to pulling their hair and tearing their clothes. But this week we just pulled our hair.) Some weeks the news is so scarce that the staff members resort to pulling their hair and tearing their clothes. But this week we just pulled our hair.
