Biology Laboratory Scene Of Much Scientific Study

By Ethna Smith

Although the biology laboratory may not prove to be of great interest to all of the Hardin students, it does相当 a great many students and faculty members for individual study. (Since Dr. Bade may read this, may the following statement be quoted.) Certainly there is nothing about the laboratory itself that should prove to be amusing but some of the incidents that occur before and during the session, however, suggest amusement to be seen.

The students present in the lab are interested in the fact that the lab is hard to find a time when it is not open and filled with energetic (sic) students. With few exceptions the lab is used for literary work and with just period lasting for two hours one would wonder how it is done. Considering that different parts of the class meet at different times it seems that the room proves fruitful first due to the fact that the charge given throughout is always present and that two classes sometimes work on the same project, it can be realized that things are possible.

To realize the lab is a busy place all of the day.

Mrs. Barrow was busy as usual and George Topp was busy as usual... (continued)

All Classes To Combine For Project

In the past students of Hardin College each year have decided upon a class project which would reflect some benefit or aid to the school.

This year a plan for a school project was suggested by Dale Louden, senior class president, to carry out the project each class would give a portion of the amount which would be decided upon by the student body and divided among the individual students. This money when collected would be used and sold in helping to pay for the new student center.

All college classes are invited to make their project as work as possible.

The Fresnian felt since the school in being given the building the building should be paid for in part by the students themselves.

In the expression for the students said that although a separate tree planting project in view of the fact that the school would be identified with their class after they graduate. They also concluded a new stage in this year's field, just because the most popular one which would mean more pay, they eliminate. Each student for the purpose of donating two dollars.

The game was very close for three quarters but the weight of numbers was bound to tell and the Cats finally overcame the very Malaise team. The Alley Cats were a very seasoned team and their work in goal was probably the key to the contest.

Carmen Price led the scoring with 26 points for the ladies while Brandon and Ward scored 18 and 16 for the winners.

The second half champions have been crowned and to the surprise of almost everyone, they were the fighting Collins. This pits the Collins against the strong and high scoring Bloodhounds first half champions.

To attempt to pick a winner is sheer folly but since we are in for a fun we will compare the merits of both teams.

In height, speed, experience and winning punch the Bloodhounds are definitely superior but the Finest Collins demonstrate the fact that this is not always the deciding factor. Here is a battle of wits, it will be to see whether the teams will utilize both in the best way. In this department the Collins have the advantage. So far, in no particular reason other than a bunch we pick the Collins to entice with their over all championship. We remind you don't ask us why.

To the new girls. Some unusually good talent has been displayed in these games too. Brandon, Women, Johnson and always Price have shown every one that they really know what it's all about. Some good guards are in evidence. When the game between the Petites and Alley Cats is posted be sure to attend, it will definitely be worth watching.

The only thing of significant about their game was that Johnson was held to 12 points by a tall Angora guard and if this could be done effectively against the Persians might be defeated. Falling Leaves Require Campus Cleaner-uppers

By Lynn Heflin

When the number of leaves and the pride and joy of Harding's campus was on ice. the Collies guards held their opponents to a 46-24 lead at the three quarter mark.

It was then that the reserves of the Flints began to bear fruit in goals made by Millie, Gorr and Lawyer past the game on ice. The Collins guards held the Hounds usually high scoring teams to 26 points and scored instead in the final stanza.

Cose topped the scorers with 12 points for the Collins.

COLLIES 32

In the closest and most exciting game of the year three phenomenally Collins again came from behind to overtake and defeat an opponent, this time the highly favored Flints 32-31.

The Collins trailed 20-16 at the half time break but came back to take a 29-27 advantage. Then in the final stanza the Flints again failed stand but the Collins were not to be denied, they stormed the fence gradually and with one minute left in the final seconds of the play.

Then in the extra period of time minutes scored one field goal to their opponents free throw to give a well earned victory.

The combined scoring strengths of Ward, Cannon, J. Lawyer and Co. proved too much for the undersized Greyhounds as they struggled through 34-27 in the semifinal round of the second round.
