Thirty Seven
Plan Summer Mission Work

Thirty-seven students are planning to participate in missionary campaigns this summer. Dale Larsen announced Friday night, following a meeting of the summer mission council, that the mission trip will begin June 14 and continue throughout July. Workers will then go to Schenectady, N. Y. to work through August.

The Junior Bible will begin at the first of June and continue through most of the summer.

"Interest in personal evangelism this year at Harding is very great," said Larsen. "Great things can be accomplished if this interest continues."

Survey Of "Cottage" Girls Shows Homely Atmosphere Is Present In Cottages

Perhaps you've been wondering what life is the cottages is like and if the girls who live there are as happy as the boys in the dormitories. I've been check ing out and make a most surprising discovery. The girls in the cottages are quite happy — they wouldn't trade places with anyone. Perhaps, since the cottages are proving to be so successful, they might recommend further construction of the kind or even replace them. But be it as it may, here are some answers to questions which are likely to be asked about our living conditions. The girls here at Harding have told me that they are satisfied with their living conditions.

Help Necessary For Cornbread

Two new owners, each containing 5 oz., won the Junior Sweepstakes as announced by the Junior Sweepstakes committee. The winners are:

Miss Edwards: I prefer to live here because I can make hot coffee on my own.

Mr. Dillard: Yes. I don't get so homesick. Also — walking to school every morning helps me pick up an appetite. (As if I needed any help.

Jan Thurston: I prefer the cottage because after I walk through the cold morning helps me pick up an appetite. (As if I needed any help.

Mrs. Dillard: The cottage is more convenient. I can go to church each week; the cornbread you enjoyed last time, I made yesterday.

Mr. Edwards: I prefer the cottage because it's easier to get along with people.

A Little Wild Otis

"I might as well enjoy college while I may. After all you are only young once. and anyway, I don’t like to study." Have you ever heard a statement like that? Haven’t we all? It’s just the same as saying, “Eat, drink and be merry for tomorrow we have to go to work.”

This editorial is not intended as a sermon. People don’t like to be preached to, but sometimes a good heart to heart talk is quite beneficial.

We Americans are living under the illusion that a little bit of Otis Wroon strew here and there along the way won’tหญิง.

That which we refer to always grows. The special variety that we are speaking of is the type that causes inexperience, want of time, unconscientiousness and the “I don’t give a care” attitude. Strongly enough this particular brand is just a little more dangerous than the more apparent type simply because of its very subluneness.

We may say, “It doesn’t make much difference what kind of a job I do on this. When I get a big job I’ll do it up right.” Only we will never get a big job, because the ones who receive those are the ones who do the little jobs well. Remember, no task is unimportant.

When you start to worry, a little bit of faith will cure your ills.

It is an inspiration for us to see others grow. Why not try to think of others as they are rather than as they were?

The thing that is wrong with most religion today is not in what is taught in the wrong place of stress in that teaching.

Who’s Who
In Harding College
by L. Leonard

Bessie Mae Quillin, a senior commercial major, came to Harding from Nashville, Tennessee. She attended Home Figg and Lipscomb high schools and is a 1943 graduate of David Lipscomb college. There’s only one way Bessie Mae knows how to express what Lipscomb and Harding have meant to her — that is by writing what she has meant to everyone. She likes to think of Harding and Lipscomb at times but when it comes to thinking of leaving Harding in June, what she likes to think. Robert G. Snell helped Bessie Mae find her way to Harding College. One of the reasons she urged her to come to Harding was because he thought she could build more assurance with such wonderful personalities - she has found this to be very true.

Her hobby is collecting poems and for amusement she likes to curl up in a club and read poetry. Her favorite food is fried chicken and the likes it in large quantities — (she has been known to eat as many as five pieces). Her likes in food are not limited to fried chicken, for she can eat almost anything. She likes to occasionally venture through the line for seconds — in other words she doesn’t believe in being hungry. Her favorite color is blue and she is quite fond of sun- nies. Her favorite spot on the campus is behind the administration building near the tennis court. In people she likes sincerity and frankness. Her favorite hymn is “To the High of Trial” and the Bible verse that has meant most to her Christian development is Romans 8:28.

Her most embarrassing moment happened when she was the victim of a slight misunderstanding. Two boys approached her and asked what she was doing thinking they had a date with her when she was not interested. They were very much disappointed and did not know whether to laugh or cry, as she probably laughed. Bessie Mae wishes to explain this accident is happened back in the pre-war years when boys were plentiful.

Bessie Mae Worked in a bank this summer in Nashville, Tennessee. She really enjoyed this kind of work but she would not like to spend the rest of her life working in a bank. What she really means is she’d much rather marry and have a home of her own. One of the things that has helped her to be a better person was the work that she did in Francise and Cincinnati during the summer campaigns. It developed within her a more vibrant attitude toward people’s beliefs. She realized then how much she needed to grow in Christian living.

Here at Harding Bessie Mae is in the chorus and a member of Phi Delta social club. Last year she worked for Brother Armstrong and he has had a great influence over her life. He made her feel at home when she first came to Harding and he’ll never forget how genuinely nice he was to her.

Her sin in life is to lead others to Christ. Her philosophy of life is aptly expressed in this quotation from Hamlet:

“This above all to thine own self be true
And it must follow as the night the day
Thus beard not the fealty to any man
A more disposition, a love for the beautiful, a humble spirit and high ideals are some of Bessie Mae’s controlling virtues.

Omee Phi Club Has Banquet
Fourteen couples dined in Hawaiian splendor last Saturday night under the guidance of a full moon, star studded palm trees and candle light. The occasion was the formal winter banquet given by the Omega Phi girls’ club.

Feeding the dines, Joe Cannon gave the invocation. Julia Tranmer gave the welcome and Maurice Hawley the response. Melodramatic strains of island music drifted through the air as Mabel Simeon read a delightfully humoristic club prophecy.

Those present at this festive occasion were Mable Simeon, Eugene Lee Audrey, Lois Grayson, Joe Cannon, Dorothy Moger, Lloyd Wheeler, Ruth Bath, Dewitt Gurner, Dorothy Case, Raymond Devore, Hilda Jones, Bob Collett, Edith Kithel, Joe Tiptop, June Killen, Joe Mitchell, Ina Bella, Kronah, Rose Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Malvern Miller, Lottte Smith, Bill Cal- lin, Ruth Wills, James Ganes; Dorothy Zani, Charles Brooks, Julia Tra- ner, Maurice Hawley.

Sub-Debs Elect Officers
Sub-Deb’s met at Louise Barnes’ house at 7:30 a week ago Saturday night to elect new officers for the club.

The choices were Elizabeth Frank- lin, President; Mary Kay Hollingsworth, vice president; and Blanche Tristan, secretary-treasurer.

The first site of the girls basketball tournaments resulted in the crowning of the winners, alumni Alley Cats over the strong, but courageous Persians 14-15.

As is revealed today four of the girls on the varsity team made either first or second all star. This is also true of the forwards though their small size would not probably evidence all star material.
