Enrollment Experiences Increase; Student Body Again Tops 2,000

Harding's fall enrollment has experienced a moderate increase for the third consecutive year. The tally of 2,095 students for the 1972-73 school year is an increase of 1.7 per cent over the previous year.

Despite national trends of decreased enrollments among private institutions, Harding's enrollment has exhibited a healthy 10.9 per cent increase during the last three years.

The fall enrollment also marks the second consecutive year the student body has numbered more than 2,000. The 1971 enrollment was 2,060.

Freshmen comprise the largest segment of the student population with 595. Close behind are the juniors with 527, followed by the seniors with 452 and the sophomores with 445. There are 76 graduate, post-graduate, and special students enrolled.

The student body represents 45 states and 16 foreign countries. The states of Hawaii, Maine, New Hampshire, Nevada and North Dakota are not represented. Students from Arkansas number 606 or approximately 29 per cent of the total enrollment. Other states with more than 100 representatives are Texas (186), Missouri (148), Tennessee (138) and Alabama (104).

For the third consecutive year coeds outnumber the male students. In 1971 women were 18 ahead of the men, but their lead increased to 75 this year as 1,085 coeds registered compared to the 1,010 male registrants.

Housing the record enrollment has created no major problems. The entire top three floors of the American Heritage Center and a residence adjacent to the campus are being used to house the overflow of coeds. Some rooms in the women's residence halls are accommodating three to a room. Men's housing is filled, but overcrowded conditions have been prevented. Boarding students number 1,653 or approximately 80 per cent of the student body.

Commenting on the 1972 enrollment, Fred Alexander, director of admissions, said, "We are pleased with the increase, particularly the increases in the freshman and junior classes. We fell just five short of our goal of 600 freshmen and the junior class is the largest junior class in the school's history."

The freshman class increased by 15 students and the junior class jumped a total of 59 students. The gains erased decreases in the sophomore and senior classes of 17 and 22, respectively.

Alexander pointed out that the number of students from Alabama, Illinois and Louisiana had experienced a significant increase over the 1971 enrollment. The number of Arkansas students also increased slightly.

Examining the enrollment statistics, Alexander noted the sharp decrease between the 1971 freshman class and the 1972 sophomore class. The sophomore class has 135 fewer students than last year's freshman class. He attributed the quirk in the statistics to a change in the military draft laws which caused some male students to report for active duty after their freshman year. The average decrease between the two classes is approximately 100 students.

The orientation, counseling and registration process for the fall semester is often a tiring but necessary ordeal. This coed reflects upon her schedule just approved by her advisor.

Dedication Cites Harbin

Dedication ceremonies for the newest men's residence hall on the Harding campus were held Sept. 20. The structure was named in honor of J. C. Harbin, a well-known Memphis businessman.

A long-time supporter of the college, Harbin is involved in several business enterprises in the White Haven area of Memphis. Included in the day's activities were a luncheon, presentation of the honored guest to the campus community during the chapel periods and an afternoon program at the residence hall.

Speaking at the luncheon in his honor Harbin commented, "I hope that

The traditional Thanksgiving Day Barbecue is planned for Thursday followed by an afternoon basketball contest between Harding and David Lipscomb College.

The Lectureship theme was chosen to emphasize not only the relationship between Jesus and the Church, but also to point out the relevancy of the Church in today's society.

Under the direction of Dr. W. Joe Hacker, chairman of the Bible department, the Lectureship is expected to draw more than 2,500 visitors to the campus during the four-day program.

Further information concerning the Lectureship or the various programs during the week may be obtained by writing Dr. Neale Pryor, Lectureship Coordinator, Harding College, Searcy, Arkansas 72143.

A Reason for Growth

For three consecutive years Harding's enrollment has experienced a moderate increase during a period when many segments of private higher education were struggling to survive. An increase of nearly 11 per cent in the student body during these years and especially the 1972 enrollment are even more significant when viewed in the spectrum of the national higher education picture.

According to reports and surveys made just prior to the beginning of the 1972 fall semester, colleges and universities across the nation expected to have 3000,000-500,000 vacancies in the classrooms for the 1972-73 school year. A survey of 1,500 institutions by the National Association of College Admissions Counselors revealed vacancies in seven out of ten institutions. Educators are now predicting a general leveling off of college enrollments during the remainder of the decade. Predictions indicate that the yearly increase of new students will be 50 per cent less during the next seven years than in the last seven years. Even more alarming for the private sector of higher education is the suggestion that some private schools may not survive in the struggle against shrinking student bodies and the risings costs of the 1970's.

What effect national trends will have on Harding's enrollment during the remainder of the decade would be only speculation at the present. Harding does, however, face many problems confronting other colleges. Rising costs or private education are always a factor in the ability to recruit students. Changes in the military draft laws for prospective male students will also have a somewhat negative effect on college enrollments. Another factor to be confronted is "stopping out," the postponement of entering college by high school graduates in order to travel or obtain work experience. Finally, the controversy over the value of a liberal arts education as compared to shorter, less expensive vocational training will add to the decrease in enrollments. All these factors will play various roles in determining college enrollments of the future.

The question still arises as to "why" Harding's enrollment in recent years has made a shambles of national trends. Techniques in recruiting, new campus facilities or a greater diversity in an educational program could all be cited as reasons for the enrollment increases, but simply stated the reason is, "Harding has a product to offer." In the strictest sense Harding has a commodity to sell in the industry of private education. More specifically, Harding has a commitment and a direction being sought by more and more students. Harding's paramount objective of providing a Christian education with the highest caliber of Christian instruction and training has been a commodity sought by students and their parents for almost five decades. At Harding we explain our growth as "the result of a commitment, a dedication to service and a search for excellence."

Bill McDonald and Sonya Edens as Don Quixote and Dulcinea.

Imaginary Knighthood Tales Featured in Fall Production

Senior Bill McDonald, a native of Little Rock, will impersonate the hollow-cheeked poet who dons tin armor to become a knight in Harding's Homecoming production of "Man of La Mancha," Oct. 26-28.

The business administration major will portray Miguel de Cervantes, who describes his life through the adventures of Don Quixote. McDonald's leading lady will be Sonya Edens of Boulder, Colo., who will portray Aldonza, the lady of ill-repute whom Quixote refers to as his sweet "Dulcinea."

The setting for the play is a dark underground Spanish dungeon where Cervantes is awaiting the dreaded Inquisition. While imprisoned he is tried by his fellow prisoners, who hope to rob him of all his goods by finding him guilty of a crime.

In presenting his defense, Cervantes tells his tale of how he, a country gentlemen, oppressed by everything he saw and read, fled to fantasy as his only hope for a meaningful life.

As a glorious knight, Quixote sees everything in an absurd light. He exalts a ragged woman as his lady of purity and beauty and fights a noble battle with a "monstrous" windmill, all to the delight of the audience.

The long-running Broadway musical will present a variety of vocal and orchestra selections. Included in the production are the boisterous songs of knighthood and the light-hearted songs of the dungeon.

In addition to McDonald and Miss Edens, the cast includes Jerry Palmer, St. Charles, Mo.; Tim Bixler, Oak Grove, La.; Glenn Greenville, Colorado Springs, Colo.; Charles Davis, Bishop, Tex.; Dan Bateman, St. Clair Shores, Mich.; David Williams, St. Louis;

Eric Manlove, Wichita, Kan.; Mike Westerfield, Bellevue, Neb.; Steve Kloske, Maryland Heights, Mo.; Dan Tullos, Little Rock; and Norris Wall, Helena, Ark.

The Captain of the Inquisition will be portrayed by Rick Moore of Hartford, Mich., and guards include Caleb Austin of Homer, Alaska, Bobby Mezzell of Benton, Ark., and Dan Blucker of North Little Rock. Guitarist in the production will be Ken Dowdy of Meridianville, Ala.

Female parts will be filled by Mary Jo Hinerman, Columbiana, Ohio; Gina Little, North Little Rock; Renee Rice, San Francisco; and Linda McClurg, Verona, Mo.

Bob West and Morris Ellis of the speech department faculty are serving as director and technical manager of the production. Dr. Bill Hollaway, associate professor of music, is the director of the musical segments of the play.

"Man of La Mancha" will be presented each of the three nights at 8:15 in the college's main auditorium.

Homecoming Events Announced

Plans for Homecoming '72 have been finalized and a wide assortment of activities has been scheduled for the visiting alumni during the Oct. 26-28 program.

Included in the program are three performances of the Broadway musical "Man of La Mancha," Alumni Day activities, the Black and Gold Banquet, and the gridiron contest between Harding and Mississippi College.

The 25-member cast has been rehearsing since the beginning of the fall semester for the presentation of "Man of La Mancha." The stage performers will be accompanied by an orchestra directed by Dr. Bill Hollaway of Harding's music department. The musical production will be presented each evening at 8:15 during the Homecoming weekend.

Homecoming chapel will be held Oct. 28 at 10 a.m. in the American Heritage Center Auditorium. Following the chapel program, a business session of the Alumni Association will be conducted.

Members of the classes celebrating five-year reunions will be recognized during the Alumni Day program. The classes of '28, '33, '38, '43, '48 (25th anniversary), '53, '58, '63 and '68 will have five-year reunions during the '72 Homecoming.

The second annual Black and Gold banquet has been scheduled for Oct. 27 at 6 p.m. in the Charles M. White cafeteria. Featured speaker for the event will be Arkansas Congressman-elect Ray Thornton. He also serves as chairman of Harding's Development Council.

The Alumni Association's slate of officers for 1973-74 will also be announced at the banquet. In addition to the new alumni officers, Harding's Distinguished Alumnus for 1973 will be introduced.

Harding's Bison football team has launched its '72 season with a display of power that could carry the team to the top of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference. The Mississippi College Choctaws will provide the opposition for the Homecoming tilt. Last year the Bison team edged the Choctaws 20-14. The series between the two teams stands at two games apiece. Kick-off time for the game is 2 p.m., Oct. 28, at Alumni Field.

Other events planned for the gala weekend are the traditional chili supper, bon fire and pep rally at Camp Wyldewood Friday afternoon. A musical variety show, "A Time for Us," has been planned for Saturday night.

Dedication . . .

those who reside in Harbin Hall during their stay at Harding will enjoy it as a place to study and will work hard to be a credit to Harding and their parents who have made it possible for them to be here. I charge these students to remember that the highest reward for a man's toil is not what he gets for it . . . but what he becomes by it.

"The principles for which Harding stands and its shining light will be strengthened or dimmed according to the degree each student lets his or her light shine before others. I am confident that this light will grow ever brighter, not only here in the United States of America, but in countless corners of the world."

During the afternoon ceremonies President Clifton L. Ganus made dedicatory remarks, Mayor Leslie Carmichael made a presentation to Harbin and senior Randy Brewer spoke on behalf of the students residing in Harbin Hall.

Built as a part of Harding's Decade of Development, Harbin Hall is a three-story, L-shaped structure housing 210 male students. It is the third dormitory built by Harding in the last six years.

The building is located on the east side of the campus. Its features include air conditioning, carpeted hallways, study lounges on each floor, a large game room on the first floor, a three bedroom manager's apartment and a manager's office. There is also a spacious lobby at the main entrance of the residence hall.

Memphis businessman J. C. Harbin [center] unveils the lettering "J. C. Harbin Hall" during dedication ceremonies on the Harding campus September 20. Watching the unveiling are Bernie Vines, student work supervisor, and Billy Ray Cox, vice president. The $985,000 men's residence hall is the newest housing facility on campus.

National Economists Selected for Seminar

Four nationally known economists will present a program, "Economic Perspectives of the Seventies," on the Harding campus Dec. 1-2.

Visiting lecturers will be Dr. Ben Rogge, Dr. George Roche, Robert Anderson and Leonard Read. Bill Cox, Harding's vice president, will present the final lecture of the two-day series.

The program has been designed to survey the current American economy. More than 100 business leaders, managers, supervisors and representatives of industry from Arkansas are expected to attend the seminar.

Dr. Rogge and Dr. Roche will open the seminar. Dr. Rogge, professor of political economy at Wabash College and director of the Wabash Institute of Personal Development, will discuss the subject, "Economic Perspectives of the Seventies."

Dr. Roche is the president of Hillsdale College and the former director of seminars for the Foundation for Economic Education. His topic will be "The Moral Imperative of Freedom."

The second day of the seminar will begin with a presentation, "The Miracle of the Market," by Leonard Read. A noted author and lecturer, he has served since 1946 as the president of the Foundation for Economic Education.

"The Economic Impact of Taxation" will be discussed by Robert Anderson, associate professor of economics at Hillsdale College. Prior to joining the college, he served as an economist for the Coast Federal Savings and Loan Association in Los Angeles.

Bill Cox will conclude the seminar with a presentation entitled "Comparative Economics by Results." In addition to his administrative duties, Cox also serves as director of Harding's American Studies Program.

Arrangements for the seminar are being directed by David Burks, assistant professor of administration. In discussing the seminar he noted, "Our purpose is to provide a setting for a mutual exchange of ideas between Arkansas businessmen and nationally known economists."

"The American economy is in a rapid state of change and it is imperative that businessmen understand these changes and be able to adapt an economic flexibility," he added.

A $25 registration fee will be paid by each participant in the seminar. The fee includes the cost of meals and lodging.

College Hosts Meeting of State Deans

The annual meeting of Deans and Registrars of Arkansas Colleges and Universities was held at Harding College Oct. 9 and 10.

Registration and the sessions were in the Heritage building. A banquet was held in the Heritage Dining Hall and the meeting concluded Tuesday.

Dr. George A. Gries, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences at Oklahoma State University at Stillwater, was obtained by the joint executive committee of the two associations as keynote and banquet speaker. Also, he served as a resource person for various group discussions. Dean Gries holds the Ph.D. in Plant Pathology from the University of Wisconsin.

Dean Gries has wide experience in college teaching, administration and academic experimentation. He is knowledgeable in the areas of curriculum planning, intercollege cooperation, budgeting and non-traditional types of learning such as CLEP tests, adult education, and advanced studies program.

Harding Dean Joseph E. Pryor and Registrar Virgil Beckett served as co-hosts for the meeting.

New Members Join Troupe

"The Time of Day," Harding's traveling trio organized last fall, has started the new year with a change in personnel and a large number of requests for performances around the country.

Joining veteran Jeff Schlender of Detroit, Mich., this year are Chuck Hicks of Aberdeen, N. C., a former member of the Belles and Beaux, and Don Miller of Dallas, a freshman.

Last year the singers traveled to 15 states and entertained thousands of young people at banquets, youth rallies, career night programs and alumni meetings. Ambassadors of good will for the college, they are full time students who are ready at any call to play, sing, and entertain almost any audience.

Equally popular on the home front, they appear in chapel and for campus events, always to the delight of their colleagues.

Musicians par excellence, their show is a myriad of innovations, each member singing various parts and interchanging instruments as the number demands.

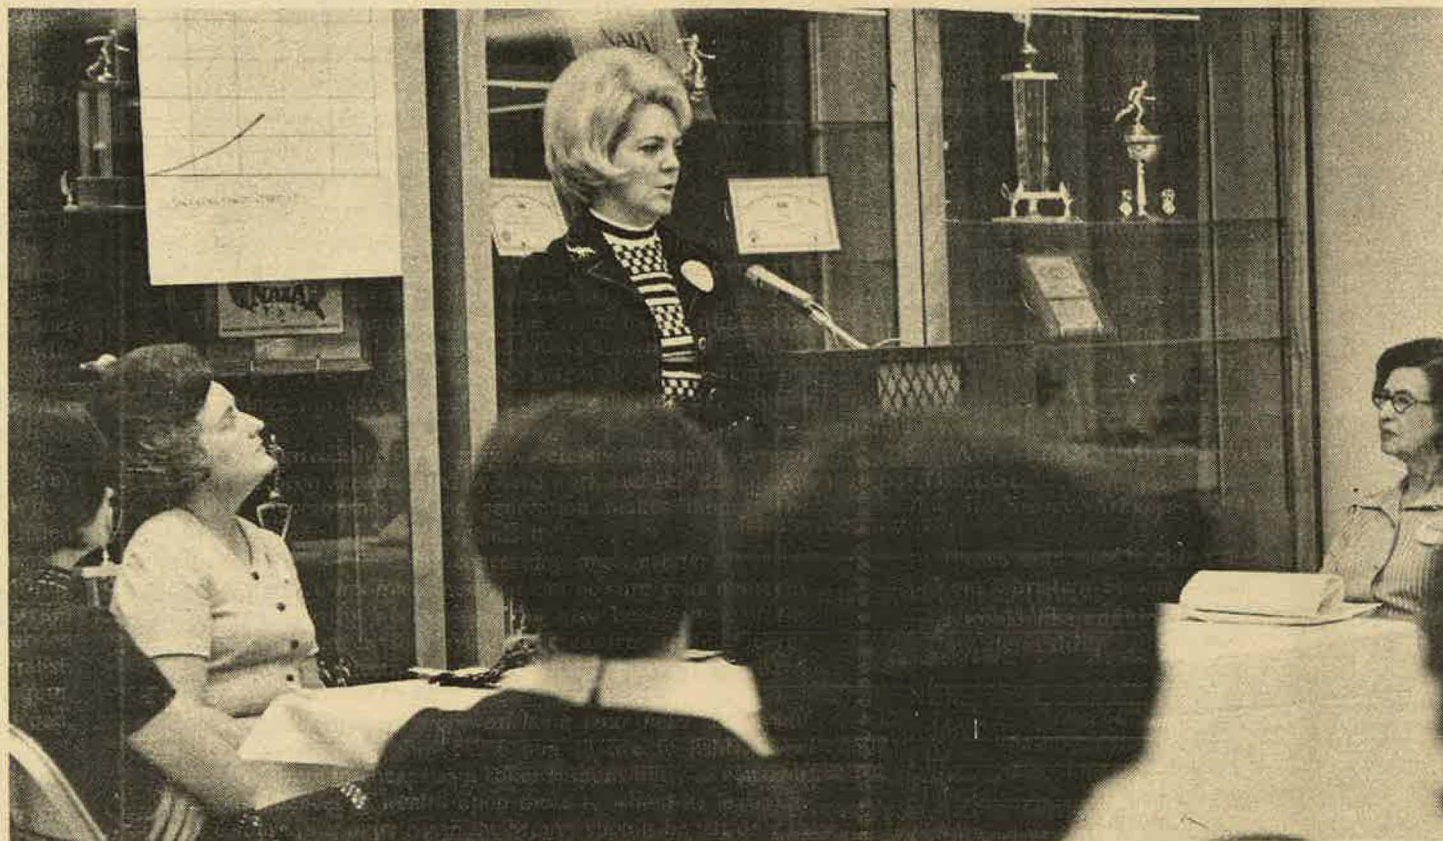

Scheduling of the group may be arranged through Fred Alexander, director of admissions.

Business Instructor Passes CPA Exam

Gary Bartholomew, instructor in business, has completed requirements as a Certified Public Accountant by passing the exams administered during the summer. A member of the Harding faculty since last fall, he is a 1969 graduate who received the Master of Business Administration at the University of Denver. Also, he worked as a staff accountant for Arthur Andersen and Company in Denver.

The native of Littleton, Colorado attended York College before transferring to Harding, where he was captain of the business team which won the Emory University Business Games championship in 1969.

Bartholomew is the third member of the Harding faculty to hold the CPA, joining Bill R. Cox, vice president, and James A. Hedrick, chairman of the business department.

AWH PLANNERS — Mrs. Jane Mitchell, president of the Texarkana chapter of Associated Women for Harding, addressed the 71 members of eight chapters who attended the general fall meeting of AWH on the Searcy campus.

Graduate School Establishes Marks In Three Areas

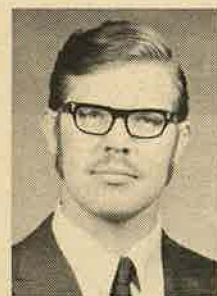

A record 167 students have registered for the fall semester at Harding's Graduate School of Religion in Memphis, according to Bill Flatt, registrar.

The enrollment marks the third consecutive year that a record has been established. The school also has a record number of full-time students (98) and a record number of total semester hours taken during a single year (1463).

Commenting upon the enrollment record, Dean Harold Hazelip said, "This reflects a growing awareness of the need for preparation for the lifelong tasks involved in our work as ministers, a confidence in the skills and dependability of our faculty, and we believe, God's blessing upon conscientious efforts."

Juniors Selected To Edit, Manage 1974 PETIT JEAN

Members of the junior class have selected Ken Kendall-Ball and Jana Smith to edit and manage the finances of the 1974 PETIT JEAN, the college yearbook.

Kendall-Ball, journalism major from Bulawayo, Rhodesia, is copy editor for the 1973 volume and will also serve as assistant editor under Mrs. Jan Brewer. The Rhodesian student plans a career in magazine publications.

Miss Smith, a speech major from Vernon, Tex., was one of six applicants for the business manager's position. She served four years as business manager of her high school yearbook. This year she will work as assistant business manager under Ron Coleman.

Other applicants for the position of editor were Pat Klein from Colorado Springs, Colo., Joyce Reynolds from Chico, Calif., Susan Southard from Gravelly, Ark., and Helen Wimberly from Dierks, Ark.

Brenda Dunn from Bradford, Ark., Carol Hamilton from Trenton, Tenn., Larry Mitchell from Portland, Ohio, Deborah Morris from Kensett, Ark., and Mike Westerfield from Bellevue, Neb., were the other applicants for the position of business manager.

Campaign Group Continues Work In Two Countries

Twenty-eight high school graduates and college students distributed more than 100,000 pieces of literature in a summer evangelistic campaign directed Dr. Joe Hacker, chairman of the Bible department. The campaigns are a part of Harding's MISSION PREPARE program.

Members of the group worked in two teams with one team in Germany and the other in Holland. Bill Richardson of Mountain Home, Ark., coordinated the work of the Holland team and Herman Barnett of York College coordinated the efforts of the German team. In addition to the Harding students four members of the group were from York College and two from Freed-Hardeman College.

The group employed the same techniques as in the two previous summers. They went door-to-door extending personal invitations to the nightly services. The campaign workers also conducted home Bible studies during the four-week endeavor.

Plans for next year's campaign include work in England, Germany, Switzerland and Rome, Italy. The 1973 summer campaign will require 100 participants as the program attempts to broaden its base of operation.

Summer MAT Graduates Share Similar Challenges

When two people have been friends for 17 years, doing things together just comes naturally. In fact, receiving MAT degrees during Harding's summer commencement exercises was just another chapter in the friendship between Carl DeCaspers and Tom Lane.

The two Altoona, Pa., residents became the first students to receive the Master of Arts in Teaching degree in Bible. The program for the MAT in Bible was begun during the fall semester of 1971. The college has offered the MAT with emphasis in other areas since 1955.

Their friendship began as baseball teammates in high school and since that time their activities together have carried them halfway around the world. They coached together at Altoona high schools and played semi-pro baseball at Hartford, Conn., and Ontario, Canada.

Preferring travel to marriage, the two joined the Peace Corps, serving two years as recreational directors in Senegal, West Africa. While there, they helped train Senegal's national team for the '64 Olympics.

At the conclusion of Harding's '72 spring semester, the two went back to Pennsylvania to marry hometown sweethearts. As might have been expected, it was a double wedding with Tom performing Carl and Linda's ceremony and Carl performing Tom and Andrea's ceremony. Adding to the uniqueness of an already similar story, both Linda and Andrea teach special education.

With their Masters' study behind them, Carl and Tom have now turned their sights toward two new challenges. Carl has accepted a position as head basketball coach and assistant admissions director at Northeastern Christian College in Villanova, Pa. Tom will serve as head basketball coach and also teach Bible and physical education at Bishop Guilfoyle High School in Altoona.

"The challenge of working in the small college atmosphere where much of the success is dependent upon one's own initiative and desire intrigues me" said the 32-year-old DeCaspers.

"NCC has given me an opportunity to help build it through coaching and recruiting. It's my desire to persuade young people to try an education with balance, meaning and purpose," he added. "I am convinced that much of the turmoil in society today is the result of a one-sided education. The spiritual side has been neglected. My experience in Christian education has demonstrated to me that this is a valuable part of education."

Linda, Carl, Tom and Andrea

The happy graduates and their wives pose for a picture following the summer commencement exercises. Harding's first two students to receive the Master of Arts in Teaching degree in Bible are now working in Pennsylvania. Carl is coaching at Northeastern Christian College and Tom is coaching and teaching in an Altoona high school.

With ten seasons of coaching under his belt, Carl understands the challenges of building a team with both ability and character. "I really want to develop a basketball program where a young man can come to play sound, fundamental basketball against good competition, but more importantly, where he will learn to contribute responsible leadership to the school, church, community and nation."

Tom has returned to his "old job" to which some "new responsibilities" have been added. He had coached at Bishop Guilfoyle High School for three years prior to attending Harding. In 1970 he directed his team to a state basketball championship. The school is the largest Catholic school in the Altoona area.

In addition to coaching and teaching physical education, Tom will teach a course in Bible. The course will be an elective for junior and senior students. He pointed out that the school "could possibly be the only Catholic school in the country with a non-Catholic teaching a Bible course. The administrators has agreed that I may choose the subjects for discussion and may conduct my classes as I please."

His teaching and coaching duties will account for only half of his day's activities. The remainder of his day will be spent directing a personal evangelism program for the Church of Christ in Altoona.

Evaluating his studies at Harding Tom quite candidly noted, "I am as prepared as I possibly could be to teach the content of the Bible. This was my goal in coming to Harding and the MAT in Bible has opened doors that otherwise would have been closed."

There will be many more opportunities for Carl DeCaspers and Tom Lane to share new experiences together. The similar challenges that now lay before them will be just the beginning of those experiences.

As if to add just a touch of emphasis to their friendship and similar goals, the two left Searcy, bound for Pennsylvania, in two identical yellow Volkswagens.

Associate Professor Emeritus Succumbs After Brief Illness

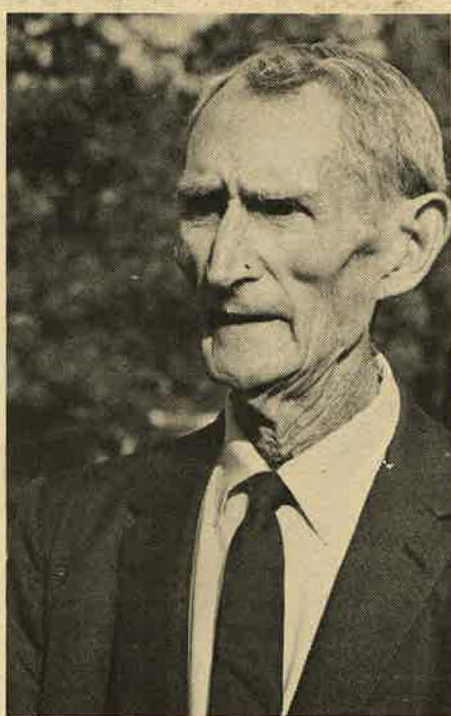

Lonnie E. Pryor, 85, Associate Professor Emeritus, died Sunday, Oct. 8, at a Searcy hospital after suffering a fractured hip in a fall at his home Oct. 4. He retired in 1968 after 35 years of service as a teacher of social science, the last 10 as a part-time teacher. He was an elder at the College Church of Christ.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Queetro Rives Pryor; a son, Dr. Joseph E. Pryor, Dean of Harding College; two brothers, James M. and Ira J. Pryor, and a sister, Mrs. Daner Sewell, all of Emerson, Ark., and three grandchildren.

He was reared on a farm near Emerson. His desire to learn enabled him to obtain the most from the limited school programs available. He attended Lawrence County (Tn.) High School, Freed-Hardeman and David Lipscomb colleges and was graduated from the University of Chattanooga with the B. A. and from the University of Arkansas with the M. A. He was a diligent student of the Bible and enjoyed teaching the scriptures.

He joined the Harding College faculty in 1933, having formerly taught at Arkansas Christian College. His broad background of education and experience enabled him to teach history, political science, sociology, economics and geography as the need arose in scheduling classes.

Preaching and living the gospel of Christ really constituted the vocation of Lonnie Pryor. He did full-time located work with congregations in Chattanooga, Tenn., Fayetteville, Ark., and Campbell, Mo. Most of his preaching, however, has been in mission areas establishing congregations or strengthening weak congregations. He held gospel meetings in a number of states.

Dr. Ganus eulogized the educator for his life of commitment to Christ. "I never heard him say an unkind word about anyone," the president said.

Dr. Sears, a friend of 40 years, said, "I was always impressed with his gentleness, patience and good judgement."

Funeral services were held at the College Church of Christ by Dr. Clifton Ganus, Dr. L. C. Sears and James Woodroof. Burial was at White County Memorial Garden.

The family has requested that those interested make memorial gifts in his name to Harding College.

Alumnus To Receive Award

Dr. Joe Hightower, a 1959 Harding graduate, has been selected as the 1973 winner of the American Chemical Society's $5,000 Award in Petroleum Chemistry, sponsored by the Precision Scientific Company. The announcement of the award was made during the Society's national meeting in New York during August.

The Rice University professor is being recognized for his outstanding achievements in petroleum chemistry, particularly his research on catalysts. He is especially noted for his development of new isotopic tracer techniques. He is author or coauthor of some 25 technical papers in his field.

Born in Morrilton, Ark., Dr. Hightower received the M.A. degree in 1961 and the Ph.D. in physical chemistry in 1965 from The Johns Hopkins University. He was a National Science Foundation postdoctoral fellow at Queen's University of Belfast (Northern Ireland) in 1963-64 and a Gulf Fellow at Mellon Institute (now Carnegie-Mellon University) in 1964-67. He joined the Rice University faculty in 1967 as associate professor of chemical engineering and was made professor in 1971.

A member of the American Chemical Society since 1965, the Harding alumnus is active in the Society's Division of Petroleum Chemistry. He is a member of the board of directors of the Catalysis Society and a member of the Southwest Catalysis Society, the American Institute of Chemical Engineers, Alpha Chi Sigma, and the Honorary societies Phi Lambda Upsilon and Sigma Xi.

The award, which Dr. Hightower will receive in April during the Society's 165th national meeting in Dallas, was established in 1948 "to recognize, encourage, and stimulate outstanding research achievements in the field of petroleum chemistry in the U.S." A recipient must not have passed his 40th birthday at the time of presentation.

"I hated all my toil . . . seeing that I must leave it to the man who will come after me; and who knows whether he will be a wise man or a fool?" (Ecclesiastes 2:18,19).

AFTER YOU ARE GONE . . .

The wise man is disgusted when he considers the energy he has spent in building his estate. Now he must leave it to others, not knowing whether they will be wise or foolish.

This bruise is bumped again and again in the Bible. The psalmist said, "man heaps up, and knows not who will gather!" (Psalms 39:6). God taunted the rich man with the question . . . "the things you have prepared, whose will they be?" (Luke 12:20).

An unappreciative heir may carelessly squander wealth which has been accumulated by hard work and self-denial. An English proverb says, "One generation makes money; the second keeps it; the third spends it."

Consider these thoughts concerning one's estate:

1. Give while you live. Then you can be sure your money is invested in worthy works. You can also be assured of the blessings of heaven for laying up treasures there. George Frederic Watts reflectively wrote: "What I spent I had, what I saved I lost, what I gave I have."

2. Consider the effect of wealth on your heirs. Dumping riches into one's lap may cause him to live foolishly, even wickedly. Every forebear has a sober responsibility to consider the consequences of wealth upon those to whom he leaves it.

3. Choose your heirs carefully. Money should be left only in the hands of those who will make wise use of it. Our heirs should be chosen according to their spiritual, rather than fleshly, affinities.

4. Be a good steward even after you are gone. A worthy steward makes good use of his possessions while he lives. He also arranges his affairs so as to be sure his possessions continue to accomplish good after his passing. Our bequests should have a spiritual use, an eternal value.

When the moment of death comes we must leave our earthly possessions . . . all of them. But, we can leave them so as to bless.

Bison Gridiron Team 'Snakes' Opponents

A rigorous fall training has paid off for Harding College as Coach John Prock's Bisons have rolled to a perfect 4-0 record in early season play.

In consecutive weeks, Harding has defeated Austin College (Tex.) 58-10, Millsaps College (Miss.) 47-7, and Northeast Missouri State University 31-20 and conference rival Henderson State 21-10.

At the present time Coach Prock admits to being "healthy and happy" but reminds that tough Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference foes such as Ouachita Baptist, Arkansas Tech and State College of Arkansas lie ahead.

Thus far an explosive offense and a tenacious defense have keynoted the Bisons' victories. The steady presence of 13 veteran seniors has been vital while many newcomers have gained invaluable playing experience.

"We couldn't be happier," stated Prock, the dean of the AIC coaches. "The team has great enthusiasm, good spirit and they want to win."

All-American tailback candidate Alan (Snake) Dixon of Fitzgerald, Ga., and quarterback Tom Ed Gooden of Carlisle have set the pace offensively in early action with outstanding assistance from running back Jack Barber of Ft.

Myers, Fla., and flanker Harry Starnes of McGehee. Dixon, a 6-0, 192 pound junior, has rushed for 538 yards, with a high game total of 212 yards against Northeast Missouri.

Gooden, the total offense leader in the AIC with 541 yards, booted a record 51-yard field goal against Austin College and has connected on 12 of 17 extra point kicks.

Harding is currently ranked number one in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics category of team rushing with a pre-game average of 382.0 yards. The Bisons are second in the total offense category with a 499.3 yard average per game.

Defensively, senior tackle Dale Payne of Newport and a senior-studded secondary have been instrumental in limiting opponents to only 47 points while the Bisons have rolled up 157. With senior Gary Gregg of Columbian, O., stealing three enemy aeri- als, the Bisons have intercepted 11 passes in the first four games.

Harding will host Arkansas Tech Oct. 14 and will have an open date on Oct. 21. Mississippi College will invade Searcy on October 28 for the annual Homecoming tussle.

Alan "Snake" Dixon slithers around right end for a big gain against the Henderson Reddies. The junior tailback has already gained more than 500 yards in Harding's first four games.

Junior and Sophomore Duo Boost Basketball Fortunes

Harding's basketball fortunes could take an upswing this year after recording an 11-15 record in 1971-72. Coach Jess Bucy returns three starters with junior Freddie Dixon (6-5) and sophomore Tim Vick leading the way. Both are capable of fine all-around play and are all-conference candidates.

After making the adjustment to college basketball, Vick finished with a 13.4 scoring average, hitting .443 from the field and .825 at the charity line.

Dixon, a springy-legged competitor, hit a blazing .607 percentage from the field to establish a new school record in that department and finished with a 14.7 average.

Sharing the rebounding duties with Dixon will be 6-6 senior Joe Mathias, who carried a 12.3 scoring average as a starter last year. Junior Jamie Cowley, a 5-10 former all-stater from Henrietta, Tex., will team with the flashy Vick in the backcourt.

Lack of the "big" man inside, which has always been a Harding liability, could be answered if a trio of post giants come through. Steve Moslander, a 6-10 Fairbury Junior College (Neb) transfer, 6-8 junior Jerry Kelley from Abilene Christian, a redshirt last year, and freshman Gary Baker, a 6-8 San Diego product, will be making bids for the starting forecourt positions.

Also expected to see considerable action are sophomore guard Randy Mulvaney (5-11) of Deer Park, Tex., senior guard Jeff Downs (6-5) of Zanesville, O., sophomore forward Steve Kent (6-4) of Bloomington, Ind., and senior center Jack Campbell (6-9) of Toledo, O.

Three other returning squadmen giving needed depth to the squad include Lester Davidson a 6-1 former honorable mention All-American prepster from Corning, Ark., James Hinerman a 6-3 senior from Columbian, O. and Perry Gates, a 6-2 sophomore from Memphis who was injured early last season.

Three other newcomers who bring impressive statistics and will be candidates for starting berths, include Larry Aggas, a 6-5 transfer from Ohio Valley College, freshman Randy Reynolds, a 6-3 1/2 all-stater from Camden, Ark., and freshman Steve Morris, a 6-0 guard from Houston.

In short, if Harding can obtain the needed strength on the boards, the Bisons could rank as a conference title contender. They can score with anybody.

Harriers Outdistance Rivals

The Harding cross country team opened its 1972 campaign with three successive victories in one dual and two triangular meets against AIC teams.

In the first meet with Southern State College, five Bisons placed in the top eight finishers with senior Tim Geary of Merced, Calif., copping top honors.

The Geary-led Bison harriers placed five runners in the first ten finishers in the second meet, a triangular contest with Ouachita Baptist University and Henderson State College, to register their second victory.

The overland Bisons displayed their finest team effort in the last meet, a three-team race with State College of Arkansas and Arkansas Tech.

Geary continued his team-leading ways, pacing the team with a first place finish. The Bisons dominated the meet, pulling down 13 of the top 17 spots.

With three early season victories behind them, Coach Ted Lloyd thinks his harriers have jumped out to a good start.

"Each win builds our runners' confidence, and we've acquired good momentum," said Lloyd. "The constantly improving team effort is what really makes the outlook bright for the AIC championship.

The Bison harriers will be defending the 1971 conference crown at this year's title meet which will be hosted by Harding. Geary, who finished fourth last year, is considered one of the top contenders for the AIC's individual championship.

John Ratliff, the winner of the 1971 conference meet, has been under a special conditioning program after being out of competitive running for a year. The York, Neb. native finished sixth in the last meet and is expected to improve considerably before the loop's title race, Nov. 4.

Other top finishers for the Bisons have been senior Paul Jacoby of Glen Rock, Pa., junior Richard Bellis of Covington, Ind., senior David Embry of Indianapolis, Ind., and freshman Rock Meservy of Nevada City, Calif.

Lloyd Will Direct NAIA Meet

Ted Lloyd, track and cross country coach, will serve as meet director at the 22nd Annual NAIA Outdoor Track and Field Championships which will be hosted by Henderson State College. The announcement was made at a press conference in Little Rock by Wally Schwartz, assistant to the NAIA Executive Secretary.

The strong track interest in the state of Arkansas and the central location of the national meet (Arkadelphia) should combine to make the 1973 meet the finest collegiate track and field meet in the United States," said Schwartz.

In his eight years of coaching at Harding, Lloyd has guided Bison cross country teams to six AIC championships. The Harding track team won the conference title in 1966 and was second in 1967.

Lloyd was also recently selected to be an active participant in the First Annual Track Coaching Technique Clinic in Sacramento, Calif. and was one of 25 coaches nominated to the coaching staff to the 1972 Olympic games.

The native of Spring Hill, Kans. served as the 1971 president of the Arkansas Track Coaches Association. He has served as the vice president and track and field chairman of the Arkansas Association of AAU since 1968 and was listed in the 1970 edition of Outstanding Young Men in America.

Ted Lloyd

He has gained a year of international experience as the 1969-70 coach of the National team of Panama. Competing in the Central American-Caribbean games, his team placed fourth out of a 23-country field.

An assistant professor in physical education, Lloyd joined the Harding faculty in 1964 after serving as a football and track coach at Harding Academy from 1957 to 1964. The 33-year old is a 1957 graduate of Harding and received his M.S. from the University of Mississippi in 1964.

Lloyd has coached three NAIA national champions, high jumper Tom Bateman, miler Jim Crawford and steeplechaser Cliff Clark. Crawford and Clark were both named Arkansas' Athlete of the Year by the state AAU.

Scenes from "Man of La Mancha" . . . Actors and actresses run through their parts as rehearsals continue for the Homecoming musical.
