Announcement has been previously made through The Bison concerning Harding’s annual Thanksgiving Play. The cast of the play, consisting of members of the drama club, faculty, and students, will be announced shortly. The play will be presented on Thursday, November 13, at 8 p.m. in the Gymnasium. The play will last about two hours and will include dramatic and musical selections. The program will be opened with an invocation by Brotherius C. Brown, the president of the Central church of Little Rock. The program will close with a benediction by the Rev. C. E. Brown, who will make the musical offering.

Program Is Given By Fine Arts Department

Harding’s fine arts department has announced that it will be possible to provide at least one chapel program every two weeks for the remainder of the school year. These programs will include dramatic and musical selections. Bob Holcomb made the announcement of the plan at the first program of the series Thursday morning.

A dramatic reading called "Brood for Broken Heirs," was given by Port Benson. As he recited the rather somber colored reading the girls' audience made their first appearance of the year before the student body "Southern Men" and "Just Like A Gypsy" were their selections.

Harding Teachers Attend A.E.A. Meet In Little Rock

Seven thousand teachers gathered to discuss reorganization of Arkansas school districts at the 77th annual convention of the Arkansas Educational Association held in Little Rock, November 7-8. President Marvin Bird, of Little Rock, presided and the following new school candidates for office were nominated who, except new principals, will be voted on by the voters. These offices to be elected included: president, vice-president, auditor, treasurer, and secretary-treasurer of the Board of Trustees from the first, second, and seventh districts.

Harding was well represented at these meetings by eight or nine members. Among those who attended were Dana L. C. Bates, Dr. W. K. Sumner, Miss Viola Robbins, Mrs. Florence Cathers, Dr. Jack Wood and Mrs. M. D. Chronis.

Iwell Resigns; Colman To Head Circulation

Editor Benjamin Smith last week announced the resignation of Mrs. Wesley, as circulation manager of The Bison and the appointment of Fayetta Coleman as his successor. Harding plant officials said the move would not affect the quality of the paper.

Events Culminate In Race And Mock Wedding

Before a good representation of the faculty, Joe Webb presented a full cast show Thursday with his two specially raised horses, Tony and Rex.

With Bob Holcomb as master of ceremonies, the tricksters performed twenty-five skits with only the assistance of their mount and his helper, Douglas Lawyer.

Both animals are free-gained, and each can do nearly the same tricks. Rex, the elder of the two, gave the finest performances. He allowed a rider to mount as he kept down, permitted Joe to lie down between his legs as he lay on the ground, balanced a spanner, answered questions from the audience by springing to his feet, and ended his performance by giving a horse laugh.

Tony, a six-year-old, exhibited his finest kicks, raised up on his mother's knees, lay down and pretended to go to sleep, allowed Joe to stand on his saddle and walk a quarter around his body, jumped the rod, and concluded the performance with the scene depicted in the picture "At the End of the Trail." Joe, or "Spider" as he is called by his friends, is a foundation from Lamar. Though he is but 18 years old, he has had considerable experience in the mining of horses, and has trained them in shows throughout several states. He has been winning recognition since he was two years old.

One Act Play Is Given By Dramatic Club

"Killing Papa" the one-act comedy was presented to the student body in the auditorium Thursday night.

The quartet rendered two original songs, "Sad Day" and "Gipsy," both by Charles J. Merryman, Little Rock merchant, whose subject everyone could be proud, that he was more experienced in his line of business.

It was the policy of the choir this year to have different members go on the various trips rather than limiting it to a small choir which made all of them.

One of the boys who were in the chorus, Larry Robertson, was the first speaker of the evening and his subject was "Struggles of a Typical Male," after which a column was presented from a stage with Emmett Godden, who was Minister of the Church of Christ and the correspondence department of the Arkansas Times.

Mayor George S. Benson announced that a number of improvements were made during the years from the time Moonbeam Perkins made all of them.

Bison patch's own mayor, Robert Webb, was announced as the master of ceremonies. Webb made all of them.

The quartet undertook a number of programs presented by the quartet and the Press Club, of which Mr. G. W. Smith, Forest Moyer, Lois Gurganus, and Mr. M. D. Chronic.

Good Books!

The Jamieson, Fausset and Brown Commentary, a critical and explanatory commentary on the old and new Testaments, is as good as its repute as an outstanding contribution to Biblical scholarship. The authors were devout believers in the Scriptures as the word of God and were equipped with rich Biblical exegesis. No one will ever be able to dispute the authority of the Jamieson, Fausset, and Brown commentary, which has been the Bible for over a century. The new six-volume edition of the Jamieson, Fausset, and Brown commentary will provide a real boon to the conservative Bible student. In distinction from the abridged one-volume, it contains the Biblical text in full and gives a far more detailed exposition. The following comparative statements will give some idea of its greater comprehensiveness:

- To the 5 books of Moses one devotes 135 pages, the other 715.
- To the Psalms the one devotes only 48, the other 506.
- To the Prophecy of Isaiah one devotes 778 pages, the other 207.
- To the four Gospels one devotes only 171 pages; the other 650.
- 6 Volumes $25.00

In December, 1936, Leslie Burke was married to Corinne Whitten. They planned to go to China with Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Davis, but were refused passports by the government. It was then that Dr. Soter asked Professor Burke to teach in the academy and to continue the teaching of Greek in the college.

The following year the Burkes went to Memphis to work with a congregation there, and in 1940 moved on to Norfolk, Arkansas, where Mr. Burke was superintendent of the schools. He also presided for a church there. In November, 1941, a son was born to the Burkes and they named him Caslow. Evangelistic work in Smyrna, New York, was the next event in the lives of the Burke family. They were there in 1942, but during the last part of the year came back to Memphis where Mr. Burke worked for the Chicago and Southern Lines for the following two years.

Professor Burke’s exhibition now is to get a Masters Degree in Classics, and he worked toward that goal last summer at Northwestern University.

Looking ‘em Over

The eighth week of our intramural program ended last week and with its ending we saw the Seniors crowned class football champion. The Senior unit has shown that it is going to be the team to beat this year in all sports events. They started off the year by winning the football season opener and now added the football crown to their laurels.

Competition became keener as the football season progressed. This was clearly seen in the two games that the Frosh and Seniors had. The Seniors won the four game easily and by a large score but had to put out every ounce of energy in their final encounter to come on top.

The Freshmen are the first to point out the fact of the week by lowering the Faculty in an evenly played contest.

No all-star team was picked from this class but once more we should like to point out that Seniors and Frosh are the teams to beat in the near future.

For our choice we would pick Jim Blaylock and E. L. Burleson. Mr. Lawler has shown more speed and more ability to upset the defenses than I have ever seen.

Mr. Lawler was named the leading man of the week by Mr. Smith, the Faculty Manager. Mr. Lawler had a field day scoring.

The Seniors were the leaders in points scored with 46, followed by the Frosh with 36. The Freshmen had 28 points and the Juniors had 18.

The Seniors and Frosh were named All-Stars for the week.

The Seniors won by a score of 46-36. The Frosh won by a score of 36-28. The Juniors and Sophomores had no score to show for their efforts.

The Seniors and Frosh are the first two teams to be named All-Stars for the season.
