A Statement of Principle

No doubt many of the service men on the campus will recall some observation from the past which has been instanced by some or all of the motives and principles which are included in this writing. More or less in all walks of life there are two classes of advancement, namely, advancement by careful professional training and advancement by the least is given. The problem stated plainly is this: paramount is the danger that the student is working on his advancement by careful professional training and is practicing to a very great degree cooperation is stressed and is practiced to a very great degree freedom is by means of the grace of God; the wildish-

John rushed around looking for his coat.

"What do you want it for dear?" asked his wife.

"That fellow Smith across the road has just telephoned to ask if I can lend him a coat." Answered John.

"Well, what do you want the coat for? Surely there's no need to go out. You can send Mary with it." Answered his wife.

John turned upon her more in sorrow than in anger.

"My dear," he said, "your last remark sums up the whole reason why women cannot lend others, control nations, or take anything but a subsidiary part in the affairs of the world."

Astor: Mind and personal study characterize his work. Dean Sears commented that he was chosen for the lecturership because of his close concept of the supernatural nature of Christianity. In a recent article, "Are we preaching the gospel?" Moser has set forth the relation of the conditions of salvation in the blood of Christ, giving a more complete development of the topic in a book, "The Way of Salvation." Another of his works is "Satan in Romans," a book emphasizing the importance of grace and faith.

The Thursday lecture was built around the distinction between law and grace. Bro. Moser pointed out that only grace is necessary to depend on the merit of Christ for Christ delivered us from the law principle as it is indicated in our purification by faith.

"Preaching Christ," the lecture delivered Friday, emphasized that Christianity is unique because it is first redempive, then informative. While other religions have been founded upon some system, Christianity is founded upon Christ. Therefore we must preach Christ, not just his teachings, and the result will be converting men to Christ, not just a system," Bro. Moser pointed out.

J. D. Bales, Jr. Causes Some Quandering Unsuspectingly

By S bible Kavanau

When young J. D. Bales, Jr., made his entrance into the world early on the morning of January 9, he had his father with him in the delivery room and the baby had the conformation of his father in mind, for it gave his father the hours of the day - the two who kept a son that morning. The usually demanding, two times as much hair as usual.

Dr. Joe's answer must have been that he would attend to the needs of his son and that he would be giving notice on the board of room 303 the following day.

"Since James David, Jr., is confined in his bed today, Professor Bales will not meet his classes. Take a copy of "Catholics and Conviction" and read it." "At Termite Terminated Junction on his way home, Bales burst in on Mr. James David, Jr., who had been too busy to read the book and had heard of his son." "He asked James David, Jr., if he had been here about two o'clock this morning."

Sub T's Are First-Half Champs

Whip T N T's

In the best game played so far this year, the Sub T's won the first-half basketball championship from the T. N. T. "A" men, by a score of 37-30, on a sunny day. From start to finish, the game was fast, with the ball moving up and down the court like a bevor blur. The score was always close, with the final margin of seven points made till the last quarter. The game started with the customary mix-up, and a ball on the first play. Many times during the game the ball was lost, but few fouls were made. Every man in the game was on his toes with his eye on the ball. Several times the ball was lost and found the entire length of the court two or three times before a score was made. Defensive playing was good on both sides, with the first half showing about a third of the total scoring. Halftime score was 17-18, in favor of the Sub T's.

INDIDEPENDENTS vs. T. N. T.

By a score of 43-30, the T. N. T. "A" men Monday night scored the final game of the first half of the independent basketball tournament by defeating an Independent team. The Independent, having won their first game by a margin of 38 points, were able to put up a good fight, but not good enough to match the strength of the T. N. T. cage.

The game started at a comparatively slow pace, but the T. N. T. men soon started rolling, and by halftime the score was 23-11 in their favor. In the last half, the Independents gained, but not enough to win. With the Independent fluid for scoring honors, with eight tall men, and were followed by four men who made seven.

The girls played as if at a fast pace, the scoring totals would indicate. Halftime score was 36-44, Sub-T's.

Independents winning honors went to Otis Copeland, who tossed a grand quintet, all to the Kasentgus scoring 34 points to their 11. It was a case of two men vs. Jeff when the three tall Wildcat guards, Dillard, Kilman and Smith walked across the court to guard Hodges, McCluggage and Nithp.

Norman Sturk with 19 to his credit, Bill Smith led the losers with 9 points.

The game was played at a fast pace, the scoring totals would indicate. Halftime score was 36-44, Sub-T's.

Looking 'em Over

By Virgil Lawry

That's how you would describe the girls keeping standing as Harding scored second half of intermediate basketball season. This tournament seems to be above par, more so than any of our basketball tournaments in the past several years. There could be several reasons for this, but I think the main reason is that all who play are playing for the love of playing and not to win at any cost.

Both independent teams who had remained through the first round playoffs were down scraping in their second round slate.

The independent squad surprised several with a show of power at times that looked as though they might go through to the finals but some of the clubs had more experience and more wise players.

Smith-Beach-Swain and the nets kept sounding as Harding second half of intermediate basketball season. This tournament seems to be above par, more so than any of our basketball tournaments in the past several years. There could be several reasons for this, but I think the main reason is that all who play are playing for the love of playing and not to win at any cost.

The girls finished the first half of their tournament last week and will start their second half this week. Since the girls have split up into different teams some of their gals have been slowed down somewhat but there is still plenty of encouragement in watching our little city winner leave the old punkin around.

Henry's intermediate philosopher speaks. "The who play to win only, but lost some of their biggest wins."
