WELCOME THANKSGIVING VISITORS!!

A hearty welcome to you, Thanksgiving visitors to the Harding campus. The privilege we have in playing host to you during the days of the holiday lectureship has been duly, and sincerely, enjoyed, on behalf of the entire student body, that your stay here will be most pleasant.

To many of you who were former students of Harding, it may appear that the campus has changed, with the record-throng of new students. Although we have increased quite measurably in size, we and its principles - remain unchanged from the day you left.

Bureau of Mines, comes this report.

Since the close of the war with Japan, the United States Bureau of Mines has been busy. At the rate of from two to four new plants a year, the program of industrial research has been pushed vigorously. The bureau's Youth Research Enterprise which advises manufacturers, and is responsible for what is known today as the Gilbert Habits of the Younger Generation.

Two years ago Eugene Gilbert took over the direction of this project. Those attending the debate included Bill O'Neal, Wayne Moody, Bill Harris, Norman Jackson, and Andy T. Ritchie.

Those attending the debate included Andy T. Ritchie. He is the president of this project. It has been stated, "Our purposes of improving congregational understanding. " And the Lord seeks such understanding. And the Lord seeks such understanding. And the Lord seeks such understanding.

Two weeks before the opening night of "Sleeping Beauty" at the Harding College auditorium November 25 at 7:30, a performance of the groups took place in the auditorium in the current musical instrument movement: that is speaking where it is silent. And the leaders of the Restoration movement: that is speaking where it is silent. And the leaders of the Restoration movement: that is speaking where it is silent.

Must The Guiltless Also Be Condemned?

Any article written concerning the situation I wish to discuss will necessarily assume the terminology and slant of our own. However, this problem must be discussed frankly or the resulting con guilty be considered. If we are not aware of the situation, probably few, if any, who act as such will be aware of the necessity for change. For the consequences will only serve to perpetuate the problem of guilt and helplessness.

In essence, there are two kinds of guilt: the guilty and the innocent. The guilty are those who are aware of their guilt and are striving to change. The innocent are those who are unaware of their guilt and do not realize the need for change.

We must face the fact that guilt is a part of human nature. It is not something that can be completely eradicated. However, we can learn to live with guilt and use it as a motivator for change. Guilt can be a powerful force for good, as it can motivate us to do what is right.

The innocent are those who are unaware of their guilt and do not realize the need for change. They are those who continue to do what is wrong, even though they know it is wrong. They are the ones who need the most help, as they do not understand the consequences of their actions.

The guilty are those who are aware of their guilt and are striving to change. They are those who take responsibility for their actions and work to make things right. They are the ones who are the most helpful, as they can serve as role models for others.

We must learn to distinguish between the guilty and the innocent. We must learn to help the innocent and to support the guilty. We must learn to live with guilt and use it as a motivator for change.

We must learn to live with guilt and use it as a motivator for change. Guilt can be a powerful force for good, as it can motivate us to do what is right. Chapel Reverence

Last week's student chapel program encouraged a more reverent and spiritual atmosphere in our daily chapel by commending everyone. No one had any comment other than praise of the sincerity and the quietness and attentiveness of the chapel assembly. Perhaps some of those who practice doing so before, whipped out books, once more, and apparently withdrew from worship in the first half of the chapel hour, difficult to do anything other than listen with open ears and hearts to the talk or program following. Are we just because we are required to attend chapel?

Hats Off To You!

Our congratulations to the dramatic club! Their first production, "Night of January 16," was all that could be said of the success. The dramatic club did not have the aid of a dramatic coach in producing this play.

Hard work, determination to put it over, excellent directing, a well-chosen cast, the knowledge that if this production won't a suc cess there might not be another presented on the Harding campus this year. All these factors were factors that made the production of "Night of January 16," all these were put over in a big way.

Our dramatic club has proved again that can be done and that there's a will, there's a way. They pitched in and worked long hard hours to smooth out the wrinkles and make their play the success that it was, one of the best ever presented at Harding.

PLAYING THE GAME

Life here, some say, is just a game. As which game? And how do we play it? In order that we may here train Ourselves for that Great Day

When he shall call us up above Where God and Christ shall make us feel

All with His joy and love. And if we know these things are not just games

No shoking of a dusty hair, No game for transient fame; But boldly facing, without fear, All hindrances to the game.

Don't'shite and cry because you're out.

Quite easily you're blamed.

Back and bums every doubt

And get back in the game.

It's game to play to the end.

Of that last happy day.

And there's been who have been our Friend that He let us play.

Game of life is most the important one that any of us will ever play.

Each day, in all our activities, in every event of our lives in that we may be sure,

in that we may be certain of the future.

But that is not all. There are rules which govern our play.

In our games on the athletic field or in the gymnasium, the rules that are set up govern the way we play, tell us how to do, and penalize for breaking rules. Sometimes we violate rules from lack of knowledge or of unskilledness, but, at other times, in the heat of play we willfully do that we know to be wrong. The Game of life is governed along the same line. It is, of course, more.

LACK of preparation in that it is less able to endure the hard knocks that we may not overstep and correctly.

The game to its triumphant end, and be

Lloyd Clive Sears

Lloyd Clive Sears shifted his suitcase to his other hand and started up the hill that led to the campus of Cordell Christian College. The fourteen-year-old was tired. He had traveled a long way to get there. Soon he would sit at his grip town and rest.

His ears detects a faint scraping up ahead of him—a sound that grows in volume and intensity, until it was almost a roar. He looked up the hill and his young eyes hugged out. A young she-cowmane, mounted in a red wagon, was about to run him down. He dodged in time, turned and stared at the young she-cowmane, mounted in a red wagon, was about to run him down. He dodged in time, turned and stared at the young she-cowmane, mounted in a red wagon, was about to run him down. Tips for Turkey Day Clashes; Saturday’s Games; Odds ‘n Ends

Today there are many homes blowing and much commotion throughout the land. Afternoon football on Thanksgiving has become an American tradition; and, this year, a number of the day's bills will have important bearing on the selection of bowl games for New Year.

A punting condition exists in the Southwest where current leaders ARKANSAS and TULSA run with the same conference record as the Razorbacks if she beats Baylor (the Owls are considered a cinch). This will throw things into a two-way race.

Getting back to the Razorback-Hurricane tussle today, we shall attempt to make a prediction. Little is known in this department concerning Tulsa, but one fact is known: she beats Baylor. This will establish her as the Razorbacks' number two team.

In this department concerning Tulsa (the Owls are considered a cinch) after kicking around half of them? after kicking around half of her foot in the game-of-champ (and who hasn’t heard of A. and M. but we don’t say Rice is twenty points in a shocking upset.

A puzzling condition exists in the South where everyone but Villanova. Any weak links in that Bulldog eleven Coach says: Arkansas. We won’t blush the morning after it is over.

We would also predict that some sort of school of music will be the title. The Jayhawkers are lucky to win in the first place.

P.S. Any weak links in that Bulldog eleven Coach says: Arkansas. We won’t blush the morning after it is over.

This will establish her as the Razorbacks' number two team.
