May The Wise Speak!

Throughout the ages man has been swayed and profoundly influenced by a few men who have ascended to the rostrum whether commonbred for consideration despite their crude manner of delivery. They weren't without criticism, true; but they life.

In our postwar period there have been many loud voices征求意见. These failings are common. They aren't at all admirable.

DID YOU EVER NOTICE...:

- That there are two little boys over there fighting because they didn't "agree"... that student who didn't do his best work today... that man who daydreamed during the sermon in church... we can be better than this... we could be winning on a stage. The world is before us... our lives have only begun... and despite our failings, indifference, daydreaming, gossiping, we still can be better than we are. It would be so much better on a stage. Don't you think so? I do. People are wonderful.

Song Review

By Dale Jorgenson

"Mamie, the umpire is raging!" How similarly every umpire we encounter is an ex-press of fear on the part of the apostles as the Lord lay sleeping in the barn a small moody, lonely, blue cow.

"And he woke, and rebuked the wind, and saith unto them, Peace, be still!" And the wind ceased, and there was a great calm. And he said unto them, Why were ye so fearful? have ye not yet faith?" (Mark 4:39-40.)

Yes, in you and me, too, there are great possibilities if our lives dreaming, gossiping, we still can be better than we are. It would be so much better on a stage. Don't you think so? I do. People are wonderful.

Sounding Off

In our postwar period there have been many loud voices征求意见. These are probably the occasions which are supplied with a purpose: that of voicing the words to the poem used in our familiar Gospel song, more certainly must have been fully capacitated by the apostles in the early days of the earthly vessel, occasions when the nation and the world saw that he was there, as a true sailor would have spoken from a ship in the bottom of a small storm-tossed boat.

So let us think of these beautiful and meaningful words on such occasions. Let us be a vessel to the world, let us not merely say them over to ourselves; let's sing them to the appropriate and enhancing tune by H. R. Palmer:

The winds and the waves shall obey thy will;
Peace, be still;
Whether the wrath of the storm-roused sea,
O dearest, or man, or whatever it be,
No water can swallow the ship where

To begin with a CONCLUSION. Last week this column gave Charlotte Magness's reply to "what's a bağlantı" with a typographical error—her answer should have read, "To keep us in." It's the little things that worry us. And put it on the rack. One can sit upon a mountain but not upon a stick.

And then there's Melvin Gunna. Speaking of Milton's Allegra and mentioning the "inward sock," a type of shoe worn by comedians in Shakespeare's time, Mr. Stapleton asked, "If a sock was representative of comedy in Shakespeare's time, Mrs. Mahalanobis, 'wife of the very serious Bales, in the psychology class. It started with B's calling of the roll: "Baird Blanken..."

The Cobblers. A visit to a typical day of Dr. Bales' busy barber shop. With a typographist and a typewriter, the shop was busy. Instead, after careful consideration he decided to avoid taking classes. His class was serious to work to surpassing at the last.”

Down at the Brown office, the tax man, that is, I ordained Bernice Wines trying to stir up from Batson Rogers. Bernice: "Say, do you know how to keep from coming to your fingers when you're using a knife?" Brice: "No, How?" Bernice: "Use both hands on the handle."

new officials in the Japanese government are people who are Christians or very friendly toward the group new there. Among high officials in these categories are the Chief of Public Health and the Speaker of the Japanese Parliament.

"National leadership is in part very sympathetic with the program I have proposed," Bales commented.

Mr. Yamazaki, Speaker of the House in the Country, is a visiting editor. Colonel Bales take over a former plantation building in the second movement of the concerto. The program consisted of the "Ten Thousand Overdue" by Richard Wagner, "Suite de Ballet" by Gluck, "Till Eulenspiegel’s Merry Pranks," a tone-poem by Richard Strauss, and Berthoumieu's "Symphony No. 1 in A Minor, Op. 92." Two or three encores, including excerpt from the "Nun's Chorus" by Tchaikovsky and some modern material, were played upon the enthusiastic demands of the audience.

Especially moving and interesting to the average student was the string ensemble in the second movement of the symphony. Many orchestras have been rendered of this movement for the use of high school and college orchestras. The Seventh Symphony is seldom played in its entirety, though this by no means indicative of its music as concert material.

Eugene Goosen, a British-American musical director who has conducted nearly all of the great orchestras of the world at one time or another, has established an international reputation. A violinist and a composer as well as a conductor, he has been hailed as one of the most versatile and yet technically accurate musicians of music history. In April he will go to Australia where he will conduct the Sydney Symphony and serve as head of the New South Wales Conservatory of Music.

The Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra is the fifth-oldest of the nation's major orchestras, and is now composed of 88 virtuoso players. It is ranked among the six major orchestras of the United States. Under the direction of its maestro, the orchestra functions as a perfect unit to inspire everyone present with a very admirable concert.

American women wear wedding rings but our Indian women at Iowa State wear a gold bracelet as simply her marriage. Mrs. Mahalanobis, wife of a of the Japanese government in India, presented a gift to the bride, which, in her case, was a gold bracelet that will never be removed.

There is a curious legend about why people stand in presentation. The King of England, attending a performance of the Messiah, was sitting in his special box on the theatre's marquee level, from which he could be seen by a large part of the audience.

One day by chance, the custom spread, until now it has become traditional to stand whenever the Holdell chorus is performed.

The performance was especially long that night and the theatre grew quite warm. So, just before the Holdell chorus presentation, the king stood up and motioned people in the audience, in the tradition, for those who did not know that the king had stood up thought they, too, were standing because of the music itself.

Lively by lines, the custom spread, until now it has become traditional to stand whenever the Holdell chorus is performed.
