Zelma Bell Announces Publication of Poetry Anthology

"Ante-Over," a book of poems written by Miss Zelma Bell, dean of women, is now available to the public. Miss Bell, a graduate of the 1938 class, was killed as a Navy pilot in England in 1944.

The book contains a large variety of modern free verse poems that were written by the students, faculty, and townspeople for their whole-hearted cooperation with the Bison during the past few months.

Miss Bell has dedicated "Ante-Over" to Sam Peebles, a former student of Harding College, who had an inspiration to her in writing poetry. Mr. Peebles, a graduate of the 1938 class, was killed as a Navy pilot in England in 1944. One of the selections in the book was written by Miss Bell, having started writing poetry at a "very early age," but not for any particular reason. She studied under Professor Cope of the Harding faculty, and graduated with a degree in 1944.

The book contains a large variety of modern free verse poems that were written by the students, faculty, and townspeople for their whole-hearted cooperation with the Bison during the past few months.

The Bison wishes to thank the students, faculty, and townspeople for their whole-hearted cooperation with the Bison during the past few months.
"Wednesday is the day!" has been the watchword round about our campus for several days. Yes, Wednesday is the day—the day when classes will be over for 1948; the day when we shall leave for home to spend a few days with our family and friends; but there is a far more ominous meaning which comes to our minds. Wednesday is the day when many will start their mid-December traveling so that they may get home to be with their loved ones to usher in the holidays and the new year. "Well, what are you anxious about this?" you ask. Simply this: For the next three weeks accidents on the nation's highways will multiply into the hundreds and the number of fatalities will soar! It has been four days yet since we read of the traffic accident in Utah in which 13 people were killed and nearly 50 were injured when two busses collided. And such accidents will be repeated many times, though perhaps on a lesser scale, throughout the winter months, but especially during these few days when so many are traveling toward their respective homes.

The whole tenor of the holiday season coupled with the winter weather tends to make our nation's streets and highways hazardous places to be. This is what you can do about it:

If you own a car, drive it safely, do not invite Satan to sit with you in your car. Caution is always a good rule. Obey it.

When you are a pedestrian, don't act like you have armor plate on. There were days of old when knights were bold, but they didn't have to face the onslaughts of America's millions of steel plated dragons. Pay heed to sensible rules for pedestrians.

When you travel in public conveyance, let the driver discharge his duties with a minimum of distraction; if he is careless, call his attention to the lives he has in his hands.

At this time of year, all of us wish one another a Happy New Year, not months of suffering in some hospital ward, or a lot in the local cemetery.

"Be ye doers of the word, not hearers only."
Merry Christmas 1948

We Hope... that your home is blessed with all the contentment possible during this holiday season.

We're stopping by with a cheery greeting.

Think On These Things...
by Victor Broaddus

Small Things Or Big?
"Ye tithe mint and anise and cumminl, and have left undone the law, justice, and mercy, and faith: but these ye ought to have done, and not to have left undone. Ye blind guides, that strain out the gnat, and swallow the camel!" Matthew 23:23-24.

Much has been said lately of the lack of spirituality noticeable among many, and perhaps most of us. Several analyses have been made and suggestions offered as to a cure for this disease. Perhaps one of the best suggestions was found in the column "Prof. Rithie Sez:" in the last issue in which he mentioned that something can be done about it if one would only start with himself.

In a recent brief survey of religious thought on the campus it has been found that legalism and formalism seems to predominate even in the case of strictly secular worship. These things ought not to be so. In the quotation from Matthew's Gospel above, one may readily see that it is not primarily the details of form that count. Jesus says that those who leave undone the weightier things are only attempting to strain the gnat while swallowing the camel. Jesus also calls them hypocrites! With such an accusation of us possible (it would be well if each person would stop for a moment to examine himself in these matters, and think on these things. We need to worship with the spirit as well as with the understanding.
By Barbara Cash

Registered—As I was helping all those people get their schedules in one big mess at registration, Ken Istre came along and Johnny Nell Ray was checking his cards. She had a very confused look on her face as she read his cards and said, "But I thought that you were that East boy".

Tuition—quote Bill Williams as an Organic test paper is returned to him, "Hmmm, I get the same number as my age". And that ain't so good.

Per Month—House broken is what you are when you buy one and homesick is what you are by the time you finish paying for it.

Room Rent—Now I know why they call it higher education. I don't have a single class that isn't on the third floor. Maybe I'll get higher in life, huh?

Board—I never can seem to find the little yard stick to measure my paunch inches. The other day I walked into the Bison office and hollered, "Where's the ruler?" Well, I found out that the ruler was laying on one of the desks asleep and had strict orders for his Royal Highness (Typewriter, that is) not to be awakened for anything.

Fee—"Radio" Hayes asked me if I knew what Daniel Boone said when he saw the Indians coming and I, with a wide-eyed look on my face, didn't know. He said, "Here come the Indians". Yeah, I know....SUCKER.

Per Hour—My roommate dropped a quarter last night and we couldn't find it anywhere. We finally found it out in the hall.

Quote Mattie Lou Greer, That's farther than most quarters go these days".

Bill—"Smitty" was coming down the stairs the other day just as I was passing by and he stumbled and nearly fell down on the floor. I said, "Well, that's the closest that I'll ever come to having a man at my feet". As Bill pulled himself up off the floor, he said, "Well, I really fell for you."

Fall Term—The other day Al Taylor was studying far into the night on his trig with a couple of other Huvillians, when Al suddenly brightened, smiled, and wisely asked, "When do the leaves begin to turn?" John Anderson, naive fresh from Nashville (No, not the one in Tennessee) answered, "In the fall." Taylor snarled, and declared, "No, the night before exams."

Travel Fund—Overheard at the mailbox, "Are you gonna marry Anna? No, I guess that would be going too far." As my eyes lit up because I write up the engagements, I asked who Anna was. Hugh Mingle and Bob Hare hastily told me that they were speaking of "Marianna." I miss more chances that way.

Paid in Full (Ed note: oh yeah?)—If I can never say it again, I can truthfully say for once I really registered...last Tuesday. And I have a bill to prove it.

Term—Boy, this is really a concentration camp around exam time. Everybody has to concentrate.

Girls' Glee Club Has Caroling Party Saturday

Mrs. Florence Jewell, director of the girls' glee club, sponsored the traditional caroling party last Saturday night. Approximately fifty girls and their escorts left the campus at 7:00 p.m. caroling their way downtown. They went down a number of streets singing especially to shut-ins.

At 9:00 the carolers went to the Rendezvous for refreshments of coffee and rolls.

SITTIN' AT TOP THE WORLD

with Bobby Peyton

DEAR SANTA,

Last year I left a lot of things up to your taste, and what do I get? A pair of red and purple suspenders. I had to put them out to go to sleep. They were so loud that my pants were scared of them. So I'm getting in my order early this year.

FOR ME

now that the war is over (and more than three years), that red convertible is still on order. I think I could use a good copy reader, a book of a thousand jokes, a typewriter that doesn't misspell words all the time, a more agreeable editor, (Editor's note: Hmmm!), a pair of pants to match my suspenders, and anything else you care to toss in.

FOR HARDING STUDENTS

... add two days to the week for extra curricular activities. Put a steamboat line on the campus for rainy weather use. An automatic shower system for Dr. Bales' lecture room... a special built in clock for chapel speakers... metallic face powder for all the girls, so visitors can talk about bright and shiny faces, and a new set of gold plated stainless steel chains for the Galloway Ghost to rattle.

FOR SPECIAL FRIENDS

... for Lois Benson a mask to cover up that perpetual smile on cloudy days... for Miss Latham escalators up to the third floor to save steps... for Jerrell Daniel on of those new cameras without lenses to get dirty... for Editor Hougey a great big box of copy to edit so he can keep in practice... for Barbara Cash just a little loose change... and for all the rest of you kiddies just a very merry Christmas and all that.

BEST WISHES

for the holiday season, and I am making a resolution to be here at the same spot come '49 and SITTIN' ATOP THE WORLD.

Wishing you the merriest Christmas possible.

That means you, you... and you!

CHORUS GIVES CHAPEL PROGRAM

The high school chorus gave a program of music in chapel on December 8. The chorus, directed by Bill Cook, sang a number of sacred and secular songs. The several smaller musical organizations within the chorus also rendered numbers.

One of the features of the program was a Bill Cook arrangement of "White Christmas," which was sung by the octet. The chorus sang several traditional favorites including "The First Noel," "Joy to The World," and "O Come All Ye Faithful." Numbers were also featured by the boys' quartet, the girls' glee club, and girls' sextet.

Accompanist for the chorus and direction of the girls' sextet and glee club is Marian Phillips.

CAROLING PARTY

Bill Cook and Marian Phillips, directors of the high school music groups, sponsored 35 academy students on a caroling party Saturday night.

The students left from in front of Pattie Cobb hall at 7:30 and caroled on the east side of town. Several homes of shut-ins were visited with songs.

Participating in the caroling were the chorus, girls' glee club, male quartet, girls sextet and mixed octet.

At 9:00 the groups returned to Don Willekerson's house for refreshments of hot chocolate, home made cookies and marshmallows.

The tank still had a few gallons of gas in it.

When asked about the reason for all the fumes from the tank, Mr. Turman suggested, “This fall the ground was soaked with water from rain which leaked through the holes in the tank where the pipes were removed, and forced the gas up through the ground. All the ground in that section was saturated with this gas, and the fumes entered the building. That the gas was still very inflammable was proven when one of the men accidentally threw a match down on the ground. They had to stop work and start fighting fire.”

The men tried to empty the tank of all the gas before taking it up. This gas was taken out and burned. Then the men had a crane pull the tank up and load it on a truck to be taken out to the dump yard and burned.

Then the men had a crane pull the tank up and load it on a truck to be taken out to the dump yard and burned. When asked to describe this tank, Mr. Turman further explained, “The tank was a heavy outfit made of wood and metal with several partitions. We don’t see tanks like that anymore.” And thus the mystery of the gas fumes in the Ad building was solved.

Chorus, Benson Make Gift Recordings

Recordings made by the Harding college small chorus have been made and are being distributed to friends of Harding college as a season's greeting from Harding. The records were cut in Little Rock and sent to New York to be pressed. Prof. Andy Ritchie announced that a few are available to Harding students.

The record opens with a greeting from Dr. George S. Benson, Harding college president, and is followed by the chorus singing "Silent Night." The record is composed of three hymns by the chorus and one by the girls' sextet.

CHORUS, GLEE CLUB
PRESENT PROGRAMS

The Harding college small chorus and men’s glee club have given three programs off campus
this past week in Pangburn, Mt.
Vernon and for the Searcy Kiwanis club.

A group presented a program for the Kiwanis club last Thursday noon. Prof. Andy Ritchie directed the group.

The men’s glee club, girls sex-et, and a few other girls who are members of the small chorus,
gave a program in Pangburn Friday night. The major part of the program was given by the glee club, and the sextet. The mixed group sang a few of the favorites of Harding audiences.

About 40 members of the small chorus made a Sunday afternoon trip to Mount Vernon. They presented a sacred program in the church of Christ under the direction of Andy Ritchie.

Champs Lick All-Stars
25-12 To Break Precedent

Led by a fleet footed backfield and an aggressive line, the league champion Lions broke all precedent as they rolled to a 25 to 12 victory over a proud All Star combination. Through these results many sensational abilities were displayed, characteristics of their championship from during the regular season.

Ice was broken early in the game by the All Stars as a combination of runs by Gene Mowrer, Ron Smith, and Norm Starling moved the pigskin down to the ten yard line, where Mowrer found "Less" Perrin's arms available in the end zone for a touchdown. Pete Barnes took the All Star kick with determination and spun through their charging linemen for twenty yards where he was tackled by Lot Tucker, necessitating a penalty that placed the ball on the one yard line.

On the next play Tommy Mohundro circled his own right end for a Lion marker tying the ball game up at six all. Hugh Groover plunged over center for the extra point, placing the lions out front by virtue of that one point. However, this deficit motivated the bewildered All Stars to move once again down field for another score. Hugh Groover held, however, who was returning the Lion kick, penalizing them to their own one yard line. On two runs plays the All Stars lost two yards, but on the next attempt Starling found Perrin unneisted in the end zone for the All Stars second and final touchdown.

Again the Lions informed the All Stars that they were in the game to stay as Mac McClurg behind some spectacular blocking side stepped, swirled and sprinted beautifully for thirty five yards to the All Star goal line. From this point on there was a display of too much Lion power as they rolled for two more scores and held defensively on several goal line stands. These goal line stands were the results of some "nifty rag grabbing" by Bob Hare, Harold Wilson, and Pete Barnes. Shortly before the half Hugh Groover displayed his talents as he scored on an amazing forty-five yard gallop through the heart of the All Star defenses. Final scoring and the only score during the last half was a zig-zag ten yard run by the agile Mohundro, who in order to go the distance went from one side of the field to the other and back again in order to evade the aggressive defenders.
