Alaskan Missionary
Speaks In Chapel

Robert H. Rowland of Juneau, Alaska, a former student of Harding college, visited the campus January 3, to show a film and lecture on the missionary activities in Alaska.

"There is a great demand for school-teacher-missionary personnel," declared Mr. Rowland. "We need a group of eight to ten people to accompany bishops, and stenographers, to go into a locality to start the work; an additional group, to start the building program, into a locality to start the work; and a teaching group, into a locality to start a building program, there should be much progress made there."

Lived In Alaska

Mr. Rowland spent the summer of 1945 in Alaska on a campaign and returned to Alaska in June of 1947. Since returning very recently he is showing the film and lecturing to various churches and the church schools in the United States.

Mr. Rowland plans to sail with Mrs. Robert Rowland of Juneau, Alaska, and their family, and accompany him since they were married in June of 1947, on February 17, 1949, from Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada.

Attended Harding

Mr. Rowland attended Harding during 1943-'44 and then attended George Pepperdine college from 1944-'47. After his graduation, he married Miss Joye Cooper of McAlester, Oklahoma, and six days after their marriage, they sailed to Alaska on their honeymoon and to their work.

Visiting the campus with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rowland is Mrs. Rowland's sister, Miss Barbara Cooper of McAlester, Oklahoma.

North Central Association Sends Committee To Visit Campus Next Week

Three committee members from the North Central Association will arrive on January 19 to inspect the Harding campus on Thursday and Friday, January 20 and 21. The members are Mr. M. G. Neale of the University of Minnesota, chairman; President Harold Coffman of George Willama college; and Mr. Melvin Hyde, dean of the Mount Union college.

The inspectors will cover many of the classrooms, the campus plants, and the dormitories. During the day they will inspect classes.

For a period of time, Harding has been preparing to enter the North Central Association. The administration has informed the Association and the Association advised that Harding college continue with the application.

Twenty-three New Students Enroll

Twenty-three students registered after the winter holidays, thus bringing the winter term enrollment to 932. Sixteen of the registrants have attended Harding at some previous time.

Many of the new students enrolled late because of the great traveling distance for only two weeks of school, previous to the winter holidays.

The new students are Robert Atkinson, Betty Jo Gifford, Otis Henley, Duwayne McNeill, Morgan Richardson, Everett Senter, and Dorothy Tutloss.

Davis, Saxon Present
Joint Music Recital

A music recital was given last Thursday evening by Kenneth Davis, former Harding student from Dallas, Texas; and Wanda L. Saxon, of Little Rock, at the college auditorium.

Mr. Davis, tenor, was enrolled in the Harding college from 1938-1940. He was a member of the college quartet while in school.

Miss Saxon, soprano, is a soloist in the Little Rock area. She sang solo parts in the recent performance of Handel's "Messiah" in Little Rock.

Both singers are now enrolled in Westminster Choir college at Princeton, New Jersey. The Westminster Choir is under the direction of Dr. Fred Williamson.

Accompanist was Reece Saxon Price of Little Rock. Mrs. Price is the producer of the Little Rock Civic Light Opera. Both Miss Saxon and Mrs. Price are (Continued on page 8)

The final election, to select the Queen out of three finalists, will be held Thursday, January 19.

Colonel Wilde Speaks In Chapel Saturday

Colonel A. J. Wilde, an official of the John Price Jones corporation, of New York, was guest speaker in chapel on January 8.

Introduced by Dr. George S. Benson with whom he has worked for the past year in the financial campaign, Colonel Wilde told how he associated for twenty years, is an authority on currency and the world's economy. He was especially complimentary toward Harding's Department of National Education. He stated that "Harding is a very great social force and it has a direct influence on society in general."

Colonel Wilde is a veteran of both world wars. In the second one, he was in the chief, Cleveland theater.

The John Price Jones corporation, of which he has been associated for twenty years, is an organization which plans and advises fund raising campaigns. He has been the advisor connected with the Harding college building campaign.
"Boy, I guess you know that they are putting light posts up all over there now, they have one right by our door. Well, now you can run into that. You can't type on that." "Broken?" "Yeah."

"Can I put this thing in here. "Well, we have a rule about people leaving things in here. "Yo ho!" "Hi, Ernie."

"22-25, 25, 26, 20 inches was all I could scrape up, I thought there were two more games; we would have had a few more, but they lost the score book somewhere, so we'll have to wait.

"Ohhhhh, (yawn)" "Good night! I've wasted nearly an hour in here." "What did you say?" "I just said it." "Oh." "What are you doing to the typewriter?" "Huh." "What are you doing to the typewriter?" "I'm trying to fix it. It sounds like it!" "I wonder if they would excuse me from Monday Night meetings— as if I ever go. Do you know what a debutante is?" "No, what?" "A tomato with plenty of lettuce.

"Why, hello, Hal." "Hi, Jerrell." "Is the mail up yet?" "No." "Say, David said something to me about a paper." "Crisfield school. "Oh yeah, you went there, didn't you? Well, I'll leave it on that table for you to read. "Thanks. "Yeah, well I gave Bob Hare a problem here." "Huh-uh." "Hello Howard." "Hi, Jerrell. Have you seen Bob Hare this morning?" "Huh-uh." "I just wish (mumble.) "What did you say?" "I was just talkin' to Jerrell." "Well! Pandion major." (Laughter) "It mighta made a good story for the Bison.

"Hi, how are you?" "O.K., you?" "Uhhmmnn." "Oh." "Good morning. What do you know?" "Nothing, but I'm learning a lot." "Say, Norman, when are we gonna take the rest of those pictures?" "I don't know." "What pictures is this you're talkin' about?" (Snicket) "If it isn't Howard again." "Hello, Howard." "Hi, Jerrell." (Laughing) "I keep ringing this bell to confuse him." "Huh! You're not confusing me, the bell doesn't work on this type­ writer any more." "Ha ha, that must be because I threw it at somebody the other day. "That's why it works now." "I just thought of something funny." "No kidding!" "Drop! dead, that is.

"What are you reading Howard?" "Huh?" "What are you readin'?" "U. S. History, 'America at the Turn of the Century' by Mitnik Sullivan." "Who's he, I never heard of him?" "Why, he's a famous author."

"Well, hello again, Norman." "Hi. Have you seen Bob Hare this morning?" "Huh-uh, I haven't seen hide nor hair of (him)." (Laughter) "Hare must be hiding." (More laughter) "Neither except for sound of three people breathing, one typing, and one ruining (more than before) a typewriter..."

With Other Schools

By Vicky Guest

Eula Sanders is now teaching in the school at Caraway. She is an ex of '47 and a member of the Phi Delta club.

Out of 1,137 men enrolled at ACC, 232 or 22.9 per cent are preaching or have determined to become gospel preachers, examination of the college registrants record discloses.

Some safety slogans the Arka-Teck brought forth for the holiday season were:

"As if your life depended up on it, do.

Slow up here and show up there.

After the wreck comes the reckonin',

You can't charge thru traffic without paying for it later.

Courtey is contagious, let's start an epidemic.

John Gould Fletcher, Arkansa's Pulitzer prize-winning poet of 1939, will join the faculty of the University of Arkansas next summer, it was announced yesterday. He will serve as a special lecturer and counselor in English and art departments. He will give weekly lectures in literature and art and a number of public lectures are planned.

Re-Prints

from days gone by—

October 29, 1947—

Rumor is that a very frustrated feminine freshman approached Miss Bell, the dean of women, with the disheartening news that nothing was going well with her, that everything seemed to be such a mess, and that she felt she just must go home. Miss Bell talked with her for a while then said, "Well have you been to see Dr. Benson?" "Dr. Benson," quote the frost, "who's he?"

January 14, 1948—

"No man is free who is not master of himself."

October 28, 1947—

From Miss Bell comes these gems of unconscious witicism. It seems that following a brief conversation with our California character, Harold Hougey (as in Carmichael), Miss Bell politely inquired, "How are you classified, Harold?" Just as politely and quite as seriously, Hougey replied, "As a red­head, I guess."

November 5, 1947—

Professor Andy T. Ritchie claims that he knows a preacher with a "base­ ball mustache." Of course someone asked what kind of mustache that was.

"Why, mine on a side," said Ritchie.

The Week

What did you enjoy the most About the Holidays?

Martha Watson: Being home and away from school.

Ted Diehl: Ice skating, eating and stuff.

La Vera Novak: Sleeping, eating, sleeping, eating.

Russell Black: Spending the week end at Lake City.

Evelyn Rhodes: Going to see the doctor, at least he was nice-looking.

Lambert Wallace: Looking at the pretty women.

Margaret Chapman: One disappoint­ment, another; telegrams, phone calls and letters.

Bill Cook: Being home with my family and my gal friend.

Miss Bell: I'm not even thinking of Christmas, I'm dreaming about next year.

Walter Johnson: THE FOOD.

Betty Kell: Catching up on my long lost sleep.

Les Perring: The company I kept.

Libby Langston: That would be telling?

Celestine Williams: Being in the best state in the U. S., Tennessee. (This shouldn't get past the editor's desk.)

Ed's only because our inquiring reporter said that.

Helen Poplin: Change of scenery, etc. etc.

Betty Odam: (She just smiled and I saw her third finger left hand.)

Betty Thornton: I didn't know if it was Christmas Eve or New Year's Eve.
There are so many inviting books in the library that it is very difficult to determine which ones would be best for reviewing. If you are interested in reading your Library has a number of books written in the style which you wish.

Among the new books which the library recently received is an interesting story of the lives of the Pilgrim fathers and their foes. George F. Day has recently told the story as told by the pilgrims, so far as it can be readily and readable managed in their own words, in his book SAINTS AND STRANGERS.

A rewarding novel, if read only as a story of love and adventure, is TREE OF LIBERTY, by Elizabeth Page. It is the more exciting and convincing in its depiction of men and women whose names are bywords. Thomas Jefferson is observed as the chief name. Both the scope of the book and Miss Page’s thoughtful and penetrating use of her material give it a further value found in fiction and historic literature of high order. It has largeness of vision, the tolerance and the strength of great patriotism.

The condensed volume, THE SOUL WINNER, by C. H. Spurgeon, is in the estimation of Robert J. Wells the last word on soul-winning. It was Keble who once said, “The salvation of one soul is worth more than the framing of a Magna Charta of a thousands worlds.”

Think On These Things...
by Victor Broadus

“Happy New Year” is the wish we have been expressing and hearing for the past few days. Yet to most of the world, whether this new year will be a happy one or not seems somewhat doubtful. With world conditions as they are at present, with suspicion and jealousies on every hand, the picture for the future indeed looks dark. Let us pause and think: just what would constitute a “happy” year? Would it be having one’s own way in everything and enjoying in a selfish way the pleasures one may be able to squeeze out of this life, even at the expense of others at times? You and I would at once say “no”! Yet that is precisely the attitude the nations of the world have in their foreign policies.

When Jesus came to earth He taught what seemed to be a new philosophy of life. And yet what he taught, if followed, brought happiness and contentment to the individual. Jesus, who is recognized by men now living as the world’s greatest teacher and philosopher; and more than that, the son of God; taught that it is better to serve than to be served; that it is better to give than to receive; that we should love our enemies; that we should do unto others as we would have them do unto us. In short, Jesus taught that men should love one another and live a life of service. That is the secret of not only a happy year, but a happy life as well. Rather than just thinking on these things, how about trying them for a while?

The Scots really got mad and exploded with this, "Not only do you try to charge me with an extra nickel but you just threw my little boy out the window." Please forgive me if you are Scotch.

Compensation—Then there is Jack Plummer if I really get desperate. He comes up with this one. A 'femme fatale' drove her car up to the service station and said, "Would you please put in a thimble of gas, a pinch of oil, and a drop of water?" the attendant looked at her with the words unspoken until finally she drawled, "would you like for me to cough in your tires?"

Check—Jack Yodell really had a nice holiday except the date that he had while home. He said, "If that girl had of been living when Moses did, there would of been an 11th commandment. That's how ugly she was."

Saw Buck—"I also will disclose some people's nicknames that here-to-for have never been repeated. There is Harold 'Crackers' Graham, John "Rocky" Brown, Dot 'Red' Welsh, Bob 'Esterbrook' Morris, Dr. 'Corn' Sears and his famous brother, Dr. Jack 'Weed' Sears, Kelly 'Pass the Hat' Doyle and Clayton 'Spider' Waller.

Account—When Dale Todd got home, his older brother raised up from his warm bed at 2 a.m. and said, "Well, if it isn't Dale Todd from Hardup college in Search Me, Arkansas."

Deficit—"I was explaining to my little cousin about the meaning of words and I was explaining the word "diabolical" and I tried to get across the meaning but I'm afraid that I didn't do so well because he came back into the room in a few minutes and said, "Oh me, I have a diabolical appendix."

Remember Our Slogan:

"The Rendezvous was built for you"
With the basketball tournament drawing near I guess its time for me to make a few predictions. The lot of a sports writer is one that sometimes brings dire consequences. It's always understood that he'll make some statement that can be disputed by all of the people that read his column (if there are any?) so here goes.

In the class tournament the Seniors seem to have the outside edge since almost everyone in that class played together for the past two years and with the addition of Gene Mowrer and Les Perrin, who have turned juniors as of this term, they will be even stronger. The Freshmen look like second choice with men like Istre and Gathright to control the backboard and Allison and Ron Smith to supply floorwork and sharpshooting respectively. The Seniors should finish third but is a team to watch because they will be out to give some stiff competition. The faculty is my choice for fourth place. In the past the faculty has dominated in the class tournaments but they seem to be slowing down. (we could be fooled) Therefore, the Sophs are left in the cellar. They will be hurt by the loss of Mowrer and Perrin but will have some good men to fill their shoes. However, the competition will be greater for them than it ever has been. (This is strictly one mans opinion)

Well so much for basketball. It looks like the spikers will end volleyball champs since they have won four against no defeats and it could easily be a perfect season for them.

The ping pong contest is not so very far off so now's the time to begin practice. Since Lloyd Crutchfield has dropped from school it should be open for someone like George Ragen or Bill Simpson with Coy Campbell right in there swatting. Regan has been in the finals consistently since he's been in college and he should be hard to beat this year. (By the way, the basketball tournament will probably be over by the time this material comes off the press.)

Spikers Trim Blockers
By Large Easy Margin

With team work and cooperation throughout the entire contest, the undefeated Spikers remained in such a condition and established themselves as the probable volleyball champions by downing a powerful, but at that time disorganized and likewise undefeated, Blocker combination in two straight matches.

During the first match, there was no doubt concerning the outcome as the Spikers scored eleven points rapidly, after which, the Blockers exposed a small spark by tallying several times. The Spikers went on to match success by scoring the remaining four points as the Blockers frantically but in vain opposed. After the Spikers had scored twice the surprised and stunned Blockers mustered their efforts to match their previous display in three consecutive victories by scoring several times. This was the only point in the engagement that the Blockers held a margin. This lead was soon overcome and sufficient points were accumulated to concede victory to the Spikers.

FROSH WIN 28-19

The freshmen took their first win in the class basketball tournament Thursday by defeating the combined junior-senior team 28-19.

The freshmen girls had enough players to compose two teams, while the Jr-sr. team had only 8 players.

Even though the freshmen stayed ahead during all the game, the score was threatened in the first quarter when the freshmen held a 5-4 lead. Manker of the freshmen went on a scoring spree in the second quarter, and the freshmen led 14-11.

The freshmen stayed in the lead to finish the fourth quarter with a few scattered field goals to win 28-19.

Manker, tall forward for the freshmen, led the scoring with 5 field goals for ten points. Rice, forward for the juniors, followed with 3 field goals for 6 points, and McRae and Willbanks of the juniors scored 5 points each.

The first half of the program consisted of arias from opera and oratorio, the best known being from the "Messiah". Miss Saxon presented "Rejoice Greatly" (aria), and Mr. Davis "Comfort Ye" (recitative) and "Every Valley Shall Be Exalted" (aria), all from the "Messiah".

The second part of the recital was of lighter and modern concert numbers. A favorite "A Spirit Flower" was done by Miss Saxon, "Donkey Serenade" and "Old Mother Hubbard" were presented by Mr. Davis. In closing Miss Saxon and Mr. Davis blended voices in "Will You Remember" from "Maytime".

Students To Attend Rubinstein Concert

Florence Jewell, head of the music department, has announced that a number of students and faculty members will attend the Arthur Rubinstein piano concert that is to be given in Little Rock on Friday, January 14.

Mr. Rubinstein is considered by many authorities as the foremost pianist in the world today. Mr. Rubinstein is familiar to many audiences through his concert and movie appearances, and his radio appearances and recordings.
