Benson Announces 2nd 'Freedom Forum' To Be Held at Harding Beginning April 25

A second "Freedom Forum" will be held at Harding college from April 25 through 26, announced Dr. George S. Benson, president of Harding college. The second forum was unanimously requested by the members of the first Freedom Forum. Harding students made plans to have their Forum in the fall, winter, and in the summer have the forum in a cooler climate.

One hundred and eleven men were registered in the seminar. They represented over 50 industries in America; banks, educational institutions, insurance companies and other organizations were also represented. The delegates are from 39 American cities in 20 different states.

The Freedom Forum, designated to create better understanding of the fundamental principles underlying the "American Way of Life," is sponsored by the Harding college department of National education, and acting as an advisory body is the Joint Committee Report of the Association of National Advertisers and the American Association of Advertising Agencies.

Mr. Ken Wells, director of operations of the Joint Committee Report of the ANA-AAAA on Economic Understanding, is supervising the Freedom Forums.

The first of the freedom forums fulfilled all of our expectations," said Dr. Benson. "Many of the men present went away declaring it was the best week they had ever experienced. One said "I have been attending con" (Continued On Page 5)
The Whole World Seems to be a Pretty Swell Place to Sing Hymns of Praise. In dinner line someone starts singing and others join in. As we walk down the walks around the campus or in the hallways, people smile and greet us with a cheery “Hi.” Yes, Harding is a fine place.

Some days we walk around the Harding campus. The whole world seems to be a pretty swell place to sing hymns of praise. In dinner line someone starts singing and others join in. As we walk down the walks around the campus or in the hallways, people smile and greet us with a cheery “Hi.” Yes, Harding is a fine place.

A cherry or in the hallways, people smile and greet us with a cheery “Hi.” Yes, Harding is a fine place.

We are often prone to agree; surely changes have come about. When we compare the Harding of 1949 and the Harding of 1924, we know that things have changed. Some of it has been for the good, some of it has been for the bad.

Each of us may feel differently about this, but we can all agree that human beings tend to think in terms of what they can see. But our greater goal is that which we cannot see. We walk by faith and not by sight,” the Scripture says.

How are we to judge the changes that have come about? Do we judge things by men who were here recently attending the “Freedom Forum.”

However, at Harding we are steadily growing both in numbers and in material ways. Within the last year we built an industrial arts building, and now we are constructing a gymnasium and a dormitory. More new buildings are in sight. But as we grow materially, we tend to forget that our strength is not in our wealth. Our strength is in our humility. That isn’t strange, is it?

Francis Bacon was striving at the heart of the matter when he said that adversity is the blessing of the New Testament. Don’t lose your spirit. Keep it up. Keep in mind the great ideas of the founders of our school, and how they kept the school going year after year despite great financial handicaps. Don’t let us sink down. Keep rising higher and higher and higher.

College women are more superstitious than men, according to Dr. Earle E. Emme, associate professor of psychology at Bowling Green State University in Ohio. Horseshoes, wishbones, broken mirrors, four-leaf clovers, all intrigue girls more than their male classmates. However, he says most college students change their minds about most superstitions once they try them and no bad luck results.

Think On These Things...

by Stephen Eickstein

In Matthew 22:39, Jesus said, “Love thy neighbor as thyself.” He demonstrated His life. He also fulfilled His two-fold purpose by providing not only the material things to man, but also loving man to the extent of sacrificing His life on the cross for his soul’s salvation.

In trying to follow this teaching, we must find out who our neighbor is. A man under the law asked Jesus, “Who is my neighbor?” Jesus replied with the parable of the good Samaritan.

We can see from this example that those we come in contact with each day are our neighbors.

To see how to love one’s neighbors, we must examine our love for self. Each person should love himself enough to obey God’s will. We know that God is able to save by His grace the souls of those who obey His Word. We also try to provide with food, raiment, and shelter.

We commonly think of loving our neighbor in a purely physical way. We may give the things necessary to the body and think we have put the teaching of Christ into practice. But these things pass with them. A greater gift and expression of our love is to give the Gospel of Christ which is able to save the soul. Each Christian may ask himself the question: “Am I a lover of my neighbor’s soul?”

May each Christian love his neighbor as himself by giving the knowledge of Jesus to him so that he might believe, obey Him and live.

'Religion And Science Outstanding Elements' Says Nobel Prize Winner

Dr. Robert A. Millikan, Nobel prize winner in Physics, spoke to a capacity crowd, March 4, in the high school auditorium, his subject being "The Two Suprema Elements in Human Progress."

He told the audience, which was composed of students from Harding College, "Freedom Forum" conferees and residents of the city, that religion still holds first place in the preservation of mankind.

He said that "science and religion are slowly guiding us forward so that we have actually in a hundred years a higher standard of living for the common man than has existed in any time or place in history."

Defining the essential element of all religion as unselfishness, Dr. Millikan said that never before in history has mankind faced a situation which forces every man and woman on earth to ask himself insistently: "How can I help to make a better world?"

Man alone of all creation has the power of choice between good and evil, and man must live up to his "right," Dr. Millikan said.

"The job of civilized man," he said, "is to exercise his own intelligence to win as large a fraction of mankind as possible to the free choice of the good way instead of the evil way."

"The supreme personal and individual opportunity and responsibility of every one of us is to shape his own conduct at all times, as in his own carefully considered judgment to promote best the well being of mankind as a whole."

The scientist said the sum of all such efforts would constitute "at least a first big step toward the attainment of that better world."

Nobel Prize winner and recipient of many honors for his contributions to science, Dr. Millikan has done research in several American and European universities.

He is best known for his work on the isolation and measurement of the nature and properties of cosmic rays.

Dr. Millikan has written several physics textbooks and a number of philosophical books, such as "Time Matter and Values" and "Science and the New Civilization."

He is a member of the National Academy of Science, the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, and is an honorary member of several foreign scientific societies.

Bales-Teller Debate Released To Public

Dr. James D. Bales, head of the Harding college Bible department, has recently had a book entitled "Bales-Teller Debate on the Existence of God" published by the Restoration Book Club of Dallas, Texas. This book concerns itself with the debate between Dr. Bales and Woolsey Teller, General Secretary of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, which was held on the Harding campus October 6, 7, 8, 1947.

Dr. F. W. Matson, who wrote the introduction to the book, said, "Dr. Bales' debate with Teller has possibilities of doing more good in answering the present developments toward materialism than anything that has been done since Alexander Campbell's debate with Robert Owen."

Millard Faught, Executive, Has Done Everything From Dog-Walking To Satire

Dr. Millard C. Faught is a living example of his own philosophy that one should decide what he wants to do then work to do it—independently.

Coming from a long line of individualists, Dr. Faught started early to do things for himself. He gave himself a 30,000-dollar education at Columbia University, earning the money by doing many odd jobs. As Dr. Faught describes it, everything from tutoring to walking dogs. But his independence also came through in his completing 13 years of college in only 8 years. Graduating with a Ph.D. in six fields, he decided to enter the business world.

Dr. Faught followed the trail of individualism when he decided not to be employed by anyone again, so he started his own management consulting firm the Faught Company, New York City. At present, the business has four active vice presidents, each of unusual talent, aided by two secretaries.

Writing on the level of the man on the street in the way that he writes for magazines, said Dr. Faught’s book in The Care and Feeding of Executives, a humorous satire. This is a short quotation from the jacket of the book; “BEWARE OF THIS BOOK.” “If a copy gets loose in your office the place will never be the same again.” Dr. Faught’s co-author is Laurence Hammond and the illustrations are drawn by Jefferson Machamer. Among the contributors to the book is Ralph Edwards, Master of Ceremonies on NBC’s “Truth or Consequences.”

Not many presidents of companies spend their time in making their own office and home furniture like Dr. Faught. Not only building the furniture for his home but also building a house in Connecticut. Studying people is his most interesting pastime, for people are the only interesting subjects, he said.

Dr. Faught is encouraging students to become pioneers in some field of work. He believes too many college students depend upon “Securocracy,” which means that they only take jobs when they are sure of advancement. Civilization needs men that would go out on their own and think up new ideas and better ways of doing the things that are already being done, is Mr. Faught’s belief.

Complimenting the students at Harding, he said that they have an excellent opportunity to influence the world because they are taught the Bible and the “American Way of Life.”

Dr. Faught argues that America is the country in some sense. Americans are born, Americans are raised, Americans are taught the Bible and the “American Way of Life.”

The seminar taught its message through lectures given by leaders in American industry and teachers in education, sectional discussion groups, panel and group discussions, and by motion pictures.

Speakers for the forum were Mr. John Beatty, president of the United Specialists Company, Chicago; Don Belding, chairman of the Executive Committee of Foote, Cone, & Belding; Dr. Millard C. Faught, president of the Faught Company, New York; Charles A. McKeand, Director of Employee Relations of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

Remember Our Slogan:
"The Rendezvous was built for you"
Aspiring baseball players will put their names on Harding Intramural "contracts" Wednesday and Thursday and then old man weather will be the one to decide when the first ball is 'tossed out. Despite the current piles of loose dirt now decorating the diamond, Coach Berryhill promises that the playing surface will be in shape by the time old Sol smiles sweetly enough for our "National Pastime" to replace baseball as the number one sport at H.C.

PRESEASON procrastinations place the number of baseball teams to be about ten this spring, probably equally divided between the Major and Minor Leagues. The Frosh may well hold the key as to the number of guys who prefer to play the lower group. The few weeks of softball last fall wasn't sufficient to get a good line on just what the Freshmen can offer in the way of capable major leaguers.

CONGRATULATIONS to Cecil Beck, the left-handed loopshot artist who won the Intramural basketball scoring championship this year with an impressive 19.5 average for eight games. He hit 66 field goals and 24 out of 36 free shots to total 156 points to earn an all-time offensive record last season. Beck played ten games last year and spent most of the time taking a leave of absence, but at least you did win a game (!). . . . John "Scrotch" Davis set an individual mark of 38 points, but ditto . . .

This is my first sports column in over a year, and I'm pinch-hitting for Ernie Wilkerson who will be back next issue— I hope. Don't you?

KENTUCKY SQUEEZES
Past Utah 65 - 63

In one of the most interesting and odd games of the second round basketball races, the Wildcats squeezed past the Utes of Utah 65-63. The game was played by both teams with less than five men. The Utes had four to start with against the Wildcats three. Both teams ended the game with two players each as the others fouled out. The Utes led at the end of the first half 32-27, but the Wildcats clawed back to take the lead at the end of the third quarter 51-42. The Utes never gave up tied the score at 59-59 with two minutes left. Then Howard Garner hit 2 shots for the Cats and Dwight Mowrer shot one for a six point lead with 43 seconds left. The Utes just failed to tie the score as Sherrill Summit and Harry Oeer each scored and had the ball under the basket ready to shoot at the final whistle.
