Frank Pack Poles Series Friday Night; Twenty Responses

Frank Pack, teacher and evangelist, was on the campus last week for a series of evangelistic meetings. Mr. Pack spoke in chapel each morning. His talks were centered about the topic of "Jesus," This series was concluded Friday evening in which he made a special study of the Twenty-third Psalm.

Seats had to be placed in the aisles to accommodate all of the audiences at the meetings. There were twenty-three responses of which were baptisms.

Mr. Pack's early school was at Memphis, Tenn., in the Mem­phian Technical high school. From there he went to David Lipscomb college, the university of Chat­anooga, Vander­bilt and finally obtained his Bachelor degree at the university of Southern California in 1938. While at U. S. C., Mr. Pack was both a Phi Kappa Phi, and a Phi Beta Kappa. During most of the time he was in school he also was minister of the St. Elmo Church in Chattanooga, Tenn.; Grace avenue church in Nashville; and is continuing now with the Burbank Boulevard church in Burbank, Calif.

Mr. Pack is also a school teacher. He has taught at David Lipscomb college, and is now teaching at Pepperdine college in Los Angeles, Calif.

While on the campus, Mr. Pack visited in the home of Dr. George S. Benson. With him was his wife who is teaching the first grade at San Marino, Calif. On Limbs

The late Mr. Jones was a tree doctor and was always going out on a limb. Jones went out on limbs almost every day. Going out on limbs was his job and he made no bones about it. One day friend Jones made a terrible mistake. He went out on a limb, as usual and nothing was wrong with that, but he sawed off the limb behind him and there is a bit wrong with that.

If any one of us can stay back in safety, but must go out on a limb once in a while. Some of us do often, it's our job. But, you know, the minute we go out on a limb; we take out our little saws and begin to saw off the limb just a few inches behind us — and —

Here are some ways to go out on limbs—and to saw them off behind you. Complain about the janitor service and dirty halls—then sweep your dust out into the hall. Complain about people breaking lunch-line—then go into line at the post office. Complain about the crowd at the mail boxes—then stand talking to friends on the stair way.

Don't saw the limb off behind you or maybe you should just stay off the limbs.

It Isn't The Play-

"The play's the thing" is an old stage motto. Now, however, it seems that the production of a single play might loom at a certain date, at Harding the production of a single play has never been "the thing." Dramatics at Harding have stood not for any one production, but the people behind all of Harding's productions. The realization that each play might loom at a certain date, at Harding the any one production, but the people behind all of Campus Players plays, is more important than students of Harding, is built on the one basic principle, some have charged that good plays might not be turned out; yet no one can remember a Campus Player production that was not good. The play is not the thing.

Worth A Continental?

Would you believe that at one time dollar bills were so plentiful that barber-shop walls were papered with them? This actually happened in the early history of the United States when the government had nothing to back up the money which it issued.

Your name, too, stands for something, but its value drops when there is nothing backing it. If you would have a valuable name, you must back it with just as much a value of character as you expect the name to carry.

Would you believe that some names are so valueless that walls are actually decorated with them?

THE BISON

Prof. Ritchie Sen: "Most every one watches out to improve his character at self-known weak places but we don't do much taking care of our good points. Thus, qualities of excellence of ten become the most vulnerable of all. Man's only hope is that he be humble and penitent, but his esteem and strong qualities work against this spirit and fill him with pride and self-righteousness. It wouldn't hurt to take a closer look right where you think you are doing ok."

Think On These Things...

by Roger Hawley

It was Jesus who said, "If any man come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily and follow me." "Take up your cross" is as good an answer today as it was nineteen hundred years ago, when people were first asking that universal question: "What must I do?"

For Christians, taking up the cross involves a matter of attitude; a feeling of submission and the recognition of a new master. A new passages of scripture will serve to give us a clearer, sharper picture of what real submission means.

On the Damascus road that promising and brilliant young Saul of Tarsus—or everyone knew he'd make a success of life—fell, blinded by the light from Heaven, and said, "Lord, what shall I do?" Years later, still receiving his answer, the same man said, "It is no longer I that live, but Christ that liveth in me."

"Here am I—send me!" was Isaiah's answer to the Lord. "Speak, Lord, for thy servant heareth," was Samuel's answer.

Our best example of self-denial is the Man of God who carried his own literal cross. He said, "Nevertheless, not as I will, but as Thou wilt."

If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, take up his cross daily and follow me.

Frank Pack, Evangelist, Tells Secret Of Ability To Describe Bible Scenes Vividly
by Ted Diehl

"Now Jesus, whom we see on the cross, looked toward heaven and said: 'Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do.' Then we notice the sign the Romans had written above His head, which shows what they thought they were doing. It stated the crime for which He was dying: 'This Is Jesus Of Nazareth, The King Of The Jews.'"

This was Frank Pack speaking. A man with the ability to place his audience in the midst of scenes that he described to them. Mr. Pack tells his stories by pictures that are painted on the minds of everyone in the audience; by giving the characters flesh and blood, making them move. Frank Pack said that he pictures the scene in his mind, tells the scene as he visualizes it, and then relives the scene over again.

Teaching at George Pepperdine college subjects on the practical side of religion, Dr. Pack gathers plenty of material for his sermons and lectures. He has a long background of speaking, starting to preach when he was 16 years old. Debating is an enjoyable activity to him and Mr. Pack reaped many benefits from his experience of debating in high school and college. One learns how to think while on his feet, watches to find flaws in the opponent's arguments and in his own arguments, Mr. Pack said.

Although Mr. Pack received much of his ability of vivid expressions from dramatics and reading classical literature, most of his vivid pictures came by reading the Bible and gaining actual speaking experience, preaching for many small congregations. Mr. Pack spoke in almost all the United States, in many conditions such as in a Kentucky mining town, and for a congregation in Canada where traditions were rather formal and different from those in the United States.

"Always I wanted to be a preacher," Frank Pack stated. "Not only a preacher, but the best preacher of my ability, for preaching is pursuing a person to make a positive action to what is right. Many men should learn how to express the old truths of the Bible in many new ways."

Money Order—As Jack Plummer was waiting for his mail to be put in his box, he quibbled, "Boy, this is a put-up job if I ever saw one."

Play Money—When Joe Bergeron heard that Don Garner had been cast in the play, "Magnificent Obsession," he said, "Well, I always knew that Don was obsessed but never did I think him magnificent."

Sale—Seen on the bulletin board over in the Ad building: "For Sale—House with bath on Kensett road." Isn't that kinda muddy to take a bath in?

Account—We have recently organized a unique club and have given it the name, "Non-Plus club." There are four requirements to be met by all members: 1. No intelligence. 2. No money. 3. No good looks. 4. No personality. By some strange coincidence, I was elected president. Since we have all goods in common, our motto is, "Cash pays the bill." All persons qualified to become members of our elite society, contact me (sales).

Note—At a recent meeting of the above organizations, one of our gentlemen members was sitting with one of our lady members who had been going with someone else at the time. Quote the gentleman as he swayed back and forth in his chair: "I feel just like a metronome .... But I'm beating someone else's time."

Withdrawal—As the boys loaded back into the bus to come back to school from a recent glee club trip, Morgan Richardson burst out with the words of "Waterboy" which read: "Back to the jail, boys, yes, back to the jail."

Check—It's amazing to me how notices can change in substance in such a short time. For instance, a note on the Chemistry Lab door that read, "Stay Out", was changed first to "Stay Outing" and now reads, "Stag Outing." I ain't never seen no-thing like it.

Budget—As the seniors were discussing that what they would like to have as a project, Paul Clark comes up with the suggestion, "Let's have a party." Harold Wilson said, "Well, how about that."

Palette Club Sketches
On Spring Outing
Twenty art clubbers and friends left the Harding campus Monday morning for a day at the Indian caves and at Sugar Loaf Mountain. Leaving about 8:00 the group went to Pangburn and picked up Bud Thomas, president of the club, who acted as guide for the day. The group hiked a few miles from the highway to the Indian Caves and spent a couple of hours sightseeing and sketching. A very picturesque spot was the old hermit's cave-house.

Upon arriving at the foot of Sugar Loaf Mountain, some time was spent in pushing the cars out of the mud holes they had gotten stuck in. After a dinner of hot dogs, cookies, soda-pop, candy, potato chips, and roasted marshmallows the group proceeded to camp about 4:00 that afternoon.

Mrs. Elva N. Phillips sponsored the outing. Those going on the trip were: Mr. and Mrs. Earl Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wright and Doug, Wallace Rae, Julia House, Ray Turner, Marylyn Evans, Billy Horton, Billy Owens, Dale Todd, Wesley Howk, Bud Thomas, Marilyn Hawley, Kathie Stubblefield, Veranne Hall, Nedra Jo Obricht, and Marian Phillips.
