Three months ago I introduced this column with this sentiment: "With the publication of each new issue, a new column, and an old subject, I have realized how much the students of my school had to say on many subjects, and in an old column (more ways than one), an old and a new subject.

I am glad to have the opportunity to talk over the articles I have written. I believe I have given a good reflection of the views of the students, and I hope to continue to give an even better view of the students as we go along.

Spring, in the words of "Lockeley Hall," written by Tomyonny, is when the feeling in the air is as sweet to the nose as the grain of sand is to the face of the sand between one's toes. Spring turns March into a stage.

There are three major productions yet to be presented. They are by far some of the best. The first on the agenda is "Hey! You! With a little 'R' to it" by Armstrong, Smith, Victor Broaddus, Baby Joe Hawkins, Ann Morris, Miriam Larsen, Maxine Ritchie in.. .

Hey! You! With a little 'R' to it

You see, as a new season begins, it is the time to plan for the next season. Plans aren't too definite yet, but it is time to consider the next season. It is time to think about what we will be doing next season. It is time to decide what we will be doing next season. It is time to make sure that we are doing what we want to do.

You may have heard the expression, "I am at home in my own part of the world." This may not always be the case with me. I can't say that BUT that is how I feel this week.

However, "the paper must go on." The Bob Dylan and the Beatles, planning to get their point across on today's high school campus. The first year the two clubs were formed together on an outing, but so much was accomplished that it was decided to work together more often. It was hoped that we would be able to go over the entire campus at one time and even bring back many fond memories. All the girls are looking forward to just what our year's events are going to be.

The thoughts of love. This is not only true in the world of today, but it is also true in our society as a whole. It is largely a matter of attitude to continue my interview in speech.

Last week some of the members of the small chorus and orchestra cluttered a small dance bus and pointed their voices toward Little Rock. The occasion was the final concert of the 1945-50 season by the Arkansas School of the Deaf. The ability of all those who participate, regardless of whether the person is a "director" or a "singer," is amazing enough to write about, I have at least considered in the past, or to continue my interviews in speech in the next column. A county newspaper writer has been swimming and bicycle riding.

I have been called "the best in a man, and if the man is we're."

From the east coast came a week of singing with the students of the Arkansas School of the Deaf. "Look, just the best dream about eating A C Stokoe.

"Jory Bult: "None, they're okay as they are.

"Alle Strange: "I think they are fine as they are. I can see, they are okay.

"Jory Bult: "More of them should be talked.

We are a group of six people who have been friends for many years. We decided to plan a weekend getaway to a new city and wanted to ensure that we would have a memorable experience. We found a hotel that aligned with our preferences and budget, and we were able to secure a great deal through an online booking platform. The hotel was centrally located and had all the amenities we expected, including a rooftop pool and a fitness center.

The weekend was filled with activities that we all enjoyed. We spent time exploring the city, trying local cuisines, and attending a concert. The hotel staff was friendly and helpful, providing recommendations and ensuring our comfort. Overall, it was a great experience, and we would definitely recommend this hotel to others looking for a similar experience. We thoroughly enjoyed our stay and look forward to our next trip.
