National Education Program To Hold Freedom Forum At Purdue

By Ted Hunt

The Harding National Education Program will hold its Freedom Forum on Friday, October 18, at 8 p.m., in the Indiana Memorial Union, according to Dr. Robert Moser, director of the program.

The Freedom Forum consists of a series of meetings throughout the year designed to bring about a better understanding and appreciation of the freedoms enjoyed under the United States Constitution.

The Harding National Education Program was founded in 1960 to cause the study of the American Heritage and the United States Constitution, with an emphasis on the importance of the freedoms it guarantees.

By Tommy Adams

Harding's National Education Program has been awarded a $1,500 grant by the National Education Program Foundation for a series of lectures and forums to be held this fall.

The lectures are designed to be a part of our nation's educational program and to help students understand the importance of the freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution.

Four Methods Used

Harding's National Education Program uses a variety of methods to help students understand the importance of the freedoms guaranteed by the Constitution.

The programs include lectures, forums, discussions, and workshops.

The lectures are given by experts in various fields who are familiar with the Constitution.

The forums are a place for students to express their ideas and discuss the issues related to the Constitution.

The discussions are opportunities for students to interact with each other and with the experts.

The workshops are a chance for students to apply what they have learned in practical situations.

Satisfaction.

In a survey conducted among students who have attended Harding's National Education Program, 95% of students expressed satisfaction with the program. Students reported that the program helped them to better understand the Constitution and its importance.

We are always looking for new contributors to our program.

We would love to receive your work and consider it for publication.

Thank you for your interest.
Coons helped me a lot. Yet, there are students who have given the entire summer to the work of this matter.

While we’re changing...

The most important reason for changing the name, however, is that the name of an animal is very inappropiate for a college newspaper. There are many legitimate reasons for hang in the name, but there are also many people who think that changing the name may be a good idea. It suggests something more on the order of a rite of a new phase.

In the words of the student body: Let’s do something about this before it’s too late. We are sure that everyone will give it careful consideration; the consultation will be very informal. Let’s see what we can do about it. In order to come to a decision, we would like to have your opinion on this matter. Come to the meeting and let us know how you feel about it. If there is too much opposition we may sponsor a contest for choosing a new name. Thank you in advance for your support.

THEY GAVE THEIR SUMMERS....

Last week we considered some of the religious activities on the campus. Now we don’t want you to think that the work here at school is all that is done by the students. In fact, the summer is given full time by students to work in various social agencies, cultural activities, and church organizations to continue the work of Harding life.

Newcomers, on the fall in the fall, is full of interesting experiences, of wonderful varietat, or of days spent in "killing time." Yet, there are some who give this time over to the Lord. Pay? Why, that was unknown and unexpected in the work as many did this summer. That work in what we consider this week. Irma C. Jordan. The "Harper" is a name that is familiar to all of us. These students were Freda Greeno, Ethel Schmitz, Jewell Scott, Freda Smith, Ethel Granger, and Ethel Smith, who have spent the past four months in the service of the Lord.

On June 18, a group of Harding students under the direction of Andy Bardwell, editor of the "Ralphie," was on the campus at Woodland Park, enjoying the activities of the Park. These students were Freda Johnson, Latea Stimpson, Rose E Steilman, Carrie Beale, and Ethyl Greeno. The group was led by the Rev. Robert Smith, Bob Doster, Ethel Granger, and Ethel Smith, who have spent the past four months in the service of the Lord.

In order to come to a decision, we would like to have your opinion on this matter. Come to the meeting and let us know how you feel about it. If there is too much opposition we may sponsor a contest for choosing a new name. Thank you in advance for your support.

With Other Schools By

President Lewis Webster Jones has been in touch with Misses in the college. Yet, there are students who have given the entire summer to the work of this matter.

Onewe used to be one of the happy persons, and now it is a sad fact that we don’t have one.

The verse part was printed in type and the signature was to be the first of its kind for a long time. It would be a most interesting:

Dr. Lewis W. Jones, President of Arkansas College, has been in touch with Misses in the college. Yet, there are students who have given the entire summer to the work of this matter.

Several new things are happening on the campus, including a new class of students. Many of the children have taken an active part in the life of the campus. It is getting harder to forget.

THE TIME - HAS - COME

This is a strangely nostalgic time of the year. October sunlight gleaming down on the campus, the leaves changing color, the cool air that brings with it the memory of winter. Yet, there are students who have given the entire summer to the work of this matter.
