Indian Princess To Give Program in Auditorium Next Saturday Night

By Bill Curtis

A highly recommended program will be given at 2:15 p.m. on Saturday, January 27, at the Indian Princess, whose headquarters is at 155 E. Arkansas Avenue.

Miss Gladys M. Sams, for whom the program was sponsored, will be the speaker and will give an address on "The Dos and Don'ts of the American Indian." Miss Sams is a member of the Cherokee Nation and has been active in several Indian organizations.

Nearby, the campus of the University of Arkansas will be crowded with students, faculty members, and friends of the university.

Debate Teams To Attend Invitational Tournament at Harding

For the first time in recent years, the Harding College Debate Team will compete in an invitational tournament at the University of Arkansas at Fayetteville, Arkansas, on Sunday, March 3.

The team consists of five members: Dr. C. M. Dawson, the head coach; E. L. Hunter, the student president; and three other members.

The theme of the tournament will be "The Rights and Duties of the American People." The team will argue in favor of the motion, "Resolved: That the United States Government is not bound by the United Nations."

New Guidance Publications Placed in Library Reading Room Shelves

Two important service publications of the College have been placed in the reading room of the library at Harding.

Both the "Harvard Guide to College Reading" and the "Harvard Guide to College Composition" have been placed in the reading room.

The Harvard Guide to College Reading is a complete guide to the reading process, covering such topics as how to read literature, how to read non-fiction, and how to read business and technical materials.

The Harvard Guide to College Composition is a comprehensive guide to the writing process, covering such topics as how to write essays, how to write research papers, and how to write business letters.

The guides are available for student use and are intended to aid in the development of reading and writing skills.
THE MUSIC OF THE HEART

No doubt there are special qualities of the music that touch one individual more than another. Perhaps each person to whom one gives this tiny segment of the world sees some acute need for his local. He thinks of the need, talks about it, serves for it. Perhaps the personal use of the message, no matter how often or how many times, he can overly by persistent insisting on what seems to him a more real, more necessary, and more true, finding a way to meet it. The problem is to state and to solve it in time, and then the real music of the heart is played over in some form that can be sensed for a long time, and the song he would hear is his own heart's song.

Gratitude is a key that unlocks hearts everywhere. There is something in it that man has in his heart to know and appreciate the gifts of those who are willing to give freely of their time, of their love, of their care, of their thought, of their feeling, of their money, of their work, of whatever it is that you are going to give. For gratitude is the quality in you that makes you realize that someone is going to express their appreciation of whatever it is that you are doing in some way or where and what you are doing. Consequently, the man who realizes that you have the ability to express your appreciation, if you have a varying form, with any form, of gratitude in a willingness to express it, is a person who will be thanked for it. He may not say it, but he will mean it.

So, we will say here, "Thank you," perhaps a meaningful letter, or perhaps a telephone call, will go far to express your appreciation of whatever it is that you are doing. The man who realizes that you have the ability to express your appreciation, if you have a varying form, with any form, of gratitude in a willingness to express it, is a person who will be thanked for it. He may not say it, but he will mean it.

The Experience of Life

A very simple statement, but it is one of the most valuable items of information that I wish to give you. If you have some of the experiences of life, if you have some of the experiences of the world, you should have some of the experiences of you. I wish to give you one of the experiences of you.

I was a member of a club that operated on the principle that each member had to give his time and his talent to the club. We operated on the principle of the Common Interest, and we operated on the principle of the Common Cause.

I wish to give you one of the experiences of you.

The grade school, described by Miss White, is located on the high side of the street where there are some beautiful old houses. The children in the school have been described as friendly, outgoing, and happy. The school is divided into several grades, each with its own set of teachers and activities. Miss White's classroom is located on the second floor of the school building.

She had described the school as a place where children can learn and grow. The teachers are dedicated to providing a positive learning environment for all students. The school has a strong emphasis on academics, as well as extracurricular activities such as sports, music, and art. The school also has a strong community focus, with regular field trips and community service projects.

The school has been in operation for several years, and it has a reputation for producing well-rounded students who are prepared for success in higher education and in life. The school's success is due in part to the dedication of the teachers and staff, as well as the support of the parents and community.

The grade school is located in a safe and secure neighborhood. The area is characterized by well-maintained homes and a strong sense of community. The school has a strong relationship with the local community, and students are encouraged to participate in local events and activities.

The school's facilities are well-maintained and up-to-date. The classrooms are equipped with modern technology, and the school has a well-equipped gymnasium and a library. The school also has a cafeteria and a playground for outdoor activities.

In conclusion, the grade school is a wonderful place for children to learn and grow. The school's commitment to education and its strong community focus make it a great place for students to thrive.

The grade school is currently accepting new students. Interested parents are encouraged to contact the school for more information and to schedule a visit. The school looks forward to welcoming new students into its community.
