Last week was an editorial in The Chicago Tribune. My heart beat with joy and my breath came in short gasps when I saw that you had called for a moratorium on air raids—and a minimum of death and destruction to our friends. I can now take my typewriter and my pencil. I can write and speak and think about something else. All of the things I have thought about these raider attacks cannot be put into words. All I can say is that it is really such a pleasant feeling to talk about this matter. I was able to talk about it to many people, and they seemed to understand and agree with me. I hope that in the future I will be able to continue to express my feelings on this subject. I must admit that I am quite surprised to see that you have taken such an active and positive role in this situation. I trust that you will continue in this direction and that you will be able to make a contribution to the solution of this problem.

We have had the pleasure of having been associated with the people of the city of Chicago. We have had the opportunity to see and to feel the atmosphere of the city. We have been impressed by the kindness and hospitality that they will want to extend to you. We have had the opportunity to see and to feel the atmosphere of the city. We have been impressed by the kindness and hospitality that they will want to extend to you.

The experience of Pogo and his friends has been one of the most significant events in the life of Chicago. It has been a wonderful opportunity for them to take up squatters' rights on some of the property of the city. It is a great opportunity for them to come to us and to convince us otherwise, but it is not an opportunity for them to do so.

We have been more than pleased with the way that you have handled this matter. We have been more than pleased with the way that you have handled this matter. We have been more than pleased with the way that you have handled this matter.

Little Bit O' Whirl by Mary Ann Whitside

If you take a green glass and fill it with water, it will be a beautiful thing. If you take a red glass and fill it with water, it will be another beautiful thing. But if you take a blue glass and fill it with water, it will be a beautiful thing that is no longer blue. It will be a beautiful thing that is no longer red. It will be a beautiful thing that is no longer green. It will be a beautiful thing that is no longer any color.

OUR FUTURE WELFARE

Senator Harry Byrd's efforts to help fortify "America's economic sense of well-being" by supporting strong natural resources, policies that will aid the plight of a family whom I know personally, and the need to create a "social safety net" for the protective income of young children, is a major concern of the future welfare of the family.

Mrs. Byrd's efforts to provide for the future welfare of the family have been recognized in their support of our government. Defense Secreetary Caspar Weinberger and other Administration officials have been working toward the goal of meeting the needs of the family.

The administration has put forth a plan to ensure that the nation's economy will be strong and stable. This plan involves the creation of a tax cut to provide for the protection of young children.

The government has made a strong commitment to the future welfare of the family. The future welfare of the family depends on the nation's economic sense of well-being. The family is a part of the nation's economy.

FAMILY Room

Bettye Smith and the family have moved into their farm. Let's call them the nation about the farm. The children in the Smith family are: John, Jack, and Jill. Every time the Smith family visit the farm, they are greeted with a warm welcome. The children enjoy their time at the farm. The farm mortgage is still outstanding, but the family is working hard to pay it off. The Smith family is a part of the nation's economy.

Tyree P. Head’s Barber Shop, 103 High Rock Ave., was the winner of the game, pitching a no-hitter against the Senators. The Senators were unable to score against Tyree, and the Senators were shut out for the game.

Sports Chatter

Contrary to popular belief, and I am the author of that belief, the belief is popular because of its simplicity. The belief that baseball is a game played by men and women is a popular belief because it is a simple belief. It is popular because it is easy to understand and it is easy to remember. It is popular because it is easy to accept.
