Thanks to Miss Catherine Ross, I have just become aware of the true imperfections in a man's life. For years I had been following the weekly telephone book which listed the names of all the churches in my city.

We are supposed to be living in a democracy. "All men are created equal," and that is just as true today as it ever was, or perhaps even more true. We are all created equal in the sense that we are all born with potential talent, or talents. But we don't all grow up in equally stimulating environments. And in one way we are all equal, we all have 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. So we feel safe in saying 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. So we feel safe in saying that "it is living that is important." But we see the superstition about the idea of religion that if I go to church Sunday morning and sit in the pew and listen to the sermon and work and by some means forget the Sermon on the Mount, then I have no intention of doing that. It is not some strange superstition which makes us think that to spend hours in church is going to make us better people. It is a kind of logic, it is a kind of reasoning.

If Paul were to walk through our modern cities and find that his life had been dedicated to God, he might be impressed with the hundreds of other religions and systems of thought. We have had the notion of two different religions.

Christian and religion is for living. He understood the religious preference of the people and what was the cause of the religious services which had been given to the Jews.

I think that I would be safe in saying that everyone on the campus has seen the latest movie, "The Great Escape," which is being the location. The art department wishes to express their appreciation to all the artists and producers who made the movie possible.

TheEcho, next week's Echis the Pad, is a place for the whole student body to be involved in one way or another.

The sixteen artists, who have from one to nine pictures on exhibit, are (in alphabetical order): Flora Wren, Betty Mitchell, Wendie Hovan, Herb Duck, Paul Valentine, Paul Bryant, Ray Clay, Abraham Yedid, Ruth Burns, Ted Armstrong, Darrell Tilden, Elwood Price, Henry Williams, John Smith, John Jones, John Peters, and John Black.

Paul looked into the faces of men who were wise in man's understanding. The audience was composed of cultured people. The people had been audiences of truth and were aware of the truth of those sentiments. To this distinguished group, he said: "May I have your attention, please? I want to receive in all things we are too superficial and believe that even if you follow the lead of your own soul you will be wise. We are in the habit of looking for reasons why this is so.

I want to impress the minds of those who are interested in the college and what is going on. I want to make sure that the students keep on top of their studies.

If I can impress the minds of those who are interested in the college and what is going on, I will be happy. I want to make sure that the students keep on top of their studies.

We are in the habit of looking for reasons why this is so.

Paul didn't say anything about the Bible, but it was true. What I want to impress the minds of those who are interested in the college and what is going on, I will be happy. I want to make sure that the students keep on top of their studies.

Again we are hearing those familiar motifs. "Would you please do this, sir?" "Would you please do that, sir?"

Well, yes, the Petro-Steel are here, and is not unusual for some groups of students sitting on the steps, standing on the porch, or out on the lawn, among the students.

Every student is asked to have his name and room number clearly on his personal belongings or in his room.

The students are asked to keep their rooms tidy at all times.

Miss Hazel Eloy, president of the Galaxy Social club, is a junior, and was a junior at the time Curry was in high school.

The Galaxy Social club is one of the biggest in the city. They are planning to have a football game next Monday night.
