Martin To Meet Children In Debate Monday; Five-Point Platform Revealed By GOP

BY IRENA COONS

A sample of student opinion and political analysis was revealed yesterday as Little Martin To Meet Children In Debate Monday; Five-Point Platform Revealed By GOP. Nearly 50 students, representing all the major political parties, met last night in the Old Student Union to present the first of the five points: the first is the need to establish a new system of education.

"The need for education is an obsession. The need for education is an obsession. It's nowhere to be found by the Golden Rule," the first student stated. "The Golden Rule is 'do unto others as you would have them do unto you.'"

"The Golden Rule is a social contract. It's a social contract. It's nowhere to be found by the Golden Rule," the first student stated. "The Golden Rule is 'do unto others as you would have them do unto you.'"

One Act Plays Help Children

We have been hearing about the efforts of the training school to purchase title for its facilities. The youngsters themselves have been selling milk and corn in their county fair and have raised the full in dollars for a milk and corn fund to help raise funds.

Night school is giving three one-act plays, as they did last night, to finish out the money for the turkey of this week.

We are not sure if all the parts are ready or not. However, we still hope that the students will be able to perform well. The three plays on the program are "Goud," "The Veteran," and "The Old Man and the Sea."}

Congratulations On Concert Behavior

Last year the Biz was forced on one occasion to write an editorial praising for better behavior at student concerts. Now, we are pleased to be able to commend the students for their fine, polite, behavior during the concert last Friday night.

Your behavior could hardly have been improved upon. The excellent accompaniment and the three encore presents a fine picture of student art appreciation.

When strangers come to a school and see the student body attending some entertainment, they are judged by their behavior as a group. Perhaps if a visitor had time to meet the students individually, they would have quite a different opinion of them. However, in our school, we wish to tell you that we are proud of our students.

Keeping that in mind, it is always necessary to make group behavior as pleasant as possible while attending plays, concerts, speeches and other functions.

Giggling, late arrivals, inattention, paper rustling, whispering, and other marks of ruder behavior might be exculvable in small children, but not in polished adults. We are sorry to hear that the stands were not filled at the last concert and present an accurate picture of Harding to visitors and the town.

How To Be A Hard Working Tho Lazy

Many people who appear to accomplish a great deal say that their secret is not in how much they work, but in how systematically they go about it.

There may be a great logic to that idea. We have all known two widely different types of students. The on who works hard but unwise, who does a task at a split-second glance and has to do the dull, drudgery work from one place to another with eagerness, wasting most of his time. Then we have (and perhaps envy) the student who appears to do nothing—seems to be loafing, yet accomplishes a good deal smoothly. The two students may get the same amount of work done, yet look the second one has left for leisure activities, or which he is annotating.

The answer lies in organization. Each person needs to set aside a few minutes of each day to get "collected." Maybe at night before retiring, maybe in the morning when your mind is fresh. It is something systematic to help you to avoid the "will verse should" trap of the day.

The only danger of that practice is that it is possible to get carried away by your little list and take it to great extremes. In that case, all time is spent in thinking and adding to the list, in which case you may lose your desire and interest in doing it instead of a means.

However, even if the list is mental, keep one. Also, spend a moment or two of cavation before starting work. If you're going to try something, do you have the materials you need to work with? Are any books due back that you aren't taking? Lots of steps can be saved in that manner. Stop in the middle of the sidestep, if necessary, think of a moment or two.

If this can be carried over into all activities this term, it can result in more time for play, better grades, and more extra-curricular activities. Or maybe all three.

Another Week-Of History

By DR. M.A. BOUCHER

Mr. Churchill's visit to the U.S. has been a great success. The visit did during World War II. The issue of the future of the free world is not a question between the two countries. British refusal to join in with the Atlantic Pact nations left it to the British to decide whether to fight or to submit. It may be a question in in the minds of the people, but what is the view of Mr. Churchill? Is he planning to continue the war, to enter into peace talks, or to withdraw from the war? It is a question that is being raised by the people of the world. The war appears to be going on without a break, and the question of how long the war may or may not continue is still unanswered.

The world is waiting for the answer to this question. We are in a critical period in the history of the world. The question of how long the war may continue is one that is being raised by the people of the world. Abbie Showalter Weds Joe Hazelbaker

Abbie Showalter was wed to Joe Hazelbaker on Saturday, December 28, at 10 a.m. at the Church of Christ in Jourdanton, Texas. Jack Hazelbaker, brother of the groom, performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with holly and a poinsettia plant. The bride’s matron of honor was a church group, and her flower girl was in the wedding party.

After the wedding trip to Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. Hazelbaker returned to Jourdanton, where they are now living, and where Mrs. Hazelbaker is teaching school. Mr. Hazelbaker will continue his work as a salesman at Harding College. He is a member of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

Chorus Sings For Churches Sunday

The chorus took an afternoon trip to Beethoven and Jedediah last Sunday, singing at the churches in those places. Although on a short notice, the chorus still managed to put on a good show. The chorus was led by Elder Editor of Sing along with the choir. The chorus responded better than expected, and the performance was a great success.

Sharp Shooting Trio Leads Welsh In 56-25 Celtic Victory

Williams and Nelms Gain Early Points

Jan. 15—In their 1952 Celtic League debut, the Welsh, seeking a title of barbars, today rode a tidal wave of points to overtake their visitors, the Huns, 56 to 25. The victory, which was the first of the season for the Welsh, was the first of the season for the Huns as well. The Huns saw their record fall to 1-13-3 with the Welsh on their way to clinched a title in the four game.

The Welsh, who came up off a group of last year's Frensh team, were not saddled with the Welsh that could be readied by enjoying a short time and the fewest points all through the match. The Welsh paid the price for their last but still had the ability to see the championship. The Welsh also had a man for the Welsh to gain and to score at will to project themselves back after the half to a com-

Stehlin's Outbreak

The Stehlin's were hoping for an opening in the third quarter that wasn't so powerful and that produced seventeen points at the 10-10 mark, and with the clock ticking down to zero and a 12-10 lead in favor of the Welsh, Upton's Nelms, Don Briek, and Phil Parnell added the Welsh to a 12-all tie at the rest.

Services to the Welsh Point Men

The Welsh's point men for the Welsh will be the last to come in.

In Offensive Tilt

While Spurlock moved into a position to score, the Welsh scored with the help of Walter Nelms, who took the ball for a 33-15 lead in the second quarter of the first period the score stood 1-13-3 with the Welsh on their way to clinched a title in the four game.
