In Defense Of Friend Of Man

BY CHRIS ELLIOTT

At least once every quarter it happens. Right now my throat feels like it has been rasped with a Nicholson file and if my eyes don't quit running I'll drown. But you know the symptoms of a cold from first hand experience.

Dick Morrow said something a few days ago that made me stop and think a doms. minute. "Why doesn't science find a cure for colds?" he asked. "They've run across a cure for almost everything else. I'll bet they could make a million on a sure fire cold. remedy." he sniffed.

what colds can do for a person. Nothing is so pleasing as the words of Miss Maxine Bonner. R.N. of the college, when she tells a student who is suffering from a cold, among other things like humanities, algebra and American history, "You'd better stay here for a few days until that ance. fever lets up." Oh, joy! A few days of loafing in bed with only a pennicillin needle to interrupt the peaceful bliss of idleness.

Once in the restful confines of the infirmary the patient may read those magazines he or she intended to read for so long; catch up leisurely on outside reading; shoot the bull with the things that the average college day does not provide time for.

And in the face of this there are those who still propose a cure for colds. It's treason to our American Way of Life, I tell you, pure subversive treason!

Heaven help this great nation of ours if some nincompoop discovers a cold cure. We would shrivel up and waste away faster than if an atom bomb were dropped on us-more quickly than we would before an onslaught of Communist Russiaeven faster than we will if Tru-

Perry Mason Sponsors Common Colds; A American Study Group Will Test Nat'l Ed Kit

A new and as yet almost unknown American Study Group is well under way on the Harding Campus. Its third meeting will be held Thursday evening in the High School Library.

The primary purpose of the group, stated Perry Mason, High School principal, is the study of the free enterprise system of the United States and the ten freedoms outlined in the Bill of Rights. It is seeking through education and discussion to fight all encroachments upon those free-

Change In Council Elections Urged

Now that the faculty has decided to go on the semester basis as soon as the change-over can be effected, it seems like an excellent time to bring forth a suggestion that has been brewing in the minds of numerous students for several months.

Under the present system the officers of our student council are elected once a year, which is a very good plan, for otherwise they would no sooner get in office and accustomed to their duties than they would have to change. But what about the council members themselves?

As it stands they also are elected once a year (exclusive of course of the class presidents, who automatically have a seat on their election as class presidents). Perhaps you haven't thought about it, but do you think this is a good idea?

The purpose of the extra representatives in the first place is to give the students a closer contact with the council. Are we making the best possible use of them in having only one election a year?

The tendency on a council like ours is to get stale after several months of working with it. All the new ideas the representatives had to begin with are taken care of in one way or another and their freshness withers after the "sun" has been up for several hours.

If new representatives were elected in the middle of the school year, which would be at the end of the first term under the semester plan, this problem could be largely remedied.

If the idea appeals to you, talk it up among the students, get their signatures to a petition, and present it to the council as it now stands.

We want our council to work in the best possible way, and we don't want to overlook any way in aiding its workings.

Take Care Of Games In The Student Center

The Student Council voted to buy games to be placed in the Ganus Student Center. The games were bought and placed there as was intended. This was done, by request, to offer some recreation in the building where many students spend much of their time.

The plan was worked out successfully, for the games have been used and enjoyed by many of us. That is why it is hard to imagine that the games are being abused. Whether the damage is occurring accidentally through carelessness, or is simply the satisfying of someone's destructive nature, it should be stopped.

If you are in the Student Center and you see checkers on the floor pick them up before they are lost or stepped on and broken.

Card games can be played without bending the cards. See that the table you are going to play on is clean before your game begins.

There is often complaint of "Nothing to do!" This was a step to correct that. If we prove appreciative of this move it is possible that further steps may be taken to give us more varied recreation. If this attempt is broken it is doubtful that interest could be stirred up to get anything of the same nature. These games did cost money, and they give us a lot of enjoyment— Let's take care of them.

How Shall We Believe ......

By CECIL MAY, JR.

What one function of his existence consumes more of the average American's time and interest than any other? That question is easily answered: his business, his method of earning a living, . whether it be farming, teaching, housekeeping, laboring, or managing. All over the world people are interested in business. Some people invest their money, some their time and energy, and others invest all three; but whatever the investments may be and however they may differ, the purpose is the same in every case—to make a profit.

First, in the organization of any business must come the capitalist, the one who invests his money. He does so with the intent and purpose of obtaining interest. Next in line is the manager. He is chosen not only for his ability but also for his concern for the backer's investment. And then we have the worker. He is given a wage based upon the amount of time and energy which he expends in behalf of the enterprise. He must, above all things, be faithful to his employer, giving industrious service in return for his hire. Any laborer who does not produce a return greater than his wage and thereby contribute to the success of the firm is immediately discharged, and his wage is discontinued.

"For (the kingdom of heaven) will be as when a man going on a journey called his servants and entrusted to them his property. . . . Now after a long time the master of these servants came and settled accounts with them . . . He who had received the one talent came forward, saying, 'Master, I knew that you were a hard man, reaping where you did not sow, and gathering where you did not winnow; so I was afraid, and went and hid your talent in the ground. Here you have what is yours.' But his master answered him, 'You wicked and slothful servent! You knew that I reap where I have not sowed, and gather where I have not winnowed? Then you ought to have invested my money with the bankers, and at my coming I should have received my own with interest."

The church, then, can be compared to a huge business enterprise. God, the original investor, has given us abundant resources with which to work. We have our minds and our voices as tools, and the raw material is plenteous. Christ, the manager, has shown us how to use them and has given us an excellent Instruction Manuel which can be purchased at any book store. "The harvest, indeed, is plenteous, but the laborers are

The wages which have been promised to us, the workers, are magnificent-"To eat of the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God"— but if we are to obtain this wage, we must be faithful to our employer, giving industrious service in return for our hire. In short, we must "return unto Him His own, with interest."

Some businesses, of course, fail. When they do, however, it is usually the fault of the manager or employer, not the laborer. Our employers in this enterprise being perfect, however, we need have no fears at that point, and we have been promised also that we cannot fail, "for my word shall not return unto me void." Let us therefore work and make our Lord's church, the greatest enterprise in the world, show a profit.

Our analogy breaks down at one point, however. We could never earn the wage that has been promised us, regardless of how much or how long we labored; but that does not decrease our responsibility. On the contrary, it increases it a thousand fold.

Strictly Collegiate By SHIRLEY SUDDERTH

Have you ever met a boy or a girl on the sidewalk, and after passing him stop to wonder why you get a lift each time you see him? You think "Oh, well, some people just have it and others don't." That isn't true; there is little basic difference in those who do and do not "have it."

What we each want to discover is what it is that places the thin line between the popular and the ordinary. No effort is required to make one ordinary or commonplace. If you have absolutely no concern for the imprint you are leaving on your associates you can be sure it is just about average, nothing more. This will let you fall nicely into the latter category.

Don't be conscious of trying to please everyone for that is the truest form of being obnoxious. Do what you can for those about you without their realizing you are putting forth any effort. Don't play yourself up as the hero or the herione. If you are either of the two, people will know it; if you tell them you are, you only make a liar of yourself.

Always put your foot forward, but especially when things aren't going well. Don't be the victim of changeable moods. Don't allow your depression to get you down. Don't let your gay hysteria get others down. Many people suffer from moods regularly. It is bad enough for them, so don't be sympathetic (or foolish) enough to join them.

Make yourself even tempered and sincerely friendly from the inside. Whatever is on the inside is going to occasionally sneak out—be sure that the inner-self bears out the surface you have been displaying so proudly.

If you can manage to develop at least part of these traits you won't need to worry about your popularity-it will take care of itself!

MUSIC ART By MEREDITH THOM

Recently, someone handed me a magazine and asked me how I liked a painting on the bottom of page thirty-five. Now I don't consider myself an authority and it was a rare case in that I did recognize the painting as being "The Rock" by Peter Blume.

The painting covers twenty-nine square feet of canvas and took seven years to finish. Peter Blume is a middle aged American artist, noted for his startling scenes. This one symbolizes the continual process of man's rebuild- a pint of blood. ing out of a devasted world. The shattered blood-red rock represents the ing The school is to be congratulated world today, surrounded by symbols of upon the nearing completion of its build-destruction: skeletons, blasted trees, ling program.

burning debris, and the crumbling edifices of man. There is a note of hope in Blume's world where life blooms even in the midst of decay. A scarlet fungus grows full-bloom out of a dead and rotten stump. Below and around the rock, people feverishly grovel in the ruins, building for themselves a new and better world represented by the soaring scaffolding at the left of the painting.

Preliminary sketches took up Blue's first three years of work. This method results in extremely limited production, but the demand is tremendous. He sells everything he paints, at prices which compare favorably with those obtained by Picassio. "The Rock" was sold before it was publicly shown for the first time. There is now a small copy on display in the student center, take a look at it.

By the applause and attendance, I would say that we enjoyed the Winter Band Concert. We should all get behind this reborn organization since it fills a vacant spot in our activities. It may be that you have an interest in that direction and if so you should work with this group along with those like Billy Howell, Merle Garrett, and Ken Noland.

Patrice Munsel made Life's cover for the second time. When she made her Met debut at the age of eighteen her face appeared on Life and now at twenty-six she appears again. It pays to notice the covers of various magazines for a picture digest of the news.

David Porter has just finished his pledgeship for Campus Players. He qualified by his active interest in dramatic work, while a member of Dramatic Club. David has been stage manager, member of stage crews and had several minor roles. Last year, he made his first appearance as a walk-on in the Music Departments production of "Trial By Jury." Last summer he was cast in "The Forgotten Man" and last fall you saw him in "A Night In The Country," both one act plays.

Wanda Farris is now an understudy for the Eta Omega Cast of Alpha Psi Omega, along with Benny Holland, Jack Plummer, Ruby Lee Ellis, and yours truly. Since Alpha Psi is a national fraternity it is a great honor to be considered for membership. If you work in dramatics you should work toward Alpha Psi because it is within reach and it will mean something to you in the years to come. There is a place for dramatics in your life.

One of the prices of being famous-Miss Truman travels escorted and surrounded by guards. Of course, the public is paying for these. There are times when such things reach the stage of being ridiculous. We are sure that she will welcome the return of her father to private life.

Mr. Truman has decided to consult the public. He has appealed to the nation to support his foreign aid program which involves a stack of nearly 8 billion dollars. We could be a bit more sympatheic with any program that our executive favored if we could be assured that every effort were being made to reduce domestic spending and that our tax money was being used wisely and efficiently.

Don't worry about your tax returns not being received and checked. Just for our benefit the collectors have arranged to work overtime. So just go ahead and plan to fill out that form.

The Korean skies are being used as a training place for Commie pilots. A new batch of recruits appears over Mig alley. The freshmen hang to one side while the older boys drop down on the badly outnumbered UN planes, go through a few manuevers, then check out.

We are still losing men in Korea. The casualties in the Korean conflict have been heaveier in proportion to the men engaged than were those of Word War II. There are rumors to the effect that details in Korea may be worked out to coincide with the increasing heat of the political campaign. Let us hope that this

"SEVEN DAYS TO NOON"

Many of the leading critics across the ocean have described "Seven Days to Noon" as one of the 10 best pictures of 1951. It certainly is the top suspense picture of the year and a picture that should be seen.

Briefly, it is the story of an atomic scientist who tries to blackmail the British Government into destroying its stock of atom bombs. If the government won't, he will destroy the Houses of Parliament and most of London with it.

The hunt that follows, the closing in for the kill, the evacuation of the city, are magnificently done. There are no human stars in the picture for in some strange, intangible way, the real star is London itself. If Hollywood had made this picture, they would have put in a scad of glamour girls, who would have added nothing to the story, and weakened the suspense. The British, however, used a girl for the closest thing to a heroine's role there is, who is at least 40 pounds overweight.

This picture is highly recommended, and if you ever get a chance to see itdon't miss it.

Mar. 5-The Ceitic League champion Irish tonight spot ted Steve Todd's Maygar 100p winning Teutons a live point first quarter lead; then gave mem an 88-to-68 whaliopping to cop Harding's basketoan nonors for the year.

The blue ribbon brawl was never in doubt after the middle of the third round. The Irish came back from a 30-30 half time stalemate and began a blistering attack that left the losers with an 11 point deficit going into the

High point honors of the night were copped by Towering Harv Starling, who used follow-ups and hook shots to pile up a 27

The Celtic League scoring champ was helped by Emil Menes, who added 25 tallies to the Irish cause. Menes depended on short jumps and lay-ups for his total.

All-star Ken Perrin sacked 24 points for the losing Magyar loop winners. Perrin used every shot in the books and some not there to rack his sum up.

Other ail-stars in the line-up included; Ray Wright, who hit for 15 tallies; Steve Todd, the squad's captain who bucketed 10 markers; and Charlie Olree, who chipped in with 11 points. Menes and Starling are also Bison allstar selections.

Both Todd and Perrin took advantage of Irish fouls and mistakes as they each hit for 8 counters and a Teuton margin of 18-13, Starling led a late Irish rally with 6 points.

Two-pointers by Starling, Ken Keiser, and Al Potcete gave the winners a one point edge; but Olree's one-hander gave the Magyars a 19-18 tip. It was the last Teuton lead.

Todd's free toss drew the due into a rest-time dead-heat and set up the sizzling attack that started after the last half whistle.

Teutons Lose Perfect Record To Slavs 56-To-48

Feb. 29—The high-flying Magyar Champion Teutons suffered a humiliating defeat in their last game of the season tonight from the hands of a rampaging secondplace Slav team who blasted their previously perfect record by a sive type playing, stepped up and score of 56-to-48 in a surprise game of the season.

Both teams each had two players absent, to keep things just about even.

The Teutons had met the Slavs in two earlier season contests and had easily capped both games by favorable margins, but tonight the tables were turned. The Slavs were nothing, but terrific in both offensive and defensive play as

The Terrace Room speaking—

Dear Gata Club-It will be many a day before you can have a party on such a date-February 24th.

In the interim, may there be many more parties for you. Hope you enjoyed this one. Thanks-and come again.

Las Compeneros

How many, we've had for the L.C's. You seemed to to enjoyed this one. My walls echoed your laughter to another time. Until then, good luck.
