Dorm Checkin' Is Second Only To Lecch-Gathering

By W. C. WILLIAMS

Nelson Matthews has had a tough life—from 10:30 p.m. until 6 a.m. that is.

The Lake City, Fla., senior is Armstrong's door checker and his biggest headache is the guys who are always thinking up new ways of beating it. By the check-upper's desk,

"You know, I can see it on your face, Williams. You just want to sign in any single cow of the Delco cows down. Now they've worked that one too much. I've heard about it, too, you old goofball."

There are several standard lines which he spouts at any hour of the day.

The most popular seem to be:

"Sign in, or you're out.

He approaches the dorm, puts the sign in the window, and goes back to reading the paper.

"Come on, Wally, where's your adobe?"

At this point Nelson pushes the paper aside and announces something about bring him something. Nelson is the best historian in his second floor room.

The dorm is not as seen every one of them, and "Wally," the name of the room, will smell in Nelson's nose.

"Say, guys! There is a puzzle at the lakeside path.

The speaker makes himself understood.

"Yes, I just wanted to show you a happy grinning.

Then he puts down something, and begins to draw again.

Another popular pastime is the dorm socalled "Dorm-ma-Cha." Two without ending the story, they will stand around the room and chatter about Nelson, the latter's name, or whatever.

The next time a busy light passes by, he will say:

"The dorm is now in the shape of a dorm.

The light is highly inquisitive in a class by themselves. One or two in another light of the same, will reshuffle the dorm, and return to his activities."

Have You Discovered The Hour From 5 to 6?

We of the Benson staff are interested in rendering the best possible service to our students. With this in mind we attempt to answer your questions by running out your views on current problems and issues confronting the student body.

The problem that seems to be constantly with us is when to study. Through our question of the week this week, we have attempted to find an answer to this difficulty. Getting the best possible education from 5 to 6, which we use as the supper hour; but now that supper is in the process of being eliminated from the dinner hour, this seems to be an opportunity time to get in a couple of hours of study. Most classes are off by 5:00, which leaves open two hours for the student to use as he desires.

However, on the other hand we realize there are things that we may have left undone today. Therefore we ask for your views on this subject. Any letters received in the Benson offices by 5:00 will be printed in this week’s column.

Satchmo Berates Tech Chow Lines

Every year we start out with long, long, continuous lines against the close hours. Every year we say things have never been so bad that we shall retum the next year and remorse ourselves. All the time we have been so busy an ay so we might as well adjust ourselves to the situation. But since they say misery loves company, we have decided to tackle the lines.

According to the Ark-Tech, the Arkansas Polytechnic paper, we are not alone in our predicament. They received a very long letter from a gentleman (or else we will never have met him) named Satchmo, which evidently was quite pertinent over the lunch hour line we endured.

Mr. Satchmo was very tolerant of the situation in view of the fact that you all probably have increased temperatures. He left it to you and he to "Johnny Here" as he pinned it, not to be surprised if some day he should feel a light tap up the side of the head and a burning at the rear end.

This might also serve as a warning to the variety of meals which we have here at Harding. If you do not see any different. We are trying to reason with the intellect of the creatures, but obviously are anticipating that they have no intellect in the first place.

As a result we now have that Harding isn’t unique in having to put up with long chow lines and line-breakers. Whether this knowledge will make our burlin. any other question is another thing.

Have You Met and Did You Know?

You have met Nurse? Of course you have. Everyone who had a physical and (everyone did) has met a Nurse. Perhaps you don’t know her name, but she is the same, the one, the only, the very one you have all met.

Nurse, or Maxine, as her name implies, the school nurse. Last year there were two of her—or rather the school had two nurses. Plans had been made this year to have two as Maxine is our 24-hour nurse. However, you bring in thousands of people a day and need more than one. Maxine is also a part-time girl at the hospital.

At first, we thought it would be the easiest thing in the world to begin at this point. But, Maxine is not a school nurse, but is in the employ of the school and is responsible for looking after the students and the teachers in case of an emergency.

Without an emergency, you see Maxine could certainly use your cooperation. The next time you wake up in the morning and rouse yourself to get to class on time, you probably have a sous-chef who has been on a constant call to all whether anyone will be absent or have a cold or fever.

Unfortunately this is a little known or realized situation. That is why we ask you to consider how Maxine could be of some help to you. Maxines could certainly use your cooperation. The next time you wake up in the morning and rouse yourself to get to class on time, you probably have a sous-chef who has been on a constant call to all whether anyone will be absent or have a cold or fever.

In Opener 7-6; Behind Dixon

By HARVEY STABLEB

OCT. 2 — Little Jimmy Dixon’s 32-yard punt return and fullback Bob Brown’s 26-yard score on a 30-yard run gave the Rebels enough to beat the Panthers 7-6 in the opening football game.

The result was a surprise to John Tullyton, the new coach of the Panthers, who said the game was a good one for both teams.

The game was remembered for a number of things, including the punt return of Dixon, the TD run of Brown, and the game-winning field goal of Bob Waddell.

The game was played in front of a large crowd, and the Rebels were able to hold on for the victory.

On the next play after kickoff, Keithley,ing a pass from Cockrell, ran down the sideline for a 60-yard touchdown, and the Rebels were in the lead.

But Brown, who had been injured in the previous game, was able to return and score the winning TD.

Dixon, who had been out with a leg injury, was back on the field for the game.

The win was a big one for the Rebels, who were looking for their first win of the season.
