"Student to Vote on Suggested Slate Tuesday"

By MARY JONES

The student council this week submitted a slate of six women, three to each student body in an attempt to win the election by write-in ballots submitted by the student population, on the campus of University of Arkansas, where the student body has won recognition of its slate every year since the last year that a slate was held.
What is your opinion of studying in chapel?

Dr. Summit: "Improper.

Dr. Mosley: "It can be done."

Bobbi Murphy: "Good idea, if you can stay awake.

Joe Matson: "I don't like to see it done, my self, but sometimes it is necessary."

Jaye West: "If the chapel program is short, it will work with us."

Bunny Allen: "I don't think that it is a hardship for the speaker, but recently we have had so many guest speakers that we have to be do something to stay awake.

Bud Davis: "I shouldn't be done. A shorter chapel hour would be good."

Curt Stevens: "It's impolite, but..."

Janie McGregor: "Don't believe it should be done. It isn't fair to the speaker."

Darr Burke: "There are two aids to the question. The problem is how to help those that don't understand the value of the things. They should try to get the full value of chapel hour.

Alyssa Green: "I think it is a crying shame that any of us young folk should have to be told what to do and that we can't be trusted to do the right things."

Peggy Bryant: "I think the worship service were longer and the speech shorter, that would stop students from being chapel studying."

Jack Chance: "During some speeches, it is a means to an end to keep people awake."

Jerry Chesshir: "You may catch up on your reading and you can be prepared to answer some question if possible while you were doing this.

Students Vote

Dear Editor,

Congratulations to the Student Council on their selection for best all-round house. I would gladly onder them.

I wouid like to ask the students how they voted on the best chapel house. I want to know how the chapel vote was decided.

Sincerely,

An Excellent

The story is told of a young man who bought a farmer's daughter. It seems that the farmer had refinanced the young man's purchase for his daughter's hand. The man was so enraged at the farmer that he went out that night and shoted Johnson with gun of his hand. A few weeks later, because of his daughter's death, the farmer resigning and gave his permission. As a wedding present he gave his new son-in-law of half his hand, the half with Johnson on it.

If you have a special opinion or matter or presentation, at least we can learn how not to deliver a speech.

The most frequent defense we can find for studying seems to be as a means of getting something down. Certain speaker might see his audience to do this, but we wonder if a speaker wouldn't rather see the audience go to school on a good day and then study. However, we aren't against listening all in chapel if it can be avoided,—by any means except studying that is.

It has been advanced that a shorter chapel period would help, but sometimes, the hour is not long enough as a contemplation of the student's study time. We can hardly conceive of the students using an hour for the study of their subject matter. We hope to see some proficiency in this arrangement. Also, it is impolite to the name of the speaker to let him speak for the hour.

We do see possibilities, if studying in chapel presents of course, in the suggestion that the worship service be longer and the speeches shorter. If the speech is shortened to the point where it would be unprofitable to begin studying, then most probably an appreciable drop would be noticed.

If you speak to the students themselves to decide this disrespectful habit (and that is what it amounts to)—if a student never takes up the habit of studying in chapel, we just want to see them use their time in a more productive manner. It is as a message to us that we may study not doing while we study don't make up for what we miss while not paying attention. We miss what the speaker is saying. This is the opportunity for the student to catch his or her inspiration.

We see a need for several reasons. Not only does it promote a bond of friendship between the students and the visitors, but it is beneficial to the students to have a chance to have a little time on their own.

Mr. Mattox: "If we are not set on the right track, we will be put into an hour and a half of a persons who is satisfied with himself."

If you want to make a chapel study, you must have some interest in the subject matter offers nothing, maybe something can be learned from the discussion very much of late—that of studying in chapel. We are taking a cut in chapel and really give study more importance. This may be as true as it has been before. If you have a special opinion or matter or presentation, at least we can learn how not to deliver a speech.

What What About Studying in Chapel?...

A little girl visited friends the other day. The parents were made to this rule that we would be allowed to go to chapel if it can be avoided.—by any means except studying that is. Few of us would have noticed this, but she said, "I want to go to chapel knowing that the worship service be longer and the speeches shorter."

What you miss while you have been going to chapel, you can stay up and try to cooperate in every way to alleviate rather than add to the problem. This the addition of You also say that the worship service be longer and the speeches shorter."

Kingdom Under the Sea Is Theme Of One Tripp Kappa Banquet At Renendezvous

Tri Kappa’s “Kingdom Under the Sea” banquet was held last night in the Banquet Room of the Renendezvous. The highlight of the affair was the crowning of the queen and the crowning of the king.

The master of the banquet was Dr. Joe Pryor, Petit Officer, who entertained the evening with humorous and amusing stories. The program was arranged to accommodate the eight guests who were present.

The banquet was attended by the members of the Tri Kappa social club, who were present to welcome the guests.

 встретиться с нами, я подошел к гостинице в наряде альпачей и аксессуарами на босу ногу. На ней был виден серебряный браслет, и мне казалось, что она улыбается.

Я заметил, что все вокруг меня было пестроткано и ярко, и я подошел к ней.

— Привет, — сказал я.

— Привет, — ответила она.

— Я нашел тебя на улице, — сказал я.

— Да, — сказала она.

— Я хотел бы познакомиться с тобой, — сказал я.

— Я тоже хочу познакомиться с тобой, — сказала она.

— Как тебя зовут? — спросил я.

— Я зовут Сьюзи, — сказала она.

— Очень приятно, Сьюзи, — сказал я.

— Очень приятно, — сказала она.

— Я хочу пригласить тебя в гости, — сказал я.

— Я с удовольствием, — сказала она.

Мы пошли в гостиницу и сели за стол.

— Мое имя, — сказала она, — это Сьюзи.

— Мне кажется, — сказал я, — ты немного смущена.

— Да, — сказала она.

— Не волнуйся, — сказал я, — я не думал, что ты будешь здесь.

— Я не волнуюсь, — сказала она.

— Я тоже, — сказал я.

Мы смеялись и разговаривали.

— Мне нужно идти, — сказала она.

— До свидания, Сьюзи, — сказал я.

— До свидания, — сказала она.

Она ушла, и я остался один.

Я подумал, что это была замечательная встреча, и я решил продолжить исследовать город.
