4-11-1953

The Bison, April 11, 1953

Follow this and additional works at: https://scholarworks.harding.edu/thebison

Recommended Citation
The Bison, April 11, 1953. (1953). Retrieved from https://scholarworks.harding.edu/thebison/559

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the Archives and Special Collections at Scholar Works at Harding. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Bison by an authorized administrator of Scholar Works at Harding. For more information, please contact scholarworks@harding.edu.
High School Seniors - Harding Guests Today

Kennedy Receives Critical Analysis On Manuscript

Dr. Charles D. Kennedy, assistant professor of political science and foreman of the 27th annual issue of the school paper, "Pine War Chanty," has finished a "Pine War Chanty" manuscript which, according to one of the seniors involved, "is a masterpiece of its kind."

The manuscript, which has been under development for over a year, will be presented at a meeting of the Academic Council on November 1st. The meeting will be held at 3 p.m. in the Academic Council Room.

Mr. Kennedy, who is also the advisor of the school newspaper, "The Parrot," expressed his satisfaction with the manuscript and is looking forward to its presentation.

Harcourt College received a double honor Tuesday in the appearance of two state governors on the campus as the guests of the school. Seniors Francis Kennedy, governor of Arkansas, and Louisiana's Governor Robert F. Kennedy, stopped at the speaker's corner for a flying visit.

Kennedy was introduced by C. L. Guinn, president of Harding College. The governor's address on campus will be followed by the presentation of a copy of the governor's manuscript, "The Parrot," to the school library.

A firm belief in the principle of Jeffersonian democracy, Mr. Kennedy declares, is receiving a sound educational training in Harding, at this time a national university and an outstanding authority on the field of higher education.

"I love being a part of a college that makes room for all," Mr. Kennedy said. "I love being a part of a college that respects and values the inner thoughts of its students."

The Harding Biscuit

By Mary Ann Whitaker

A Survey Report To Our Readers

The editorial staff of the Biscuit has come up with some very interesting statistics as a result of the recent questionnaire which was circulated among the readers.

Mary Ann Whitaker: Many of you want to know our net is not in vail. Approximately 50 percent of our readers cooperated with the survey, and of those 50 percent, 25 percent said they had read the paper partly, and only 6 percent said it was easy. We feel that the low percentage of replies is an indication or readership as a whole, and we are pleased that the paper is on vail so well.

We will not attempt to report you all of the statistics we have colected, but we would like to share some of the highlights with you.

Fifty-six percent indicated that they think the paper has an adequate content and that the articles they read, the rest, had no comment.

We are also pleased to find that 91 percent of our readers find the news stories easy to read. Five percent do not, and four percent had no comment.

The society and sports news fell below the straight news copies in readability. Seventy-five percent of the stories were attempting to make news, and 25 percent were not.

As a result of this survey we have already made some changes in the paper according to your wishes. Although expressed in many different ways, they all point to one thing: more legibility.

We are also attempting to improve our social coverage. We will place more emphasis on those center in our lives. We hope that the social clubs and their reporters as well as all the students, will take this into consideration.

The box will be for any and all Biscuit letters to the editor, social, cultural and educational affairs.

It is for your convenience and ours. We hope you will utilize it.

The Biscuit is constantly striving to improve. We know that we have made some progress, that we are more on the ball than ever before.

Business Takes Another Look At Liberal Arts

As an article in the current Fortune magazine tells how the nation’s business college are beginning to turn away from the standard course.

President of the Biscuit. This Liberal arts colleges have demanded of all kinds of all kinds, and backed up this demand with offers of higher salaries. As a result college staffs should be more liberal and choose the graduate, who now is more of a social worker, that is, he knows his fundamentals well and learns the details as he needs them.

As you know, college faculty for liberal arts, if it is involved in any college at all, should be liberal and have the same general education. They should have the same college education of the undergraduates.

But the problem is that the college is not going to find a suitable replacement for the old professor, who was liberal and had a broad education.

Mr. Wilson: How much of these subjects is on the curriculum.

There is a prime, a defective little fault that can creep up in a person in the classroom, at work, in the pulpit, even in prayer. We may even become proud of our humility. This finally proved eats away the entire system and goes to the root of the opposition.

The Jews were strictly warned not to forget God when they entered into Canaan, the "land flowing with milk and honey," but the flesh of the bread was too much for them. They went out of it. If we have plenty, we are inclined to be overwhelmed with the life of others. Let us beware of this device of the "land flowing with milk and honey." We must not forget God.

On the campus here at Harding we too need to be reminded that God "giveth every good and every perfect gift from heaven above.”

And Jesus is the only one who is wake up to the necessity of a general over-all education. High ranking members of the business community have said that only those who are well educated can be subjected to a wider range of subjects. They have found out that the doctors, lawyers, and professors, who have a broader knowledge of the medical profession, the doctor who has a stronger grasp on practical work, and the lawyer who has a larger business sense, are the men who best apply his scientific knowledge.

With this reawakening, the position of Harding College, and other liberal arts and colleges of its type, is no longer. Time magazine found in their survey of college graduates that the "narrow specialization is less tolerant and plays a less active and less varied role in society." This is a time and an age when men must be conscious of their fellow human beings and sympathetic with their problems.

Do You Think Harding should have an honor system?

I think it would be a good idea because it would encourage honesty.

We are pleased that 91 percent of our readers find the news stories easy to read. Five percent do not, and four percent had no comment.

The society and sports news fell below the straight news copies in readability. Seventy-five percent of the stories were attempting to make news, and 25 percent were not.

As a result of this survey we have already made some changes in the paper according to your wishes. Although expressed in many different ways, they all point to one thing: more legibility.

We are also attempting to improve our social coverage. We will place more emphasis on those center in our lives. We hope that the social clubs and their reporters as well as all the students, will take this into consideration.

The box will be for any and all Biscuit letters to the editor, social, cultural and educational affairs.

It is for your convenience and ours. We hope you will utilize it.

The Biscuit is constantly striving to improve. We know that we have made some progress, that we are more on the ball than ever before.

Business Takes Another Look At Liberal Arts

As an article in the current Fortune magazine tells how the nation’s business college are beginning to turn away from the standard course.

President of the Biscuit. This Liberal arts colleges have demanded of all kinds of all kinds, and backed up this demand with offers of higher salaries. As a result college staffs should be more liberal and choose the graduate, who now is more of a social worker, that is, he knows his fundamentals well and learns the details as he needs them.

As you know, college faculty for liberal arts, if it is involved in any college at all, should be liberal and have the same general education. They should have the same college education of the undergraduates.

But the problem is that the college is not going to find a suitable replacement for the old professor, who was liberal and had a broad education.

Mr. Wilson: How much of these subjects is on the curriculum.

There is a prime, a defective little fault that can creep up in a person in the classroom, at work, in the pulpit, even in prayer. We may even become proud of our humility. This finally proved eats away the entire system and goes to the root of the opposition.

The Jews were strictly warned not to forget God when they entered into Canaan, the "land flowing with milk and honey," but the flesh of the bread was too much for them. They went out of it. If we have plenty, we are inclined to be overwhelmed with the life of others. Let us beware of this device of the "land flowing with milk and honey." We must not forget God.

On the campus here at Harding we too need to be reminded that God "giveth every good and every perfect gift from heaven above.”

And Jesus is the only one who is wake up to the necessity of a general over-all education. High ranking members of the business community have said that only those who are well educated can be subjected to a wider range of subjects. They have found out that the doctors, lawyers, and professors, who have a broader knowledge of the medical profession, the doctor who has a stronger grasp on practical work, and the lawyer who has a larger business sense, are the men who best apply his scientific knowledge.

With this reawakening, the position of Harding College, and other liberal arts and colleges of its type, is no longer. Time magazine found in their survey of college graduates that the "narrow specialization is less tolerant and plays a less active and less varied role in society." This is a time and an age when men must be conscious of their fellow human beings and sympathetic with their problems.

Mary Ann Whitaker: Many of you want to know our net is not in vail. Approximately 50 percent of our readers cooperated with the survey, and of those 50 percent, 25 percent said they had read the paper partly, and only 6 percent said it was easy. We feel that the low percentage of replies is an indication or readership as a whole, and we are pleased that the paper is on vail so well.

We will not attempt to report you all of the statistics we have colected, but we would like to share some of the highlights with you.

Fifty-six percent indicated that they think the paper has an adequate content and that the articles they read, the rest, had no comment.

We are also pleased to find that 91 percent of our readers find the news stories easy to read. Five percent do not, and four percent had no comment.

The society and sports news fell below the straight news copies in readability. Seventy-five percent of the stories were attempting to make news, and 25 percent were not.

As a result of this survey we have already made some changes in the paper according to your wishes. Although expressed in many different ways, they all point to one thing: more legibility.

We are also attempting to improve our social coverage. We will place more emphasis on those center in our lives. We hope that the social clubs and their reporters as well as all the students, will take this into consideration.

The box will be for any and all Biscuit letters to the editor, social, cultural and educational affairs.

It is for your convenience and ours. We hope you will utilize it.

The Biscuit is constantly striving to improve. We know that we have made some progress, that we are more on the ball than ever before.

Business Takes Another Look At Liberal Arts

As an article in the current Fortune magazine tells how the nation’s business college are beginning to turn away from the standard course.

President of the Biscuit. This Liberal arts colleges have demanded of all kinds of all kinds, and backed up this demand with offers of higher salaries. As a result college staffs should be more liberal and choose the graduate, who now is more of a social worker, that is, he knows his fundamentals well and learns the details as he needs them.

As you know, college faculty for liberal arts, if it is involved in any college at all, should be liberal and have the same general education. They should have the same college education of the undergraduates.

But the problem is that the college is not going to find a suitable replacement for the old professor, who was liberal and had a broad education.

Mr. Wilson: How much of these subjects is on the curriculum.

There is a prime, a defective little fault that can creep up in a person in the classroom, at work, in the pulpit, even in prayer. We may even become proud of our humility. This finally proved eats away the entire system and goes to the root of the opposition.

The Jews were strictly warned not to forget God when they entered into Canaan, the "land flowing with milk and honey," but the flesh of the bread was too much for them. They went out of it. If we have plenty, we are inclined to be overwhelmed with the life of others. Let us beware of this device of the "land flowing with milk and honey." We must not forget God.

On the campus here at Harding we too need to be reminded that God "giveth every good and every perfect gift from heaven above.”

And Jesus is the only one who is wake up to the necessity of a general over-all education. High ranking members of the business community have said that only those who are well educated can be subjected to a wider range of subjects. They have found out that the doctors, lawyers, and professors, who have a broader knowledge of the medical profession, the doctor who has a stronger grasp on practical work, and the lawyer who has a larger business sense, are the men who best apply his scientific knowledge.

With this reawakening, the position of Harding College, and other liberal arts and colleges of its type, is no longer. Time magazine found in their survey of college graduates that the "narrow specialization is less tolerant and plays a less active and less varied role in society." This is a time and an age when men must be conscious of their fellow human beings and sympathetic with their problems.
Florida Vacation Turns Into Old Testament Survey Course

By RICK SHAYLOW

During the recent holidays the students of the cooker "B" class at the Walton High School, were assigned a survey course that they thought they would never get out of. They were given an assignment to look up the life of Christ and thus find the Old Testament survey course. The course began with the birth of Christ and ended with the end of Christ's life.

I. The Birth of Christ

The birth of Christ is one of the most important events in the history of the world. It was the beginning of a new era, a new dispensation. It was the birth of the King, the Saviour of the world. It was the birth of the Messiah, the promised One. It was the birth of the Son of God, the Word made flesh. It was the birth of the new dispensation, the dispensation of the Spirit. It was the birth of the church, the body of Christ. It was the birth of the kingdom of God, the kingdom of heaven.

II. The Childhood of Christ

The childhood of Christ is a period of growth, a period of preparation. It was a period of learning, a period of discipline. It was a period of training, a period of instruction. It was a period of preparation for the work of Christ. It was a period of preparation for the ministry of Christ. It was a period of preparation for the cross of Christ.

III. The Ministry of Christ

The ministry of Christ is the period of his public teaching, his public preaching, his public witness. It was a period of power, a period of authority. It was a period of truth, a period of revelation. It was a period of victory, a period of conquest. It was a period of salvation, a period of redemption. It was a period of victory, a period of conquest. It was a period of salvation, a period of redemption. It was a period of victory, a period of conquest. It was a period of salvation, a period of redemption.

IV. The Death of Christ

The death of Christ is the culmination of the ministry of Christ. It was the climax of his work, the climax of his sacrifice. It was the climax of his love, the climax of his grace. It was the climax of his rule, the climax of his kingdom. It was the climax of his victory, the climax of his conquest. It was the climax of his salvation, the climax of his redemption. It was the climax of his victory, the climax of his conquest. It was the climax of his salvation, the climax of his redemption.
The scoring was safe. Sixth Tigers scored two runs on a FiftJt Inning Rhodes, rf 3 1 1 1 and Burgess fanned, O!ree fanned.

Fourth Berryhill and Allen -were caught on Ganus' single. Then Hall decision at Chicago Brown Black. in a scoring Harness, first base. with their dianians rolled.

McAuley struck out, and Joe and Joe Betts gained second base to first, Glen Burgess fanned, the other teams from scoring has been low.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford went to third and then Bob Brown came in to go they are going to be infield out.

Ganus Jn the first inning for six Jim soon found that editing the deal was not near as easy as But Black rifled a shot deep into win.

The entire Tribe always got in the singing out as every member of the team got one last look at the ball and all of them before the final hit was on the field.

The Indians routed Ganus in one of Japan's victory brought Australia blinded by the light of a new star.

The lone tally for the Tigers was a costly one. Harry Olree's error, or lack of one, had seemed like a sure thing until the ball got away from him.

Harry Olree relieved Ganus on the fourth and sixth inning. The Pelicans' first two hits were unimportant.

Fullerton started for the Monsters, gave up only five in four and a half innings. Ken Rice followed in. Ken Rice.

The Tigers went on the way with the Pirates in the second. The third hitter was out and then the fifth hit was a single, Joe Bond, hitting his first hit of the season.

Kenny French poled the second hit and then the second run of the inning was scored on an error at first. The Tigers had it all when they were against the Pirates.

The Pelicans' only loss came when they went against the Chieftan. John Hillis took over the mound duties with his usual skill and went to Shewmaker 63.

One of the weeks when the Indians in the Major league were holding the handicap of this league, have gained a two game lead over the other controlling teams with three straight victories, and with only seven more games to go they are going to be right out of Chicago.

The Indians are resting on a two game lead, J. C. Roe, after missing the first week of this season, and it appears that he has shown his top performance during the next couple of games, the Tribe could easily go through the season without a loss.

Earl King of Stuttgart, Germany, averaged 320 miles on his light Mercedes Benz to win the 1,500 mile Pan American sports car road race from Tula to Cholula, Mexico, Nov. 12. King covered the rugged course in a time of 16:01:10. The all-out speed of the Mercedes, which was clocked at 90 miles per hour in a 1900 cc. engine, was thereby set to a new record. The German made it home with a lead of better than 10 minutes.

The world's finest Jockeys changed hands during the last quarter of the year, and two of them were unexpectedly defeated. On Dec. 11, the world Jockeys were defeated from being put in place to perform as one of the world's greatest horse racers. The Metropolitan Park, the headquarters of one of the world's greatest horse races, the Metropolitan Park, the headquarters of the Metropolitan Park.

Thirty-two-year-old Arkansas' Dave Sanders hit his second home run of the season through the left-center field fence on Dec. 20, 1956 and it is believed to be the first home run in the Metropolitan Park.

The Tigers scored again in the third inning, when Leonel doubled, moved safely to second, hit another hit, and then Joe Bella collected the first hit of the season. The Pirates, who were leading, tried to use the slugging boost in the last of the fifth, and drove the game in a 10-5 tie when Detroit came.

The Baron starting pitcher Harry Olree, gave up the first six runs. Oriu in minute, 'the matched color competion · ·.;

The Tigers took the lead in the sixth inning, when the last hit of the game was scored by Joe Bond, hitting his first hit of the season.

The Tigers rallied in the sixth inning for six Joe Bond, hitting his first hit of the season, and Joe Bella collected the first hit of the season. The Pirates, who were leading, tried to use the slugging boost in the last of the fifth, and drove the game in a 10-5 tie when Detroit came.

The Baron starting pitcher Harry Olree, gave up the first six runs. Oriu in minute, 'the matched color competion · ·.;

The Tigers rallied in the sixth inning, when the last hit of the game was scored by Joe Bond, hitting his first hit of the season. The Pirates, who were leading, tried to use the slugging boost in the last of the fifth, and drove the game in a 10-5 tie when Detroit came. The Baron starting pitcher Harry Olree, gave up the first six runs. Oriu in minute, 'the matched color competion · ·.;

The Tigers rallied in the sixth inning, when the last hit of the game was scored by Joe Bond, hitting his first hit of the season. The Pirates, who were leading, tried to use the slugging boost in the last of the fifth, and drove the game in a 10-5 tie when Detroit came.

The Baron starting pitcher Harry Olree, gave up the first six runs. Oriu in minute, 'the matched color competion · ·.;

The Tigers rallied in the sixth inning, when the last hit of the game was scored by Joe Bond, hitting his first hit of the season. The Pirates, who were leading, tried to use the slugging boost in the last of the fifth, and drove the game in a 10-5 tie when Detroit came.