BISON RECEIVES TWO TOP AWARDS AT ARKANSAS COLLEGE PRESS MEET

By DICK SHELTON

Capturing both the Individual Excellence and Sweepstakes awards for the first time in the paper's history, the Bison staff returns from the College Press Association Convention in Conway with more honors than any previous year's staff.

With the sweepstakes award, the Bisons copied third in the state of Arkansas in the writing, editing, art and photography categories. The article written by Editor Katherine Strickland, "Charlie's Aunt," was a finalist in the national Sweepstakes contest. "Charlie's Aunt" was one of the best seven articles written by college newspapers in the nation.

The Individual Excellence award was won by Editor-in-Chief Katherine Strickland. She was also a finalist in the national Sweepstakes contest. "Charlie's Aunt," was one of the best seven articles written by college newspapers in the nation.

In order to compete in the Sweepstakes contest, the Bisons must submit their work to the College Press Association. The work is then judged by a panel of judges. The judges then determine the winners based on the quality of the work.

The Individual Excellence award was won by Editor-in-Chief Katherine Strickland. She was also a finalist in the national Sweepstakes contest. "Charlie's Aunt," was one of the best seven articles written by college newspapers in the nation.

Alice Sear Freeland was crowned Queen of May yesterday after being named Miss Arkansas. The selection of the queen took place before a white and purple pageant. The pageant was followed by a variety of events, including a dance and a coronation ceremony.

First to take their places on the court was the Miss Arkansas group, who were dressed in pastels. They were followed by the queen, who was dressed in a white gown and carried a bouquet of flowers. The queen's crown was placed on her head, and she was escorted to the stage by her attendants and the court members.

The court members were dressed in traditional pageant attire, with colors ranging from white to purple. Following the court, a group of dancers performed a ballet on the stage.

A Word About Our Editor

We of the Bisson staff are proud of our editor and although we make no attempt to do her due justice, we would like to get you a little better acquainted with her by telling you a few things about her so that you may fully appreciate the service she has rendered and the honors she has merited for the school through the medium of the Bisson.

Miss Whittaker is a junior from Memphis, Tenn., and is a journalism major. She is a very versatile person. aside from editing the Bisson this year, she has participated in many other extra-curricular activities.

She is a member of a number of the social socials. She is an active member of A Tempo; a member of the Harding College girls' auxiliaries; and was a member of the Student Government Association. She also has a role in the forthcoming operetta to be presented by the musical department this year.

This year, Miss Whittaker served as secretary-treasurer of the ACAP (Association of Christian American Press) and was elected to the ACAP student and official representatives for her efficiency and work of the organization this year. Next year she will serve as vice-president of the group.

She is the club queen of the Delta Zeta social sorority and was a candidate for the Miss Queen.

The group that went to the speech Festival in Fayetteville met an outstanding success on the Tuesday and was ready to meet MALVERN, Arkansas High School's Theatre VI. Their Tragedy, “Toleration”

The poem is about the necessity of teaching children the importance of freedom of speech and of religion. It is a plea for tolerance and understanding in a world that is often divided by differences in beliefs.

Job Outlook For 1953 Graduates

The economy of the United States is operating at extremely high levels. Employment records are established nearly every week, and it is predicted that the unemployment rate will not be higher than 5.5% in 1953-54.

The next few months will see a great demand for engineers, scientists, and technicians in the field of defense. The armed services, both military and civilian, are expanding rapidly, and there is a great demand for trained personnel in these fields.

The government is spending billions of dollars on defense, and there is a great need for scientists and engineers to work on the development of new weapons and technologies.

In addition to the defense industries, there is a growing demand for scientists and engineers in the fields of medicine, engineering, and education.

The demand for professionals in the field of education is also expected to increase, with a particular emphasis on the development of new teaching methods and technologies.

In conclusion, the job outlook for 1953 graduates is extremely promising, with a great demand for professionals across a wide range of fields.
