the central command. There would be no national armies; there would be a central command in · Germany. If German forces can re- arm because of the weakness of the Western European states, we could have a strong military nation against which to defend our country. When we consider that Germany has invaded France twice in recent years, it is clear that German forces are still very much stronger than the forces of Western Europe.

By ratifying the EDC, it will be much easier for France to develop a strong military force and to defend itself against possible aggression from Germany. Consequently, the student council has France is afraid that Germany will be able to re-arm because of the weakness of the Western European states.

The success of the free world against communism depends largely upon European cooperation. The European Defense Community (EDC) was first made by France's De­ fense Minister Rene Pleven; France has not yet rat­ ified it.

The main benefit of the EDC will come to Europe in the form of greater security. If all the countries of Europe are able to cooperate, they will be able to defend themselves against possible aggression from Germany.

Church leaders have argued that it is important for us to cooperate with other countries in order to promote peace and stability. However, some people have argued that the EDC is too expensive and that the benefits of cooperation are not worth the costs.

It is important for us to consider the costs and benefits of cooperation before making a decision about whether or not to ratify the EDC. Ultimately, the decision will depend on the views of the American people and the policies of the government.

Our church has taken a position in favor of the switch. Consequently, the student council has

It seems unlikely that the EDC will be ratified by the United States Senate in the near future. Nevertheless, we should continue to consider the benefits and costs of cooperation in order to promote peace and stability.

I believe that the EDC is a necessary step toward achieving greater security in Europe. Consequently, the student council has

A Plug For Team Captains And To Whom It May Concern . . .

It has come to my attention that attendance is falling off at the local horseshoe hassels. No, I’m not talking about the fans that watch but the players themselves . . . What’s the score you say?

Before the season began the teams were chosen and each one received ten team players. Anyone who has been perched behind the chicken wire with any regularity has noticed that its not an uncommon sight to see a game reeled off minus half a dozen or more participants.

I am in harmony with the full throtled rumblings of the respective team captains. When you signed up to play it was more than just signing a contract and you are expected to be there. When you don’t show up it m esses up the whole works all the way around. The only reasons you should miss are legitimate sickness, death in the family or an H-bomb attack.

Seriously, you owe it to yourself as well as others to be out there playing. Not only do you miss out on the exercise and fellowship, but you cause your team to lose a ball game. More than a few have been lost this season because of this. Not only that, but fans don’t like to look a lop-sided game.

So the day we say we shoot for 100% attendance at the game and finish up this season in good style . . .

Baseball Banter . . .

Just about the hottest thing in this man’s league is a burl-headed right-winger from the state capital by the name of Al Smith. The three-quarter side-armer has strictly been a big dose of pepper to the opposition. It’s a full running pitch and after his last task, which was a neat little job done over the hapless Childress County in 20 minutes.

According to our statistics, this is an average of nine per till. At this rate the unaulowed, sleepy-eyed flipper will catch a couple of dozen before the season is out. He was a great help in his last game, which was a perfect joy done over the hapless Childress County in 20 minutes.

We always like to see talent in the department here and give them a push in the right direction, so here’s to you Al Smith, keep it up and you’ll have the baseball history on this campus . . . We’re all behind you all the way . . .

Hot Ball . . .

From “down under” in Rio De Janeiro comes the sports anecdote of the week . . . A real lesson in sportsmanship . . .

Hoping for a surpluse over the loss of a game Sunday a week ago, beat the referee into a cold sweat and set a new world’s record in dressing room affre. To top it off, the irate fans attempted to go after the truck which was used to remove him to the hospital.

The attack occurred at Marilia, Sao Paulo State, where the home team beat the visitors.

Oh well . . . that wraps it up for this session bunch . . . See ya one bright next week . . .

100 and 220 yard dashes
Bill Echols, the strength of the team in the field events, won the short put and broad jump. He also scored several points in the running events. Echols continued his string of 885 victories with a win in this event.

The 440 yard relay team consisting of Vandergood, Tummerman, Roy and Weible broke the standing record with a time of 48.2. This was the second time this season a single hit had spoiled Nelms’ bid for a no-hitter. He struck out five batters, four of them in a row.

These same boys also won the half at all five meets this year. Rhodos placed second.

April 22 — The Athletics doggedly plodded along today and came out the victor over the Yanks by the score of 7-5. It was a hard-fought ball game and a tough one to lose.

The choice of the Athletics was Jess Keethley to start and start he did. He went the full game and gave up only two hits and two walks. He hit two men and his teammates made two errors behind him, but he pitched effectively enough except in the first when his wildness and one of the hits cost him four runs. Keethley sleazed the strikeout lead.

Al Smith started and finished the game for the Yanks. He pitched very well in spots, but today wasn’t his day. He struck out seven men to take second in the strikeout bracket. Smith walked four, hit one and gave up five safeties.

The Yanks jumped on Keethley in the first as though they had an option on him for four runs on just two walks. The big gun in this uprising was Laverne Moore with a two-run double. It was the only extra-base blow for the Yanks. The big gun in this was Curtis Seawell’s two hits and two walks. He hit two men and gave up five safeties.

The Athletics hit one and gave up five safeties. With the only extra-base blows for the Athletics being Seawell’s two hits and two walks. The big gun in this was Curtis Seawell’s two hits and two walks. He hit two men and gave up five safeties.

Bever, the Chicks pitcher for the Travelers, was the only one to strike out the first three in the fifth. He did not strike out the next three men. Bob Scott got out in the first inning via a force by Cecil Rock. Berryhill then proceeded to strike out the next three men.

The White Sox now came up in their half of the first frame and collected three runs. They were limited to only one hit in the frame. Ken Shewmaker started off in fine form for the Windy City, but due to a sore arm he had to leave at the end of the third frame. Shewmaker took the Faculty down in order in the second with two strikeouts.

The White Sox only run came in the fourth when Joe Matson slammed a single to left-center. He scored second and was driven in on a single by Joe Glover.

The Faculty came across the plate with four runs in the third, garnering two more in the fourth. Bennett, the Chicks pitcher for Shewmaker, could not find the plate, and every third man was over in the third frame.

Two fine defensive plays were made by the Chicks — Leon Sander son in the first, and Ron Bever in the third. Ironically, both plays did not accomplish their purpose. Sander son went for behind first and fielded a well hit ball by Bacle Rock. Bever’s play was behind second when Cliff Ganus socked the hard ball. Bever threw to the plate in time to get the lead runner in the double play. Bennett found the area of the plate in the fifth when he struck out all three men.
