Dear brother Chalk,

I like the idea of using something from you in the Review, but the sermon on Unity that you sent me is not along the lines that I plan to develop in the immediate future. Too, I think your "infallible road" to unity, outlined under several points on page 6, leaves the basic problem unanswered. Some would say that when you argue that unity comes by accepting Christ's body as the only church and by having biblical officers, that you are begging the question. Surely there would be unity if everyone interpreted the NT as those of us in the Church of Christ do. Since this is not the case (since the divided Christians cannot agree on the points you enumerate), what are we to do about our divisions? I think you make some important comments in the early pages of your paper. While you are more liberal in your approach on unity than ^{most} in the Church of Christ, I think you are going to have to provide for more diversity of belief and practice if you have a workable plan.

Let me have something from you again sometime. I have all the copy I need until the Spring 1961 issue. There is some stuff coming out that a thinker like you would appreciate.

I am always glad to hear from you.

As ever,

Henry Garrett
