COURAGEOUS DORM DIRECTOR

Dormitory directors need to be courageous in order to maintain a positive environment for students. The director of one dormitory room recently declared that the dormitory was "the best dorm in the country," and the students are happy with the facilities and the positive atmosphere.

You Say It Can’t Possibly Happen To You?

Anxiety May Travel With or Beside You

A few years ago a car sped along a Michigan highway taking five college students home for Christmas holidays. They never arrived! Headlines in the next day’s newspapers read, “Five Students Killed In Head On Collision.” In a hurry to get home, their driver attempted to pass a slow moving truck and crashed with another car.

In a few minutes time, bodies lay mangled and sprawled on the highway, and five excited young people became cold statistics in the state’s fatality record.

Leave Thursday for Holidays

Next Thursday we leave Harding for our anticipated Christmas recess. Exams will be over and we’ll be anxious to get away from the routine of college life. We’ll be in a hurry to get home to our families and friends, to Mother’s “homecooking” and all the other conveniences associated with H-O-M-E.

We might die as a result!

While returning to school after summer vacation, as well as their own.

Drivers must be aware of the other person’s driving mistakes. Accuracy is the key. Many accidents are caused by the speed of the driver and the carelessness of the other person. You, as passengers, are just as much to blame for careless driving as he is in that case. Do not hinder your driver. Let him concentrate on the road ahead. Many accidents are caused by passengers who drive into the next lane but may also prevent an accident—perhaps death.

Wrong Attitude Backfires Sometimes

The majority of persons read and listen to all warnings to be cautious with a blue attitude. They believe a human fallacy that we all seem to believe we lead charmed lives. Five Michigan students could testify that we don’t!

Regarding to bestial trends, may I caution you who might be about to die, “DON’T PUSH IT TOO FAR!” (That includes the gas pedal and your charmed existence.) - M. H.

Plan Your Trip Home To Come Back Alive

Taking precautionary methods before your trip home may prevent not only car trouble along the way but may also prevent an accident—perhaps death.

Check Your Car Before Leaving

One of the first things a student thinks about before leaving is his gas tank — is it empty? May I suggest that when you drive in the service station to have your gas tank filled that you have your lights and windshield wipers checked?

I am sure your riders would be willing to share these expenses to insure their own safety. Don’t forget to have your tires checked before you leave and when you make stops along the way check them again. A blow-out at excessive speeds may result in not only your own death but the death of innocent persons also.

Take Ample Time

Another precaution that should be considered is don’t be in too big a hurry! Leave in plenty of time and stop occasionally to rest (if you have a great distance to travel). Also, always carry your driver’s license and identification along with you. Carry your insurance identification card along too. If you have a wreck this is a very necessary item. Be comfortable and don’t carry so many riders it will crowd you.

Leave Your Driver Alone

Now that your car is adjusted and your passengers are situated in the car you’re off! Passengers please don’t hinder your driver. Let him concentrate on the road ahead. Many accidents are caused by occupants of the car who distract the driver’s attention from the road. You, as passengers, are just as much to blame for careless driving as he is in that case.

Profit From Mistakes of Others

There are many good rules to follow and many precautionary methods that can be taken by drivers and passengers. Take your driving and riding seriously. Profit from the mistakes of others who have left the Harding campus and have not returned because they became traffic fatality number X. Profit from the students who have been involved in accidents and live to tell it. Profit by having your auto checked, your passengers informed and yourself free from anxiety. Profit by coming back to Harding — alive and uninjured. - V.L.

The Hendrix game at Conway this Friday night has been delayed an all-school function for Harding students. In last year’s encounter with Hendrix in the two series schedule, the teams split the series. The Bisons and Mohicans will meet here on Jan. 4 to retaliate and the championship games will be held Monday or Tuesday.

Planeteers Prove Volleyball’s Best

Last Friday night ended the season’s intramural volleyball championship game and the All-Star game.

In the championship game, matching the champion teams in each league, the Planet League proved to have the top team. Doyle Hicks and Ray Griffin led Venus to a two-game straight victory over the Forest League Spruces.

The Planet League again showed their superiority when they defeated the Forest League All-Stars Planet League Bases Ed Spurrier, Hicks, Griffin and Tom Bridges provided the punch in pounding out two straight victories 15-7 and 15-6. Dwight Thompson and Joe Yeunglin led the Forest Leaguers, but the Planet’s superior height proved to be too much.

A lot of young people these days seem to think that the three Rs stand for Ral! Ral! Ral!

Christmas Spirit Again Promoted by W.H.C. Peanut Pal Week

"Peanut Pal" week, sponsored by the W.H.C. women's social club, is traditional at Harding. On Deember 10, all the women and dorm mothers who want to participate draw names, which are sealed in individual peanut shells to designate their "pal."

During the following week the "peanut pals" get in the Christmas spirit by secretly doing good deeds for their personal "peanut pal." The "peanut pals" are often asked to find someone who already made up and a little note saying "your peanut pal was here".

The climax of the week is December 13, when the Big Sisters give a Christmas Party for all the women. At this time "peanut pals" are revealed and gifts exchanged.

TEAMWORK
Not a very big word, but it is one that is said of almost every­ good team, no matter what the sport. It can be big in the standings -- the difference between winning and losing.

Teams before have won with teamwork and determination, but with overpowering rammers in football or high scorers in basketball, but with a working to­gether attitude that has paid off.

"The Bisons have had such success in football, the Bisons won with the spirit, and now the opera­tion go along these lines."
